United States Must Realize Its Role In Helping Europe

by Dorothy Paulus

The second post war period of the United States has been marked by a dismal lack of preparation for peace. We have not even tried to imagine an expression of the tragedy of our failure to effect a world peace. Economically we are one. We cannot afford to waste our time in the new demands in granting aid to countries which need our help so desperately. If we are to aid them, in the world or in the country, we can expect to be puny. Our feet while the rest of the world moves.

In Europe, the moment is looking for the moment to pass away. We have had a number of instances in which we can learn from the European countries. We value the experience of the people there.

In the first place, the United States, the greatest advocate of a Marshall Plan, has to plan their economy. This is part of the Marshall plan, countries which expected to receive grants from the United States recently added estimates of how much aid they would need for reconstruction.

These estimates have to be greatly cut, and without any plans to receive such aid, is the aid from the United States relatively small.

Politically and mentally we are split up into as many factions as we are economically. In India, in Palestine, and China the word "peace" is made a meek expression. News reporting gives the student experience in handling the tools of regular journalism.

An Editorial

The transition from the summer vacation to another year at Connecticut is a sudden one. But, after a few days of rather bewildered confusion, we are beginning to settle down again to our classes, to our assignments, and to our life in the dorm.

We have returned to the ivory tower. For a year, with the exception of vacations, we live an isolated life with books and desks, of classrooms and libraries, separated from the real world we come from.

We find ourselves too busy to continue the activity of digging out the hidden meanings of newspapers we read. We have been so avidly now have become merely headlines. There is no time, it seems, to listen to the radio; we must avoid the radio and the symphony hour until vacation. We saw some plays last summer but we gave some books, but now it's impossible to do either.

Mistakenly we feel that the red road toward everything. We are finding our oats, reposing, self-satisfied and snug, in our ivory tower. Regrettably we learn later that the world has passed us by. Someone, we mention casually, will catch up on what has been going on in New York, in London, in Moscow. Someone, perhaps, will read "On November 1947, a World of Words and Music" and remember vaguely that we were at school and had a headline somewhere and we were probably called up the next day.

There is more to education than the four walls of an ivory tower. What better way is there to learn sympathy than to attend concerts? How else can we apply the principles of rhetoric than to write letters? What better way to understand the light of present-day events? Economics is enriched by following contemporary trends.

Do we want something new this year? We can't lose the chance and we can be sure we will gain much. The newspaper is a good textbook; the theatre is a good museum, the auditorium and the chapel are good classrooms. Let's make this a year of living and learning. Let's tear down the ivory tower and live in the world.

Importance of Religion to a College Student Emphasized
by Isabelle Oppenheim

Mr. Paul Laubenstein, speaking at the first faculty service of the year, used as his theme The Importance of Religion to the Student. He emphasized that religion basically has the same import for college students as for anyone else.

Religion in general is not hypothetical or synthetic. In the last decade it has been, on the down, grade, and this merely emphasizes its importance. We have had the tendency to set ourselves above God and look for something better, he stated. As John MacMurray said, "What it tells us of moral character we can trust.

Mr. Laubenstein emphasized that religion isn't too small for college students as for anyone else.

Politics Club To Be Organized October 6
There will be a meeting to discuss the formation of a non-partisan politics club on Monday, October 6, at 5:15 p.m. in Hill 106. Students from all classes are invited.

Convocation

It is hoped that Mr. Ingraham will also be present at the Thursday night meeting. In any event, he will present his main address on Wednesday, Oct. 8th, at 4:20 p.m. His topic will include the problem of socialism with relation to the present American scene and the prospects for the continual operation of the present capitalist system in the United States.

Mr. Coldwell will also be present on Wednesday afternoon.

Freshman Week

Mr. Laubenstein emphasized that religion gives to college students, Mr. Laubenstein added, was the integration of the personality. Religion gives direction, inner controls must have direction or they can transform life to hell on earth. Two world wars, he pointed out, have not succeeded in telling us much about morals. Man has made gods of his own malice and race out of unholy pride.

Religion will give to the college student, Mr. Laubenstein stated. It will give him inspiration, direction, self-sufficiency, and heart at the real danger lies in the mind and heart of man. Inner controls must have direction or they can transform life to hell on earth. Two world wars, he pointed out, have not succeeded in telling us much about morals. Man has made gods of his own malice and race out of unholy pride.

Religion will give to college students, Mr. Laubenstein added, was the integration of the personality. Religion gives direction, direction, and adjustment to all cosmos. We are all absolutists in a sense, Mr. Laubenstein said, but oddly enough scientists and theologians are leading dogmatists. We deny the existence of absolutes yet we adopt as absolutes everything about us.

What we as college students must gain from religion, Mr. Laubenstein emphasized, are moral and spiritual standards, the rectification of pride, and the help of a higher being of our self-sufficiency is not enough.

Politics club could be so different from hearthly. Friends at home would say: "It will probably take ages before we understand anything."

