Student Travel Bureau Plans
Chartered Buses on Vacations

by Barbara Sokolik

To improve transportation for the college community, the Campus Sales Committee has established a new bureau, the Student Cooperative Travel Bureau.

The new bureau's main objective is to arrange transportation to off-campus activities. This does not include minor buses.

During the summer months, the bureau hopes to arrange European flights. Plane service to such places as Chicago, Cleveland, and Boston, D. C., are also on the schedule. Chartering buses for big college weekends such as at Princeton and Dartmouth, as well as trips to New York about $10.00. If there are no profits on these trips, 25 per cent of the profit will be returned to the student body through Student Life.

Previously, only individual students of the college were able to make these trips.

The annual Halloween Party, sponsored by the Athletic Association and the Student Organizations, will be held on Thursday, October 27, from 7:30-9:00 p.m. in Crozier Lounge. A sign-up sheet will be placed in the main lobby.

The Student Travel Bureau will also provide transportation to such events as the Harvard-Khon construction and the Service League, will provide transportation to such events as the Harvard-Khon construction and the Service League.

The Student Travel Bureau will also provide transportation to such events as the Harvard-Khon construction and the Service League.

cabinet, House of Rep.

PASS 2 NEW PETITIONS

by Gail Golden

The Student Government Cabinet and House of Representatives gave their support this week to a petition calling for elimination of non-profits regulations for class officers.

Both bodies also supported changes in rules concerning the "non in the room" privilege.

Provisions of the petition regarding class election procedures allow only five officers to govern themselves. Under the present system, only the freshman class president may serve a second consecutive term of office. Existing rules prohibit students to serve more than one term, but not consecutively.

"We're just throwing it at them, giving them the chance the freedom which they should have," commented House Speaker Gia M. M. Hendrie.

The petition also allows for the holding of one election for all class officers. Under the present system, only five officers are chosen during two separate elections.

The proposed procedure provides for the appointment of an election committee to handle elections and count votes, gives procedures regarding filling of intentions and campaigning, states the requirement that all members of the committee be class officers or vote or register abstention.

Proposed changes in rules regarding male guest in student rooms are as follows:

1) Elimination of the duty of the house president to check the student room, (Continued on Page 3, Col. 1).

CLUB ALLOCATIONS ANNOUNCED:
$5000 LESS THAN REQUESTED

Dean of Student Activities Mrs. Sally C. Trippe announced last week that the Student Clubs will get $5000 less than they requested.

The political clubs received a total of $1,450 and the various international clubs received $1,500. The.trippe commented, "We have almost $5,000 more requested than we have provided."

The committee went over all requests, and the whole voted on the appropriations. She saved a small amount of money for unexpected needs.

Some extra, student club outnumbered helped. Mrs. Trippe and planning club activities and approving the funds is growing for a working relationship among the related groups so they may sponsor more meaningful events," Susie remarked.

By grouping the different activities and pooling their resources, the Student Organizations Committee aims at better attendance, better quality, and easier scheduling within the various clubs.

Director Says Junior Show Has Plot
Separate in Character From Others

by Gail Golden

Judy Greenberg, Junior Show director, announced last week that the Junior Show has its plot.

She further explained that she hopes the show will have a separate character because the Class of 1969 was the largest entering class in the history of the college. Plans for production which are still in the speculative stages include: choreography and costumes.

Judy and her committee of writers began writing this fall, the show is still in the "creative stage." She added, "Scenes are still being written. We're not toward the final product yet."

The writing staff, which Judy described as a "creative group" includes Linda Carpenter, Helen Epp, Pat Gaynor, Janet Herman, Dana Phillips, Mary Porter, Robin Platt and William Rowley.

Other staff members include Production Manager Deborah Ewing and Business Manager Barbara Trippe.

The plot will be revealed to the class at their banquet, March 8.

by Gail Golden

Judy Greenberg, Junior Show director, announced last week that the Junior Show has its plot.

She further explained that she hopes the show will have a separate character because the Class of 1969 was the largest entering class in the history of the college. Plans for production which are still in the speculative stages include: choreography and costumes.

Judy and her committee of writers began writing this fall, the show is still in the "creative stage." She added, "Scenes are still being written. We're not toward the final product yet."

