Mr. Bauer Gives Fine Recital

Sympathetic Interpretations
Prove Delightful

An enthusiastic audience heard Mr. Bauer's piano recital on November 24, evening, November 14th. The warm, colorful, program, sympathetically interpreted, was delightful in every way. Mr. Bauer's recital has been vividly described by Dr. Laubelein, who, in a review in the New London Day, says, in part: "Mr. Bauer seemed equally at home inslowly. contrasted mood and the amorous melody of the Brithish student movement from the Sonata in F major and the sparkling exuberance of Nathaniel Dett's Juba.

"The program opened with the Chopin Scherzo. The tempo of the Andalousian theme and the Rondo in F-flat, the piece de resistance of the evening, performed with an authority which drew favorable applause from the audience. Particularly impressive here was the pianist's ability to bring out the full note to inform with due somber intensity, and to maintain a flow of melody.

"The technical difficulties in the Tchaikovsky Etudes of Aurillo Giorgi, the first a sort of perpetuum mobile affair, were dispelled with ease. Then came de Falla's enigmatic Andaluza; was it Andalusian or not? And what is a crotchet? Mr. Bauer's rendering of the evening was supplied by the tip-toe accent of the Brithish student movement from the Piano Sonata in F major. The program was then concluded by Chopin's Scherzo in F-flat major, the piece de resistance of the evening, performed with an authority which drew favorable applause from the audience. Particularly impressive here was the pianist's ability to bring out the full note to inform with due somber intensity, and to maintain a flow of melody.

Love-in-a-Mist
To Be Presented Tonight

As most of the plays which have been produced by the Wig and Cadet recent years, it will be interesting to see just what will be done with such a play as Love-in-Mist which is a modern comedy. Produced in New York, not so very many years ago, it was a decided success with Madge Kennedy playing the leading role.

Under the skilful coaching of Miss Eggleston, the play has been allowed by Mr. Frank D. Getty, the riding master, and former cowboy. A beautiful five-gaited horse was loaned by Mr. Warren Shove of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma.

The event of the night was a drill in which all the riders of the school participated. The drill was followed, Edith Simonton '29, making the best time, twelve seconds. Tournament rings was the third event. Stunt or trick riding was exalted by Jean Hamil '29; Jane Pitch '29; and Norma Lething '29. The Russian Drag, various saddle tunes while the horse was cantering and standing in the middle with the arms swung out were the stunts performed by them.

Noted Speaker at Next Convention

The student friendship fund of Connecticut College shall be used in such a manner as to promote international friendship between the students of this college and those of foreign colleges.

"Each alternate year there shall be presented to the student body of the college the following proposals for the distribution of the money raised by the student students of foreign colleges, the student body, or any of them. The following proposals shall constitute the future policy of their Student Friendship Fund.

Proposals:
1. The Student Friendship Fund shall be used to promote international friendship between the students of this college and those of foreign colleges.
2. The Student Friendship Fund shall be used to promote international friendship between the students of this college and those of foreign colleges.
3. The Student Friendship Fund shall be used to promote international friendship between the students of this college and those of foreign colleges.

DEAR DAISY

Dear Daisy,

The middle of things is always a most disappointing time, don’t you think? It is like Christopher Robin on a windy day, wishing he could get into Peter Pan’s boat. It is half way down, and really nowhere else. If it were an objective or a methodological question, the average student has no answer. He doesn’t even know the names of his instructors.

Dear Editor,

May I seek relief for my emotions by offering a few suggestions. The purpose of this communication is merely to suggest a few things which might possibly be avoided.

Here is one set of facts:

1. The final exam held in the college gymnasium, on Sunday, November 18th, from five to six p.m., a vesper service will be given.

2. There were present at this service:
   a. 7 members of the faculty.
   b. 16 members of the three lower classes.
   c. 4 people from downtown.
   d. 24 members of the choir.
   e. 1 pianist and choir leader.
   f. 1 college preacher.

Here are a set of present composed of:

a. More than 60 members of the faculty and administration.

b. About 565 students.

Here is another set of facts:

1. The college pastor, being new to the college, is very naturally anxious to prest this attendance as condensation of his sermon on Sunday.

2. Even if informed of the facts, he might not feel greatly concerned, since the facts are that small chapel and vesper attendance is due to the laziness of the students who could not nurse or itself to attend chapel services, even as a tribute to a beloved president.

