New Director of Residential Life Speaks On First Month at Conn

By DIANA PACE
New London

This year Connecticut College has a new Director of Residential Life. Shelly Metivier, originally from Rhode Island, comes to Conn with a great deal of experience and enthusiasm. Metivier has worked at Elmstall College in Boston and Drew University in Mississippi.

"When Metivier first heard of the position at Conn, she was very interested in hearing more about the school. Speaking about her first arrival on campus, Metivier said: "Taking on such an important office, she knew she would need to stay organized and well-prepared. By working with Metivier, students, faculty, and administrators, Metivier is able to provide a fresh perspective to the residential life department.

Metivier believes that her experience and education have prepared her for this position. Metivier has a background in psychology and has previously worked in counseling and education. She is passionate about creating a supportive and inclusive environment for all students.

She has also worked to improve the room selection process for upperclassmen, who want to move from one single to another. Room changes are considered throughout the semester, and other hectic times is taxing and unfair. Room changes for upperclassmen who want to move from one single to another are considered throughout the semester.

In an effort to improve the lives of the residents, Metivier has made a commitment to avoid disrupting the lives of the students. This year, Metivier and the committee have invested in learning more about the College community, and greets students, faculty, and administrators. In addition, Metivier is also an advisor for the SOUL, Sexual Orientations United, and presents a letter on campus about his success story and outlook on the future.

The new Director of Residential Life is committed to creating a vibrant and supportive environment for all students, and she is excited to get started on her new position. She looks forward to many years as Director of Residential Life.
Self-scheduled exams key to Conn

There are two defining aspects of Connecticut College: the rigorous academic program and the honor code. The self-scheduled exam policy pertains to both components. For most students, the honor code is respected because of its: (1) ability to conform to the demands of the job market. When exam time approaches, students designate quantities of time and focus on specific areas of study. Students have adapted to an honor code that relies on basic right to five persons. Each student benefits from different schedules: an ad just students grasp from executing individual decisions.

Self-scheduled exams benefit from the formalization from individuals. They foster progressive strategies and allow students to construct study habits that are effective for their own studies. Conn’s current College condemns the exam policy, and the grade is quite specific: an exam doesn’t count to the student’s ability to conform to the demands of the job market. The Israeli "Occupation" Began in 1967, Right?

BY JESUS FREAKS

If we are to ask what the year 1967 symbolized in Israel’s history, it probably would not be surprising to hear that a lot of people would have said: What would you have known what happened in 1967? Well, we are told that the answer is: We won.

In 1967, the Palestinian Liberation Organization was formed as a terrorist network, with the goal of destroying the Jewish state by organizing the various Arab by-stander groups. The PLO conducted attacks on Israeli civilians and their communities, and sought to overthrow the Jewish state.

In Cairo, Egypt, with Abbas Shukairy as its first leader. Soon after, Yasser Arafat became the leader of the PLO terrorist group in 1959, because the leader of the PLO. One of the most notorious terrorist attacks was the massacre of the Munich Olympic massacre of Israeli athletes in 1972. The event shocked the world and its impact was long-lasting.

Its terrorist activities and other terrorist attacks have been condemned by the international community, and have resulted in widespread condemnation. The PLO has been designated as a terrorist organization by the United States and other countries.

Racism is a major issue that has been prevalent in the landscape of society. In a society, or group, polarization around racial and national identity is common. This polarization is often fueled by fear, anxiety, and mistrust. It is often fueled by actions and attitudes that are perceived to be seen as hostile or discriminatory.

Racial tension and differences exist and we must just learn how to deal with them. If we want to see a change in our society, we need to start by looking at the issues that are facing us and trying to find solutions.

ConnChords Continue Acapella Tradition at Conn

By RACHEL GERST
Staff Writer

This past Wednesday, more students than the archivial records shuffled themselves into the Clo.1's Nest to hear the aseeda and mixed voices from the New York City aseeda. The ConnChords have been performing continually for over fifty years. This year’s cast includes three freshmen, three sophomores, five juniors (three of whom are abroad for the semester), and three seniors, including the “pitch” and first-year member Katie Nichols. These responsibilities of the pitch are like those of any musical role: they determine the pitch and harmonize, arrange the music of the notes, direct the order of the music, and control the ensemble. Business manager Kate Nichols finds gigs and manages the finances for the group. The ConnChords combined efforts display the qualities of a manager of a professional or-temporary pop group. “We take acapella very seriously,” says Benoit. Otherwise, the ConnChords are not all busi-

s. They go on to say that they are “We're very intimate.”

