Mr. Wiles, College Chaplain, To Speak at Sunday Vespers

The Reverend Gordon Pitts Wiles, the new Chaplain at Connecticut College, will speak at the Vesper Service Sunday, October 6 at 7:00 p.m. in Harkness Chapel.

Mr. Wiles, who comes to Connecticut College this year from the Second Presbyterian Church in Newark, New Jersey, was born in Kimberly, South Africa, of English parents. He was

by Flo Potter '58

On Wednesday evening, October 2, at 7:30 p.m., the Annual Freshman Recital was held in Holmes Hall. Marcia Corbett, president of the Music Club, started the program by welcoming the fairly good sized audience.

The consensus of opinion of the audience was that this concert was not far from being a professional one. The program was varied and interesting, which was unusual for a Freshman recital. All of the renditions were good, and some were excellent. A further interest in the program were performances by a foreign student, Roswitha Rabl, and a transfer student, Luise Von Ehren.

Barbara Thomas began the program with Bach's Invention in A Minor for the piano. Her playing was smooth and pleasing, and the piece flowed quite evenly although at times her rhythm was not too sure.

Roswitha Rabl from Germany played an excellent rendition of Mozart's Sonata No. 6 for the violin. Connecticut is certainly blessed with having such a fine musician visiting us this year. Her intonation is good, her technique is excellent, and her quality is beautiful. Here is a musician who should be heard and appreciated.

Jacqueline Goodspeed next sang Snegouratchka by Rimsky-Korsakoff. Her light high voice was sweet, and she sang the fast passages in the song very clearly. Her stage presence was commendable.

Luise von Ehren, a transfer

Seniors To Review Junior Show Songs For Class of 1961

The senior class will hold an informal get-together for the new students on Friday, October 4, in the gymnasium. The class of 1958 wants to welcome the freshmen, foreign students, and transfers.

The entertainment will include musical excerpts from last year's Junior show, Devil's Dilemma, which will be under the direction of Sydney Wrightson. The program begins at 8:00 p.m., and all the new students are cordially invited to come as guests of the senior class. It is a wonderful opportunity for an hour of music, refreshments and fun.

educated in South Africa, England, and the United States. He has a Master of Arts degree from the University of South Africa, where he specialized in classics. He also holds a Master of Arts degree from the University of Cambridge, England, where he studied Theology with special emphasis on the New Testament. After a three year Seminary course at Westminster Theological College in Cambridge, he spent a year in graduate studies at Princeton Theological Seminary in the United States.

Reverend Wiles began his ministry in the Presbyterian Church of England, at Manchester. Then he returned to South Africa where he became active in the Student Christian Movement. For three years he held the position of Secretary in this association. The Alice and Fort Beaufort Presbyterian Church of South Africa was his next post.

During the second World War Reverend Wiles was a Chaplain with the South African army. He was wounded and captured in North Africa by Rommel's Panzer Division, and was held captive in Italy for two years. After his escape from prison camp he hid for nearly a year behind the German lines. It was not until three years after his capture that he was able to rejoin the Allied forces. He was awarded two military decorations—the Member of the Order of the British Empire.

Red Cross Appeals To Conn. Students For Needed Blood

Wanted: Red Blood,
Blue Blood — Any Kind But Flu Blood!

On Wednesday, October 23, Service League will sponsor a visit from the Red Cross Bloodmobile. Connecticut College students, faculty, and employees will once again have the opportunity to give generously of their blood.

A Bloodmobile Unit will be set up in Knowlton House all day on Wednesday. All students under twenty-one years of age must have written permission from their parents before they will be allowed to donate blood. Permission slips may be obtained from the infirmary or from any of Service League's dorm representatives. Once parental permission has been granted, the slips should be turned into Miss Thumb at the infirmary.

Last year one hundred and fifty-one Connecticut College girls donated their blood. Let's reach another all time high this year! Watch for further announcements and please plan to be there! The program this year is headed by Joan Michaels '58. Anyone with questions can reach her at Windham House.

