American Student Union Meeting For Fourfold Purpose

Group To Discuss Peace Convention; Committee Chairmen To Be Chosen

The American Student Union will hold its second meeting of the year tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock.

At the meeting held last Friday evening, Mr. Henry Klein, of Brooklyn College, spoke on world affairs. Maeschen and Fletcher are charged with the danger of Fascism, calling it "the most troublesome and threatening element in the world today." In connection with this theme, he explained the historical and immediate causes of both the Spanish Civil war and the Sino-Japanese war. A. S. U. officials on campus are as follows: executive chairman, Frances Walker '38; secretary-treasurer, Margaret McCall '38; civil liberties chairman, Caroline Bookman '38; publicity chairman, Julia Warde Howe. In the book is told how the first girls were not allowed to speak in public and embolden not even read (their graduation exercises), and by what members of the speaking choir, '36-38.

Excellence in the industrial arts is included in the rights of society at this time. This serves to bring equality of thinking up something new and different in the intellectual offspring being called "Tinny" or "Peanut." Passing power with equals love and the intellectual meaning is fineness.

The initial ecstasy plus the marriage ceremony as it stands today, the same questions are raised about the man as the woman. This serves to bring equality of rights and restrictions. The questions should be answered with the words "I will" because it expresses future intention whereas "I am merely means present promises."

The race still feels justified in asking "Who are you?" to marriage. Is it to be cherished for better and worse?"

Dr. Glenn then said that one should accept marriage, that it is a legal bond, alone. Instincts, traditions, habits, and background have developed it to a great extent. "Passion plus power equals love and the intellectual meaning is fineness." The initial ecstasy plus the marriage ceremony as it stands today.

Many of us entertain the misconception that compulsory legislation in college is the sole means of accomplishing the desired ends. We have imposed regulations upon ourselves and have stood by watching these rules torn down.

Last spring, on the amalgamation meeting the student body threw over this forcible means of control and left attendance at Vespers entirely to the discretion of the student. The purpose of doing this is to change Vespers from a compulsory meeting to a personal service.

At present we are on trial. Trial to show that there is a book, however, less deserving works. At the risk of being unfair, I choose this last brief at least to me. Never was a book more aptly named, nor, incidentally, more beautifully named. The central figure of the novel is the aged wil ow of an ex-Viceroy of India and Prime Minister of England, who, on her husband's death, finds herself completely drained of all emotion. Having spent all her life entertain ing, diplomats, and caring for five children who are remarkably unpleasant, she retires from the world to finish her life in quiet. Her life has been one of frustration until the moment she makes her decision to desert her family, now grown old and themselves, and in this last brief moment she does, for the first time, exactly what she wants to do.

The book has an air of its own, one of quiet and satisfaction. As the sits in the garden of the house that she has waited all her life to buy, she contemplates all that has happened with an air of detachment and objectivity that is deeply impressive in its complete lack of pettiness.

It is difficult indeed to convey the romance and beauty of the book, without seeming sentimental or an extreme, or using words which have been applied too frequently and less deserving works. At the risk of doing either, I shall say that the work left with me an impression of having seen the making of something exquisitely fragile and beautiful, of having walked with her in her garden where she wanted no youth with its turmoil, nor had her happiness is devoid of all emotion. Knowlton House wishes that Betty McNulty would have more than one birthday a year, especially when she celebrates with such a delicious cake.

Congratulations to Helen Jones upon being elected freshman class song leader at the recent election. With the cooperation of the whole class, she ought to be very successful.

The Coast Guard has been dropping anchor on the west side of the campus over since the freshman-Coast Guard Dance, when they found out that Humphrey and Dushon aren't the only houses that have freshmen in them.

Our pet peeve this week is the girls whose favorite pastime is going between the Serfs and Upperclassmen. That she wrote in her history notes:

Waitresses by asking for a "swiss chiss sandwich mit holes."

To prove that the fashion experts are not wrong in saying that black is the thing: at the Service League dance, there were as many black dresses on the girls as black ties on the men.

