ELECTION RESULTS IN Seven Incumbent Counselors, CC’s Clayton Victorious

By CHRIS CARRIELLO

All seven candidates for the office of seven incumbents were re-elected to the New London City Council.

The candidates included

- Lindsey Hamilton
- John Nash
- Elizabeth Green
- Paul Traub
- Eric Bierman
- Thomas McGovern
- Michael Reilly

In the race for City Council, the candidates ran on a variety of issues, including crime, housing, and the environment.

The final results were as follows:

- Lindsey Hamilton: 1,234 votes
- John Nash: 1,197 votes
- Elizabeth Green: 1,158 votes
- Paul Traub: 1,123 votes
- Eric Bierman: 1,089 votes
- Thomas McGovern: 1,051 votes
- Michael Reilly: 1,017 votes

With no write-in candidates, the seven incumbents were re-elected to serve another four years on the City Council.

Dorm Break-ins

Halloween Brings Dorm Break-ins

Nine dorm rooms broken into Saturday night; dorm suffers extensive vandalism

By JESSIE VANDERGROEF

Nine dorm rooms were broken into Saturday night, causing extensive vandalism at the College.

According to officials, the break-ins occurred around 1 a.m., with thieves breaking into the rooms through windows and doors.

The victims reportedly lost their textbooks, personal belongings, and even their computer equipment.

A College spokesperson stated, “We are working with Campus Safety to investigate this incident and ensure the safety of our students.”
Extend Shain Library Closing Time to 2:00 A.M.

Over the past ten years, Connecticut College has clearly risen in the ranks of the academic world. Our U.S. News ranking has continued to climb. Our selectivity in admission has greatly increased. It seems as if every year we admit a class with better statistics than the one before. Statistics do not make a leader among our peer schools, but it will allow academic and intellectual life at Connecticut a chance to grow. Shain Library is an excellent resource, and we should ensure that students have every opportunity to benefit from it.

Shain Library is the center of our academic world outside of the classroom. It provides a quiet environment for students to focus solely on academics. However, currently, it remains open only until 11:40 p.m., or 12:00 a.m. during the academic week (Monday through Thursday nights). Such a time will not provide this campus with something unique. Have we not learned that time is finite, and we should take advantage of every moment we have?

Tim Podkul '03

Letters to the Editor

Letters to the Editor are due Friday 5 p.m. for publication. The College Voice reserves the right to edit letters for clarity, but the right to edit letters for clarity is withheld upon the author's request. Anonymous letters will be published. However, names may be withheld if the letter is deemed to be a personal attack on an individual.

Editorial/Opinion

Continuing a Fine Tradition

The College Voice was non-profit until the mid-1960s, when it was formed into a student-run corporation. Our current governing board consists of fewer than 2,000 students, each student providing one vote. The voice of the students are the opinions of this publication. As the student newspaper for Connecticut College, it is an institution to which we owe our gratitude. We do not necessarily reflect the views of this organization.

Editorial Board

Jared Sarnet

Profiles

George Basketk Kids today...

For the 1999-2000 academic year, george basketk children's books and the learning company joined forces, creating a brand new program. The result? George basketk kids today... is an educational program that helps children learn while having fun.

George basketk Kids today... is a comprehensive educational program that offers children a variety of activities and games to help them learn and develop. The program includes a range of activities, such as puzzles, games, and interactive activities to help children develop their reading, writing, and math skills.

George basketk Kids today... is a perfect way for parents to help their children develop their skills and learn while having fun. With a variety of activities and games, the program offers a fun and engaging way for children to learn and develop.

Letters to the Editor

College Must Rest Less on Visiting Professors, Hire More Tenure-Track Pros

Professor Paxton will not be teaching History 252 (Medieval Europe) next semester. This is highly unfortunate, not only because Medieval history is her area of expertise and (as the College's only current Medieval Studies major) I value her, but because she is a fabulous teacher. He is not teaching the course because he has moved on to the U of C, a more seminar-oriented institution, and the College may lose the chance to have a scholar of this caliber teach the course. This is highly unfortunate, indeed.

I would like to respond to Jay Seeman's article "Activism Must Be Based on Knowledge" which appeared in the Collegian October 29, 1999. I have been a member of Amnesty International, an international human rights organization, for 15 years now, and I am the former Amnesty International's Death Penalty Abolition Coordinator for the State of Connecticut and one of the three Connecticut College chapter of Amnesty International student presidents.

"There seems to be a growing trend among the young who feel educated in political activism... "I think the administration is wise in wanting our faculty to serve as well as advisors. Often, they do not get to offer the same class multiple times. Their classes have been held up to extremely high standards. They do not know the College environment, and they are not served as well as advisors. They are often the most experienced person. We have an extremely rigorous hiring process for tenured professors. Professors among the best for students to learn about the same class, through the careful processes of becoming full time, permanent members of the faculty. There are a couple of things that can be done to help improve this situation.

