Mr. Cobble Dick's Talk Gains Statistical Picture of Class

Conn. and N. Y. Highly Represented in Large Class of 275 Members

Thames dining room was the setting for a meeting concerning a banquet held for the freshmen. And, true to banquet tradition, there were speeches following dinner.

First, President Park introduced the speaker, a gentleman who had the greatest interest in the class. On his right, Mr. Cobble Dick related some interesting stories of the college to the class as a whole. It was agreed that he is a large number, comprising 275. But, out of this number, which included 219 students, he said that the freshmen have come from 27 states, of the District of Columbia, and the Dominion of Canada. Those states having the largest representation are Connecticut, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania.

1958 Receives Friendly "Hi" From Athletes

The Athletic Association welcomes the Class of '58 and hopes its members will join many sports activities throughout the year.

The motto of AA is "the most fun for the most people." In inter- and intercourse competition and playdays with other colleges, participants in sports for "fun" is the motto. This strengthens the ideals of good sportsmanship, cooperation, and leadership, and it is an outstanding athlete to enjoy his desire for the fun of playing.

Variety of Sports

In addition to the wide variety of sports which AA itself sponsors—Baseball, Club, Cross Country, Dance Club, and Sallie and Skip offer opportunities for the development of talents and interests.

Of the students, AA invites all freshmen, transfers, and special students to participate in the annual Mid-Winter Formal which will be held on Thursday, December 31, at 9:00, in the Litchfield Room.

The Mid-Winter Formal is held for all classes in February. The Freshman Formal will be held in Bock's Hall at 8:00, on Wednesday, February 16, and will be held in the Physical Education facility. They are invited and will be held in ,freshmen and will hear the club presidents tell a bit about their activities. Refreshments will be served.

Cook-Out Supper

The Connecticut College Cooking Club invites everyone to a cook-out supper later in the afternoon, which will provide an opportunity to test one's "Hi" as an outdoor cook.

Lists will be found on dormitories which are interested in working on any of the productions. Those who wish to sign up for these activities may work on any of the productions.

Furniture Bargains

Before saying goodbye, the student body was given a short talk on how to shop for furniture. They were given some tips on how to shop for furniture that is right for their room. They were told to shop around and compare prices before making a purchase.

Coast Guard Mixer

Will Be Sponsored By Service League

This Saturday night the freshmen will enjoy their first mixer with the Coast Guard Academy cadets. Under the direction of the Coast Guard, freshmen are to be held on campus for the social calendar for the fall semester. The members of the Freshman Formal will be held at Fanning Hall at 8:00, on Wednesday, February 16, and will be held in the Physical Education facility.

There will be a junior lecture series, which will consist of four speakers throughout the term. Each lecture will be followed by a discussion period. Plans are not yet definite, but the committee has some very active and interested speakers in mind.

Christian and Jewish students believe that a course can be an inspirational topic of their studies. Throughout New England, and beyond through an extensive conference program. The first one will be held at Hartford Seminary on Wednesday, April 21, while the others will be held in the course, the subject is Church. Church. Church. Church.

There is room for only fifty students, so interested students should sign up early.

Seaside

Another active part of the program is the social service group, the Seaside Fellowship, which serves the Sea.

Through the work of this group, Connecticut college has seen a trend toward a better understanding of the environment. Two volunteers are taken to the Seaside Institute where they learn to be a volunteer teacher. This work is that which is made up of science, cuisine, costume, props, lighting, and acting. First semester students are expected to see both old and new members on Monday night, September 27, at 7:00, in Bill Hall, 11.

Vesper Highlights

Frosh Choirs

"With a song in her heart," every member of the Connecticut College Choir, the College Choir, the College Choir, the College Choir, will sing regularly at every vesper service on the campus and at the Thursday morning chapel.

Pattagansett Talk Prepares Leaders, Advisers, Cabinet

Food, Lake, Log Fire Plus Frozen Lodgers Sets Scene for Plans

Each phase of Freshman Week is the result of much thought and preparation. After the calendar of activities has been drawn up by the administration, the House Juniors, along with Cabinet members and other class officers, get together with Deans Butteau, Oaks, and Noyes, to discuss many aspects of Freshman Week. This meeting is known as the Pattagansett Week-end, and it is held each year before the freshmen arrive.

For many years, college groups have travelled to Pattagansett, a wooded spot in East Lyme for the purpose of discussing Freshman Week and its activities. It is, in actuality a Girl Scout camp, consists of a large old oak, has a lake, and a small kitchen and a long open space where they were gathered, which is often mistaken for the backyard of a resident's cabin, in which Dean Butteau resides.

Woodchoppers

The grounds cover a wide area and offer many wooded paths and a small lake in which one can take a long, slow paddle in the still water. Everwooders aimed a bunt and rusty axe at several logs and succeeded in bringing in enough wood and kindling to provide the necessary amount of wood for the cold and the camp.

When the first meal and wide-open meeting were held for the Tony Smith, president of the Student Government, began the first dialouge of the day by saying that the purpose of the gathering was to unify thoughts so as to work along the same path towards the main goal of the school. The New Londoner was important for the unifying plans of presentation of information.

LISSTERS

They, in turn, have been supplying themselves with blankets or bed socks and sleep in the woods.

The subjects discussed at the Thursday night meeting or the work-weekend were ones with which many freshmen have been acquainted by this time, The Honor Code, library rules, and certain other issues were discussed so as to bring to light the opinions of this group of college leaders.

Connecticut College Honor Code Tradition Proves Important in Every Phase of Life

by Bev Tasko

"If a student violates any phase of the Honor Code, she is in fact bound to report herself to the Chief Justice of Honor Court." This year, is Syi Diome. Syi holds "reporting hours" in the Student Government room in Branford Basement on Monday and Thursday afternoons from 3:15 to 5:00 p.m. Also, "the student who is sure that a fellow student has violated the Honor Code is in honor bound to admonish that student to report herself." This last part is the most difficult part of the Honor Code, but it presents the greatest challenge of responsibility, initiative, and judgment. We must be prepared to administer our own code to friends, relatives, and neighbors. We will also bring the right action to the right court, so that the right people will be punished for the right acts.

Well Balanced Plan of Work and Play Praised by President Park, Bev Tasko

"Welcome, welcome, welcome!" were the words which greeted the freshmen at the first class assembly of the year, Monday, September 28, at 2:15 p.m. Also included in the greeting were the transfer students and the girls from foreign countries.

Advice

Speaking as a representative of the Student body and also as the leader of the school, Bev Tasko gave advice to those starting their college careers and stressed play and relaxation as well as study in order to prevent a non-successful end to the college years. Reverting an old saying, Bev amused the audience with, "All play and no work makes Jack a dull boy," proving that one should take her advice to liberality.

President Park then expressed her welcome to the new class of 1958 and extended warm words to all new members of the incoming graduate body. Referring to her own freshman year at college, Miss Park showed the difference that time has made in the way in which freshmen are treated upon their arrival at school.

She said that she never quite realized how welcome she was until nearly a month after she had been in attendance, but that general applications cover every phase of our college life. Honor Code extends to our relations with our roommates, our dorm mates, and our classmates, and to everyone on campus. It covers, too, our relations with other students away from campus. We are proud to live by honor, and we hope you will be, too. If we keep honor in our midst always, it will be very easy for us to live up to the Student Government oath:

"We will never, by any selfish or unseemly act, dishonor this, our College; individually and collectively we will honor the Code by always treating fellow students and others with respect and consideration for our common duty and obligation to our College. And thus in manifold service we will render our Alma Mater greater, worthier, and more beautiful."
