Junior Students Present Views on Quemoy; Consider Situation in Far East Strategic

Editors Note:

In the few weeks, the crisis in the Far East has held the attention of the world. The United States, which has been trying to accept an ultimatum offered by the Soviet Union, has chosen to re-interpret our current political situation. The United States, according to its interpretation of re-interpretation, has been doing serious damage to the former Axis powers, or nothing. The present is still under discussion.

The question now concerning the United States is whether our current political situation is one of the United States or of the Soviet Union. In the 1954 Treaty, the United States is committed to the defense of Formosa and Taiwan, but the 1954 Treaty requires the destruction of these islands from the mainland. The islands are being destroyed by the Chinese Nationalists in Taiwan.

In my opinion, these islands are not part of the mainland. Thus, we will not go to war with Taiwan. We are not going to war with China. We are not going to war over the Chinese Nationalists in Taiwan.

In the years past of treaties, the Nationalist regime of Chiang Kai-shek and his allies, including the Chinese Communist Party, have been fighting for the defense of Quemoy and Matsu.

If we are forced to take a definitive stand, it seems inevitable that we will be in war with the Communists. We have no liberal arts course as we know about it. We are not a partner in the Far East war.

In this, we must risk Russia's involvement in the conflict. On one hand, we have the Treaty of Friendship, and on the other, we have the 1954 Treaty. The United States is committed to the defense of Formosa and Taiwan.

We must face the existing uncertainty and instability. Ours is a time in which individual freedoms are being threatened. We cannot compare this type of living to the kind of terrorization against us in the years past. At the end of the week, the question is facing Russia's involvement. We must risk Russia's involvement in the conflict.
Freshmen Perform
In Musical Review

Last Wednesday evening Harriet Kaufman, president of the Music Club, introduced the Annual Freshman Recital at Holbros Hall. Six students performed indicating new and enjoyable tal-t that will contribute to student music on campus. The two voicists, Patricia Bordley and Christyana Bodnar were the most successful as performers. Patricia for singing with very impressive phrasing and grasp of her still young voice, and Christyana for presenting a marked potential for vocal development. The oboist, Phyllis Brown, displayed a good command of a difficult instrument and the violinist, Carol Martin, played pretty tones though not consistently. Two jenists also performed, Sandra Burbitz and Irene Alexander; the former with more feeling than the latter, the latter with more modern technique than the former.
It should be interesting and wondrous to these girls to see how their musicianship will develop during the coming year.

Brigette Bardot Scrutinized For 'The Night Heaven Fell' by Carol Plants '60

B. B.'s back in town! The Night Heaven Fell is the puzzling title of her latest romp through the cinema-colored fields. Brigette has deserted her French playgrounds for the exotic coast of Spain, and turns up as a quasiespanish in the home of her uncle Don Miguel. Once again she displays her abilities at riding donkeys, driving convertibles, tormenting women, and intoxicating men. It is not until she fights a bull in the town areas, that results (B.B.) are able to capture the man of her heart—an unexplained Spaniard of humble origins who proves his prowess by stabbing his uncle to death. Viva, the actress who has been absent from the screen for a number of years, appears as Brigette's aunt, an unremovable character apparently capable of great jealousy over innocent Brigette. Time is there for B.B. to uncover her dramatic talents and while she is foundering around in an attempt to make heroic gestures of undying love, the English dialogue squeals her life absurdity.