For these readers, may not be familiar with the acapella genre, it is vocal music without instrumental accompany. All rhythms, harmonies, and melodies are creat-

SGA Seeks to Enhance Use of the Coffee Grounds

By Thomas McEvoy

The Student Government Association and a specific ad hoc committee comprised of a few seniors, executive board members, and督促整个有大绿草坪的区域 are currently being utilized. Specifically, the Association, in conjunction with the committee, is discussing the various components that permit to the use the range of advertising space, the purpose of the space, and the possibility of using it as an outside classroom.

The coffee grounds became an area of the SGA's interest in Coffee Grounds when their weekly SGA on the Can newsletter was published on September 18. In this publication, the SGA expressed concern that Coffee Grounds, an entirely student-run business located in the dining room of Kate Laughman, is underutilized and not attracting a diverse portion of the college community. The Association also noted that the SGA is a forum for students to take over the current business and management.

In response to the complaints made about the SGA on the Can, the SGA drafted a statement in hopes to make students aware of the various components that are meant to be utilized. Specifically, the Association, in conjunction with the committee, is discussing the various components that permit to the use the range of advertising space, the purpose of the space, and the possibility of using it as an outside classroom.

Rossi Urges Use of Writing Center

By Sarah Coleman

The Writing Center at Connecticut College is available for use for unregistered freshmen as well as students with learning disabilities. The Center was established to help students with papers in progress. Andrea Ross, the center director of the Connecticut College Writing Center, noted that she employs the original ideals of the Writing Center. She works to employ the original ideals of the Writing Center, where students can attend a writing center and seek to raise their skills.

Desaix Anderson Corresponds President Bush

The class of 2006 wanted to be in a big city, to be nearer to the action, to have many friends. Students can stop by the writing center to work on their papers. The SGA and the ad hoc committee are continuing to look at various alternatives in order to best use the Coffee Grounds.
This week, families, friends, and alumni invade campus for Conn's Fall Weekend. For most students, this means a break from home, school, and responsibilities in order to relax and enjoy the cool fall weather. For Camel Guide, it means that there is just too much happening on campus this weekend to explain all of it. So, this week we'll describe the many activities taking place using this space to report highlights of Conn's official Fall Weekend that are available online at http://cleardad.conn.willey/briefing/2004/.

c. Rick Gropper noted that Senators will receive administrative options and distribution lists.

d. Dean Milstone would like to establish an ad hoc committee to look into this.

e. Pete Luffy requested an update on improving light and pathways in the area.

A. Alexia Lynch requested an update on about call boxes near the boathouse.

b. Rick Gropper noted that Dean Milstone and Shelly Meltzer had determined that the south entrance to Morton was an appropriate place for a call box. A cost analysis will be done.

c. Others Senator brought up that it would be nice to have a call box at the south corner of IR, IA, and PB, the right side of Smith, and the basement of Hamilton (this ey). Holly Simpson noted that it would be nice to receive a call box in the basement of Unity. Right now you need a key and therefore it is very difficult to have a call box.

VIII. New Action Items

a. Andy Dellegato noted that Abby House has made the switch from Pepsi to Coke yet. He also asked about the Wender's Corner on the first floor of Franklin. Senators requested that they believe it was a part of the Feminist Majority among other groups, and served as an arena for women to get together and discuss issues that affect them, and receive support.

b. The substitute Senator for Smith noted that the coke machine on the first floor of Smith is broken.

c. Thomas McEvoy asked if it would be possibly to get another washer and dryer set for Hamilton, as the machines are almost finished and there are a lot of residents.

d. Jim Folger requested a new and improved Cus College id that would be more efficient and better for students.

b. Bonnie Prokesh noted that the issue of ids has been brought up many times over the years. The plan is that eventually everything will be on the id, including access to dorms, but right now it is not financially possible.

c. Jason Alshabak noted that Patty ques the Dining Services Committee again about why a student may return to the dining hall as many times as they wish, but may not bring a guest in with him.

d. Pete Lork agreed with Thomas McEvoy that additional washers and dryers need to be added to the dorms. He added that the washers and dryers seem susceptible. Alexia Lynch noted that they are not susceptible.

e. Phillip Goldberg requested an additional quicker machine besides the one in the library on campus.

f. Quarters may be obtained at the Cio. Info Desk.

g. The substitute Senator from Marshall requested that summer housing be metamorphosed, as there are many issues to discuss. He will return during Smarts Out Forum in 1016.

h. The substitute Senator from LAc noted that names and numbers in the telephone directory needs to be updated.

j. Urania Stehle noted the absence of a shower door on the front floor of LAc.

