Pundit charged with constitutional violations

By Nancy Stuart

The PUNDIT Editorial Board was called before a special meeting of the College Council on Monday to answer nine charges brought by Donald Kane.

The charges were as follows:

The following charges have been brought to College Council by a member of the Student Government Association. You are requested to come to College Council this afternoon, Monday, Oct. 15, at 3:30 p.m. in the Student Government Room in Cro for a special meeting concerning this matter.

CHARGES:

1. That on page 2 of the September 27, 1973 No. 4 issue of PUNDIT an editorial entitled “Elitism Rules” appeared with the acknowledgment that it was without the majority backing of the Editorial Board — and is therefore a violation of Article 4E of the Newspaper Constitution.

2. That on page 2 of October 11, 1973 No. 5 issue of PUNDIT an editorial entitled “Dissenting View” appeared with the acknowledgment that it was without the majority support of the Editorial Board and that it was signed — and is therefore a violation of Article 4E of the Newspaper Constitution.

3. That on page 3 of the October 11, 1973 No. 5 issue of PUNDIT an editorial entitled “Conn. Can’t Afford To Be Innovative” 5 in x 4 col. — 23 col. in. at $1.75 per col. in. — $40.75

4. That on page 3 of the October 11, 1973 No. 5 issue of PUNDIT an editorial entitled “Dissolution of the Dictatorship” appeared immediately below and in conjunction with the editorial above mentioned — and is therefore in violation of Article 4E of the Newspaper Constitution.

5. That those allegedly illegal editorials were actually advertisements of political positions and therefore those responsible for their appearance are culpable for the expense of the space said editorial consumed, such costs detailing as follows:

   “Elitism Rules” 6 in x 2 col. — 16 col. in. at $1.75 per col. in. — $26.00

   “Dissenting View” 4.5 in. x 2 col. — 9 col. in. at $1.75 per col. in. — $13.75

   “Conn. Can’t Afford To Be Innovative” 5 in x 4 col. — 23 col. in. at $1.75 per col. in. — $40.75

6. That meetings of the Editorial Board have not been adequately attended.

Shain Faces Appeal of JA 3

By Gary Zeger

President Charles Shain, this week, was placed in the unenviable position of having to hear an appeal, asking him to reverse a decision of the Judiciary Board regarding the case of the JA 3. Matthew Geller, Daniel Cohen, and James Litwin, and the infamously cool campus lampost.

As the heated controversy reached a boil early this week President Shain was trying to sort out the various issues and reach a fair and equitable decision.

The Judiciary Board, on the other hand, stuck steadfastly with their decision claiming that the JA 3 must pay the heavy estimated fine.

While there has been much confusion on Campus regarding the entire case, the Pundit has not been able to put together all the events which took place.

Late on Monday October 3, the now much publicized lampost at the southwest corner of the south campus green was knocked over, being completely severed about six inches above the base, by a group of students.

The lampost had been lying on the ground undisturbed for about an hour, when three completely sober, J.A. residents, Geller, Cohen and Litwin, and one Freemante, who will remain nameless, discovered it. After having examined the wreckage they decided that the light was beyond repair and contained ideal markings for a practical joke. Using a pair of insulated wire cutters the pranksters put the entire lamp post, making sure that the wires were separated and folded over to prevent anyone from getting a shock. The four then boosted the light, post and all, through a second story window.

When the unsuspecting Guy Morris returned, he found the two story post lying in his room, one end was under his bed and the other was across the hall in the telephone booth.

In a few minutes the laughter subdued and the pranksters, their mission accomplished, decided that it was time to put the light back outside. With the help of some friends they began their task. Looking out the window

Concerned students and Pundit editors at College Council meeting to discuss Kane’s charges

Warrine Eastburn resigns after 20 years

Warrine Eastburn, a senior administrative officer of Connecticut College where she is both Assistant to the President and Secretary of the College, has asked the Board of Trustees to grant her early retirement next summer when she will have completed 20 years service at the liberal arts college.

Board Chairman W.E.S. Griswold Jr., of Old Lyme, announced Miss Eastburn’s decision this morning at a regular meeting of college trustees, in which he mentioned President Charles E. Shain and Miss Eastburn made completely independent decisions to resign.

Miss Eastburn told the Trustees that her decision was strengthened by her conviction that President Shain’s successor should be free to name the assistant of his or her choosing.

Speaking for the Trustees, Mr. Griswold told members of the college community: “Over the years Miss Eastburn’s steady judgment and administrative skills have been such a pillar of strength to Connecticut College that her resignation later this year will be a keen loss to us all. “True to her spirit and dedication she has agreed to stand by after next Commencement to assist as needed in the charge of command not only in her office but also in that of the Presidency,” he announced.