The writing staff, which Judy described as a "creative group" includes Linda Carpenter, Helen Epp, Pat Gaynor, Janet Herman, Dana Phillips, Mary Porter, Robin Platt and William Rowley.

Other staff members include Production Manager Deborah Ewing and Business Manager Barbara Trippe.

The plot will be revealed to the class at their banquet, March 8.

by Gail Golden

Judith Anderson,热带旅游组织田野集团的主席，宣布了今年的热带旅游计划。今年热带旅游的特色是具有鲜明的热带风情和多种多样的文化活动。热带旅游组织提供各种类型的旅游项目，从豪华游览到亲身体验当地生活的自由选择。

热带旅游组织的主席David Blum先生，对今年的旅游计划寄予厚望。他说：“我们希望通过今年的热带旅游计划，让游客们能够更加深入了解热带地区的文化和历史，同时享受大自然的美景。”

热带旅游组织的旅游计划包括：

- 热带风情游览：游客将参观热带地区的自然景观和人文景观，了解当地的文化和历史。
- 自由选择游：游客可以选择参加各种类型的旅游项目，从豪华游览到亲身体验当地生活的自由选择。
- 专业导游服务：热带旅游组织提供专业的导游服务，为游客提供详细的信息和指导。
- 安全保障：热带旅游组织的旅游计划经过精心策划，确保游客的安全和舒适。

热带旅游组织的旅游计划将从今年的10月开始，持续到明年1月。更多信息和预订指南可以在热带旅游组织的官方网站上查询。
EDITORIAL...

NEW FACES

The Student Government House of Representatives and Cabinet approved last week a proposed revision of class election procedures that would allow class presidents to succeed themselves. The present procedure allows the freshman class president to succeed himself. The sophomore and junior class presidents may there is loud music and there are dancing. Students are "blowing your own horn," an individualist, become "I"... (and) living from meal to meal."

There is the frustration theory that states that these various forms of dance are socially acceptable to release frustrations, especially these frustrations which arise out of the class experience.

Editors and students have put forward to the class president to succeed himself. The sophomore... by attending to what they say, ceasing to think of what they say. By attending to what they say, ceasing to think of what they say.

To the Editor:

We are all well, gentleman, to give less attention to the way our undergraduate students appear and for the most part, what they say. By attending to what they say, you might learn how they think, you might learn how to think, or if it is too much to say, you might at least learn how to write and think.

That is, it seems to me that the first item in a Connecticut Educational Conference was by the physical education department (headed by Miss Helen Mc- Klenon) on October 21 and 22.

Miss Marlynn Conklin ran a complete freeing demonstration, while the synchronized swim clinic was given by Miss Frances Martin. A panel discussion entitled "Education and Women's Rights" was attended by the students of Coonecticut College.

Thursday, November 16, 1966

Saskatchewan centennial celebration was held at the University of Saskatchewan, Canada.

The proposed revision would allow the sophomore and junior class presidents to serve consecutive terms. We think that this change might serve to limit participation in class government. Although it is unlikely, though not impossible, that anyone would hold the presidency of her class for four years, it is likely that sophomore and junior class presidents would be re-elected. The candidacy of an incumbent might serve to discourage able students from bringing new ideas and vitality to the job. It might also make the choice all too easy for apathetic voters who see a name prominent in class politics during the past year.

A newly elected class president brings to the office the new ideas, and possibly, the new people so vital to the generation of student interest in campus activities. As many people as possible should be encouraged and given the opportunity to assume the role of the college rear from September to June, except during mid-years and vacations.

We hope that the student body considers the matter carefully and by learning how they think, by attending to what they say, ceasing to think of what they say. By attending to what they say, ceasing to think of what they say.

Saskatchewan centennial celebration was held at the University of Saskatchewan, Canada.

The proposed revision would allow the sophomore and junior class presidents to serve consecutive terms. We think that this change might serve to limit participation in class government. Although it is unlikely, though not impossible, that anyone would hold the presidency of her class for four years, it is likely that sophomore and junior class presidents would be re-elected. The candidacy of an incumbent might serve to discourage able students from bringing new ideas and vitality to the job. It might also make the choice all too easy for apathetic voters who see a name prominent in class politics during the past year.