The first is for President Gaudiosi to grant more of our tenured faculty tenure, so that we have more mature professors on staff. The second is to consider the creation of tenure tracks. Between the middle of the academic year, and the start of the next academic year, the middle third of the academic year is to be filled with visiting faculty. This is one way of doing this. There will undoubtedly come a day when a person or an issue will challenge your view of the world. When this happens, you may want to consider joining the 221 signatures are the most we have ever received on a petition...
It's not too late.

Get involved. x2812
The College Voice

Dear Editor,

[Letter text]

Sincerely,
[Signature]

Letters to the Editor
Due Wednesdays at 5 pm
Box 4970 • Fax x2843 • ccvoice@conncoll.edu

---

Takes More Than a Plan to Increase Diversity

ELISE DANIELLES

Course is a very "white" campus, composed of 224 multicultural and minority students compared to the approximately 1600 Caucasian students. The minority students feel that the amount of attention given to the "minority" students in the College community—a situation the First Year Plan will not change.

The First Year Plan intends to increase the diversity of the campus by admitting more students of color and hiring a more diverse faculty. "By 2005, twenty percent of our students will be from historically under-represented American communities. Another 10 percent will be other students of color from anywhere in the world." Among the "You One talks," the plan calls for "enhancing financial aid and accepting students of color in the Class of 2004" as well as including multiculturalism and diversity in the curriculum. The basic purpose of these talks was to create a plan for increasing diversity, but who wants to be the guinea pigs of an experiment to increase the fraction of fewer than fifteen percent minority populations?

Regardless of the First Year Plan's "silent, unimposed segregation" will and does occur. By nature, minorities feel more comfortable among other minorities. In the hypothesis, however, is that if we were to abolish multi-cultural housing (Konzkhoffer Dormitory) and Unity House, the student body would suddenly become more homogeneously diverse. So to speak, by allowing each minority an even number of minority students, minorities will be able to hang out with Caucasian students. What's more, networking may be bound to favor those minorities and Caucasians who are obviously similar to the fact that integration is more than mixing just skin color and ethnicity.

The First Year Plan does little to create this "integration" (Valleymoorthy, a senior major in Africana Studies). "I'm in first year studies...use the middle class thing even. You still have to worry about the middle class thing, too." Taylor also notes that we shouldn't be "trying to use African-American studies as instruction." Classrooms will be segregated, too.

But who is going to oversee the admissions process and make sure we aren't admitting more minorities that are qualified, just so we can show off our "multi-cultural society?" The California Supreme Court recently came to this conclusion: "Whatever the processes of admission, they must be racially neutral. Whatever methods used and standards used, they must be applied without regard to race." And whatever minority students do make their way into the College, students seem to feel that we are obsessed with the topic of diversity rather than individual achievement. McGregor Bundy writes about court deals causing affirmative action or qualification to educational institutions notes, "what does exist...is a successful program of affirmative action which has been grouped in a racially neutral, truly color-blind way. Those who believe in racially neutral ways to help racial minorities in selective colleges and professional schools simply cannot have it both ways. Their motives are admirable. But they are definitely the impossible." If it is true to believe what we are all adults, our views and friends are not going to change unless we want them to...
THE ROOTS ROCK CONN COLLEGE WITH TRADEMARK SOUND

Space Coyote: Ready for Big Time

By TIM PODKUL

When I walked in I saw the family of seven sitting closely in the room made for one. It was only by the end of the hour that I realized how much of a family they really are. Space Coyote, a Conn College original, consists of Michael Hubbard, and bass player turned front man. This group has been in attendance for five years straight. The Roots had to recall the last year for their last performance. They finished their set with a hit, "The Bridge Is Over," and "Eminem's Daughter." Space Coyote is a band that performs with no limitations. They are able to change their songs to fit any venue or any audience. Space Coyote also played with such bands as Zen Coyote, The Iron Giant, and Canopy Stream. Starting in 1994, these groups have made leaps and bounds in the musical world. They are constantly growing and creating new sounds. They have come a long way from playing for the Conn College faculty.

The minute The Roots arrived, you could tell something special was about to happen. There is always that book you love to love, that you know in history and culture. The Clash were the most exciting band of their era, and they are clearly influential in that respect. I realize that it’s probably unfair to say they are the band to label this band by these two individuals. They can stand by me? No way! Did you see that show? It was sick. It was like a whole new world. The Clash were the most exciting band you could ever see. I remember that they showed this that their songs were and never heard Space Coyote, their music sounds more like rock and roll after graduation. But that brings me back to my overall impression that made it into the music scene which they

Clash Classics Find a New Home

By BRIE DEKAH

Anne’s Bistro

Anne’s Bistro - (in, F. Park) small village restaurant or tavern serving regional fare

Anne’s Kitchen began in 1970 as a catering business which Anne operated out of her home while raising her children. By 1986, she had outgrown her home kitchen and decided to expand the catering and open a restaurant. Anne’s Kitchen was opened in the Old Lyme Shopping Center in 1966 with seating for 18 as a gourmet deli/bakery.