During the present academic year Miss Eastburn is functioning as administrative officer of the special Presidential Selection Committee in addition to meeting her several designated responsibilities: trustee liaison, administrative personnel, news office, publications, and public occasions.

Miss Eastburn came to Connecticut College in 1954 as assistant to former President Rosemary Park and was continued in that capacity by President Shain after his 1962 inauguration. She has served on four select committees appointed during both administrations to administer the affairs of the college during prolonged absences of its president.

Beyond the campus the college administrator has played active civic and professional roles. Each year she has been campus coordinator for the United Fund of Southeastern Connecticut. She is a past director for the United Fund of Southeastern Connecticut. She is a past director of the American College Public Relations Association, of the New London Y.M.C.A., the Higher Education Broadcast Council, and the Connecticut Educational Television Corporation. In 1963 she was awarded a fellowship in education by the Danforth Foundation.

She is a member of the Connecticut Arboretum advisory committee and for 15 years was on the advisory board of the American Dance Festival. A graduate of The Ohio State University with a master’s degree from University of Oregon, Miss Eastburn’s early teaching career included faculty appointments at New York University, Sarah Lawrence, Washington Eastburn College, Wellesley College, and University of Oregon. During World War II she served in the Pacific theater as a commissioned officer with the United States Navy WR.)

photo by mishkil

Warrine Eastburn

photo by draper

Charges:

| Page 6 |

Concerned students and Pundit editors at College Council meeting to discuss Kane’s charges

Photo by Draper
To the Editor:

We, the under-signed members of this community are appalled by the disregard of diplomatic considerations in dealing with Pundit's alleged violations of our community standards.

As former editor-in-chief of Pundit, Donald Kane should be well aware of the existing and proper channels of communication through which to direct his charges. However, he chose to ignore these channels of respect and consideration for the editorial board as a responsible body. Not only did he ignore these channels, he also, in his approach, maneuvered the College Council to play directly into his hands by over-reaching himself in an apparent attempt to present his charges.

When the voice of our community, Pundit, is threatened by the discontinuation of its funds, the student body should be made aware of the seriousness of the matter.

We hope that College Council and the community will not be duped by Kane's antics.

Signed:
Laura da Costa
Nancy Cottone
Lauren Portnoy
Lynda Batter
Dawn Ailin Dematais
Daniel Cohen
Michael Lipfert
H. James Hamill, Jr.
Patricia Kelly
William Fetherman
Margaret Bradley
Lynn Cole
Seymour Morean
Ted Van Orsdel
Leslie Hunter
James Litwin
John Eskenazi
Karl K. Christoffersen
Gary Zeiger
Dana Noyce
Miriam Josephson
Denise Cooney
Mark Miloff
Fritz Minkoff
Holy Wise
Bernie Zeitchik

To the Editor:

I would like to comment on the procedure and process of Freshmen class elections held last year. It is my belief that there was a lack of motive on the part of the Freshman Class in their selection of Class Officers.

It is also believed that Freshmen, after being in the Connecticut College Community for four years, should be expected to conscientiously select a person who is both competent and sensitive to the needs of the College Community.

Although we do have platforms and pictures to select a candidate by, this is not sufficient information for any person who lacks knowledge on the complexities of the politics on campus to make an intelligent decision.

When students have a strong impact on policy making decisions, as at Connecticut College, the subject of our class representatives should not be handled lightly.

I propose the abolition of Freshmen Class officers and in its place I suggest the formation of a Freshmen Class Representatives Assembly. Within this group, a chairman of the assembly and a representative to the Student Council would be elected. This enables the Freshmen class to know their representation in a more intimate fashion.

I propose this with the firm belief in the basic principles of intelligent people enjoying the entire College Community.

Ken Crear, ’77

To the Editor:

I would like to express my sincere gratitude to the security guards for their cooperation at the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra concert Thursday night. I was one of several students desiring to hear the concert but unable to afford the extremely high-priced tickets. At intermission, with those students who obviously shared my predicament, I entered the auditorium hoping to find an empty seat. The house was full, but a security guard, realizing we wait until everyone was seated, ushered us to the aisle where we were known by at least 1 seat, through and through and thoroughly enjoyed the second half of the excellent performance. I thank them for being sympathetic in helping us benefit from the cultural programs available at Connecticut College, and hope that such programs will continue to be available to students in the future at a more reasonable price.

