College Members
To Discuss Merits
Of Women's School

"Why a College for Women?" a panel discussion by members of the Connecticut College Community, was broadcast over WTIC-TV, Channel 3, the CBS affiliate in Hartford.

The panel will be moderated by Mr. Robert D. Hale, manager of the college bookshop. Participating will be Professors Betty Thompson and Ottilo D'Andrea and seniors Wendy Peter and Shelley Taylor.

Conn will present five half-hour programs over WTIC-TV in the weekly series, "From the College Campus." The programs are rotated among four private colleges: Wesleyan, Trinity, St. Joseph's, and Conn.; and lectures supported colleges: Eastern Connecticut State and Central Connecticut State.

The Conn programs, all moderated by Mr. Hale, will be broadcast at 9:30 a.m. on the Sunday dates noted and repeated at 7:30 a.m. the following Friday.

Nov. 17, Discussion on Women's education; Dec. 24 and 29: A Christmas special, Theatre on "Hansel and Gretel." Feb. 4 and St. New color movie on the following:

Foreign Students
To Participate In First IRC Lecture

Three foreign students including a graduate student from Columbia University will participate in the first International Relations Club Symposium of Ideas Mon., Nov. 20, at 4:20 p.m. in the Main Lounge of Connecticut State.

Other new officers of the Class of 1971 are: Lucy Eastman, vice-president; Marg Shelly, secretary; Mary Josephs, treasurer; and Sidney S. Courson, president.

Sybilia Fool '68 from Panama and Aida Walpi '70 from Peru, representing Conn., and Mr. Maksim Abbot '68 from Ethiopia, a graduate student of Political Science at Columbia, will speak on "How Foreign Students View the Impact of the United States on Their Country."

Following these introductory speeches, an exchange of ideas between the three students will take place, to be followed by open discussion.

Ellen Sudow '68, president of the International Relations Club, stated that the aim of this Symposium is "to absorb foreign students into the American Community, especially to take advantage of the knowledge they have to offer us on our own campus."

Ellen expressed the desire to have a series of these symposium which are "both informal and educational, a Society of Regulations and Rules." She will present her views on the right of the individual to break society's rules - the pros and cons - and then open the topic for general discussion.

The C. C. Concert Series will present Itzhak Perlman, violinist, Tues., Nov. 21, at 8:30 p.m. in Palmer Auditorium.

Mr. Perlman, one of the acknowledged leaders among the world's young violinists, is the musical product of two countries, Israel and the United States.

In April, 1964, Perlman won the Leventritt Memorial International Competition which is the premier American Musical Competition. After winning the Leventritt Award, Perlman made concert appearances with the New York Philharmonic and other major American orchestras.

When he was 12, Perlman appeared on the Ed Sullivan Show. He has studied at the Juillard School of Music.

Margaret Sue Lad 98 will present an informal Organ Recital Tues., Nov. 14, at 5 p.m. in Harkness Chapel.

College Announces
Two $100 Grants

Connecticut College has received two unrestricted grants totaling $2,000 it was announced last week.

The Southern New England Telephone Company presented a gift of $1,000 to the College. The gift was given by President Charles E. Shain by George Ben- net, local district manager, in the presence of Peter Foster, division commercial manager of Norwich. Albott Davis, vice president in charge of public relations, and Brinn Ben- net, general advertising manager.

Since 1958 SNTECO has contributed a total of $16,000 to Connecticut College.

The second $1,000 grant came from the Sears Roebuck Foundation under a continuing program of aid to privately supported colleges and universities.

In announcing the distribution of the 1967 grants, Mr. John Schafer, New London representative of the foundation, said that nine participating colleges and universities will share in the total of $15,100.

Purpose of the program is to help institutions of higher learning systematically meet their financial needs.

Altogether, more than 600 colleges and universities from coast to coast will receive Sears Foundation grants totaling $1 million this year. The grants are unrestricted to allow the schools to meet specific needs according to their greatest needs.

Itzhak Perlman

Connecticut College Chorus, with Mr. James Armstrong directing, and the Trinity College Glee Club will present the first major concert of the year, Wed., Nov. 15, at 8:30 p.m. in Palmer Auditorium.
LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To The Editor:

It is seldom that I am confronted with a desire to comment on the contents of a letter. The case of R. Ann Kibbick's article, "The Military Viewpoint," on page 6, Oct. 31, I feel needs just a word. However, it seems that our lithographies are entirely different, mine quite direct and yours entirely unscriptable. I am convinced that they should converge with each other and that any individual classification as American in itself, would weight our case with a legitimacy that is so diametrically opposed. I question how anyone would expect anything else but what results when agents of the national government, with their white hankies on their heads, and their drum sticks, and their draft card burning and pot smocking, "the only forms of law breakers" as President Johnson was, especially in the midst of one of the more famous government buildings.

