Local Liquor and Pizza Shops Fall Victim to Arson

By W. R. W. & J. L. B.

On August 22 a fire devastated Campus Spisp Shop and Campus Pizza, located on Second Street near the student center.

The cause of the fire was ruled arson.

The fire broke out sometime in the early morning, with fires seen reporting around 5am. Campus Dean, Greg Robinson, received a phone call informing him of the fire and was at the scene within minutes.

According to Robinson, it took firefighters about an hour to put out the fire, which had also spread to the rest of the building.

The damage from the fire was greatest to the Campus Spisp Shop. However, its neighbor, Campus Pizza, also suffered significant damage. Though the building can be restored, Robinson said the damage to the shop is such as "to make it financially sound.

The Institute for Development will be responsible for the planning and construction of the new Campus Information System. This will be a significant expense for the college and is expected to be a major source of funding for the college's operating budget.

The college's operating budget for the fiscal year 2001 is expected to be $30 million. The college has already received $10 million in grants and donations and is confident that it will be able to cover the cost of the new system.

However, the college is faced with the challenge of maintaining its current level of enrollment while also investing in new technology.

The college's enrollment has been declining in recent years, with a 2% decrease in enrollment this year. The college is hoping to reverse this trend by investing in new technology and improving its facilities.

In addition, the college is working to increase its endowment. The college has already received $1 million in gifts and is hopeful that it will be able to raise more money.

The college is also working to attract new students. The college is offering new scholarships and is working to improve its reputation.

As a result, the college is confident that it will be able to maintain its current level of enrollment and increase its endowment.

High Enrollment Spells Low Quality of Living for Students

In its admissions literature, Connecticut College is described as a residential liberal arts college of 1,600 students. Over the past three years, however, the college's size has swelled to nearly 1,700, an increase of roughly six percent, from the stated enrollment.

Two months from now, the College will begin accepting early-decision students for the class of 2006, a sign that the College is on a path to scale back. The athletic department, internship programs, and academic departments will all be focused on positive changes to campus culture. This issues project seeks to rejuvenate a positive sense of community outside of the college. Be on the lookout for the upcoming CC Pride Day and fight song contest.

If the College cannot find a quick way to boost revenue and is not willing to make unpopular department cuts, the College will continue to wander into a desperately seeking a quick shot of revenue. The root of New London's problems is not clear. As one member of the faculty pointed out to me, the word "dire" implies that the ship has run into an iceberg and is about to sink. We might not be sinking, but we might not be too far away from it. We plan to create a new student website to consolidate information and make it easier for students to find what they need. The pride and mission of students who have for Connecticut College is an at all time low after last year's focus on negative changes to campus culture. This issues project seeks to experiment with another sense of site and unity within the community. In order to accomplish this goal the College will plan events throughout the year. These events will focus on community pride. We will also develop projects throughout the year, which will strengthen dorm unity and morale.

My Summer of Pork

Liz C. Abrams • Delusions of Grandeur

This summer, I slung bacon at a barbecue restaurant. I spent my intern week inside the lab of my dorm, from auto mechanics in solid state physics to working with students who needed precisely two liters of water every day. I learned that "Dick and Coke" is not a beverage order and always accepting applications. I heard, "That's one way to make a living." I learned that the wage slave who would ‘unwillingly’ fly the flag is actually paid to work for me. The country is such a beautiful place that I could work eight hours a day, but only two hours a night, that I should apply for a summer job, that I should absorb something, that I should be earning. I learned that I like the Pledge of Allegiance, which was actually written by a Socialist missionary who believed many of the traditional practices on the continent lobe barbaric, and as the 21st Century arrives, that the government really wanted to protect women, it would do a better job if there was a chance that domestic violence would no longer be seen as private issue, but rather; in some states, if someone attacked an individual, that they be charged with a felony rather than with a public offense. For instance, if someone attacked his pregnant wife, as the assailant might fear the double charge of homicide and as the 21st Century arrives, that the government really wanted to protect women, it would do a better job if there was a chance that domestic violence would no longer be seen as private issue, but rather; in some states, if someone attacked his pregnant wife, as the assailant might fear the double charge of homicide and as the 21st Century arrives, that the government really wanted to protect women, it would do a better job if there was a chance that domestic violence would no longer be seen as private issue, but rather; The Man from Trivia Plays Orientation Gig

BY BRIDGET M. KENNEDY

STORY TEAM

Saturday night a group of students who were interested in entering the College Center at Waterbury for their fall orientation gig played a trivia game hosted by the knowledge of "The Man from Trivia." The event was held in the college center on the evening of September 21.

The Trivia game was set up in a round-robin format, with each student participant taking turns answering questions. The questions covered a wide range of topics, including music, sports, history, and pop culture. The students were given a certain amount of time to answer each question, and if they were correct, they were awarded points.

The Man from Trivia, who was a former professor at Quinnipiac University, hosted the event and provided answers to any questions that the students had. He was able to keep the students engaged and entertained with his knowledge and wit.

The event was a success, with many students participating and enjoying themselves. The students were able to learn more about each other and had a fun time together. The event was a great way to start off the fall semester and get everyone excited for the year ahead.
American Pie 2

1½ stars

I think we all need to accept the fact that we have had our fun in the American Pie series. I thought the first one was ok way back in 1998. Since then, however, every one has been a way. If you are a student, you will understand the feel of the movie. If you are not, it is not a bad movie for fun. The characters are written in a hand that does not help the movie.

If you have little use for anything even remotely related to the Scooby-Doo series then this is not the movie for you. It is not an easy task to do any justice to the Scooby-Doo series. The movie is not particularly enjoyable. However, if you are a fan of the show, this movie might be enjoyable for you. The movie is a complete waste of time. I am sure that all of the people who watched this movie were disappointed. The resulting movie is not recommended. However, the movie is enjoyable in its own way. The movie has some good moments, but overall it is not an enjoyable experience.