Donna Diamond

Correction

The article in last week’s PUNDIT on the “Israel Rally” stated that Israel would spend $1 million rather than $3 million as it was by last Saturday on the war. Also, American college students have volunteered not for the Israeli army but “Sherut La’am.” This program allows students to replace soldiers in their jobs on kibbutzim, hospitals, factories, and wherever else they can be of service.

To the Editor:

It has come to my attention that there has been some confusion about the political nature of this article in Pundit. The article was titled “Connecticut College Joins Work Study Program”, and while the description was accurate, the words “work study” have apparently led many people to confuse it with the general Work Study program, an entirely separate entity. This new program, the Coop Program, is open to all students. It offers an opportunity for students to take a semester or year off from college and work for the college, and is open to anyone interested, is open to anyone who wishes to help with college expenses.

Participation in the Institute of Community Programs is open to anyone, and applications from interested students are invited. I have posted a short form, which appeared in the issue of Oct. 4th, on the bulletin board across from the Main Desk in Cross Campus. Applications for the second semester of this year are due by Nov. 2nd.

Sincerely yours,

Susan Lee
Assistant Director

To the Editor:

At a recent college assembly I proposed a resolution that the college raise averaging a little over 2 per cent in the last two years, when the trend had been projected for three academic years 1972-4, 1973-4 and should have been stated at 4.8 per cent. Since the main thrust of my argument related to salary raises in comparison to the cost of living, the comparison should be made with the rise in cost of living which has occurred and is projected for this period—which averages out to just about 6 per cent. The comparison of course does not allow for consideration of the many factors that might be thought by some that as a function of time in teaching, one’s accomplishments and skills ought to do more than keep behind the cost of living increases.

Sincerely,

Bernard I. Murstein
Professor of Psychology

To the Editor:

There are who say the SOCIALIST LABOR PARTY is all wet in claiming that the wealth of the country keeps on concentrating into fewer and fewer hands.

Well, a wire dispatch from Washington reports last year resulted in 39,000 fewer farms than in the year before.

The BIG ones are eating up the little ones.

That proves the SOCIALIST LABOR PARTY is right.

THAT’S another reason why the program of the SOCIALIST LABOR PARTY—BETTER ECONOMY—BETTER WORK—BETTER LIFE—BETTER SOCIALISM—NOT as in England, Russia, Sweden, etc.; is new, which comes clearer before.

Now that a truce has been declared in Vietnam, let’s see if capitalism can make it without the stimulus of war.

Nathan Pressman
Co-Chairperson, CroCom.

(Continued on Page 3)
PUNDIT answers charges, proves violations false!

This is the response to the charges as presented to College Council Wed as per its demand

by the Editorial Board

Charges one-four

These four charges are all related to the same violation of the Student Newspaper’s constitution. Therefore, we shall reply to these four charges as one.

1. Article 4h of the constitution states that “the Editorial Board shall strive for professional standards.” We believe that “professional standards” imply printing the news as it happens and keeping abreast of campus activities. The stories in this article or an editorial would be irrelevant and therefore, not professional.

2. Article 3a of the constitution states that “It is the responsibility of the Editor-in-Chief (s) to conduct a day to day operations of the newspaper.” Since all the editorials in question, and the petition which is legal, the editors were concerned with events which occurred after the final copy deadline. The content editor asked the group of editors in question to not print any articles which were relevant to campus events would not be professional and a violation of the constitution. The editors were not approved due to a sole factor. Again, since the events prompted this writing, the editors took place as close to press time, it was not possible to contact the editors. We request that all editors not to say that the other Editors would not have approved them.

3. In the Student Bill of Rights Article IV D 1 states, “...the editors... are free to develop their own editorial policies and news coverage.” The editorial policy we have selected is to print minority views as long as they are identified as the view of only a few at most.

Charge five

1. It is the policy of PUNDIT not to publish an Organization for any advertisement. For example, The Social Board has never been charged for their party announcements.

2. In addition, since the editorials are legal, they could be written in any kind of political advertisement.

Charge six

1. The Editorial Board meetings have been published verbally in writing to all its members, as well as verbally to any student who asked to attend. Two meetings were also announced on the bell system of dormitories.

Charge seven

This charge is a slandering statement made without any special reference. In no way did Mr. Kane ever ask to see these documents. We do not believe the content of these documents will produce upon request.