Annual Alumnae Day Meeting Features Cornerstone Laying

Connecticut will act as host this Saturday, October 5, for returning graduates and guests who will attend the annual Alumnae Day meetings. Classrooms and other campus buildings will be open to the visitors from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m., while a special meeting has been arranged by the Admissions Office staff for prospective students.

After the meeting these girls will have luncheon in the College dining rooms where they will be guests of student hostesses. Alumnae and other guests will attend a special luncheon in Thames Hall where they will be addressed by President Rosemary Park and receive greetings from student officers and from Miss Agnes Leahy, President of the Alumnae Association. The highpoint of the morning will be the laying of the cornerstone of the Student-Alumnae Center, an occasion of which the alumnae and their guests will be a part.

In the afternoon the visitors will meet in the lecture room of Hale Laboratory for the Symposium, where they will be afforded the opportunity of meeting the new faculty members of the Department of Religion, as well as other members of the faculty and the student president of Religious Fellowship. Dean E. Alverna Burdick will be chairman of the Symposium and will present the topic: Religion at Connecticut College; Services, Courses, Activities. The Speakers will include: Audrey J. Bateman, President of Religious Fellowship; F. Edward Cranz, professor of history; John Leonard Miller, instructor in religion; Arthur W. Quimby, professor of music, and Gordon P. Wiles, associate professor of Religion. The visitors will be free to visit any building on the campus, and the Commuter's Lounge and Thames Hall Lounge will be available for their use.

Sophs' and Juniors' Temperatures Rise In Mascot Epidemic

Mascot, Banner, Fun

Hunting Season Opens
On Monday, October 7

That time of year is fast approaching when freshmen are bewildered, sophomores are beguiled, juniors are befuddled, and the seniors are benign. Yes, Mascot Hunt, the competition, which actually has no winners, except in friendship, will start next Monday, October 7, at 7 a.m. The Sophomores and Juniors can then look forward to three days of fun, frenzy, and fatigue. As with all games, this one, too, has its rules which all must observe; they are defined forthwith.

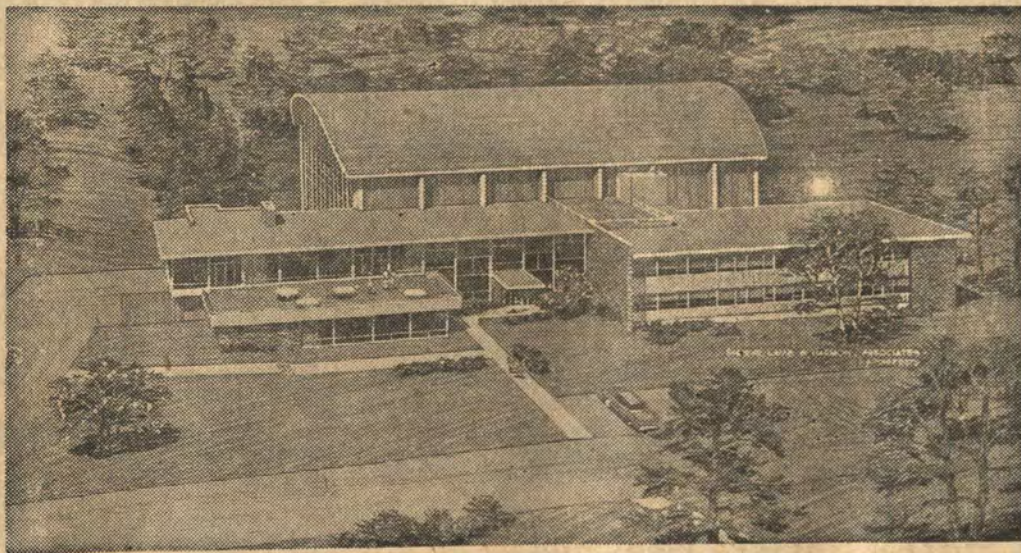

Monday morning both classes will meet on the hockey field where the Juniors will reveal their first clue to the second clue to the third clue to their class gift. From then on anything goes (well, nearly anything) until 11 p.m. when all must be safely tucked into their respective dorms. The Sophomores will have hidden their banner before the hunt begins, and the Juniors must find it without any clues.

