Students working on infected Macintosh terminals

'SCORES' Virus Plagues Macintosh
Computer Systems Campus-wide

by Alexandra Silret
The College Voice

Macintosh computer systems all over the Connecticut College campus have been infected by an invisible "virus." A "virus" is an extra-piece of programming that attaches itself to programs so that files are not readable and then regenerates itself onto other programs.

Viruses have spread all over the country due to their easy transmission, according to Tom Mokofiske, director of academic computing. A student will take an infected program disk into the computer lab and the machine will "catch" the virus.
"Students will take a clean disk to the lab, get it infected, then take it back to their machine and infect [their machine]," said Mokofiske. "It really works like an extremely contagious virus.

The virus on campus, "SCORES," will attach itself only to system and application or program software. Data files cannot transmit the virus, but the virus can make data files disappear, according to Mokofiske.

Experts have hypothesized that
SCORES was written maliciously
by a disgruntled Apple employee, according to the September 26 is-tion of Time magazine.

The New York Times recently reported that Donald Gene Burleson, a resident of Fort Worth, Texas, was convicted of "harmful access to a computer" after having deleted 168,000 of his former employers' payroll records.

"We're not sure how it came to Connecticut College," said Gregg
Trellemage, academic computing specialist. "Someone probably

See 'Virus' p.4

Fireside Forum at Abbey House Focuses on Toxic Waste

by Warren Cohen
Senior Editor

On Thursday night, September
22, approximately 60 people crowded into the Abbey House living room to attend a fireside forum about the hazards of toxic waste in the New London/Groton environment.

The forum was designed to convey information as a precursor to the public awareness rally planned for Saturday, September
23. Four community activists, Dr.
Ed McDermott, Dan Curlaoed, Wall
Matthews and Maureen

Cavenaugh, and Connecticut
College biology professor Dr.
William Niering were the featured speakers.

The focus of the presentation was to address the potential health threats that are caused by industries' waste sites in the area.
"We want to be good neighbors with industry and have good relations," said Matthews.

However in July 1987, Pfizer spilled 2,000 pounds of toxic waste into the river and didn't tell us until January 1988. True, it was legal to do it, but what about having the courtesy to tell us?"

The issue of cyanide being dumped into the river was raised as well. Niering said, "80 percent of the material is insoluble and inactive. The other 20 percent is a con-

McDermott added, "It was legal under the state D.E.P., [Department of Environmental Protection]standard of 2 parts per million. But it is impossible to measure that small an amount and claim it not hazardous."

A recurring theme was the need for more care and control over the disposal of waste materials. The

See Forum p.4

Page 4
NEWS

Page 6
FEATURES

Page 9
N. L. FOCUS

Page 12
SPORTS

INDEX
Acts of Political Sabotage on Campus

Letter to the Editor:
The current presidential election has witnessed a record number of attacks, mauling and chest-pounding by the Republican nominee. Things here at Connecticut College seem to be no different. The Young Democrats held their first meeting Monday night in Windham and we placed many signs up around campus to let people know about our organization and activities. Many of these signs were defaced or torn down but the most disturbing event was a childish practical joke played by most likely an equally childish (or Quayle-like) Republican. On the downtown Windham dormitory, our meeting site, someone had hung signs that said the location had been changed to Hamilton (the furthest location from Windham) when it had not.

Luckily we were able to remove these signs to prevent a potential problem but the memory of the prank still remains. One has to wonder why someone has to attempt to sabotage our meeting just because they do not agree with our candidates. Could it be because the College Republicans (who did not show up at club night) have yet to hold a meeting and that in the past their only purpose has been to praise a man who cannot remember if he traded arms to Iran and another man who cannot remember the correct month which began the war he fought? As we feel most people will remember the past eight years of ReaganBush and will want to reverse competence back in Washington.

We welcome debates and participate with our conservative brethren but we do not appreciate the attempts of their followers to censor our message. We are not only here to help Master Dukakis and Bentsen win but we are also here to inform the college community to important issues which concern everyone. By sabotaging our meetings people are depriving themselves and others of an opportunity to act.

Finally a word about democracy and our conversation with the conservative brethren but we do not appreciate the attempts of their followers to censor our message. We are not only here to help Master Dukakis and Bentsen win but we are also here to inform the college community to important issues which concern everyone. By sabotaging our meetings people are depriving themselves and others of an opportunity to act.

Sincerely,
David Steele Ewing '89
Vice President Young Democrats

Respect the Campus
Letter to the Editor:
Let's talk about how happy I was to have my father visit me this weekend. He has not seen this campus since I was a high school senior. When he did, we came up as a family to "check it out" and see if it would be the "school" for me. My father lives in New York City, so far he came to "the country" was a real treat. He kept remarking how beautiful this campus is. "Oh it's so relaxing and tranquil" he said to me. I responded with a hearty, "Yes, yes, the beautiful grounds of Connecticut College." I'm glad you won't be here tomorrow!"

Now I am not cruel and did not think this because I do not like my father. It is because I am aware of how disgusting this campus gets every weekend. I wake up on Saturday morning to be greeted by a poodle of beer in front of my door, the familiar mess of beer cans, bottles, and empty pizza boxes in the hall, and the bathrooms that appear as if an army had used them. When I had readied myself for brunch, I step outside my dorm onto the grounds of a campus that looks worse than New York City streets. Toilet paper hangs from the trees, broken glass bottles litter the grounds, cigarette butts are scattered everywhere, trash bags are everywhere, who is watching an athletic event,ROUTE, Harkness green, and garbage cans ripped out of there, have their refuse dumped over to the street.

The question is not "who do you think is going to pick it up?", but rather "why do you let it be pick up?" Everyone wants excitement. Monday when the staff comes back. I am sure the staff dreads seeing the destruction the students have done over the weekend; this campus is appalling to see. Isn't it about time you were considerate to the environment, the staff, and those who enjoy the beauty of this campus?

Peter Scott '90

---

STUDENTS: Exercise Your Right to Vote!

Letter to the Editor:
In a democracy, the most important public office is that of citizen. In the statement by Justice Brandeis is true, don't there are a lot of citizens falling down on the job. Many of them are young people who can't be bothered to register and vote. Most 18 to 25 year-old's citizens fail to participate in our democracy when it counts—on election day.

You exercise your minds in the classroom. You exercise your muscles in the gymnasiums and on the playing fields. I challenge you to exercise what may the most under-exercised thing you have your CITIZENSHIP.

All over this land, students are talking about the presidential candidates. All over this land, students will pass up their chance to VOTE for a presidential candidate.

Don't tell me you don't like any of the candidates. Life seldom offers easy, clear choices.

Don't tell me you just have one vote. You have one voice, but you use that, don't you? Your opinions are worth voicing, they are worth voting.

Remember, Parking in an act of self assertion. Don't wimp out, ASSERT YOURSELF by exercising your right to vote. But you have to be registered first.

Registration in Connecticut ends on October 18th. Check your town Clerk or Registrars of Voters to find out when and where to register. There might be a registration session on your campus!

Julia H. Hashlan
Secretary of the State

---

THE COLLEGE VOICE

Brian T. Field
Publisher
Peter J. Falconer
Editor-in-Chief (Newspaper)
Alessandra Stoddard
Editor-in-Chief (Magazine)
Geoffory K. Wagg
Executive Director, Fund
Rick Komarow
Sports Editor
Jonathan Shabrohm
Features Editor
Lisa Allerdings
News Editor
Waren Collier
Managing Editor
Peter J. Falconer Publisher
William F. Walter (Editor-in-Chief Emeritus)
Lisa Chalk
Associate Publisher

STUDENTS:
Exercise Your Right to Vote!