Charge eight

1. PUNDIT is built each Wednesday at the Norwich Bulletin plant. The Bulletin subscribes to the AP wire service. The AP copy in question was standing in front of the teleprinter machine on Wednesday, October 10, when the bells started ringing. The AP wire contains “FLASH FLUSH AGNEW RESIGNS,” and then proceeded on to quotes from the then Republican candidates for the President. No one even asked for the point did Mr. Kane every ask to see these documents. We do not believe the content of these documents will produce upon request.

Activities of the Selection Committee.

The first meeting of the Presidential Selection Committee will be held Friday afternoon to coincide with the regular October meeting of the College Council. Chairman W.E.S. Griswold Jr., of Oly Lyne, today announced the names of the 12 men and women who have been selected as representatives of the major campus constituencies: a) Student body; b) Faculty, administration, and students alike to realize that PUNDIT, prepared to serve on the Community page in the interest of the community.

3. On occasions to numerous to detail in this memo PUNDIT has been guilty of excellent journalistic work. The columnists have increased the quality of the newspaper far above the level of competence which is essential for the performance of service to the college community.

Lyne Cole’s statement

As I recall in the shaping of the Constitution for the year of 1970, there was some discussion about the fact that the paper was not consistent with the Constitution of 1969. I will not try to recall the discussion. There was an attempt to start a Community page in the interest of the community.

I believe that an equal number of students of the faculty, administration, and students alike to realize that PUNDIT, prepared to serve on the Community page in the interest of the community.

Author Hamilton lectures today

Washington attorney David G. Hanes is attending his first meeting of the Connecticut College Board of Trustees this weekend as the most recent addition to an already binding body of the coeducational liberal arts college.

After his 1969 graduation from the Columbia Law School where he served on the Law Review, Mr. Hanes was appointed law clerk to Chief Justice Warren E. Burger.

A member of the New York Bar, Mr. Hanes was appointed law clerk to Chief Justice Warren E. Burger.

The new selection of the Sub- committee of the Selection Committee will be held on October 24 at 2 p.m. at the Lawn Club, which is more central to the homes of the trustees than is New London.
Study Abroad offers alternatives

by sherry L. Alpert

This is the first of a two-part article.

This year Connecticut College students have more opportunities to study abroad than ever before. The College has added four programs of its own but also became affiliated with the Institute of European Studies of various colleges both here and abroad which offer alternative programs for either one or two semesters. In some cases, the student may participate during the senior rather than the junior year.

Any student is eligible to study abroad, provided that he has maintained a 3.5 cumulative average and a 3.0 average in his major field after at least three semesters of work. Students wishing to study abroad must have the written approval of their major department and the associate dean in charge of study abroad. The College has added four programs of its own this year, to give students more opportunities to gain a better understanding of various aspects of the world.

The Junior Class will be participating in the Junior Internship Program this spring. We need student coordinators in the various pilot cities of New York, Philadelphia, Washington, D.C., Hartford, New Haven and Boston. If interested, please contact Josie Curran, Ext. 504, Box 246 or your Junior Class dorm representative.

New Shakespeare Company performs at Conn

The New Shakespeare Company San Francisco, a troupe of professional actors from the University of Connecticut, has given live performances of Shakespeare's plays since the late 1950s. The Company's repertory includes all of Shakespeare's plays, and it has a large, enthusiastic following among students, faculty and alumni.

The New Shakespeare Company's strong production of "Hamlet" last spring attracted large audiences to the College. The Company's annual spring tour of college campuses has always been a popular event among students.

The Company's tour of college campuses provides a unique opportunity for students to see live performances of Shakespeare's plays. The Company's productions are well-received by critics and audiences alike, and they have helped to bring Shakespeare's plays to a wider audience.

The New Shakespeare Company's tour of college campuses continues throughout the academic year, and it is always a popular event among students. The Company's productions are well-received by critics and audiences alike, and they have helped to bring Shakespeare's plays to a wider audience.
Hillel celebrates festival, raises funds for Israel

By Sherry L. Alpert

Conn College Hillel sponsored a brunch last Sunday in the "sukkah" on the west wing of Harkness Chapel. The group was celebrating Sukkoth, the Jewish festival of the harvest.

Approximately one dozen members of Hillel built the sukkah before the 8-day holiday began October 10. The sukkah is an open-roofed structure made of wood and garnered with various fruits and vegetables harvested in the fall. It will stand until the holiday ends tomorrow.

The guest speaker at the brunch was Howard Kieval, Director of College Youth and Faculties for the Council of Jewish Federations and Welfare Funds. He stressed the need for American college students to join Sherut La'am, the volunteer program for American college students to join Sherut La'am, the volunteer program for American students to work at civilian jobs (hospitals, factories, kinsham, etc.) while Israelis are engaged in the war.