While each class seeks its hidden treasure and tries to keep careful watch over the other's president, six stealthy girls from each class will desperately try to hold two secret meetings which will be recorded by the keeper of the log. Each meeting must last for at least two minutes, be six hours apart, and, at each, all members must say, "This is a meeting."

A few do's and don't's (mostly don't's) also must be followed. For example, no one is to cut classes, attend classes for which she is not enrolled, eat or sleep in another's dorm, enter a car for the purpose of Mascot Hunt, or search a girl's room without her permission. The main do is to have fun. Mascot Hunt, although a competition, has always been a uniting force between the Sophomore and Junior Classes. With its unpredictability and spontaneity, many unforgettable stories arise which will always be the cause of much reminiscing. The hunt will end with the Junior Banquet on Wednesday evening, after which the secret committee and runners will be guessed and the far-fetched fables unfolded. All feelings of persona non grata cease here (if there were any) and everyone leaves exhausted but quite happy.

Good luck to both classes on the STUDENT-ALUMNAE CENTER, estimated to cost some $1,500,000 will be built at Connecticut College New London. Facilities will be provided for both physical education and student-alumnae activities, including a swimming pool, gymnasium, lounges and snack bar. The building will be constructed of steel, concrete and glass, with fieldstone trim to blend with existing structures. It will be located north of Palmer Library, opposite Katharine Blunt House.

The groundbreaking ceremony, which will take place at 11:30, rain or shine, will include addresses by representatives of the groups which are sponsoring and/or benefiting from the erection of the Student-Alumnae Center. Participating will be President Park, Reverend Gordon P. Wiles, Marendra Prentis, permanent president of the alumnae class of '19; Connecticut's first graduating class, and Nancy Hamilton, president of the alumnae class of '57.

Also speaking will be Sally Lewis '58, chairman of the Student-Alumnae Center committee, Miss Agnes Leahy, president of the Alumnae Association, Gretchen Diefendorf '58, president of Student Government, Mrs. James Morrisson, secretary of the Board of Trustees, and Miss Ruth Stanwood, chairman of the Department of Physical Education. Ac-ording to tradition, an article such as a newspaper or a catalogue will be placed in an airtight box inside the cornerstone to provide an historical record when the building is torn down.

Completely functional, the new structure will provide educational as well as recreational facilities. It will house physical education and student-alumnae activities on campus. Included will be a swimming pool, a gymnasium for physical education instruction, a modern dance studio, multi-purpose rooms for games and sports, and offices for student government and other student organizations. There will also be offices and lounge facilities for alumnae and a student lounge and snack bar.

Excavation will be made for bowling alleys and a golf and archery range to be completed at a later date. Tennis courts will also be built later.

Designed to blend with the fieldstone buildings of this scenic campus, the new structure will be built of steel, concrete and glass, with natural fieldstone trim. It will be located opposite Katharine Blunt House, where the North Courts used to be.

Most of the money for the new building will come from the Mary Williams Crozier estate, in memory of her father, Charles Augustus Williams, a former New London resident. A fund campaign has also been conducted by Connecticut College alumnae and students. Members of the student body have been engaged in fundraising through the sale of furniture, blazers, and pledges in cash.

A total of $24,621.22, representing the Sykes Fund, has been

Watch the Rooftops!