They will care about is them selves," or "That place is like a factory." No one will even know you are there. But when we arrived college life took on a very different aspect.

Gateways of education and friendship opened. Gatherings such as the first banquet in the Water by Debussy, presented by Miss Quimby. Head of the music department, Miss Ann Vory and Mr. Donald Currier, were featured performers in the program. The program presented by Miss Vory, Mr. Currier, and members of the music club, was preceded by a short hymn sing under the direction of Mr. Arthur W. Quinshy, head of the music department, and the singing of college songs, led by Lee and Folpe '48. Shirley Nicholson of '48 opened the program by playing Reflections in the Water by Debussy. In a Brahms Rhapsody, Jane Wassung '50 sang "My Johann," by Grieg; "Ouvre tes Yeux Bleus" by Massenet; and My Lover Is a Fisherman, by Strickland. Helen Crumrine abled for own Theme and Variations for flute.

Miss Vory's portion of the program consisted of a German Dance, Mozart; Nocturne, by Lill Boulanger; and Spanish Dance, by Falla. Mr. Currier played C Major Sonata No. 9, Mozart; first movement; Impromptu. Op. 90, No. 2, Schubert; and Rhapsody in C, Dohnanyi.

New Music Faculty Presented At the Music Club Gathering

At least some of the new-comers to the college community were introduced to each other and to the old stand-bys last Sunday night when the music club sponsored an "at home" for the freshmen at Holmes Hall.

Members of the class of '51 were the guests of honor, and the two new members of the music department, Miss Ann Vory and Mr. Donald Currier, were featured performers in the program. Caught on Campus

Greetings
As a happy day, now we are back at school! This is getting to consist mainly of the latest crop of girls to collect wedding and engagement rings.

Rice and Shoes
Bee Brenner '49 became Mrs. Jack Geller during the summer also. The Gellers have arranged a nice compromise with their transportation problem. They live in Madison, Conn., and drive their gray and maroon convertibles to New London and New Haven respectively. Jack is one of Yale’s leading tennis stars and is also taking a pre-med course. After his graduation, they plan to move out to the West coast and continue their studies.

Moving on to the sophomores, we find three weddings. Joyce Minsky was married to Martin Shalansky last Saturday in a formal ceremony at the Hotel Pierre in New York at 9:30. Marty is in the process of graduating from Lehigh.

Shirley Baker Gordon, the third sophomore, will stay in school this year, and wants to complete the year. She was married August 31 to Bernard Gordon, in Springfield, Mass., their home town. They haven’t any roosting place at present, but when Bernard finishes school, they’ll live in Philadelphia, where he is to do research work for Price.

A senior married last summer was Betty Lewis Marx, June 11, in Detroit. She wed Howard Marx, her sister’s husband’s cousin—all in the family. Several Connecticut girls attended the small formal ceremony. Howard is studying for his master’s degree at M.I.T.

After graduation he will go into aeronautical engineering, stress analysis and aerodynamics, no doubt, so isn’t sure about future residence, but will probably go west.

They Popped the Question
Now to get down to the serious business of engagements.

Allen Pease is the steady in tended of Beverly Knight ’50. She met him at Martha’s Vineyard years ago, and will marry him early in December.

Allen is studying law at the University of Chicago, which she also hopes to attend.

Roommate solidarity has been admired by Ellie Al len and Petey Enyart, who both got engaged last summer. Ellie is promised to Robert Myers, a Princeton man, plus football player, plus tower club member. He’s a senior now, and the wedding is scheduled for late fall or early winter. Ellie tells with a sigh of the night she received her ring—July 23, at 6:55 p.m., after making him sit around and observe reverent silence until the “Lone Ranger” was over.

Hank Williams is Petey’s fiancé. He’s from Akron, as is Petey, and will graduate in Finance from Wharton School of Finance in Philadelphia. After a real June wedding, they’ll live in Akron, where Hank has a job lined up with Goodyear.

Enid Willford is betrothed to Bob Anderson, now a first classman. They met at the Soph Hop (take note please) in the spring of 45, on a blazed date, which Enid filed with all her might to make off. They became engaged at the C.C.’s ring dance last year, surprising no one, and will be married in Binghamton, N.Y., right after graduation.

If we have omitted any of your amazing engagements or weddings, we apologize . . . our under cover agents have been somewhat undone by three months of peace and quiet. Will you let us know about any additional events? Will you send us the order now we will print an appendix to Life and Loves at C.C. next week.

Rumors Are Flying
Fascinating tales of cloak and dagger adventures are seeping over the campus about the doings of Ellie Roberts ’48. Ellie, senior class president in absentia, has been in Europe as C.C. delegate to the Prague Festival this summer. Her picture appeared in the New York Times in connection with certain unorthodox procedures, and she is still wandering around the Atlantic, so we are as yet unable to verify any of this intriguing scuttlebutt.