Letter to the Editor:
In a democracy, the most important public office is that of citizen. In the statement by Justice Brandeis is true, don't there are a lot of citizens falling down on the job. Many of them are young people who can't be bothered to register and vote. Most 18 to 25 year-old's citizens fail to participate in our democracy when it counts—on election day.

You exercise your minds in the classroom. You exercise your muscles in the gymnasiums and on the playing fields. I challenge you to exercise what may the most under-exercised thing you have your CITIZENSHIP.

All over this land, students are talking about the presidential candidates. All over this land, students will pass up their chance to VOTE for a presidential candidate.

Don't tell me you don't like any of the candidates. Life seldom offers easy, clear choices.

Don't tell me you just have one vote. You have one voice, but you use that, don't you? Your opinions are worth voicing, they are worth voting.

Remember, Parking in an act of self assertion. Don't wimp out, ASSERT YOURSELF by exercising your right to vote. But you have to be registered first.

Registration in Connecticut ends on October 18th. Check your town Clerk or Registrars of Voters to find out when and where to register. There might be a registration session on your campus!

Julia H. Hashlan
Secretary of the State

---

OUR COMMUNITY: WHY BOTHER?

This past Saturday, area residents convened in Groton for an informational demonstration to educate the public about the dangerous chemicals that Thames river companies such as Pfizer and Electric Boat are daily pumping into the air and water. Under the direction of Citizens Against Pollution led by Dan Curfand and Wall Mathews, the protest was insti-ted to rally the community together and join forces to initiate an investigative program to test the current combined toxin levels of the riverside companies. Although there was a verbal media blitz on this campus (posters, table-cards, PAs and news broadcasts on our campus radio station WCNI, and articles in the Voice) the support shown by Conni at the rally was pathetic.

Considering that the issue involved is one of personal and community health; considering that information was disseminated on campus about the rally; and considering that this school has an undergraduate enrollment of approximately 1600, this weekend's turnout (of at least 30 Conni students) was especially poor. What kind of a reflection is this of our College?

Perhaps it is an accurate reflection. Perhaps the majority of students enrolled here are as disinterested as they would have the community believe.

Last spring when a rally was held to protest Conn's holdings in South Africa, hardly ten percent of the community showed up. Even if half of the campus was adamantly opposed to divestment, there would still be 800 students who might have attended; only about 160 appeared, if that.

Last weekend's protest, wasn't even as strongly a politicized issue: we are all in danger of being exposed to the toxins; we must consider what threat this is to our health. Even after theillonish in this, relatively few students even bothered; the problem seems to be an atitudinal one; only about 1 per cent of the student body responded.

Sometimes we students wonder why our surrounding community does not lovingly embrace us we speculate why we are regarded so coolly. Perhaps it is only because this is the image we project: preppy college kids who can't give a damn about what goes on in the community around them.

Are we willing to change, or do most of us even care?
The Presidential Campaign of 1990: Will it Shape Up or Fizzle out?

by Frederika BroolItld

CONNTHOUGHT columns are the opinions of the authors and do not necessarily reflect the views of the College Voice or any of its other publications.

The candidates should be challenging each other on crucial issues of our future, will best equip us for the decision.

Presidential campaign thus far. Bush and Dukakis have had trouble differentiating their platforms, and those issues which are true and should be for ever banished from the political arena. Are we to determine the political views and positions of these presidential candidates on such non-issues as the pledge of allegiance and which candidate can deliver the most vicious one liners? I hope not.

Wishing to keep myself au courant of the campaign, I have tried to sort through the multitude of articles on the candidates to form some sort of basis on which I can determine my vote. I am having difficulty. What sticks foremost in my mind are the ridiculous attacks Bush and Dukakis are en-gaging in. Bush attacks Dukakis for not being patriotic, Dukakis refutes the charge stating that Bush is anti-constitutionalist. My favorite line as of yet is one Bush delivered two weeks ago claiming that Dukakis "thought a naval exercise is something you find in a Jane Fonda work-out book." PLEASE!

The candidates should be chal-lenging each other on crucial issues such as the environment, education, defense, foreign policy, and the deficit. These are the questions that need to be addressed as we enter the 1990's. Where do the candidates stand on these issues?

Let's take the environment; Bush claims that he is an environmentalist, his record states something different. Under Reagan's administration the Environmental Protection Agency has become in-creasingly lax in the enforcement of certain regulations. Auto emission standards have been re-laxed and clean and air and water laws have been neglected. In order to decrease the amount of CO2 escap-ing into our atmosphere it is neces-sary to reduce the burning of fossil fuels, that oil consumption must be curbed. It does not seem likely that Bush will put a leash on the oil industry or the nation's consump-tive habits. In fact, Bush is exploring new growth in the area by en-dorsing the exploitation of the Am-erican Wildlife Range. How-ever, Bush does support the nuclear option which is fundamental if we are to decrease the use of coal and oil.

What are his proposals? Bush claims that he wants to tackle the issue of the deficit by promoting an increase in the use of nuclear en-ergy. He wants to halt ocean dump-ing by 1991 and strengthen the superfund programs to clean up toxic waste. He is also planning to provide a worldwide conference on the environment to be held at the White House. Very good Mr. Bush, what about Mr. Dukakis?

Dukakis pledges a national policy which emphasizes cleaner fuels, such as natural gas, methanol and ethanol. He also proposes to tackle the explosive growth issue. Although proclaiming to be a strong proponent of environmental protection Dukakis has much to claim for fame. As Gover-nor of Massachusetts he has inad-equately funded some of his envi-ronmental programs. In the Am-erican conflict he tends to side with busi-ness, and he has not always proved to be resourceful or adept at per-suading qualified people to appointed positions. The Boston Harbor, notorious for its dirty condition, has long needed attention. Why did the candidate who musters the most support for this cause and who is able to convey its import to the population will be seen as the one who has a substantial contribution to make to our future.

Our next President will lead us into a new decade, a decade which will require a re-evaluation of our present direction. Let us hope we hear more substantive platforms from the candidates, statements that contain information that will help us formulate an educated opin-ion on which we may base our vote.

The next president will play a crucial role in determining the condition of our national debt. Time is an enormous factor, this issue can be put off no longer. The vast amount of preventative further de-struction can run into the billions and the complex issue of solving the dilemma will by no means be easy. The new President who musters the most support for this cause and who is able to convey its importance to the populous will be seen as the one who has a substantial contribution to make to our future.

The next President will lead us into a new decade, a decade which will require a re-evaluation of our present direction. Let us hope we hear more substantive platforms from the candidates, statements that contain information that will help us formulate an educated opinion on which we may base our vote.

It should not be necessary to have to delve through all the stories reporting the boring and worthless trivi-als which we may have our vote. It should not be necessary to have to delve through all the stories reporting the boring and worthless trivi-als which we may have our vote.

How much further poverty could Bush slide us into? A lifetime of work for a social security check, a lifetime of work for a social security check. I hope not.

Our next President will lead us into a new decade, a decade which will require a re-evaluation of our present direction. Let us hope we hear more substantive platforms from the candidates, statements that contain information that will help us formulate an educated opinion on which we may base our vote.

The next President will play a crucial role in determining the condition of our national debt. Time is an enormous factor, this issue can be put off no longer. The vast amount of preventative further de-struction can run into the billions and the complex issue of solving the dilemma will by no means be easy. The new President who musters the most support for this cause and who is able to convey its importance to the populous will be seen as the one who has a substantial contribution to make to our future.