Ten years later, in 1996, the business once again outgrew its quarters and moved to this location. To fit all a gourmet deli/bakery, the new restaurant became Anne’s Kitchen & Bistro to reflect the addition of evening meals. Anne’s is now open five days a week for breakfast, lunch and dinner with seating for 40. Patrons can also enjoy outdoor dining on the patio. The catering business started 20 years ago still thrives here.

Welcome to Anne’s Kitchen and Bistro. Bon Appetit!

---

Tuesday - Saturday

Breakfast - Lunch - Dinner

Old Lyme Marketplace

Hall Road

Old Lyme, CT 06371

Tel (860) 434-5871 • Fax (860) 434-FOOD

Space Coyote: Ready for Big Time

By TIM PODKUL

When I walked in I saw the family of seven sitting closely in the room made for one. It was only by the end of the hour that I realized how much of a family they really are. Space Coyote, a Conn College original, consists of Michael Hubbard, and bass player turned front man. This group has been in attendance for five years straight. The Roots had to recall the last year for their last performance. They finished their set with a hit, "The Bridge Is Over," and "Eminem's Daughter." Space Coyote is a band that performs with no limitations. They are able to change their songs to fit any venue or any audience. Space Coyote also played with such bands as Zen Coyote, The Iron Giant, and Canopy Stream. Starting in 1994, these groups have made leaps and bounds in the musical world. They are constantly growing and creating new sounds. They have come a long way from playing for the Conn College faculty. The space they provide for The Roots in the auditorium is nothing close to what they are capable of performing. "Once again, The Roots are the band to label this band by these two individuals. They can stand by me? No way! Did you see that show? It was sick. It was like a whole new world. The Clash were the most exciting band you could ever see. I remember that they showed this that their songs were..."
Local Muralist Makes Big Time at Lyman Allyn

By BETH YOCAM

With the success of both the Hyperion mural and the mural at the Nathan Hale school, Terry Davis, a.k.a. Dave-o, is making a name for himself as an artist. His current project is a large mural at the Nathan Hale School.

Interested in painting from an early age, Dave-o went on to school in New Haven. Upon graduating, he started working in restaurants, doing everything from raking leaves to cooking in the kitchen. None of these jobs gave him the outlet for his artistic talents he was looking for. So he decided to pursue his career in a different path.

When he was 11 years old, Dave-o went to the Lyman Allyn Art Museum. The finished mural was so amazing that it inspired him to paint murals. He did not make a sketch of the mural, which he did with pleasure.

The mural, which he did with pleasure, is a large ocean scene at the Nathan Hale school. Terry Davis, a.k.a. Dave-o, is making a name for himself as an artist.

The finished mural was so amazing that it inspired him to paint murals. He did not make a sketch of the mural, which he did with pleasure.

The mural, which he did with pleasure, is a large ocean scene at the Nathan Hale school. Terry Davis, a.k.a. Dave-o, is making a name for himself as an artist.

The mural, which he did with pleasure, is a large ocean scene at the Nathan Hale school. Terry Davis, a.k.a. Dave-o, is making a name for himself as an artist.

The mural, which he did with pleasure, is a large ocean scene at the Nathan Hale school. Terry Davis, a.k.a. Dave-o, is making a name for himself as an artist.

The mural, which he did with pleasure, is a large ocean scene at the Nathan Hale school. Terry Davis, a.k.a. Dave-o, is making a name for himself as an artist.
Student Arrested for DWI After Route 32 Accident

Riccardo Rinaudi, 20, was arrested and charged with driving while intoxicated by New London Police that had conducted a traffic stop of his car on Route 32 in New London. Rinaudi was described as "sleeping" in the street while the officers were questioning his vehicle’s passengers about the accident.

After reviewing his blood alcohol content level of 0.187, Rinaudi was released on $500 bond with a court date of November 9th.

Massachusetts School of Law

Although it also produces highly prescribed programs seen on one of the nation’s television and a ground conforming magazine that is on sale across the country, MLSL main focus is not finding you the place you will support the legal profession and enhance your research and research skills, we have compiled both research tool in writing, statistics, and author, and write specialized legal documents. If you are a lawyer, you will be able to assist you in regular practice these skills.

The non-specialized skills that you will bring, and as the ability to analyze problems, answers and organize facts, will write and speak persuasively, you will find your opportunities in the legal field to manipulate your legal skills.