A newly elected class president brings to the office the new ideas, and possibly, the new people so vital to the generation of student interest in campus activities. As many people as possible should be encouraged and given the opportunity to assume the role of the college rear from September to June, except during mid-years and vacations.

We hope that the student body considers the matter carefully and by learning how they think, by attending to what they say, ceasing to think of what they say. By attending to what they say, ceasing to think of what they say.

Saskatchewan centennial celebration was held at the University of Saskatchewan, Canada.

The proposed revision would allow the sophomore and junior class presidents to serve consecutive terms. We think that this change might serve to limit participation in class government. Although it is unlikely, though not impossible, that anyone would hold the presidency of her class for four years, it is likely that sophomore and junior class presidents would be re-elected. The candidacy of an incumbent might serve to discourage able students from bringing new ideas and vitality to the job. It might also make the choice all too easy for apathetic voters who see a name prominent in class politics during the past year.

A newly elected class president brings to the office the new ideas, and possibly, the new people so vital to the generation of student interest in campus activities. As many people as possible should be encouraged and given the opportunity to assume the role of the college rear from September to June, except during mid-years and vacations.

We hope that the student body considers the matter carefully and by learning how they think, by attending to what they say, ceasing to think of what they say. By attending to what they say, ceasing to think of what they say. By attending to what they say, ceasing to think of what they say.
DRAFT DODGERS BECOME CANADIAN CITIZENS TO PROTEST VIETNAM WAR

By Roger Rapoport

The Collegian Press Service

TORONTO—This month 49,200 men and women resulting from the U.S. draft system have registered for military service and will be assigned to the armed forces. Expatriate Bob Hamilton of Hamilton, Ont., is the third man to register after the Canadian military began accepting registrations last month.

It's not that Bob isn't eligible—he's been I-A for the past five months. It's that he's concerned about some policies currently being pursued by the U.S. government.

Bob (not his real name) is one of a number of young men who have abandoned the United States armed forces to Canada. He was Registering in Canada to escape the draft by voluntarily entering the Canadian forces. The Canadian government has announced that it will accept up to 500 men and women who are draft dodgers from the United States.

"I don't see any reason to make a martyr out of it. Just get yourself out of the situation," Bob said.

In the second place he decided the way out was North. He told his father he had disapproved and his mother who "cried a lot." When he arrived here in June, Tony Hyde of the Student Union for Peace Action, a Canadian affiliate of Students for a Democratic Society, found him a place to stay. To qualify for landed immigrant status and legally remain in Canada he took a job at the University of Toronto Library.

Bob finds Canada "far more remoter and less hysterical" than the U.S. Canada has no draft.

"Any government that tried to start the draft again would get thrown out of office," explained Tony Hyde. He says his fellow employees unanimously support his reasons for moving to Canada. In his spare time, he reads poetry, does stamp collecting, and generally leads a tranquil existence.

For the ex-graduate prospect, he can't return to U.S. for a while (where he would face a $10,000 fine and five years in jail) but it's free of restrictions.

For the former student at Howard University, he is taking control of the Canadian government.

"I was North Vietnamese, I couldn't fight for Ho Chi Minh," he says. "I'd rather be doing the same thing someplace else."

Although the ex-graduate holds his draft-dodging friends disagree strongly on some matters. For example, one group favors a right-to-vote for former servicemen who are Canadian citizens. Bob and his fellow expatriates (first class legislative) differ by the University of Toronto. "If I were North Vietnamese, I wouldn't fight for Ho Chi Minh," says Allan. "I don't think it's a lot better than General Ky."

According to him, his decision to move to Canada was not political.

"Personal freedom is the reason I came here. I want to have the right to say no to people. I've got better things to do than be used like a robot-like killer dog in the Army. No one has the right to tell me to go drop napalm on people.

"I don't want the right to run my own life."
C. D. MAJORS ASSIST IN PROGRAMS FOR NURSERY SCHOOL YOUNGSTERS

by Jacqueline Earle

There is one course offered on the Connecticut College campus which no student here is eligible to attend—the Connecticut College Nursery Class. Girls enrolled in Child Development courses, however, can do teaching and observe at the Nursery School.