The next President will lead us into a new decade, a decade which will require a re-evaluation of our present direction. Let us hope we hear more substantive platforms from the candidates, statements that contain information that will help us formulate an educated opinion on which we may base our vote.

The next President will play a crucial role in determining the condition of our national debt. Time is an enormous factor, this issue can be put off no longer. The vast amount of preventative further de-struction can run into the billions and the complex issue of solving the dilemma will by no means be easy. The new President who musters the most support for this cause and who is able to convey its importance to the populous will be seen as the one who has a substantial contribution to make to our future.

The next President will lead us into a new decade, a decade which will require a re-evaluation of our present direction. Let us hope we hear more substantive platforms from the candidates, statements that contain information that will help us formulate an educated opinion on which we may base our vote.

The next President will play a crucial role in determining the condition of our national debt. Time is an enormous factor, this issue can be put off no longer. The vast amount of preventative further de-struction can run into the billions and the complex issue of solving the dilemma will by no means be easy. The new President who musters the most support for this cause and who is able to convey its importance to the populous will be seen as the one who has a substantial contribution to make to our future.

The next President will lead us into a new decade, a decade which will require a re-evaluation of our present direction. Let us hope we hear more substantive platforms from the candidates, statements that contain information that will help us formulate an educated opinion on which we may base our vote.

The next President will play a crucial role in determining the condition of our national debt. Time is an enormous factor, this issue can be put off no longer. The vast amount of preventative further de-struction can run into the billions and the complex issue of solving the dilemma will by no means be easy. The new President who musters the most support for this cause and who is able to convey its importance to the populous will be seen as the one who has a substantial contribution to make to our future.
Contagious' Virus Attacks Macintosh Computers

At first, the Office of Academic Computing thought the computer’s problems were caused by the new Macintosh operating system (OS). When it was confirmed that the OS was not the cause of the problems, the hardware was blamed.

"We weren't suspecting a virus," said Makofske. "A student, Roger Placer, wrote us a note. He thought our problems looked like they were caused by a virus. Jon Severn, '90, and Leon Dunklin, '90, then contributed two 'virus killers', KIBSOSUS and Ferre. Three more students, Jon Kozi, '91, Warren Cohen, '89, and Chandra Lantz, '91, spent a lot of extra hours cleaning the labs and we're very grateful to them." Students who fear that their machine is infected are advised to consult the computer center. The center has an Apple program, VIS-X, that can determine whether or not you have "SCORES".

The best way to avoid catching this virus, according to TeHeneppe, is to use or make back-up copies of all of your original program disks and delete the infected files. Do not "pirate" or copy programs from disks. TeHeneppe said that "as long as you're not copying software, you can't pass the virus.

Makofske stressed that people "should be sure your disks are clean before using the campus computers."

The Academic Computing Department is concerned that the virus will be on campus for some time. TeHeneppe feels that Concentric College is "going to have waves of infections. With just one virus, do it. Not mixed. But as an individual in a group, you can try to change things. In the latest permit application for the bigger water treatment facility center, we managed to have it written down in the permit that no radioactive waste will be allowed in the system. Also, we require a minimum amount of the wastewater.

"They check the toxic waste once a year. How about checking it every week?" said Matthews. "It's the only thing that can make the people of Groton/New London Area feel confident in their environment."

McDermott felt that some of the people who oppose the permit should be "the only ones who are interested in the permit. It was done by our delegation to the state. We want to keep our community safe." Matthews added, "We want to keep our community safe."

The discussion also mentioned the purposes of the Saturday rally. "We felt that there was an awareness gap over the information," said Matthews. "(The rally) was not a tomato throwing session. Fisher and the student body were asked to participate, but declined." McDermott added, "(The rally) was not a tomato throwing session. Fisher and the student body were asked to participate, but declined."

The discussion also mentioned the purposes of the Saturday rally. "We felt that there was an awareness gap over the information," said Matthews. "(The rally) was not a tomato throwing session. Fisher and the student body were asked to participate, but declined."

Committee Discusses Current Lack of Funds OVCs

President Sam Botturn revealed that a grant for OVCs did not come through, and therefore OVCs have a "short-term issue" to find funds to keep the organization going.

"The organization, which provides services for the people of New London, such as the Great Hunger Cleanup, the Oxfam Fast, and a tutorial program for the academic program of the students of New London, is now seeking $4,000 to $5,000 to stay afloat, according to volunteer Debbie Seigler. Seigler noted another problem of the lack of full-time staff working for OVCs. "It's difficult to have no full-time staff," she acknowledged. "We need a full-time secretarial staff."

Trustee Jay Levin called the OVCs problem a "critical situation. It would be a sin if this project, the only on-going connection between the students and the city of New London were to be ended," Levin offered a solution of talking to local businesses, after indicating that he felt the United Way, Coast Guard Academy, and Naval Submarine School would be of little to help.

Sarah Moulton, a volunteer who had been involved in the Great Hunger Cleanup, said that OVCs "needs to want, but help, we can't continue without finding support."
The focus of this week’s SGA meeting, along with committee elections, was the funding shortage in the Office of Volunteer Services (OVCS). Barbara Trodée, director of OVCS, and several volunteers educated SGA on the plight of the OVCS budget.

“In a nutshell, we’ve been dealing with a short-term shortage of funds in OVCS,” said Sam Bottom, ’89, president of SGA.

According to Bottom, the issue of short-term funding for OVCS has been raised with Robert L. Hampton, dean of the college, and Claire Gaudiani, president of the college. The administration is currently supporting OVCS in seeking ‘ soft’ money or donations from outside sources.

Trodée, who has been director of OVCS for four years, said that the high number of student volunteers (90% last year) and the number of programs in which OVCS participates will have to be cut down within the month unless funding is received quickly.

“President Ames dedicated this college to community service and the students are interested in volunteering, but with this number of students it’s basically impossible to continue,” said Trodée.

Trodée cited several instances where OVCS at Connecticut College has been recognized nationally for its excellence in volunteer services. For example, a senate committee studying elementary school tutorial programs has found the T-Triple Tutorial program to be the best of its kind in the nation.

“Working as a volunteer is a practical application of what you learn in the classroom,” said Trodée.

According to Bottom, OVCS will continue to exist regardless of the funding problems, the question is to what degree it will continue to provide programs. At this time the action board of the OVCS is looking for emergency funding from area chaplains, the United Way and other such organizations. They are expected to have completed their search by the end of next week.

Another key issue brought to the Assembly floor by Jay Ackerman, ’89, house senator of Harkness dormitory, was that of dormitory responsibility for damages done outside of the building. According to Ackerman, two stone statues that were to be used in the rebuilding of the wall at the backend of Harkness were stolen and two more were broken. Consequently, Harkness dormitory was billed $600.00 by the college.

“I’m questioning the fact that we’re being billed for damages not done inside the dorm,” said Ackerman.

Other business at the meeting included approval of the freshmen voting schedule by vote of acclamation and the acceptance of Peter Scott, ’90, as computerization/graphics editor for the SGA newsletter.

Committee elections continued as well. Committees voted on included the Election Board Committee, the Residential Life Committee, the Public Relations Committee, the Bookshop and Library Committee, and the Study Away Committee.

Some of the eight committees to be voted on next week are the Constitution Committee, the Lectures and Monograph Committee, the Counseling Services Committee, and the Interdisciplinary Majors Committee.

Business for next week’s meeting will also include an update on the OVCS budget situation.