'Twas the seventh of October,
And all through Conn College,
Many gals were astirring,
And abandoning knowledge.
The Juniors were scurrying around in great care,
In hopes that the Sophomores wouldn't be there.
The clues to the mascot were smuggled in place,
The banner was hidden, leaving no trace.
And Sophomores in trench coats, Junior in masks,
Had started about to finish their tasks.
When out on the hockey field I heard such a clatter,
I sprang from my books to see what was the matter.
When suddenly it hit me, quick as a flash:
"Mascot Hunt had begun at long last."
The fun continued for three short days
Books were forgotten and men were a haze.
Notes were passed, masks were found,
And peculiar costumes that hung to the ground.
And during the fun, I heard a voice say—
"Happy Hunting to all—and to all a good day!"

Flick In!

Kind Hearts and Coronets, the well-known English film, will be shown in Palmer Auditorium at 7:30 p.m. on Saturday, October 5. This film, starring Alec Guinness, is the hilariously tragic story of the tenth Duke of Chalfont. Guinness, playing seven different roles, has made this film a classic. The Duke is forced to do away with eight people before he can receive his title. He finally ends his career of homicide in the House of Lords.

Well, it seems the year '57-'58 is in full swing, and the Freshmen have been thoroughly welcomed into the "Connecticut College Community." Ath has already done the honors on behalf of the AA, and we all hope you will take us up on our offer (our plea) to join in the year's AA activities.

Despite utter exhaustion from being matriculated, orientated, and posture-rated, many members of the class of '61 turned out for the hockey and tennis playday last Saturday afternoon. Kate Driggs organized the hockey side of the playday, and though feet were sore and breathing was hard (too many summer "light up times") a good time was had by all and there must have been a few lost pounds! Each class exhibited skill, spirit, and indefatigable energy, but the official score declared the winners to be the Sophomores. (Ahem)

Tennis also was successful with six members of the enthusiastic Freshman class playing a round robin. Balloons on rackets added to the fun, and afterwards, to quote tennis head Del Merrill, "we all set around and got sick eating cookies."

Freshman Picnic

Local amateur meteorologists were dumbfounded to discover that rain was not (strangely enough) on the agenda for Saturday's activities, and, paper bags in hand, the Freshmen and members of the AA set out for Buck Lodge for the Freshman picnic. Short talks on different aspects of the AA were given and the Freshmen had their golden opportunity to find out just how one gets to take a week end ski trip for fifteen dollars, what the CC Yacht Club is, and if Linda Hess has a relative named Jane. One of the most enjoyable parts of the picnic was Connecticut's palatable mark of distinction—the chocolate chip cookie.

HOCKY PLAYDAY

A hockey playday is planned for October 19 in order to repay some of the many colleges which have hostessed to us. Those invited are Vassar, Wellesley, Wheaton, Holyoke, and the New Haven State Teachers' College. (Female.) We hope many of you players will turn out stick in hand and guard on shin to defend the honor of your Alma Mater.

For those of you who know no more about football than the name of the boy who sits next to you, you might try breezing through the September 23 edition of Sports Illustrated which has 100 pages devoted entirely to football. To impress the boys in button down collars you could remark casually that Yale's basic T and split T formation places them high on the list of college champions. And perhaps he may be surprised to know that a seemingly insignificant little college named Hillsdale for the hills of Michigan where it is located has won 25 straight games . . . one of the best records in the football-mad U. S.

See you next week . . . after the big game.

Connecticut Abets Education Efforts For Seaside Youth

Each week at 2:15 on Tuesday afternoon, CC girls go over to the Seaside Sanitorium to teach a group of children for a half hour. The girls are given guide books of Bible stories to read, with the stories varying according to the age of their class. In addition to the weekly classes, a party is held at Christmas and flowers are sent to the children at Easter.

This custom of having Connecticut girls go over to the Waterford sanitorium has grown through the years. Many of the children are either too young or are not able to leave Seaside, which is a tuberculosis sanitorium, and so we can bring to them an important part of life which they otherwise might not be able to obtain.

Classes will begin again at Seaside on October 15. We are looking forward to another successful year in which not only the Seaside children but also the CC girls will profit, for the girls learn by teaching and gain a feeling of reward and satisfaction by helping these children. Anyone wishing to help at Seaside this year, contact Anne Warner.