Twenty-six members of the third floor at Mary Harkness spent more than an hour one evening last week trying to learn a wee bit of truckin which the freshmen were to learn under the excellent tutelage of Sue McLeod.

Several girls will tell what they did this summer in the Home Economics field.

Dear Daughter,

Here is your first check as I promised. I hope you enjoy spending it as much as I enjoy sending it.

As you see, I have added a little to it because you are to buy in college. You are to add something of greater value — your own ideas. You will make your college life work, not to satisfy others, not to please yourself, but to develop that individuality that will make you helpful to others.

As I see it now, one of the best things I did in college was to find it to read a good newspaper.

The Home Economics club is having its first meeting a buffet supper. This will be held Thursday, October 14, at five o'clock, in the Commuters' room. Following the supper, there will be a meeting at which the freshmen will be told the purposes of the club and the plans that have been made for this year.

You are certain to look just right when you go to the game wearing a three-piece suit. The overcoat is made of the Glen Eagle plaid—basic light blue with light green and yellow crossbars on finger tip length and shoulder lines. The "little jacket" is light blue and is fitted with a roll collar, a turn over collar, and four breast pockets. The skirt is of matching blue and is well tailored.

For dressier occasions—a lunch-club party or a formal function—you would look more attractive than a beagle, for trimmed, costume suit. The trimmest of lightweight wool carries out the latest fashion note—a wide gored skirt, a clever belt, and buttons up the shoulder of the sleeve to the round neckline. The jacket is fingertip length and box like, having a back solid with Beaver fur and a fur ascot.

Why not wear a lightweight wool dress of sandalwood blue under your fall coat? A very sophisticated heart! especially when you have a date or not, though it's really lots more fun, Anyhoo, Freshmen, with the latest in women's apparel, forms the cigarette case and a round brass buttons up the shoulder of the jacket will help protect you from the dampness. Round brass buttons fasten it; huge pockets trim it; a high corduroy collar warms it; now, wear it.

The smartest compact and cigarette case we've ever seen under for sometime—a clear celluloid box bound in gold forms the cigarette case and a round gold disk on the cover opens into the compact. It would make a grand gift!

jokes in the next room that I didn't see anything funny about. They're all so silly, anyhow. Anyhow, we were supposed to wake up at six o'clock to be dressed at half after, but I had to get up at five in order to be dressed in time because you know how neatly I dress.

We had to wear our exercising bloomers and black stockings like those savages wear, made out of the humorous section of the newspapers. We had to wear head-over-reds from brown stone bags and they kept shouting at me in an- other way, because my hair wasn't coiled that silly way and I didn't have all that splendid paint and powder on my face. Then they put it on me forcefully and you know how sensitive I am.

Gracious goodness, I'm so glad that it is all over because now I have time to study sufficiently. Homesickly yours,

Nettie

An exhibition of the work of the students in the Art department at Connecticut is open for two weeks at the Town and Country Club in Hartford. The work, done by un- dergraduates under the instruction of Dr. Logan, is representative of the various technical branches of art. The items include those done in both the beginning and advanced classes.

Two similar exhibitions are planned for New Haven and New Jersey under the auspices of the Alumnae Chapters.

devotion of years equals a most won- derful thing.

After the ring is given the Lord's prayer is repeated. The meaning behind this is that the way to be- gin married life is for the couple to face the world together, not face each other and shut out the world. "Marriage, which is the strongest thing in life, can be had only together.

the other schools every other Friday, and Saturdays were picnic days. The schools as a whole had a dance every other Saturday night, the last Saturday there being a Masquerade Ball.

But, lest I have stressed too heavily the social aspect, let me say that I studied harder there than at college. For one thing, quiet hours were really quiet, although there are no institutions such as house fellows or proctors. And one takes an honor pledge at the beginning to speak no English, except where it is necessary, e.g. at the village. The first night I felt that I should scream if I couldn't speak a few words of English, but the last night I was wondering if I wouldn't break out into Italian when my family came to take me "back to America".

Being at Middlebury gave me an entirely new slant, not only on Italy and the Italian people, but on the study of a foreign tongue.
