ARMISTICE DAY SERVICE.

An Armistice Day service was held in the gymnasium at 11:45 on the morning of November 11th for students and their guests. The service, which was conducted by President Marshall, included two interesting addresses, one given by Dean Irene Nye, and the other by Professor Henry W. Lawrence, Jr.

Dean Nye spoke of the trial and error method which has been employed as an intellectual means to the abolition of war and the establishment of permanent peace. "In 1915, impossible," she asked, "to find out the real cause of war and then remove the cause, instead of pinning our faith to a removal of the instruments? In 1918, the German Flanders infantry in every sector of the most devilish impervious to invention new ones when he wants them? Why did generations of war rust away, because the causes of war have been removed, then is the real disarmament for which we pray?"

Professor Lawrence pointed out the dangers facing the campus in the event that democracy fails. "Today the future of civilization is at stake. Why has baffled the monarchy and the oligarchy? The question now is 'will it battle the democracy?'" If democracy fails, communism is standing, waiting for her intolerance, iniquity, insidiousness, extent of citizenship, and finally ignorance. These evils can be eliminated and the future made sure by, by our own influence for good.

The order of the service was as follows:
- Prelude—Dr. Coeine.
- Processional Hymn—"All You Saints Interpreted, Labors Rest!"
- Invitations—Professor Marshall.
- Reading of Governor’s Proclamation.
- Address—Dean Irene Nye.

SOPHOMORES HOP FIRST FORMAL DANCE OF SEASON.

The evening of November 12, saw the first formal dance of this college year—the Sophomore Hop. Not only was it the first dance but also it was the first time that the false ceiling and box-wood trees have been used. It was rather generally understood that these were to be used as foundations for further decorations, giving each class an opportunity to show its originality. The Sophomores preferred to limit theirs to a many-tiered central light and a decided innovation in having the orchestra in the middle of the floor, instead of in the corner near the stage.

The Freshmen wearlresses, under Polly Packard as the chairman of the committee, did the best possible job in charming in their varly-colored costumes with short shrugged skirts and bodices finished with ruffles off the shoulders. They made a most attractive group, around the room: perhaps too attractive, for our guests seemed to have great enthusiasm for looking attractive, for which we pray."

To Ellen McCandless, as chairman of the entertainment committee, much credit is due for the dainty refreshments and the excellent orchestra. Virginia Hyare was chairman of the decoration committee.

Those who acted as patrons and hostesses for this occasion were President and Mrs. Marshall, Dean Irene Nye, Mrs. Kip, Professor and Mrs. Lawrence, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hill Nolen. Since the stage.

A TALK ABOUT VESPERs.

When the new order of service was first introduced at Vespers the Grammar-naium was well-filled. The same can be said of the beginning of this year.
But recently there has been a noticeable falling off in the attendance at the Sunday evening service. Bare seats along the front and sides coo-

and, we shall gain in thoughtfulness

and kindness, and lack of space will doom to be a Blessing. E. A. the front and sides cootually delighted to note Service

League news, and also the splendid opportunity the college will have in helping the community to maintain a standard of concert.

Indeed, the Open Forum ought to be a most helpful innovation on campus,
with no longer question of the 公益性 of public opinion in a democracy.
Furthermore, may I express my fully approval of your attitude to-

wars disarmament and the resolution passed

FORMER C. C. FACULTY WRITES BOOK

"In the Eyes of the East" by Marjorie Barstow Greenbie, may mean just to me a book to me, and to many members of the faculty and to our alumnae

it means much more, for Mrs. Green-

bie was once a member of the English Department of Connecticut College.

The review states that "the book is a spiritual narrative of adventures
among men of all conditions and colors
politicians, head-hunters, diplomats, blonde, plums, and ladies--through which runs the thread of lovely romance. It is essentially rich detailly about the lives of Oriental women which are, necessarily, inaccessible to men travelers.

NEW DORMATORY FOR CONNECTICUT COLLEGE

A chance conversation between an alert Senior and a generous woman,
interested in the education of young people, has culminated in the gift to Connecticut College of a new dormitory.

At the suggestion of this Senior,
Mrs. G. R. Vinat, of Middletowm, learned through correspondence with President Marshall of the crowded conditions at the college. A few days ago was begun the construction of a dormitory designed to house 14 stu-
don and a member of the faculty as home Pllower. It is expected to be finished and ready for occupancy in the spring.

The building will probably bear
the name of its donor. It will be a sort of a four-story structure with many rooms. It will be centered around the idea of a single ablet, which will be open to all students who are seeking after truth, and light,
and beauty, some fair maiden,
thoughtless, mayhap, strews for many years; it will be a sort of dead, and the brain will be an ever growing and eager alumnae.

THE MENECHMI.

To all appearances, the Latin Play will be a great success. Members of the Faculty of Yale, Brown and Wesleyan colleges, as well as teachers from several preparatory schools around the state, are planning to come.

The play is unusual in that it is being given in Latin, and is one which belongs to the earliest period of Latin literature.

Plautus, the author, is supposed to have been born about 254 B.C. According to tradition he was a sailor, and lost all his property in some trading venture. As a means of earning his living, he took up some kind of mendicant position as a worker in connection with the presentation of plays at regular religious festivals at Rome. It is almost certain that he belonged to the lower classes and that he took up the writing of plays late in life. He had a remarkable knowledge of human nature, an equally remarkable flow of language, and a keen sense of humor. He produced plays which were not only popular for centuries in Rome, but have exerted a very wide influence on all European dramatic literature since his time.

FIRST MEETING OF THE FRENCH CLUB.

ALLONS ENFANTS!

The first meeting of the "Club Francaise" was held Tuesday evening, November eighth, when old and "young" members gathered together for the solemn rites of initiation. Think not, O Uneducated Outsider, that the doors of the French Club open voluntarily to the world-at-large as soon as said word can pronounce that important phrase, "Je ne sais pas." Any one of the new members will convince you that only those of superior literary and understanding are capable of entrance. Had you been there that memorable evening, you would have found a bunched crowd of prospective members waiting in the corridors, for the fatal moment when each should be led, blindfolded, through the mysterious door. The old members and resolution officers subjected each victim to a rigid inquisition, guaranteed to show up any individual who was not worthy of the great honor about to be conferred.

Following the initiation, elections were held, and Eleanor Tracy '25, was chosen treasurer. Plans for Endowment Fund entertainment were discussed, and, after some refreshments (enjoyed in French of course), the meeting was adjourned.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT MEETING HELD.

The first regular meeting of Student Government was held on Thursday evening, November tenth, and was called to order by the President. The resolution that Student Government was taken by the student body and the following announcements made:

- A special committee was urged to support the local Red Cross Drive, also the Endowment Fund Drive. Party to be held in the Mohican on November, prospectives meetings being held, and after some refreshments (enjoyed in French of course), the meeting was adjourned.