Religion Program Opens October 8th

On Tuesday evening, October 8, at 7:00 the Rev. Gordon P. Wiles will lead the opening freshman discussion group in Windham House living room. This will mark the beginning of the Religious Fellowship Freshman Discussion Program.

Mr. Wiles will speak on "The Place of Religion on the College Campus." This will serve as a general introduction to discussions which will be led by upperclassmen each month throughout the first semester.

Religious Fellowship extends a warm welcome to all freshmen and upperclassmen interested in attending the discussion groups.

Following the second World War Reverend Wiles became the pastor of one of the largest Presbyterian churches in South Africa. This church was located at Pietermaritzburg which is the capital of Natal Province. His next church was St. John's Wood Presbyterian in London. Reverend Wiles, who settled in America in 1954, has traveled extensively on the African Continent, in Europe, Britain, and the Middle East.

I Knock at the Door . . .

Paul Shyre's stage adaption of the initial Sean O'Casey auto-biographical volume, I Knock at the Door, has its premiere on Broadway at the Belasco Theatre Sunday night, September 29, for a limited engagement of six weeks. Producers Lucille Lortel, Mr. Shyre and Howard Gottfried finessed a casting coup with the signing of Aline MacMahon and Staats Cotsworth in the leading roles. The production, with these two noted players, first received a two performance tryout in March, 1956, at Manhattan's WMHA Kaufman Auditorium to highly enthusiastic notices from New York's drama critics.

The consensus of the reviews were summed up in the notice of Brooks Atkinson of the New York Times: "The two glowing performances ought to be arranged somehow." But Mr. Shyre with Mr. Gottfried became involved in producing O'Casey's Purple Dust at the Cherry Lane Theatre in New York's Greenwich Village, where it is still playing to crowded houses, establishing an alltime O'Casey run record of ten months.

After a visit with Sean O'Casey in Devon, England, this summer, Mr. Shyre made arrangements with the author to present the work on Broadway this fall. Shyre, who also acted in I Knock at the Door in its tryout, will be seen in the Broadway presentation, too, along with Rae Allen, George Brenlin and Roy Poole.

The dramatic narrative is directed by Stuart Vaughan, who as stager, was chiefly responsible for the artistic success of this summer's Shakespearean Festival in Manhattan's Central Park.

I Knock at the Door will have unusually low ticket prices for its Broadway engagement. Mail orders marked to the attention of I Knock at the Door at the Belasco Theater, 44th Street, East of Broadway, New York, N. Y., are now being accepted.

from Northwestern, closed the program with a contemporary set of pieces for the piano, Pinto's Scenas Infantas. Miss von Ehrin read the poems that accompanied the scenes. Her ease at reading was carried over into her ease at the piano. She possessed a finesse at the piano that is rarely seen in an underclassman. Her playing was smooth, and her interpretation of these delightfully witty scenes of childhood was excellent.

The concert was an indication that this year is one to look forward to in the field of music.

Connecticut Sails Triumphantly Over Mitchell College

Five members of the Connecticut College sailing team won in a meet with Mitchell College, held on Sunday, September 29 at Mitchell. The Conn. College participants were Nancy Allen '61, Margarethe Zahniser '61, Katty Lloyd-Reese '59, (Commadore), Lucy Allen '59, and Susie Rike '59. The meet, consisting of four races, started at 2:30, and Conn. College won every race. There was a good breeze and only one calamity—a broken mast, which caused a Mitchell boat to quit the first race.

The whole day couldn't have been more fun, and the merriment was added to by a very colorful committee boat on which Ann Frankel '59 and Ann Collver '59 helped out. Two more meets with Mitchell have been tentatively planned for Oct. 13 and 20. (Sounds more like "frost-biting"!). There is a lot of new skill in the freshman class. Looks like a good sailing season ahead!