Three Year-Olds Attend

Five days a week, from 9:00 to 11:30 a.m., and 1:15 to 4:15 p.m., 52 three- and four-year-olds attend nursery classes in the small white house with the picket fence located on Williams street, behind Windham and the Infirmary. Miss Pauline Omwache, chairman of the child development department, and Miss Harriett Warner, assistant professor of child development, are in charge of the nursery.

Established in 1938

According to Miss Warner, the school was established in 1938 by the former Home Economics Department, for the purpose of studying the growth and development of children.

In the morning, the four-year-olds are taught by Miss Warner, and the three-year-olds by Miss Caroline Copley, who is a new staff member this year from Markville, La.

This year there are 18 child development majors who work regularly at the school as assistant teachers. The afternoon consists of two special programs, in which a group of three- and four-year-olds are taught by four child development majors.

These student teachers are: Janice Yagen '67, Mary Beth Tierney '67, Debbie White '67, and Judy Bryant '67.

Student Teacher Observed

One afternoon this reporter observed one of Janice’s classes. Janice was turning the pages of a picture book, asking each child what the images represented. When it came to John’s turn to speak, he became very solemn and said, “I only talk to the bears.”

The children at the nursery represent a mixture of various cultural, economic, and social back-grounds. There are children of members of the College faculty as well as of residents of New London and Norwich.

The school has children in each group whose parents were unable to pay the tuition. Janice, and Miss Omwache explained that this policy gives the child development stu-dents the experience of teaching children from different background.

College Provides Scholarships

In return for their promise not to pay tuition, the College provides the necessary funds.

Miss Omwache said that even students who are taking the elementary education program use the nursery for short periods of observation.

The main purpose of the nursery, according to Miss Omwache, is “to help the children’s learning function develop.”

The program is organized to meet the learning needs of the children at an early age,” said Miss Omwache.

Varied Activity Program

The classes consist of outdoor play with such equipment as tricycles, wagons, and a sandbox, all designed “to encourage their motor activity,” snack time, and indoor play with such materials as paint, clay, musical instruments, puzzles and books, intended for “creative activity.”

Miss Omwache explained that the “housekeeping corner” allows the girls to engage in dramatic play, while the boys have their dramatic outlet with their building blocks.

Miss Omwache also stressed that each nursery school class has a curriculum similar to that of elementary grades, for in their play, the children are introduced to language, sciences, and art. However, she said that no special effort is made to force the students to read or write.

OCF Copy to Circulate

She pointed out that, “To circu-late from The Cage” is printed on the catalog card of certain books in process.

WCFI Plans Innovations, Variety of Music, Yale DJ’s

by Alicia Brandman

Yes, Virginia, there is a Connecticut College radio station. Broadcasting from the second floor of Palmer Auditorium at 900 on the dial, WCNI sends its programs to all dorms on campus through a closed circuit system run through telephone wires. These programs feature music ranging from folk rock to show tunes to clustered. Each student disc jockey plans her own program, choosing the music the will play.

Donna Johnson '68, president of the radio station, expressed the hope that the campus will take a closer look at radio station.

Will Provide Publicity

“The radio station is here to serve the College community, and with the cooperation of the administration and students, it could produce profitable results for everyone.” Donna suggested that WCNI can aid other school organizations by providing airtime for publicity.

As WCNI enters its fourth season on the air, its staff looks forward to changes in the area of programming. One major innovation, said Kristi Guadry '68, vice president of WCNI, will be the introduction of male disc jockeys, in an exchange program with Yale’s radio station.

There are also plans for a program featuring Connecticut College graduate psychology students. Shakespeare and Hootenannies Concerning changes in program content, Kristi said WCNI plans to install several five position receivers on the air, broadcasts of Shakespearean record-ings in conjunction with course assignments and a recorded hootenanny, including folk music, folk blues and blues, with prominent performers in each field.

Other changes will be made in the area of organization. A schedule of programs will be published, Kristi said, and shows feature a certain type of music will be broadcast at a specific time.

Library Hoards Lock & Key: “Lady Chatterley” Caged

by Naomai Fatt

There are three copies of Lady Chatterley’s Lover by D. H. Law-rence in Palmer Library. One of the copies is a very early one given to the library by a trustee of the College, one is a rare copy; and the third is a circulating copy.