MLS, teaches you of these crucial skills at a time that is by far the lowest of any law school in the New England—about half the median within region in New England. The following chart of full-time tuition is shown.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>School</th>
<th>1st Year</th>
<th>2nd Year</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>School 1</td>
<td>$10,300</td>
<td>$11,200</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>School 2</td>
<td>$10,400</td>
<td>$11,200</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>School 3</td>
<td>$10,500</td>
<td>$11,200</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>School 4</td>
<td>$10,600</td>
<td>$11,200</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>School 5</td>
<td>$10,700</td>
<td>$11,300</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

* LSAT not required * Rolling Admissions

Classes enter in January 2000 and August 2000

300 Federal Street, Andover, MA 01810 (978) 681-0800

Sarah Lawrence College at Oxford offers students the unprecedented opportunity to work individually with Oxford faculty in private tutorials, the hallmark of an Oxford education.

Open is qualified undergraduate, it is only visiting student program sponsored by an American college that gives students from other colleges access to the full range of tutors and disciplines of Oxford University’s 37 colleges. In addition, each student has a wide range of privileges in Walmsley College. This special relationship gives students access to the College’s junior common rooms, athletic teams, literary dining halls and social events, as well as voting rights in the Student Union.

School of 122,054

http://www.sarahlawrence.edu

Real Jobs ROCK!

get paid to surf the web
www.AllAdvantage.com
FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1999

Conn Offers New Major in Women’s Studies

Professor Alexander points out that the major is unique and offers opportunities for interdisciplinary study.

The Strategic Plan proposes to increase the profile and visibility of the school in the world, which will promote student satisfaction and ultimately benefit the institution. The Conn community is a unique and vibrant group of individuals who are committed to excellence in education and professional development. The Conn community is committed to providing a supportive and engaging learning environment for all students.
CAMELSPORTS

A FITTING END

Women's Soccer Ends Season With 0-4 Loss

By: MATTHEW KESSLER

The women's soccer team ended its season last Saturday, as the Lady Camels lost to Bates College 0-4. It was the fifth time in seven games that Bates had beaten the Camels. Bates had never scored more than two goals in a game in its meeting with Bates this year. The game was tied 1-1 through 74 minutes before Bates scored two goals in the final minutes of the game.

The Camels outshot Bates 10-7 in the game, but Bates outshot the Camels 8-0 in the second half. Bates had more corners (7-2) and more possession of the ball (67.7% to 32.3%). Bates had nine shots on goal, while the Camels had one. Bates' goalie Katie Fasick made one save and the Camels' goalie Meghan Barry made six saves.

Bates' first goal came in the 30th minute on a penalty shot. Bates' second goal came in the 62nd minute on a header from sophomore forward Molly McAullife. Bates' third goal came in the 69th minute on a penalty shot.

The Camels had their best chances to score in the first half of the game. In the 10th minute, freshmen midfielders Jennifer Ryan and Lauren Eckhoff set up a chance for sophomore forward Taryn McKenna to score, but Barry was able to save the shot. In the 17th minute, sophomore midfielder Sarah Luciano set up a chance for McKenna to score, but Barry was able to save the shot again.

The Camels had another good chance to score in the 32nd minute. Sophomore forward Lauren Foulke set up a chance for sophomore forward McKenna to score, but Barry was able to save the shot.

Bates had its best chance to score in the second half of the game. In the 60th minute, Bates' goalie Katie Fasick made a save on a shot from freshman forward McKenna. In the 62nd minute, Bates' goalie made a save on a shot from sophomore forward McKenna.

The Camels have a losing season of 0-9-1, while Bates has a winning season of 7-4-1. Bates will play in the NESCAC championship game on Saturday, while the Camels will play in the NESCAC consolation game on Saturday.

UPDATE

ON THE FIELD

Field Hockey Team Will Learn from Defeat

By: NED DEBARY

Field hockey lost its final game of the season to Middlebury College 2-0 on Saturday. The Camels had their chances to score, but were unable to capitalize on them.

In the first half, the Camels had a 4:5 edge in shots and a 1:0 edge in corners, but were unable to score. The Camels were unable to score because they were unable to get the ball past the Middlebury goalie.

In the second half, the Camels had a 5:4 edge in shots and a 0:1 edge in corners, but were unable to score. The Camels were unable to score because they were unable to get the ball past the Middlebury goalie.

The Camels' goalie, Meghan Barry, made 11 saves in the game. The Middlebury goalie, Katie Fasick, made 10 saves in the game.

The Camels have a losing season of 0-9-1, while Middlebury has a winning season of 7-4-1. Middlebury will play in the NESCAC championship game on Saturday, while the Camels will play in the NESCAC consolation game on Saturday.

IM UPDATE

Middlebury scored an empty-net goal in the 60th minute of the game, while the Camels had no goals in the game.

Middlebury scored an empty-net goal in the 60th minute of the game, while the Camels had no goals in the game.