As to Katie See's remark that, "after all, we aren't supposed to question authority," yes, I can understand of love of country. These are very difficult questions. I did not write a non-partisan letter. But, has anyone ever really questioned authority. A notable scholar who may also be a brilliant còn- versationalist is not necessarily a brilliant lecturer, or even a fair one. During a lecture a student is not impressed by the lecturer's credentials but simply by what he has to say.

A lecture without substance is worth little, but a lecture poorly presented is worth nothing at all. It is merely a man on stage mumbling to himself over a microphone.

We urge all those who are planning future lectures and discussions to consider speaking ability as well as scholarship as they research their possible speakers. It can be done. Each of the Religious Fellowship-sponsored lectures, "Thy Kingdom Come" has been more informative than the last because the speakers are dynamic, as well as informed.

Students are more than willing to be educated "after hours," but only if it can be made enjoyable rather than an exhausting experience.

Insight Into Trouble

Insight, the College's only creative art and literary publication, is in serious financial trouble.

In a Letter to the Editor this week, Sunny Miller, editor of Energy, inserted a non-paying statement. The reason was straightforward, free money is no longer available.

To The Editor:
This week College is again
spooning a student exchange program with Spelman College.
The exchange takes place during the months of February and March while more Conn students change places with an equal number of Spelman students.

Originaly founded by Baptist ministers after the Civil War, to provide literary classes for women, Spelman has now grown to become one of the leading Negro women's colleges in the South.

It is a member of the Atlanta University Center, consisting of Spelman College, two other undergraduate colleges and a graduate school, all located near each other. A Spelman student can take courses at any of the colleges.

Miss Jane Torrey, associate professor of psychology, spent last year teaching at Spelman College, although not as a part of the college faculty. According to her, there are many students at Spelman who are attending such a college.

She mentioned there has been interest of psychology, especially with the Negro "slant" of view and extra activities always being around the current racial issues.

"There is only one child in the world and the child's name is all children."

"There is only one man in the world, and his name is all men."

"There is only one woman in the world and her name is all women."

This is the season when millions of people of all faiths observe solemn holy days.

Each faith—in its own way—recognizes in its observance the brotherhood of man. Never before, in the world’s history, has there been such need for understanding between members of the human family.

"There is only one man in the world," Carl Sandburg has written, "and his name is all men.

"There is only one woman in the world and her name is all women.

"There is only one child in the world and the child's name is all children."

We, 450,000 members of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union seek—in this season and all seasons—to further human understanding. We seek to unite people of all colors and creeds. We work together and live together with mutual respect for our neighbors—at the next machine, or in the next house.

This spirit has not only helped us advance our own conditions of working and living. It has also contributed to achieving higher standards among our friends and neighbors in communities all over America.

The ILGWU label, sewn into women's and children's apparel, is our signature. Look for it when you buy.

French Garb Worn
At "Fête Champêtre"

If you happened to have been passing the Lyman Allyn Museum last Saturday night, you may have seen the three musketeers wandering about.

It was the night of the Annual Museum Ball, a fund-raising event, and the theme of it was a Fête Champêtre. Costumes were worn by the guests representing 18th Century France, and the evening was filled with appropriate sights and sounds.

Avery Halley '86, student representative at the hall, described the evening as exciting and different. Nine Connecticut students attended, four of whom are in the senior Museum Seminar.

Stevie Barrett and Corinne Bresnahan manned (or "womaned") a kissing booth which drew a lot of patrons, participants and onlookers. Kathy Susman was suspended on a swing to represent the painting by Fragonard, "The Swing," while attempts were made to toss a ring around her foot as she moved back and forth.

Skittles and darts were also features of the evening, and guests were able to buy chances on a number of prints. All of these events were held to raise money for the support of the museum.

A fête champêtre would not be complete without food and wine, and these were supplied in small boxed supper for each couple at their table. The festive but burlap atmosphere was suggested in the decorations throughout the museum and the costumes and games.

About 300 members of the museum attended, about 20 of them being Connecticut College faculty members.

When the music of Paul Landerman and his orchestra had slowly ceased at 2:00 a.m., all of the guests agreed that it had been a wonderful evening, and an enjoyable way to contribute to a cultural basis of the New London community.
Professor Irvin Ehrenpreis, noted Swift scholar and author, will lecture on "Laughter and Despair: Jonathan Swift on Human Nature," Tues., Nov. 14, at 4:30 p.m. in Palmer Auditorium. The lecture is a tercentenary tribute to Jonathan Swift who was born Nov. 30, 1667.

Mr. John McCuey of the New Haven Redevelopment Agency, will speak on careers in city planning, Tues., Nov. 14, at 7:30 p.m. in Hamilton Living room.