Ocean Pizza Palace

Serving the greater New London area since 1962

• Greek Salads
• Mousaka
• Seafood
• Spaghetti
• Pizza
• Hot Oven Grinders

We give 1 free with every order of 4
We now serve your favorite wine & beer

20% OFF WITH COLLEGE

443-0870

88 Ocean Ave., New London

Connecticut College Participates in Russian Exchange

The contacts these two men made while in the Soviet Union served as the basis for the formation of the student exchange with the Soviets. Swarthmore College and Sarah Lawrence College were instrumental in negotiating the basic arrangements for the consortium. Last October, 24 colleges were invited to send representatives to Middlebury to participate in the three-week orientation. Francis Johnson, dean of the faculty, represented Connecticut College at the consortium. “I am enthusiastic,” Johnson said. “It represents a very local expression of the renewed openness with the Soviet Union, which we have the wonderful opportunity of experiencing first-hand.”

The contacts these two men made while in the Soviet Union served as the basis for the formation of the student exchange with the Soviets. Swarthmore College and Sarah Lawrence College were instrumental in negotiating the basic arrangements for the consortium. Last October, 24 colleges were invited to send representatives to Middlebury to participate in the three-week orientation. Francis Johnson, dean of the faculty, represented Connecticut College at the consortium. “I am enthusiastic,” Johnson said. “It represents a very local expression of the renewed openness with the Soviet Union, which we have the wonderful opportunity of experiencing first-hand.”

Maek Vesik and Dennis Kovalev are the two Soviet students at Connecticut College. Vesik is from Estonia and Kovalev is from Moscow. A typical day for Kovalev and Vesik during their orientation at Middlebury included lectures in English, computer science, and aspects of American culture such as the presidential election process, economics, and history. Also scheduled for the exchange students were trips into the New England countryside every weekend.

Robert Hampton, dean of the college, who is concerned with the activities of all exchange students at Connecticut, said, “It’s a shake-down cruise; there are some bugs but I think it will be very successful in reducing existing barriers between the U.S. and Soviet Union.”

The Judiciary Board Trial Log for the Semester Ending May, 1988: N. Jansen Calamita, Chairman

Paul Hyde, Chairman

Case XIII

Charge: Social breach of the Honor Code in the form of violation of quiet hours and harassment.

Description: A student violated special quiet hours imposed on him or her through a house council hearing. After being told to turn down the music, the student threatened the individual.

Decision: Guilty of violating quiet hours (5-1); guilty of harassment (4-2).

Recommendation: The Board recommended one year of Social Probation and denial of participation in the Special Events for the remainder of their time at Connecticut College.

Reason: “The Board finds that any threat of violence constitutes intimidation and thus was a form of harassment. The recommendation was drawn from this incident and past records of similar incidents in dormitory Honor Code violations.

Case XIV

Charge: Academic breach of the Honor Code in the form of cheating.

Description: A professor turned in two students’ essays which were identical. The students were asked not to collaborate in the writing of the term.

Decision: Guilty (6-0).

Recommendation: The Board recommended that the student receive a “F” on their essays and be allowed to rewrite them and that final grade be the average of the two.

Reason: The students had prepared their own essays ahead of time, but copied each other’s down prior to the exam to ensure that they each had complete essays. Each thought they were writing their own essays while taking the exam. The Board felt that the two students did not knowingly write identical essays. However the exchange of information prior to the exam constituted cheating, and therefore, the work was compromised to gain more information.

N. Jansen Calamita, Chairman (May 1988)

Case XV

Charge: Social breach of the Honor Code in the form of misuse of I.D. and harassment.

Description: A student was barred entrance to a dining hall as a result of a faulty I.D. When the student was refused he became verbally abusive.

Decision: Not guilty of misuse of I.D. (8-0); guilty of harassment (8-0).

Recommendation: The student was made to write letters of apology to be involved parties and to complete five work hours with Food Services.

Reason: The Board felt that the student should be made to understand the position of those verbally abused during work hours and submitting a written apology.

Case XVI

Charge: Social breach of the Honor Code in the form of violation of dormitory probation, disturbing the peace and harassment.

Description: A student refused to turn down his stereo when requested. A complaint was made to the Housedwell who referred the matter to the Board as the student was already on dormitory probation.

Decision: Not guilty of harassment (8-0); guilty of disturbing the peace (8-0); guilty of violation of dormitory probation (8-0).

Recommendation: The student was given five work hours the night of a senior party and also was given special quiet hours for the remainder of the year.
FEATURES

Inaugural Panels Bring Scholars to Connecticut

Richard W. Lyman, director of the Institute of International Studies at Stanford University and former president of the Rockefeller Foundation, will deliver the inaugural address.

Three panel discussions will take place following Lyman’s official inauguration. The first panel, “The Global Decade: The 1990s—The United States in a Global Context,” will run from 2 to 3:30 p.m. Two other panels, “Two Unique Contributions of the United States to the Global Society: Education and Philanthropy,” will run simultaneously from 4 to 5 p.m.

Lyman selected the panel topics based on his academic experience and on his belief in what he calls a “thoughtful web” of education. Her philosophy joins previously exclusive subjects like business education and the study of foreign culture and languages to prepare students for the multicultural demands of the emerging world economy.

This emphasis on international studies is a subject Gaudiani, a 17th century French literature scholar, will stress in the Connecticut College curriculum.

Gaudiani’s work prior to accepting the Connecticut College presidency places her at the leading edge of the move toward international studies. As acting associate director of the Joseph H. Lauder Institute, she was responsible for a graduate language and culture program in volving nine languages and was founder and director of the Lauder Institute’s Title VI National Resource Center in International Studies for Management, the nation’s first such center.

Recently Gaudiani accepted a post on the American Council on Education’s Commission on International Education, the American Association of Higher Education’s Board of Directors and the Modern Language Association of America’s Advisory Committee on Foreign Language Programs. Gaudiani plans to promote international studies and demonstrate how important they will be in keeping our position in the global economy.

All panel discussions are free and open to the public.

Words of the Week

A social bonni to all. In this fourth edition of our joyous column, I wish to make unmissable the function of Words of the Week. As Oatman, I will continue to unveil my favorite and scintillating words. However, I am even more interested in YOUR WORDS.

If you have a word or phrase that tickles your tongue, send it to OATMAN, Box 1878. This is a column for your participation. A robust thanks to all who have contributed already.

Lugubrious—adj. Mournful or doleful especially to a ludicrous degree.

Macabre—adj. Suggesting or concerned unduly with the horror of death; gruesome; ghastly.

The splattered innards on highway 61 outside of Beaver, Utah, was a macabre scene even for the most jaded viewers, and evoked from me a lugubrious reaction which sent tears from my tear-filled eyes.

—David Webster, ’91

Multifarious—adj. Having great diversity, made up of many parts or kinds.

“My most multifarious liquor cabinet quenches my eclectic palate on a needblind basis as I imbibe at whim.”—Oatman

ULULATE—v. To howl, howl, wail, or lament loudly.

“As the drove of schooltars saw their icon of faith appear on stage, they let out an ululation that drowned the music at their acknowledged mecca.”—Oatman

Questions get the answers they need. And volunteers like yourself get the satisfaction of a job well done. And somehow a little bit more. For free IRS training, call 1-800-444-4040.

Internal Revenue Service Campaign Newspaper AD IRS-65-1942-1 COL.

Soviet Students Pioneer Exchange Program

Soviet Exchange students Denis Kovaler and Maja Veskis, who come from Estonia, are public of the Soviet Union.

This year, for the first time, two Soviet exchange students are studying at Connecticut College: Denis Kovaler, from the Institute of Foreign Languages in Moscow, and Maja Veskis, from Tartu University in Estonia, a republic of the Soviet Union.