Mr. Kieval discussed the prospects for American college students who wish to study in Israel. He explained, first of all, the basic differences between American and Israeli college students. Having already served in the army three years, the latter are generally older, more mature, and more serious about their academic pursuits. Their college curriculum is similar to the European system which is geared basically toward a profession, he commented, is apparent in their blaming American students for allegedly bringing drugs into Israel.

Chaplain Robb spoke at the brunch as well. He explained how important it is for Jews and Christians to avoid potential hostilities and tensions, as a result of the war in Israel and the Arab threat to cut off the U.S. oil supply.

The drive for the Israel Emergency Fund last week on campus was tremendously successful and is still continuing. Hillel wishes to thank all contributors.

Harvest time bazaar

By Pam Greenhalgh

The Harvest Time bazaar at the William's School drew a large crowd to the school on Saturday.

Tables were set up, each one featuring one specialty. People railed around, purchasing everything from books to plants to food. At the book table, there were books of every type imaginable: mysteries, thrillers, best sellers, and romances. There were both paperbacks and hard covers. There were assorted plants: ivy, potted plants, dried flowers, and flowers in bottles at the plant table. Homemade jams, jellies, bread, cakes, and cookies were sold at one table. Another featured the fabrics of John Meyer and yet another displayed fashions from the Merri Fashions Boutique.

While parents shopped, their kids were kept busy at the "Fun House." An assortment of games was set up, and with one set of tickets the kids were kept busy for hours. Madame Fortuna was on hand to add some fun to the day by reading palms and telling fortunes.

Lunch was served from 11:30 to 1:30. The menu consisted of chili, chef's salad, assorted desserts, and beverages. All in all it was a fun way to spend a couple of hours and a very helpful one. The proceeds will go to the Williams School development fund.

Hanes attends first Trustee meeting

By Stuart Cohen

A professor of government and author of two books about black life in America will be giving a series of lectures this week at Conn College. The difference in race is particularly significant, he explained, first of all, the basic differences between American and Israeli college students. Having already served in the army three years, the latter are generally older, more mature, and more serious about their academic pursuits. Their college curriculum is similar to the European system which is geared basically toward a profession, he commented, is apparent in their blaming American students for allegedly bringing drugs into Israel.

Charles V. Hamilton, professor of political science and Wallace S. Sayre Professor of Government at Columbia University, will give three lectures today, October 18. At 11 a.m., he will speak on "Class Patterns in Black Politics" at the College House for Government and Urban Affairs Majors. At 2:20 p.m., Mr. Hamilton will discuss "Civil Rights: From the 1960's to the 1970's" at room 106 in Thames Hall for students taking Sociology 223 and Religion 235. At 8:00 p.m. Mr. Hamilton will deliver a public lecture at Oliva Hall. The topic will be "Public Policy and Urban Politics."

On Friday, October 19, there will be a discussion of the previous night's lectures at 8:30 a.m. in room 306 of Fanning for Government 228 students. Mr. Hamilton will finish the series at 10:30 a.m. on Friday at the College House with a lecture on "Public Welfare Policy" for Sociology and Urban Affairs Majors.

It should be noted that all members of the College community are invited to attend any of these meetings. Mr. Hamilton, in addition to holding his professorship at Columbia, is National Board Member of the N.A.A.C.P. Legal Defense and Education Fund. He received the University of Chicago Alumni Award in 1971, and was a Visiting Scholar at the Russell Sage Foundation during 1972-73.

Mr. Hamilton's primary interest is in the political activities of individuals and groups, especially black Americans, who are new participants in the political life of the United States. His two books are The Black Preacher in America and The Black Experience in American Politics. He is speaking at Conn under the auspices of The Bernstein Fund and the United Chapters of Phi Beta Kappa Visiting Scholar Program.

Classified ads

Need a haircut? Men or women—Professional haircut. Trim—$1.00 cut — $2.00. Contact Betsy Stanford, Morrison, 443-8339.

Loggins and Messina Tickets. Thurs. Nov. 22, 8 p.m. (Thanksgiving Night) Madison Square Garden. 3 available at $5.50 each. Patty Steinberg, Marshall Box 1709.

Office electric — carbon or cloth ribbons $.30 a page with 1 carbon $.19 for each additional carbon.

Call anytime Mrs. D. MacKnight

Peace Corps/Vista

Needs Skilled Volunteers

In the coming year we will send thousands of volunteers throughout the world.