And here’s a third set, that seem to me amenable as indubitable as these:

1. Vesper services cannot indefinitely continue as they are new.

2. Any college must take on three channels:

   a. The college may voluntarily give more than merely support these services.

   b. The college may go on record as disapproving of organized religion, abolish chapel and vesper, and allow students and faculty to worship God in their own way, at the Garde, the Crown, or the Capitol.

   c. The President’s Committee may make attendance upon vesper and chapel services compulsory for all members of the faculty and student body.

And lastly, something that is not a set of facts, but a womanly intuition of the writer:

One should not feel that you have read this letter, she will turn to her roommates and say, “It’s really a shame. You should have gone to vesper last Sunday. Of course, circumstances were not propitious, but you could have known about it.”

Dear Dean, thank you, editor. I feel much relieved already.

Lots of love from,

YOURS TRULY,

P. S. One more fact: there will be held in the college gymnasium, on Sunday, November 25th, from five to six p.m., a vesper service.

Dear Editor,

Are we contemplating the return of our more fortunate friends from their week-end jaunts, I am almost sure I am hearing the distant sound of their heart-rending appeal. It is only a question of more convincing us that part of many harmless thoughtless people who are there, come back, and that same individuals will not rule the see the justice underlying my appeal. It is only a question of something that happened on a Saturday morning class week after week, and little thing can be done about it. The situation where those of us who are here are trying to teach any kind of path of knowledge on the sixth or seventh day of the week, is bad. In short, the final exam is held in the college gymnasium, on Sunday, November 18th, from five to six p.m., a vesper service will be given.

In view of the great need now existed among European students, the students of Connecticut College, in the years 1928 and 1929, since thereby they hope to be helpful to two or three students, rather than only one.
STUDENT GOVERNMENT

HIGH LIGHTS OF THE CONFERENCE

The twenty-first annual meeting of the Women's Intercollegiate Association for Student Government was held on November 11th, 19th, and 17th at the College for Women, Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio. About fifty-seven colleges were represented. These included students from California and Florida as well as from the Eastern and Western college.

Among the most interesting topics discussed by the conference as a whole was "The Honor System," presented by Miss Clara E. Myers, Professor of English in Western Reserve; "The Organization of Various Student Governments," presented by Smith College; and "The Problem of Handling the Opposing Minority," presented by Wilson College. Connecticut College was asked to consider "Finding a Place for the Town Girl in Student Life."

The following are some of the more interesting regulations that have been adopted by other colleges:

Wellesley has a jury system by which every week a girl is chosen by lot from each class to sit on the judicial body. She may give her opinion on the case but she can not vote. Her duty is to carry the reasons for the judgment of the body to the students. This committee then sends a letter to the girl involved, reprimanding her. The committee then sends the students which they think involved in the case. Swearotia has a rule which states that any girl who lies, cheats, or steals will be expelled.

Wells has a decorum committee, which is chosen by the President of Student Government and its membership is never known by the student body. This committee reports to the President any actions on the part of the student which they think improper. The committee then sends a letter to the girl involved, reprimanding her. Smith has the committees in the houses send a written report to the legislative body each month stating how successfully the rules have been kept.

In comparison with the government of other colleges, Connecticut seems far ahead in its organization and in the liberty of its rules.

Motor Rule: The Motor Rule has been passed by the Student Faculty Committee and it has now gone to the Presidential Committee.

Smoking: The Student Faculty Committee approved the plan of the students for the reconsideration of the smoking rule. This has now gone to the Presidential Committee, to be considered by them.

Vigil: This rule which will allow girls on academic probation two nights, and girls having an average below two points but not on probation, three nights, has been passed by the Administration Committee. The (Continued on page 4, column 1)

SCIENCE CLUB HOLDS SECOND MEETING

Practical Work Discussed

The Science Club held its second meeting last Tuesday night. The faculty showed interest in the club by their attendance.

Ruth Petrosky turned the meeting over to Frances Wells who spoke on her work last summer in the laboratory of Dr. Joslin, a well-known diabetologist. She explained the type of work a technician has to do in the laboratory, and she also told us about the use of insulin. She explained that her knowledge of the sciences was valuable in this work. This was further brought to our attention when a letter was read from Dr. Joslin to the New York Zoological Society and went with Dr. Beebe last year on his expedition to Bermuda where she was in charge of the Home Economics department.

The next meeting of the club is to be in charge of the House Economics Department and will be held on January 16th.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

(Acted from page 3, column 2) student body must vote on this rule before it will become effective.

Academic Probation: The Administration Committee has voted to remove the following restrictions now imposed on girls on probation:

• That she attend all Convocations, Chapel, and Vespers.
• That she shall attend only college dances.

Since these regulations were Accreditation, it is in the interest of the student body to vote on this rule before it will become effective.