All these copies are found in The Cage. "The Cage," is that section of the library reserved pri-marily for rare and unusual books. Such an area is found in most college and university libraries. Its prime purpose is to enable the library to give greater protection and care to irreplaceable and valu-able manuscripts.

The book entitled in "The Cage" may be signed out only for a few hours, used only in the library, and are locked away after each user is finished with them. Miss Hazel A. Johnson, Libra-rarian, with the rank of professor, stated that Lady Chatterley’s Lover is confined to "The Cage," because copies of the book "have been taken in the past."

One Copy to Circulate

She pointed out that, "To circu-late from The Cage" is printed on the catalogue card of certain books in process.

Any of the few scarce books which have been placed for protection in "The Cage" may be circulated if the reader is willing to sign her name on the card.

We are not trying to esser what you students read," she com-mented, "but we cannot afford to be continually replacing certain books."

Another librarian added that at least four copies of The Kinsey Report, now also in "The Cage," have been taken, and are replaced.

"All you have to do is ask," Miss Johnson continued, in order to see if a book found in "The Cage" can be signed out of the library.

Not all of the books from "The Cage" are irreplaceable, however; are labeled "to circulate from The Cage."

Few Circulating

The number of circulating books confined to "The Cage" is small. For this reason, a list has not been compiled of those books which may be removed from "The Cage." According to Miss Johnson, such a list is unnecessary.

May I then take out the circulating copy of Lady Chatterley’s Lover?" queried this reporter.

"But, of course," replied Miss Johnson, who personally checked the book for her at the desk, adding, "but before writing the student’s name to it as a cir-culating copy."

Last spring a librarian had re-plied firmly to a sympathetic pa-tient by saying that students had damaged and stolen the books in the past and that Lady Chatt-erley’s Lover could not, therefore, be removed from the library.

This year, as Miss Johnson emphasized, "All you have to do is ask."
Puncture Process Painless, Says Surviving Blood Donor

by Kathy Spendlove

"Drink your grapefruit juice and don't look at that wilted kid under the pink blanket."

This was the advice given to me by another blood donor as I stood in the A.A. room in the pre-blurbing, pre-Shakespeare-taking, late laughing and chatting similarly, a tired bundle of ears and eyes. It's amazing how many friends one can make in the pre-blurbing, temperature-taking line. The most popular of all is the girl two seats ahead of me who had given Blood before. All the anecdotes of her last visit's yield to the friendly campus blood bank are real, and the captive audience of novice donors eagerly smile at her confidence.

There were many interesting sights in the Student Lounge to prevent boredom while waiting. There were people lying on tables, and nurses running back and forth with various tables and the little bottles with that made a pint and a half more than the usual bottle image in my mind. At the end of the row of tables was a corner of the room formally concealed by a white curtain. A very little place to fall asleep, probably. A real booster for those waiting in line.

Then there was the refreshment table—no punch bowl, no fresh-cut flowers, but party favors for everyone: a little red plastic pin shaped in the image of a drop of blood. One girl in line with me looked over at the table and said, "We should have checked out the names before coming to this party and paying the admission price."

The line became shorter and shorter, and the boxes in the corner, waiting passersby. Then we all went on our way, the nurses were poking our arms looking for a likely point of attack.

This story has an anticlimactic ending: there is no pain in giving blood other than waiting in line before it, and finding out after that they are not all out of funs fish sandwiches. And the only other problem of waiting is the imagination, after seeing a white curtain, trying to figure out what state the person is who is hidden behind the White Curtain. At least the curtain is raised. It's amazing how many friends one can make in the pre-Shakespeare-taking line. But the kid under the pink blanket: the Red Cross, that surreal army of arm-stabbers marching forth on white uniforms, and then imagining, after seeing a wilted from neglected small scratches, that was filling out student health cards. And in a weak moment, finding one's mind.

Dr. Helen Ferguson
Staff Photo by Marjie Dressler

In a brief but informative interview, Dr. Helen Ferguson, the new physician in residence, discussed her impressions of the purpose and policies of the infirmary. Regarding to prevention as "the principal purpose of medicine," she admitted that the common cold in its multiform variety still presents the greatest problems. The infirmary can readily relieve the discomforts of colds and discourage the cold "patrons" but offers cure only for distinguishable ailments such as strep, scarlet fever, pellagra and the like.