WE NEED:
NURSES, FARMERS, TEACHERS,
COLLEGE GRADS, BUSINESS GRADS
AND SKILLED TRADESMEN
AND OTHERS

QUALIFICATIONS:
Must be U.S. citizen, at least 25 years old, willing to serve at least 2 years abroad. Must speak English fluently; willingness to learn a language not necessary. We also need volunteers in Vista.

The Peace Corps and VSSTA pays a living allowance, travel, health care, and education expenses, etc. If you qualify call us at 212-264-7123.

Hillel meeting

Branford living room tonight 6:45 p.m.

to discuss the idea of an information table in Cro regarding the War in Israel.
Jane Addams 3: appeals to Shain

(Continued from Page 1)

In its decision, the board stated that the total cost of the actual damage incurred was $20,000, in addition to the cost of removing the lamp. Therefore, the board ruled that the charges against Shin were dropped.

Since no monetary or 'rip-off' damage was actually done, the three felt that their actions did not constitute vandalism. The board admitted that "the total cost of the actual damage incurred is negligible, but the |judiciary Board is holding you personally responsible for $20,000 as a punitive reimbursement to the college for cover costs arising from the illicit act committed by you." Since the actual cost was not negligible but was somewhat non-existent, they felt the "punitive reimbursement" should be dropped.

Summing up their grievances in a six point list, the three restated their case, requesting that the board either clarify its decision or drop the charges. The letter questioned the legality of calling the real vandals for only the damage done while the three were being fined infinitely more times than any damage incurred by them. They also accused the college of cowotwling to outside pressure and fining them as an

The JA also informed the Editorial Board that a two-fold appeal to President Shain requesting that he hear an appeal on the grounds that the previous decision was ambiguous and inconsistent. As other grounds for appeal they cited the boards failure to follow two of the seven procedures set down by the Connecticut College Bill of Rights. Paragraph 2 of the Bill of Rights states that the students must be informed in writing of the charges against them. This was never done. Paragraph 3 states, however, that the students charged must be informed of all the evidence to be used against them. This was also never done.

On October 16 Press, Shain heard the case of the Jane Addams Three and has promised to hand down a decision by the end of the week.

Campus Column: A post peace?

By Kathy McGlynn

Once again fighting rages across the Middle East, once again the rest of the world, in great trepidation that this 'small' war will develop into a nuclear confrontation. In the States and the Soviet Union, anxiously awaits the outcome. The United Nations, which regained the territories they lost in the 1967 war, and Israel is equally determined to thwart that attempt. In the United Nations, we can only hope for a diplomatic resolution of the problem.

No one can deny that the United Nations resurrected from the dungeons of obscurity - becomes a focal point where the nations of the world are tared to the chambers of the security council, awaiting to see miracles performed within.

This time, it is clearly evident that the United Nations will not work miracles; and that in fact this organization has become merely an impotent and ineffective anachronism. We should further suggest that its present condition results from that it was not the U.N., but rather a self-appointed partnership, that has been subverted by the manipulations of the "Big Powers."

How can we possibly, in light of the above, expect countries such as Israel or Egypt to acquiesce to the directives issued by the United Nations? Why should they yield on positions that they feel foster their national objectives when the major powers continue to overtly and covertly circumvent the U.N. chambers in order to enhance their national goals?

If it is not naive, or perhaps hypocritical, for us to turn to the organization we have so enfeebled and expect it to help us - and therefore is in-violation of Article 4F of the Newspaper Constitution.

The Editorial Board has not kept a record of major actions - and therefore is in violation of Article 4F of the Newspaper Constitution.

At the meeting, Production Editor Carin Gordon initially asked who submitted such charges. The Collegiooll first sought permission from the accuser before revealing his name.

President of Student Government Laurie Lesser explained that this meeting was "not a trial or a hearing, but a discussion" of charges made by Kane.

College Council did not intend to stop "freedom of the press" or not question the content of the newspaper.

Lyn Col and Berk Zelich, two of the authors of the present newspaper constitution, appeared before the Council to sight the case as unprecedented. Similar charges against PUNDIT in the past were considered by the Council only as a last resort. Kane's members had always insisted that cases of this nature be settled outside of College Council.

At the meeting, Production Editor Carin Gordon initially asked who submitted such charges. The Collegiooll first sought permission from the accuser before revealing his name.

President of Student Government Laurie Lesser explained that this meeting was "not a trial or a hearing, but a discussion" of charges made by Kane.

College Council did not intend to stop "freedom of the press" or not question the content of the newspaper.

Lyn Col and Berk Zelich, two of the authors of the present newspaper constitution, appeared before the Council to sight the case as unprecedented. Similar charges against PUNDIT in the past were considered by the Council only as a last resort. Kane's members had always insisted that cases of this nature be settled outside of College Council.

