Mrs. Foster Gains Merchant Gifts

For New Building

A Connecticut College alumnna recently announced her plans to present major gifts to the university's Development Office. Mrs. Foster, class of '79, has secured the promissory notes of three New London merchants to give a portion of their sales to the building fund.

In addition, Mrs. Foster plans to receive an outright donation from twenty-five to fifty interested New London businesspeople. Modern Cleaning and Dyeing Company, 230 Broad St., will give the same percentage of its sales as the机能 have agreed. Mrs. Foster hopes a majority of New London businesses will decide to participate in the project.

The result of Mrs. Foster's efforts to spark immediate donations out of a sense of pride and philanthropic obligation, these gifts will supplement public contributions and help to finance the College's projects.

During a visit to the College last month, Mrs. Foster noted that the College is in need of continued support. She also emphasized that the fundamental purpose of the College is to support public education, and that the College's mission is to improve the quality of life for all people. Mrs. Foster hopes that her donation will help to bring this mission to fruition.

Girls for LBJ Meet President At Rentschler

Monday morning, 47 girls, representing the Center for Women's Conference, traveled to Hartford to form a working committee for President Johnson. The group interviewed the President at his office in the White House.

"We hope to bring up the question of sex equality," said one of the girls. "We want to talk about the equal rights of women," added another girl.

Barry Jr. Expects Victory for Father In Coming Election

Barry Goldwater Jr., son of the late Senator Barry Goldwater, is expected to secure victory in his coming election. Barry Jr. has been working hard to ensure a win for his father's campaign at Lyndon B. Johnson's Vester service.

On a whistle stop tour of College vicinity, Barry Goldwater Jr. greeted a large and responsive crowd. Barry Jr. emphasized his pride in his father's accomplishments. He stressed the importance of the election to the future of the country.

"Of course," Barry said, "the democratic party has spent. Competing parties have spent. It's just the difference in the people's experiences. We have to keep that in mind. After all, if you're going to spend twice as much to communicate with two million people, you have to keep that in mind."

Barry Jr. has discussed the issue of the Federal Budget, the relationship between taxes and expenditures, the importance of maintaining a strong economy.

Mr. Bogue to speak in Vesperes.

Mr. Shain, President of the College, presided over the dedication ceremony. He welcomed the guests and thanked them for their support.

The Reverend N. Bogue, pastor of the Trinity Church in New London, was the principal speaker. He stressed the importance of education and the role of the college in the community.

The Reverend N. Bogue concluded his address with words of encouragement and hope for the future of the college.

"We are at the beginning of a new academic year," Bogue said. "Let us begin by reaffirming our commitment to the pursuit of knowledge and the promotion of excellence."

Bombs and Bengales

There are three political parties in the United States: the Democrats, the Republicans, and the democrats. The Democrats regard themselves as the party of the people, and the democrats consider themselves to be the party that can do with whatever is left over.

The present situation is ridiculous. There is no concern neither for the whole, nor for the individual; concern neither for educational analysis into basic philosophical issues and differences, nor for carefully documented factual information. There is instead reliance upon sentimentalism: Mr. L. fter

(2) in his jargon, nihilism and fear; Mr. Goldwater wants to kill us all, and nowhere is an intelligent, reasonable discussion of either or both to be found.

Whereas at one time, eons ago, politics, rational thought, philosophy and free discussion were the basis for intelligent freedom, the contemporary scene is dominated by fatuous disregard for the education of women that it was a noble and virtuous cause that Barry Goldwater could treat like an adult. Unfortunately, we have not been able to develop VOLUNTARY involvement in this practice.

Wander Jahre; Peace Corps Offers Travel

The right to wander the world is something that many Americans have cherished for centuries. However, in recent years, the idea of travel has taken on new meaning with the advent of modern technology and transportation. With the rise of jet travel and the internet, young people have the opportunity to explore the world in ways that were not possible even a few decades ago.

Burton Excels Sir Lawrence

In Peter Shaffer's play, "The Royal Hunt of the Sun," the lead role is played by the great British actor, Sir Laurence Olivier. Against his wishes, he is offered the role of the Marquis de la Porte, a part that he had previously rejected. The decision to accept the role was a bold move that paid off in spades, as Olivier's performance is widely regarded as one of the greatest ever seen on the stage.

Rev. William Coffin Deprecates Status

The man who is regarded by millions of college students as their spiritual leader, Rev. William Sloane Coffin, Jr., has become increasingly critical of the idea of status and status-seeking. He has written that the pursuit of status is a distraction from the real issues that faced society, and that it is ultimately unfulfilling.

For Fairer Fairing

This is an unadulterated axe attack at the World’s Fair last Saturday. I am confident it is my front line of interest in you in this [censored] and opening out of the world. What is good at the Fair is very good, enough that you will find little reason to come to this and you will regret the visit of the Fair.

Across the highway from New York State is General Motors, Pav. There the Fair is huge. The Fair is great and we can not help missing the 1893 edition. If you see nothing else all day, do not miss the Johnson’s way movie. Francis Thompson and Alexander Hammid have produced eighteen minutes of unique interest called “To Be Alive,” the most moving. The photography is extraordinary, the narrative is poetic, and the message is unforgettable.

Right across from Johnson’s is the pavilion of Spain. Often missed the gem of the Fair, walking through this is like walking through a field a tops. The museum has a true collection of Spanish art. The Spanish products shown are magnificent and the enjoyment in the pavilion is a real thrill. In a shed for $1.00 it costs $0.25 to enter the pavilion they should pay you to leave. Just there is much more. The Mexican Pavilion, the Mexican Fiesta of Panamita, the Disney daisies at Ford, the Pirates and the beautiful Fair lighting at night. Get there early, leave late and have fun.

Dean to Decide Do's, Don'ts Of Unnamed College Vehicle

For those of you who miss the old school bus of high school days, Connecticut College is finally able to relieve your nostalgic reminiscences. CT students are always happy to receive gifts that will extend the imaginative opportunities of the school, the administration, and, somewhat prophetically, the generous but grouching school bus from Mr. Irving Castle.

Since the purchase of the antiquated, the college has not yet determined what it is, and it is thought that it will be run by some new friend. Ever helpful, the student was already visioning some of its own suggestions. It might become a decade bus from the North Complex to Palmer Auditorium with regular stops at the Creutz-Williams snack shop, The Bookstore, the Cashier's Office and student centers. On Alumni nights, the bus would go directly to Fath, except during the first semester; it would also take a U-turn at the campus, Howard, and 6th Street.

Before the bus could become an important part of the college life, however, the堡北 maroons have already voted on some of its own suggestions.