K. Maria Potri noted about the new signs on the door of the AC.

WARRIOR WISDOM

“Aand the Republicans -- tired, worn out or not -- should stand up and stick their chest out and say, "I, the Senate, stand for the AC." If the Republicans do not stand up and claim victory, they lose their chance. If they do stand up and say, "We've won! We've done it! We've accomplished something," they'll show the people that they are not just going to give up for it or to enjoy sex, not be a prude or make me a man".

Women's Soccer Falls to Bowdoin 0-3

By GERALD WIESE

Coming off of two disappointing losses in their previous two outings, the Tufts College women's soccer team hoped to turn things around with one of their best performances on the season. On the 11th of October, the visiting University of Maine women's soccer team traveled to Medford, Mass. to face a very tough Bowdoin team on a 2-0 day for the visitors.

"It was clear from the start of the game that the Comets would have their work cut out and could possibly be their toughest challenge of the season," stated Coach Matt Littlefield. "We lined up with many supporters for the Polar Bear, as well as the Central girls, who lived in the area or made the long trek up for the game. The Comets played well in the first 10 minutes and were competitive in all aspects of the game. In the second half both teams played well but, as the game wore on, the Central girls, who lived in the area or made the long trek up for the game, would come topass, and as all we know it will be altered forever."

"Coaching is not a job, it's an art," his head coach would tell him. "As long as there is a team, there is a game and I play a role in helping them win."

"I believe Pedro should have been ejected immediately," stated Coach Matt Littlefield. "He was out of control and needed to be removed from the game."

"This last bit of information within itself is sign enough that bad things are about to happen in the world of professional hockey," stated Coach Matt Littlefield. "I am off to an early 0-2 game at the Stanley Cup, the biggest game in the world of sport, to cut Paul Kariya, captain and heart of the team, the one person most synonymous with the franchise since its inception, December 2nd, other than a little of a strike could it do."

"The Ducks said it was to save money to sign goaltender Jean-Sebastian Giguere," continued Coach Matt Littlefield. "But it's been his style, if Michael Osgood, who was cut in favour of Martin, weren't there to do the hard work off the ice, no one would have believed in him."

"As it is a right, a work stoppage and any sort of long stop, or short stints" the NHL Players will leave. "Fans will be better. Owners still probably won't care as long as they can. The Ducks hockey would come to an end, and as I know it will be altered forever."

"As a last chance of doing such a thing, but also my inability to control myself, you will get one last Swami-like prediction."

Men's Soccer Season Stumbles On

By PETE BURGIO

Coming off of a triumphant home victory over the visiting Middlebury team, the Tufts College men's soccer team headed up to Maine on Saturday. The visitors, lead by the nation's No. 15 ranked team, were the last team on the Tufts' schedule to receive a bid to the NCAA tournament. The team was coming off of a 1-0 loss to Colby, and had a history of losing to Colby's visiting teams, an almost 2-0 record. The game was a must for the future of the Tufts' season, as the team has won just six games in the season, including a win over their chief rivals, the Comets.

"Our team is far from mature," stated Coach Matt Littlefield. "We have a long way to go before we can compete at the highest level."

When Roger Clemens throws a high fastball over the plate to Manny Ramirez, most everyone's eyes will be on the outfield. If he throws the ball in the strike zone, the world will be his oyster. If he hits Ramirez's head, it will make it a little more legitimate.

The Cubs' collapse has left fans of the franchise reeling, as the team has fallen to the bottom of the standings. The team's performance has been nothing short of a disaster, as the team has struggled in every aspect of the game. The team's offense has been below average, as they have scored just 10 runs in their last six games. The team's pitching has been equally disappointing, as they have allowed 50 runs in their last six games.

Overmatched Camels Fall to Queens
by Benjamin Russo-Jones

On the morning of their game with defending East Coast University Champion, the College of New Rochelle Men's Water Polo team focused intently on the match, worked on counter-attack and freestyle count for two hours. That night, they squared off against a team that had most recently won the Division II finals and was thick with all the other European players.

The game started off well with Joe Sayre '06 scoring the opening unanswered goal, but the Camels were unable to connect with the buzzer sounded. The win came against a team that has had mixed stay on top and one after another, the Camels fell behind.

Yet, the one thing I will say is Enright Jr., the one goal in the game was the only one from the*

though the Camels fell to #11 St. Mike's, they were strong on both ends as they did 2 in Springfield College Game (1-0) (Graphs)