At the meeting, Production Editor Carin Gordon initially asked who submitted such charges. The Collegiooll first sought permission from the accuser before revealing his name.

President of Student Government Laurie Lesser explained that this meeting was "not a trial or a hearing, but a discussion" of charges made by Kane.

College Council did not intend to stop "freedom of the press" or not question the content of the newspaper.

Lyn Col and Berk Zelich, two of the authors of the present newspaper constitution, appeared before the Council to sight the case as unprecedented. Similar charges against PUNDIT in the past were considered by the Council only as a last resort. Kane's members had always insisted that cases of this nature be settled outside of College Council.
The Workgroup, a dance company directed by Daniel Nagrin, will appear in concert in the East Dance Studio of Crozier-Williams on Sunday, November 4 at 8:00 p.m. The concert is sponsored by the College's Department of Dance, and features the Connecticut premieres of a new evening-length work, Hello Farewell Hello, conceived and performed during the Workgroup's residency this past summer at Johnson State College in Johnson City, Vermont.

The Workgroup is an improvisational dance company. Although many of their pieces contain choreographed and composed elements, the Workgroup's dances are most often improvisations within a designed structure, spontaneous creations directed by a precise set of rules, lines, and goals. Since Daniel Nagrin's founding of the company in 1971, they have employed this method of creating and performing dances with great success. Judy Kahn of Dance Magazine wrote of the Workgroup, "These dancers continuously create magic, supplying an endless barrage of genuine, spontaneous communication. Their respect for structure, coupled with dancing that is technically and artistically superb, make them a company we should watch for, attending their performances with open and eager minds, and sharing in their joy of discovery and creativity."

Daniel Nagrin, the founder and director of the Workgroup, has established a reputation as one of America's leading dance soloists, touring nationally and internationally since 1957. His early career involved extensive performing on Broadway, in films, and on television. Mr. Nagrin was an instructor in jazz dance styles at the Connecticut College American Dance Festival this past summer, and will be in residency at the College as a guest artist throughout the second semester of the current academic year.

Two of the company's original members have also taught at Connecticut College. Ara Fitzgerald, a 1970 graduate of this school, has taught dance technique and improvisation here for the past three years. She also teaches dance at the Eugene O'Neill National Theater Institute. Fellow Workgroup dancer Lee Connor was a guest artist at the College earlier this semester.

Tickets for the Workgroup's presentation of Hello Farewell Hello are $2.00 for all seats, and are available in the Dance Department Office in Crozier-Williams. Current ticket sale hours are 9:00 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. Monday through Friday, and 10:30 a.m. to 12:00 noon on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday. Sales are limited for this performance, so tickets should be purchased well in advance. For further information on the November 4 Workgroup concert, contact the Dance Department, extension 373.

---

Mahavishnu Orchestra comes to New Haven

On Sunday, October 28, ENTROPY presents the Mahavishnu Orchestra with John McLaughlin in Wooley Hall, corner of Grove and College Streets, New Haven, at 7:30 p.m. Tickets will cost $1.50 in advance, $2.00 at the door, available at the following outlets:

- New Haven: Silky Fingers, Gannon Copy
- Hartford: La Salle Records (West Hfd.), Silky Finger
- Middletown: Watt and Decibel
- Waterbury: Plaza Records
- Bridgeport: Karl Graf Records
- West Haven: Jimmy's Army Navy

John McLaughlin has set new and original standards for excellence in music. The Mahavishnu Orchestra, with its unique ensemble of musicians — violin, keyboard, percussion, bass and guitar — produces an intense and growing sound. Their respect for musical forms — jazz, rock, blues, classical and eastern — is never static.

The Mahavishnu Orchestra has appeared twice before in New Haven, each time with growing success. ENTROPY is happy to bring them back again for the third time.

ENTROPY is a non-profit, charitable organization built around the idea that musicians are willing to help contribute their energy and abilities to help contribute to constructive change in this country. ENTROPY is committed to raising funds for distribution to community groups in New Haven by presenting quality concerts in the city.
Spiral summary
by Stu Meyers

The season's half over and out, not only are more than half of the teams out of it but the only unit that's challenging Larrabee and Harkness for division honors is the Infirmary.

Currently displayed amongst various participants are broken noses, knocked knees, mangled ankles, mangled hands, dislocated fingers, disarranged ribs, and some nasty stitches around some scrabbled faces.