LaBrie '03 forthcoming as excellent rookie player, when he had a groundbreaking Jefferson season at the University of St. Thomas was over, "I love to coach," he says broadly, because "I'm always an average player." His past coaching experience, however, points to him as being an above average coach. At Eden Prairie High School, he coached his team to a 46-0 conference record and finished ranked number one in the state for four consecutive seasons.

As excited as Huch is to take the coaching responsibilities here at Conn, the players for the team are equally as excited to have him here. Sophomore Dana Long, who played for the team last year and was a member of the committee that helped elect Huch, is among the first to praise his new coach. "Out of all the candidates, he was the most qualified and most professional during the interview process; he seems to be someone everyone on the team can get along with and his energy is very compelling."

Huch is an aggressive coach with high expectations for both the Men's and Women's teams. "I like to be involved during the practices and the matches. A lot of coaches, "Huch claims, "don't like to talk to the players during the matches. I like to be there and get into the match." He plans to develop strategy for his singles and doubles players and is looking forward to working with each individual player.

Huch is preparing for the Lady Camels first match, which is an away match against Holy Cross on Sunday. It will be his first real chance to see the women in action; they have been holding tryouts for the last week and he is excited about the possibilities that season holds for both his teams. "Typically," he states, "the Men's and Women's Teams are different, but I am confident that both teams will produce good players."

The Lady Camels next home match is next Tuesday when they play host to Trinity.

In his roomy 1953 Buick, Huch is preparing his upcoming weekend plans. He will spend this upcoming weekend competing in Molokai, a beach near Honolulu, Hawaii. Huch had recently returned from a 25-day tennis tour of Europe where he was in Italy, Switzerland, and Molokai. As excited as Huch is to take the coaching responsibilities here at Conn, the players for the team are equally as excited to have him here. Dr. Luc Montagner Comes to Conn for Convocation

IN CONVERSATION WITH... THE COMMUNITY OF CONN

Luc Montagner, Professor of Physics at the University of Paris, became internationally known for his work on the science of cosmology. His research has contributed to our understanding of the universe, particularly the discovery of a dark energy component, which is now a major focus of his research. He is a member of the French Academy of Sciences and a recipient of numerous awards for his contributions to science.

In the last few years, Montagner has been particularly active in advocating for the importance of science education and policy, emphasizing the need for countries to invest in scientific research and education to ensure a brighter future for all. His work has implications for a wide range of fields, from medicine to technology, and his insights have the potential to shape the course of our civilization.

Montagner has also been involved in efforts to improve the environment, particularly in the areas of climate change and sustainability. Through his work, he hopes to inspire future generations to take action and make a positive impact on the world.

BBM: Congratulations on your recent achievements! You seem to have a deep passion for science. How did you become interested in this field?

Luc Montagner: Thank you! Science has always been a passion of mine. I became interested in physics when I was a young boy, fascinated by the mysteries of the universe. Over time, I realized that science can help us understand the world around us and make a difference. This passion has driven me to pursue my research and contribute to the scientific community.

BBM: You have made significant contributions to our understanding of the universe. Can you tell us more about your work on dark energy?

Luc Montagner: Dark energy is a mysterious force that appears to be pushing the universe apart. My research has helped us understand its properties and its role in the large-scale structure of the universe. It is an exciting area of study, and I am eager to continue exploring its mysteries.

BBM: What advice would you give to young people who are interested in pursuing a career in science?

Luc Montagner: I would advise them to stay curious, ask questions, and be open to new ideas. Science is a field that is constantly evolving, and there is always something new to discover. With dedication and hard work, anyone can make a significant contribution to the scientific community.

BBM: Thank you for speaking with us today. It was a pleasure to learn more about your work and your passion for science.

Luc Montagner: Thank you for having me! It was a pleasure to share my thoughts with you.
Camel Volleyball Team
Optimistic in Rebuilding Year

By BONNIE PROKESCII

This year's Women's Volleyball Team is hopeful, despite facing the challenge of replacing critical members lost from last year's championship finish. Although the team is small in both numbers and experience, consisting of only seven players with the talent of five seniors, three women have determined to raise the standards for the volleyball and the women's program as a whole. As captain Colette Sirico '04 remarked, "A lot of us returning to the team want to show how many good people there are, a lot of spirit and energy, so what we lost with are rooms graduating last year and seniors this year are gone this year."

Luckily for the returning players, three freshmen and three new replacements came out for the team this fall. In addition to these new players, the team has a new manager, a new assistant coach, and a new head coach, Steven Kelly, who has been a coach for the past two years stepped up to the position of head coach this fall after last year's head coach, Pat Price.

Field Hockey Looks to Build on Last Year's Success

The Connecticut College Men's Soccer team is preparing for a new season. The team had a successful season in the 2000-2001 campaign, winning 12 of their 15 games and finishing third in the New England Small College Athletic Conference (NESCAC). However, the team lost two key players to graduation, leading to questions about their ability to compete with the strong teams in the conference.

One of the key players who graduated wascenter back David D'Aquila, who was essential to the team's success. His leadership and experience will be difficult to replace. Another player who graduated was goalkeeper Ian Watson, who had a strong performance in the net last season.

To fill these positions, the team has brought in new players, including several freshmen and transfers. The team also has a new coach, Mike Marcone, who has a strong background in college soccer. He has played and coached at several levels, including the professional level.

The team's goals for the upcoming season include winning the NESCAC championship and competing for a NCAA playoff berth. The team will face tough opponents, including some of the top teams in the conference, but with a strong core of returning players and a talented group of freshmen, they have a good chance of achieving their goals.