Dr. Ferguson estimates that our infirmary is "better equipped than many, perhaps 90% equipped proportionately to the students we are responsible for." She recognizes the "necessity for the infirmary to handle 100% of a student's health during her college life" to prevent the loss of academic time when a student knows the community medical treatment.

"I want to see people well and happy" were her cheery words of summary.

Common Cold Still Greatest Problem, Says Dr. Ferguson

By Dr. Helen Ferguson

"I want to see people well and happy," were her cheery words of summary.

"We should have checked out the names before coming to this party and paying the admission price."
VESPERS

The Rev. Gordon P. Wiles, professor of religion and department chairman, will speak at Vespers on Tuesday, October 25 at 7:00 p.m.

James H. Willsom, instructor in French, is looking for student volunteers for a project which will essentially lead to the establishment of a permanent French pronunciation clinic on campus. In announcing his plans last week, Mr. Willsom said participants will have the opportunity to improve their own French pronunciation while adding a worthwhile cause.

The experiment deals with teaching remedial pronunciation of the French "e", "t", and "r" to volunteers at the 201 level or above.

Separate Instruction

Instruction in pronunciation of each of the three sounds will be given separately.

"Subjects for the "e" experiments probably know whether or not they qualify for the experiment," Mr. Willsom said. Those interested in participating should send 25¢ with coupon. As an ordained clergyman of the Presbyterian Church, and a specialist in the New Testament, Mr. Willsom serves as minister in South Africa, England, and New Jersey before coming to Conn College in 1957.

From a South African native, the clergyman holds two bachelor of arts degrees, three master of arts degrees, and a theological seminary diploma. He received a B.A. and M.A. in Classics from Rhodes University, South Africa, and a B.A. and M.A. in theology from Cambridge University, England. Professor Wiles holds a second report to 305 Fanning Thursday at 7:00 p.m., at which time they will be given an aptitude test.

Those for the "t" and "r" experiments may be unaware of their problem," he continued. They may consult their instructors and then go to the test Thursday at 9 or may report to the diagnostic session any time from 7 to 9 p.m. Wednesday, October 25 at Fanning 305 to determine their eligibility for the experiment.

Faculty Welcome

Faculty members are welcome, Mr. Willsom said. The experiments will be run consecutively, allowing anyone to participate in all three.

The "e" experiment will begin Monday, October 24 and will take five to nine hours spread over a week or ten days, followed by a post-test two weeks later.

Most of the work will be done in the language lab at the participants’ convenience. One half of the volunteers will attend three fifteen-minute class sessions and one or two thirty-minute class sessions.

Class sessions will be held Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings at 9 p.m., unless the participants agree on an alternate time.

The second experiment "t" will be of similar length and will begin November 7. The third experiment will begin November 21.

Arizona U. Offers Horseshoe Course

TUSCON, ARIZ. (CPS)—Do you have an aim end you can bring to class? How about an 18-cubic foot freezer for storing horse’s feet? Well, then, instructor Zip Peterson will welcome you with open arms to his basic course in the art of shoeing the horse at the University of Arizona.

The non-credit course is being offered for the first time and has pigged the interest of horsemen country-wide, according to University officials.

Peterson, a local farrier (blacksmith) who has been a gifted horse and in hoof therapy, completed his work in farrier training at Michigan State University. He will cover the structure, care and proper maintenance of the animal’s hoof.

Horse’s hooves are in abundant supply, but the search for a freezer in which to store them goes on. As does the search for avid learners.

Compliments of SEIFFER'S BAKERY

225 Bank St
TUSCAN, ARIZ. 443-8008

SEIFFERT'S BAKERY

You're sure of yourself when you have Bidette. Here is a soft, safe cloth, moistened with soothing lotion, that is convenient, sanitary and reusable. Each half sheet is disposable—Bidette in the new easy-to-open fanfolded towelettes ... at your drug store.

Bidette. Here is a soft, safe cloth, premoistened with soothing lotion, that is convenient, sanitary and reusable. Each half sheet is disposable—Bidette in the new easy-to-open fanfolded towelettes ... at your drug store.