Denis is in his fourth year of study at the University, where he will complete five years. His concentration is on languages but he has had courses in other areas of the humanities such as political science and geography. After he finishes his education, Denis hopes to become an interpreter.

This is Denis’s first trip to the United States. He spent three weeks studying at Middlebury this summer before coming to Connecticut, and so far he has seen Burlington, Connecticut, New York, and Boston and is next on his agenda.

Denis says he decided to come to America to improve his practice, “to learn more about the country, and to meet people.”

Major differences between his big-city university and Connecticut are apparent to Denis. In Moscow, the courses one takes are specified for the entire five-year period. Also, he “attends classes from 8 am to 1 pm daily, including Saturdays.” He thinks the feeling about classes at Connecticut is “more relaxed.”

At Connecticut, Denis is taking French, international organizations, Christian tradition, and computers. He feels the Christian tradition will help him become a better interpreter by giving him insights into European and American religion.

Denis added that being a Soviet does not make him so different. “People are the same wherever you go,” he said, regardless of a country’s ideologies. He believes we all have a lot in common—after all, he listens to the Beatles, Peter Gabriel, Phil Collins and Billy Joel.

Maja Veskis, who comes from Estonia, describes her University as events and parties. “There are more shows in Moscow,” she says.

For Sale: 78 Subaru FWD, 2 dr, 4 speed, New Batt, Good winter tires, 4 good tires. Call 373-9243 Jim

Travel Sale: Sell Spring Break package tours to Caribbean FREE TRAVEL & MONEY. Great size experience and flexible hours. Call 1-800-426-7710

The Gold Souk

Margaret Adams

The police apparently lost your number. Please Call Jae-Yoo Ko at 443-0797 or Nate Nasser at 443-6212

FOR SALE:

30 Circle Ave. Groton, Ct. 06340
(203) 445-2613

11 Sea Marsh Rd. Fernandina Beach, Fl 32034
(904) 261-3020

The Gold Souk, Huntington Traffic Light

Volunteer your skills and experience to the IRS. And everyone gets something in return. Taxpayers with questions get the answers they need. And volunteers like yourself get the satisfaction of a job well done. And sometimes a little bit more. For free IRS training, call 1-800-444-4040.

And you’ll give something in return. Taxpayers with questions get the answers they need. And volunteers like yourself get the satisfaction of a job well done. And sometimes a little bit more. For free IRS training, call 1-800-444-4040.

The Gold Souk

Margaret Adams

Vice President

Did you see an hit- and-run accident?

Friday, 9/16/88 9:30 pm Williams and Huntington Traffic Light

The police apparently lost your number. Please Call Jae-Yoo Ko at 443-0797 or Nate Nasser at 443-6212

If you have a word or phrase that tickles your tongue, send it to OATMAN, Box 1878. This is a column for your participation. A robust thanks to all who have contributed already.

Lugubrious—adj. Mournful or doleful especially to a ludicrous degree.

Macabre—adj. Suggesting or concerned unduly with the horror of death; gruesome; ghastly.

The splattered innards on highway 61 outside of Beaver, Utah, was a macabre scene even for the most jaded viewers, and evoked from me a lugubrious reaction which sent tears from my tear-filled eyes.

—David Webster, ’91

Multifarious—adj. Having great diversity, made up of many parts or kinds.

“My most multifarious liquor cabinet quenches my eclectic palate on a needblind basis as I imbibe at whim.”—Oatman

Ululate—v. To howl, howl, wail, or lament loudly.

“As the drove of schooltars saw their icon of faith appear on stage, they let out an ululation that drowned the music at their acclaimed mecca.”—Oatman

Questions get the answers they need. And volunteers like yourself get the satisfaction of a job well done. And sometimes a little bit more. For free IRS training, call 1-800-444-4040.

Internal Revenue Service Campaign Newspaper AD IRS-65-1942-1 COL.

Soviet Exchange students Denis Kovaler and Maja Veskis, who come from Estonia, are public of the Soviet Union.

This year, for the first time, two Soviet exchange students are studying at Connecticut College: Denis Kovaler, from the Institute of Foreign Languages in Moscow, and Maja Veskis, from Tartu University in Estonia, a republic of the Soviet Union.

Denis is in his fourth year of study at the University, where he will complete five years. His concentration is on languages but he has had courses in other areas of the humanities such as political science and geography. After he finishes his education, Denis hopes to become an interpreter.

This is Denis’s first trip to the United States. He spent three weeks studying at Middlebury this summer before coming to Connecticut, and so far he has seen Burlington, Connecticut, New York, and Boston and is next on his agenda.

Denis says he decided to come to America to improve his practice, “to learn more about the country, and to meet people.”

Major differences between his big-city university and Connecticut are apparent to Denis. In Moscow, the courses one takes are specified for the entire five-year period. Also, he “attends classes from 8 am to 1 pm daily, including Saturdays.” He thinks the feeling about classes at Connecticut is “more relaxed.”

At Connecticut, Denis is taking French, international organizations, Christian tradition, and computers. He feels the Christian tradition will help him become a better interpreter by giving him insights into European and American religion.

Denis added that being a Soviet does not make him so different. “People are the same wherever you go,” he said, regardless of a country’s ideologies. He believes we all have a lot in common—after all, he listens to the Beatles, Peter Gabriel, Phil Collins and Billy Joel.

Maja Veskis, who comes from Estonia, describes her University as events and parties. “There are more shows in Moscow,” she says.

For Sale: 78 Subaru FWD, 2 dr, 4 speed, New Batt, Good winter tires, 4 good tires. Call 373-9243 Jim

Travel Sale: Sell Spring Break package tours to Caribbean FREE TRAVEL & MONEY. Great size experience and flexible hours. Call 1-800-426-7710

The Gold Souk, Huntington Traffic Light

Volunteer your skills and experience to the IRS. And everyone gets something in return. Taxpayers with questions get the answers they need. And volunteers like yourself get the satisfaction of a job well done. And sometimes a little bit more. For free IRS training, call 1-800-444-4040.
ZENITH INNOVATES AGAIN — WITH THE NEW BATTERY-DRIVEN SUPERSPORT™ — TO TAKE YOU FROM COLLEGE TO CAREER.

Small, lightweight, flexible and economical. Ideal for spreadsheets, word processing and more. That's the new SupersPort from Zenith Data Systems — today's leader in battery-operated portables.

FLEXIBLE COURSE SCHEDULE. Whatever your agenda, the SupersPort's modular configuration easily adapts to your computing style. With a detachable battery for easier portability. An AC adapter/recharger that plugs into any outlet. MS-DOS® to run virtually all PC/XT compatible software. And 640K RAM — expandable to 1.64MB with EMS. Plus the SupersPort comes in your choice of dual 3.5" 720K floppy drive or 20MB hard disk models. For flexible desktop performance anywhere on campus.

CARRY SOME GREAT HOURS THIS TERM. Hours of battery power, that is. For greater productivity everywhere your studies take you. Thanks to Zenith's comprehensive Intelligent Power Management — a system that lets you control how your battery power is consumed. So you won't waste valuable energy on components and peripherals not in use.

EASY COLLEGE READING. The easiest. After all, the SupersPort features Zenith's renowned dazzling backlit Supertwist LCD screen for crisp text and superior readability. And its CRT-size display is one-third larger than most competing portables for enhanced viewing. The screen even tilts back 180-degrees so it lies flat to accommodate a desktop monitor.