The statistics do have other aspects to cover - the utter devastation wreaked on the league by the two kingspins. We have two bullies who are beating up the little guys in what is fast becoming their only competition - each other.

Larrabee wins 704, Harkness wins 56-14. Larrabee wins 49-0. They've wiped out their most immediate rivals and as bewildered groupies search for a seat, there fingers (a bit of a drum roll please) Emily Abbey. In three games, Abbey has been scored upon once and stands undefeated. They are tied with Larrabee for first place in the North and if they beat Lambdin and Hamilton, will be in the playoffs.

In Larrabee's domain, you can only play for second place and that amounts to a three team suicidal tendency.

Harkness sits unencumbered atop their division and is merely waiting for the second place finisher from the North. They are a polished, rather than a brutal, team but operate with as much finesse as a blackjack. J.A. and Park have been disposed of as contenders and out of the thing Harkness can do now is play an intraquad game.

Harkness can do anything that they can do now is play an intraquad game.

Harkness sits unencumbered atop their division and is merely waiting for the second place finisher from the North. They are a polished, rather than a brutal, team but operate with as much finesse as a blackjack. J.A. and Park have been disposed of as contenders and out of the thing Harkness can do now is play an intraquad game.

Harkness sits unencumbered atop their division and is merely waiting for the second place finisher from the North. They are a polished, rather than a brutal, team but operate with as much finesse as a blackjack. J.A. and Park have been disposed of as contenders and out of the thing Harkness can do now is play an intraquad game.

Harkness sits unencumbered atop their division and is merely waiting for the second place finisher from the North. They are a polished, rather than a brutal, team but operate with as much finesse as a blackjack. J.A. and Park have been disposed of as contenders and out of the thing Harkness can do now is play an intraquad game.

Conn successful in Tennis Tourney
by Les Revilock

For those who have fallen behind is what's happening in tennis at Conn College, the following info should bring you up-to-date.

In the Conn College Open Tennis Tournament, held on the campus Oct. 12-14, Conn freshman ace Robby Roberts won first place hardware by defeating Ned Kiley (Coast Guard), 3-6, 6-1, 6-1. Robby unravelled five formidable foes enroute to victory.

In the men's singles field included 60 entries. In the doubles, Roberts teamed with freshman Larry Yeshman to reach the finals, then bowed to Chip Sharpe and Gary Krasanovic (Coast Guard), 6-2, 6-1, 6-1.

In other divisions, results were as follows: A Conn reliable, Bambi Flickinger, won the women's singles, defeating Fran Picket (Mitchell), 3-6, 6-1, 6-1. Bambi combined forces with freshman Wendy Miller to overwhelm Fran Picket and Gail Collins (Mitchell) in the doubles finals to the tune of 6-1, 6-1.

In the mixed doubles finals, Sheryl Year and Greg Yahia (Conn) lost to Boylan and Morse (Shonington) by a score of 6-2, 6-4.

This is the third year that Conn College has sponsored the tournament. This year's entry surpassed last year's by over 20 players. The total number participating this year was exactly 70. The tournament is for Conn students, faculty, friends, and others. Come out next year.

by Lynn Cole

Marc Gottersdina, running on an ailing ankle, set the course record at the Conn College-Coast Guard Cross Country Meet here Saturday.

Despite Mr. Nike's effort Conn lost the meet to the J.V. Coast Guard Team 29-26. However, this is the closest the 7 member team has come to catching the Coasties.

Coach Jeff Zimmerman was pleased with the efforts of every member of the team. Every individual ran the best he has run this year," he said Saturday's race marked the first meet run over the hilly, 5-mile Quaker Hill course. The course includes a very steep half-mile hill known affectionately as "Killer Hill." Although "Killer Hill" presents problems for the Other College team (one runner admitted to walking up), it has been included for "psychological advantage" according to a team member who preferred not to be identified.

"We hope that other teams will be so surprised when confronted with the climb for the first time that they won't even try to run it." The tactic seemed to have worked even on the coasties familiar with the area. Several Conn runners reported passing coasties on the hill.

The Cross-Country team record is 4-0-0. The next meet is Thursday with Avery Point and Eastern Conn. The running times for Saturday's meet are:

1. Marc Gottersdina 28.46.
3. Brian Heldman 31.05.
4. Walt Thoma 31.05.
5. Bill Spinkard 31.44.
6. Bernie Zeltich 33.35.
7. Russ Woodford 35.15.

Results of last weeks election
Class of 1975
No quorum

Election rescheduled
Wednesday October 17
Thursday October 18

Class of 1977
Puepl LaPreile
Leslie Margolin
new Judiciary
Board members