TO CATCH THE NEW SUPERSPORT PORTABLE PC AT A SPECIAL STUDENT PRICE, VISIT YOUR ZENITH DATA SYSTEMS CAMPUS CONTACT TODAY:

PC XT is a registered trademark of IBM Corp. MS-DOS is a registered trademark of Microsoft Corp. Special pricing offer good only on purchases directly through Zenith Contact(s) listed above by students, faculty and staff for their own use. No other discounts apply. Limit one portable personal computer per individual in any 12-month period. Prices subject to change without notice.

© 1989 Zenith Data Systems
WCNI 91.1 Fall Schedule

Request Line - 447-7630 or 447-7631

Station Manager - Cameron Mackenzie
Program Director - Tim Heap
Publicity/Promotions Director - Jennifer Leimgruber
Treasurer - Adam Ferrari
Music Director - Blair Loughrey
News Director - John Howard
Public Affairs Director - Scott Jefferson
Technical/Productions Director - Tim Ziegler

12-3 a.m.
Darrin Arremony
An eclectic variety of music expressing the high and low points of 20th century living

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Time</th>
<th>Day</th>
<th>Monday</th>
<th>Tuesday</th>
<th>Wednesday</th>
<th>Thursday</th>
<th>Friday</th>
<th>Saturday</th>
<th>Sunday</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>12-3:</td>
<td>Storytelling</td>
<td>Groovy sounds</td>
<td>&quot;The Neo-Psychadelic&quot;</td>
<td>nighttime new</td>
<td>Eclectic Rock:</td>
<td>&quot;A collision of pop, bebop, blues and rockin' roll- all to make you spin and swoon</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6-9 a.m.</td>
<td>Darrin Arremony</td>
<td>An eclectic variety of music expressing the high and low points of 20th century living</td>
<td>Phil Klausner: &quot;Bringing It All Back Home&quot;: all types of rock and roll brought together</td>
<td>Andrea Gore and Jan Calamita: thought-rock: a cross-cultural blend of music</td>
<td>Randy Moore: &quot;Pure Mania&quot;: a hedgepodge of new and eclectic rock and roll</td>
<td>J.P. Shiver: For a subtle but smooth change of pace, tune into the &quot;Soul Kitchen&quot;</td>
<td>Liz May and Jamie Forbes: A plethora of fun, funny, flamboyant and sweet-smelling tunes</td>
<td>Benj Ruth: The Return of the Ruthless Radio Show</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>9-12 p.m.</td>
<td>Heather McGowan</td>
<td>A mix of musical styles for you to enjoy</td>
<td>The Dog: Thought-provoking rock and roll, 1960's style</td>
<td>Liza Martin: Three hours of going around the block and never getting home</td>
<td>Jason Rosenberg: playing only the most intense rock-both old punk and classic r&amp;r</td>
<td>Colin Grimsley: Hard-drivin', sharp-edged, hip stuff</td>
<td>Tod Cochran and Eric Wagner: The music never stops with Tod and Eric</td>
<td>Prof. Tim Rogers: Scenes in the city, sounds in the city</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

12-3 p.m.
Heather McGowan
A mix of musical styles for you to enjoy

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Time</th>
<th>Day</th>
<th>Monday</th>
<th>Tuesday</th>
<th>Wednesday</th>
<th>Thursday</th>
<th>Friday</th>
<th>Saturday</th>
<th>Sunday</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>3-5:30:</td>
<td>John Clark:</td>
<td>&quot;Jazz Spotlight&quot;: a program hitting the highpoints of Jazz from its beginnings</td>
<td>John Clark: &quot;Jazz Spotlight&quot;: a program hitting the highpoints of Jazz from its beginnings</td>
<td>Jennifer and Chip: Rock and Roll, some old, some new</td>
<td>Jed Bonniwell: Music from the Hearth</td>
<td>3-5:30:April Green: Progressive music and third world news and commentary 5:30-6: news</td>
<td>Sheena: An exploration of American rock and pop, hot and not</td>
<td>Rick Wrigley: Rev up your Sundays with rock and roll on the &quot;Old Wave Show&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>3-6:</td>
<td>Adam Ferrari: A new music bonanza with wide varieties of insanity 5:30-6: news</td>
<td>Adam Ferrari: A new music bonanza with wide varieties of insanity 5:30-6: news</td>
<td>Anne Castello: guitar-oriented rock and roll from rockabilly to hard core</td>
<td>Magoo and Yukon: &quot;Wackola Radio&quot; - they're in a frenzy</td>
<td>Leo Bellamy: Club 91.1 - starting out mellow, the tempo will speed up with the latest in club music</td>
<td>Malcolm Jones: The Danze Zone</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6-9 p.m.</td>
<td>Barry T.: Instrumental mind music from around the world</td>
<td>Tim McDonough: &quot;Focus on the Riddims&quot; with Rasta Tim</td>
<td>Tim McDonough: &quot;Focus on the Riddims&quot; with Rasta Tim</td>
<td>Anne Castello: guitar-oriented rock and roll from rockabilly to hard core</td>
<td>Jed Bonniwell: Music from the Hearth</td>
<td>Magoo and Yukon: &quot;Wackola Radio&quot; - they're in a frenzy</td>
<td>Leo Bellamy: Club 91.1 - starting out mellow, the tempo will speed up with the latest in club music</td>
<td>Malcolm Jones: The Danze Zone</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>9-12 a.m.</td>
<td>Tracy: music that pins you against the wall and then through it</td>
<td>Dead Air - Rock on</td>
<td>Chip Miller: &quot;Jazz and Cocktails&quot;: a continuing tradition of excellence</td>
<td>Robert Brost: &quot;Flashes from the Archives of Oblivion&quot;</td>
<td>Fred Argilagos: &quot;The Art of Jazz&quot;</td>
<td>Twisted Radio - Twisted Society equals Enlightenment</td>
<td>Jim &quot;Call me Roger&quot; Miller: &quot;Wild Kingdom&quot;- you gotta learn to roll with the bullets</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

printed courtesy of The College Voice
The river was like an ocean," said Alma Wise, New London his- torian and resident during the 1938 hurricane which ravaged the New England seaboard exactly fifty years ago last week. "Everyone was in a state of shock; no one could believe it."

The storm arrived without warn- ing at about 3:30 PM on Sept. 21. New London was one of the hard- est hit areas in Connecticut, though other states, especially Rhode Is- land which directly faces the At- lantic, were much more devas- tated. Because the Labor Day weekend had just ended, most families had already left the beach, a fact which held the loss of life surprisingly low for an event which survivors today refer to as a "holocaust."

Rains and floods swept across New London, toppling trees and destroying property. Ocean Beach, then a highly developed residential area, was all but swept away. All forms of communication and power were destroyed. Even the roads became impassable for miles because of uprooted trees blocking the way. Telegraphs-phones-trains-everything was out. "At first you couldn't contact anybody. (There was) no way to get any- where to get help!" Alma Wise.

A description of the hours just after the storm passed.

When a fire broke out in the New London commercial district and proceeded to gut the city, there was little anyone could do with the roads and highways impassable. Bank Street was quickly being destroyed and the fire dept. was ready to resort to using dynamite to slow the fire's progress, when the wind shifted suddenly and started the sparks out to sea.

Survival for New Londoners after the series of disasters became a major group effort, not just by the residents themselves, but by the whole country. Everyone who could possibly lend a hand, did.

The Red Cross and the Salva- tion Army, which have plans for disaster, were quickly organized to help with each necessity as food, clothing and shelter. The National Guard was invaluable to the cleanup, but it was the local effort that got amazing things accomplished. Sailors from the na- val base and Coast Guard Academy members worked to bring relief. Even Boy Scouts were used to carry messages in a city almost completely destroyed and the fire dept. when the pump, which car- ried the fresh water supply up the hill, broke. Thanks to a manual pump and a boy on a stationary bicycle, Connecticut College stu- dents got the water they needed. Because the telephone, railroad and power companies were sent in from all over the coun- try in the attempt to return things to normal as quickly as possible. The town was so filled with outsiders that it was hard to find spaces to live and food to go around. How- ever, within three weeks the tele- phone was in working order all over the state, and New London slowly emerged from the isolation imposed by disaster.

The physical aspects of the de- struction took about a year to clean up, including re-planting the tree-baren neighborhoods. But emo- tionally, the hurricane seemed to strengthen rather than weaken the community. According to Alma Wise: "After all, each one of us was sort of marooned. You had yourself and your neighbors to depend on. You had to share and it proved that you could."

Big Brothers and Sisters seeks Connecticut College Volunteers

by Stasi Alexander

The College Voice

Volunteer opportunities abound for students interested in becoming involved in the New London com- munity. One of the more popular volunteer jobs is Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Southeastern Connecticut.

"We require students to give 3 to 4 hours a week" said Robert Bern- stein, a representative for Big Brothers/Big Sisters at the Conneciticut College Volunteer Fair on September 9. In addition to this minimum number of hours re- quired, one year's commitment is required of all volunteers.

Once one applies, a careful ex- amination of the applicant's back- ground is undertaken. Four refer- ences are required and an extensive police search is conducted. In addi- tion, an interview is set up and, if the applicant meets standards, he or she is matched up with a Little Brother or Little Sister.

"Right now we have about fif- teen to twenty Big Brothers/Big Sisters from Connecticut College, but we really should have around forty," said Bernstein. "Once the commitment is made, they do well."

According to Bernstein, many volunteers take the kids up on the campus for the day and entertain them with walks through the Arbo- retum, swimming in the pool, and other numerous activities. If anyone is interested in becom- ing a Big Brother/Big Sister, Carolyn Geyer of Big Brothers/Big Sisters can be found every Wednesday in the Office of Volun- teers for Community Service in the basement of Harkness Chapel.
Concert Review:

An Evening with David 'James Taylor' Binder

by Eric James
The College Voice

An Evening with James Taylor. That's what the signs said. An Evening with James Taylor. And a week and a half later, I'm still wondering. It wasn't James Taylor. It was David Binder. The signs said that too. An Evening with James Taylor (played by David Binder). I see. He does covers of James Taylor songs. That sounds alright.

But... He did sound like James Taylor. Carolina on my Mind sounded like Carolina on my Mind. The same with Mockingbird. All the songs sounded good, sounded just like they do on the radio. Exactly like they do on the radio.

But... I think it's when he began to talk about James Taylor, when he began to talk about albums and tours, that I started to get nervous, started to think that something was wrong. He knew everything about him. He talked about James Taylor's relationships, his family and his drug problems with an intensity that went beyond simple admiration for the man's music.

"The man's not even dead," someone said to me.

And on we went, singing and stopping between songs to talk about "James" life. I waited for him to slip into the first person.

"I started a relationship with Carole King then—I mean James, James started a relationship with Carole King."

It didn't happen though. But standing in the crowd, watching this man on the stage, I wondered about David Binder. I wondered what he does at home. As he stands making tea or washing dishes, does he think of himself simply as David Binder, or as David Binder (playing) James Taylor, trying as hard as possible to wash the plates just like James does...

"And in 1978 James switched from Ivory to Palmolive, hoping to relieve the wear on his home."

He did sound like James Taylor.

It was David Binder. And a relatively successful New York actor working on a film location in a small South American country.

Despite colorful cinematography and some nice acting by Richard Dreyfus and Sonia Braga the film is an uncomfortable combination of light slapstick humor juxtaposed with a bleak subject matter.

Richard Dreyfus plays Jack Noah, a relatively successful New York actor working on a film location in a small South American island, Parador. He meets the corrupt, raspy voiced dictator, Simms, whom he does a successful imitation of. However, Simms soon dies of a heart attack, and the Secretary of the Interior, Roberto (Kauil Julia) convinces Jack to be Simms "double" for a few days, telling him that it will be his "best role yet". Jack takes on the role of the dictator reluctantly, but soon falls in love with Simms' mistress, Madonna Sonia Braga, and gets caught up in the growing guerrilla insurgency in the country. His role suddenly gets "too real", and he wants to leave the country.

Mazursky is wonderful in satirizing Americans and their life-styles, while still adding warmth to his characters and the story, as he did in Down and Out in Beverly Hills. Yet he runs into trouble with satirizing an American actor taking over as the dictator of a third world nation. The mixture of hand- made-down and sometimes raunchy jokes, with political subject matter that is a little "too real", makes the jokes fall completely flat.

One would expect black humor in such a film, where directors are ignorant of their country, and are merely actors. The film is successful in conveying the decadence of the ruler's lifestyle: the wealth, their corrupt, cackling cohorts, and the speeches full of lies. Yet that is all that the film attempts to show. It makes light of this situation rather than treating it darkly, thus giving the film an uncomfortable edge.

The film is so light that everything brushes over the surface. There is rarely a moment of sincere warmth, except when Madonna accepts flowers from a peasant girl. But even this gives the film a hypocritical tone. Scenes, such as when Jack and Madonna are escaping a riot in a poblado—shanty village, are resolved with slapstick gags that make everything too pat.

The end is slapped on with a supposed sense of optimism, but there is no logic to its culmination. It just "happens". The characters are all stock and run the danger of remaining in a void of two-dimensionality. When Jack sees how poorly run the country is there is little reason to remain. The film attempts to show. It makes light of this situation rather than treating it darkly, thus giving the film an uncomfortable edge.

The film is so light that everything brushes over the surface. There is rarely a moment of sincere warmth, except when Madonna accepts flowers from a peasant girl. But even this gives the film a hypocritical tone. Scenes, such as when Jack and Madonna are escaping a riot in a poblado—shanty village, are resolved with slapstick gags that make everything too pat.

The end is slapped on with a supposed sense of optimism, but there is no logic to its culmination. It just "happens". The characters are all stock and run the danger of remaining in a void of two-dimensionality. When Jack sees how poorly run the country is there is little reason to remain. The film attempts to show. It makes light of this situation rather than treating it darkly, thus giving the film an uncomfortable edge.

The film is so light that everything brushes over the surface. There is rarely a moment of sincere warmth, except when Madonna accepts flowers from a peasant girl. But even this gives the film a hypocritical tone. Scenes, such as when Jack and Madonna are escaping a riot in a poblado—shanty village, are resolved with slapstick gags that make everything too pat.

The end is slapped on with a supposed sense of optimism, but there is no logic to its culmination. It just "happens". The characters are all stock and run the danger of remaining in a void of two-dimensionality. When Jack sees how poorly run the country is there is little reason to remain. The film attempts to show. It makes light of this situation rather than treating it darkly, thus giving the film an uncomfortable edge.
Women's Field Hockey Takes Two!
by Michael Coffey
The College Voice
The Connecticut College women’s field hockey team is off to a fine start. In their first two games, they defeated Wesleyan 1-0, and then knocked off Mount Holyoke 2-1. These two early victories are putting them on track for what is shaping up to be a good season.

Saturday’s game at Wesleyan was dominated by the Lady Camels. The only goal in the contest was scored by junior Kim Kellogg at 4:30 of the first period, Kellogg put in a beautiful assist from Sarah Lingenfelter, ’90. The only problem was the team inability to further capitalize against Wesleyan, since they had 23 shots on goal.

Tuesday’s game at Mount Holyoke turned out to be another defensive battle that was dominated by Conn from start to finish. The first goal in this game was scored on a corner shot by Kellogg. It came after a good pass from Alya Tyen, ’92, who then passed it to Kellogg. The second goal was an unassisted corner shot by Erica Bon, ’92. Aside from solid goalkeeping by Davis, ’90, the Camels dominated the game, scoring two goals on a total of 13 shots.

Women's Soccer Team Start Season on a Promising Note
by Christine Receno
The College Voice
Connecticut College women’s soccer team started their season on a promising note. CONN is currently ranked 15th in New England and holds an impressive record of 2-0.

“I am extremely happy with the team this year,” said Ned Bishop, coach of the women’s soccer team. CONN defeated Amherst last Saturday (9/17) in their season opener by a score of 2-0. The first goal was scored by junior Katie Bing on a penalty kick. Marty Davis, ’91, finished out the scoring for the Camels.

Last Tuesday (9/20) CONN continued their winning ways by defeating Tufts. The winning goal was scored by freshman Diane Cheneaux.

“I am very pleased with the team,” said Bishop.

Sailing Team Places Sixth at Hood Trophy Regatta
by Melissa Burns
The College Voice
The main regatta of the weekend for the Connecticut College sailing team was sailed in light to moderate breezes on Saturday and Sunday. Held on Mystic Lake, with crews Melissa Burns, ’90, and Kristen O’Sullivan, ’91, respectively. In B division, Peter Quinn, ’90, and crew Lissette Suarez, ’90, dealt magnificently with the random wind shifts on Mystic Lake to come away with a second place in their division. Overall, CONN won sixth place for the regatta.

The Single-Handed Eliminations were held at Coast Guard this past weekend, in which Peter Eastman, ’89, Bob Puffer, ’92, and David Ryden, ’90, all sailed Lasers. Eastman had a seventh place finish, while Puffer got an 11th, Ryden was the only one to qualify, based on his outstanding third place result.

The Women’s Single-Handed, held at MIT in Technis, was sailed by Ken Coddington, ’91, Caroline Ulanter, ’92, and Alex Davis, ’89. Qualifying for the second day of racing, Handord ended up with a seventh place finish, and Coddington with a ninth place. Davis missed qualifying by two points.

“Being my first regatta, I was very pleased with the team,” said Bishop.

Intramural Update
by Jason Stewart
The College Voice
If you have become tired of seeing the Patriots get underwater on the field each week, or hearing John Madden scream “We got their seal” at the top of his lungs the place to be is Chapel Field.

Football was played this week at NBC or ABC, but a field situated between knownt Dormitory and Wills Dormitory. The games were marred with tight defenses, strong running attacks, and perfect aerial attacks. The competitiveness of the games and the players intense. This was the first week of action CONN football faced.

It all started Sunday (9/18) when the T-Men, led by Chris Cook, ’89, beat Buck ’44. Cook led four interruptions and threw two touchdown passes to Rob Carneiro, ’90, for the victory. Cook was named player of the game (POG).

Mike Moore, ’89, threw two touchdown passes including a third quarter Becker pass to Ed Reker, ’90, to give Hardin a win over Lamar, 14-7. Doug Stewart, ’90, added three kicks to help seal the win. The entire Hardin system was awarded Player of the Game status for their winning effort.

This week’s honors go to THE CONNECTICUT COLLEGE MEN’S SOCCER TEAM. The squad won its first two games of the season, defeating TUFFIES and THE COAST GUARD ACADEMY. The back to back wins marked the first time since the 1985 season that the Camels have won their first two games of the season. —Rick Komarow
SPORTS

Women's Tennis Squad Defeats
Clark, University of Rhode Island

by Vicki Hawkins
The College Voice

"It is a very inexperienced team playing very well, these girls are fighters and that's what it takes," said Sheryl Yearley, coach of the Connecticut College women's tennis team.

CONN apparently does have what it takes, as the Camels opened their season with two victories last week. 6-3 over Clark University and 5-4 over the University of Rhode Island.

Captain Sarah Hurst, '91, who returns to the team after an undefeated freshman season, contributed wins against both schools to raise her record at CONN to 24-0.

Women's Volleyball Comes away Empty Handed at NESCAC Meet

by Chris Brooks and Rick Denton
The College Voice

On Saturday, September 17, the Connecticut College women's volleyball team faced stiff competition in the NESCAC tournament and came away empty handed. Confusion was the Camels downfall in their loss to Wesleyan.

"In dual play, the number-one doubles team of Hurst and Karin Melkonian, '90, defeated their opponents at Clark as did freshmen Christina Casanova and Suzanne Larson.

"We did very well in the top part of the singles line-up. For their 24th and 25th, the doubles teams also looked strong. We have some good combinations out there," Yearley said.

"The victory over URI demanded more of a struggle, however. After the six singles matches, CONN was down 2-4. The Camels needed wins in all three doubles matches for a victory."

Men's Cross Country Falls to Wesleyan, Coast Guard

by Kelly Serleser
The College Voice

The Connecticut College men's cross-country team raced against New England powerhouse Wesleyan University and the United States Coast Guard Academy, on Saturday, September 17 at Wesleyan.

According to Coach Jim Butler, it was not an easy meet to start off with since both Wesleyan and Coast Guard reside in the upper echelon of New England running teams.

"It was an amazing comeback, a strong-willed performance by the team," said Yearley, noting that number-six singles player Natalie Rubel's, '91, win kept CONN in the match.

"In general they were two very good matches. Both URI and Clark are very competitive, comparable teams and we had to play well," Yearley said.

After jumping to a 2-0 start, the Camels face tough NESCAC competition in their upcoming matches against Trinity and Bates.

"We have to play even better against these teams, I would absolutely love to beat them and I think we can," Yearley said.

Men's Soccer Team Gains a Pair of Wins: Down Tufts, Coast Guard

by Jeff Dufilman
The College Voice

The Connecticut College men's soccer team opened its season with a pair of victories over Tufts and The Coast Guard Academy. The win marked the first time the team has won its first two games since the 1985 season. That year CONN finished with a 13-3 record.

"This year's edition bears a resemblance to the team of '85. There is a good blend of quality, experienced veterans and talented freshmen," said head coach Eric Anderson. "You never know what to expect out of games with the Coast Guard." said Bill Legrave, entering his 19th season as head coach. "It's a mental game. The records go out the window. We were successful because we were able to play our game. We didn't let them establish the tempo."

The key to establishing the tempo was an early goal by Taplin. The goal came as a result of a corner kick from Smith and a pass from Sal Blanda (90').

"Getting that first goal in any game is very big," Taplin said. "It forces the opponent to open up. They can't afford to double team Jeff Geddes and I. They need the offense."

The Coast Guard did open up their defense, but were held scoreless until late when the game was already out of reach. Junior Joe Carbe led the defense, playing an excellent game.

Early in the second half CONN would score as a result of another Smith corner kick. This time Ed Schauster, '90, headed the kick on with a time of 99:26. These two goals allowed the Camels to advance to 2-0-1. For his effort, for he showed the most improvement in the two weeks since the squad's first time trial and was able to finish a lot closer to Builder, CONN's first man.

"Newton and his allies are very competitive, comparable teams and we had to play well," Yearley said."

The Camels are looking forward to the remainder of the season with an exciting schedule that includes strong teams from the league.

"Our 1-5 split was 1:24, and our goal of 1:30 was achieved," Butler said. "Now we have to improve. We want to take those first five men and move them as a group closer to the packs of other teams."

Grundy was highly commended for his effort, for he showed the most improvement in the two weeks since the squad's first time trial and was able to finish a lot closer to Builder, CONN's first man.