DELEGATES RESIGN

Student Government
Holds Special Meeting

A special meeting of the Student Government Association was called for the purpose of reconsidering the delegates to the Des Moines Convention. There had been a great amount of dissatisfaction among the student body in regard to the manner in which the delegates were chosen. Now that the results from the recent election of the Student Government at the University at the University of California had been announced, the Student Government felt that the delegates were not chosen in a fair manner. It was decided to call for the resignation of the three delegates. After a great deal of discussion, it was voted that two days should be given over to voting, so that each girl could vote as she desired and decide exactly whom she wished to have represent her at Des Moines. Nominations and elections were carried on by closed ballot.

NEW HORIZON

“THE NEW HORIZON”

GYPYS SMITH, JR. SPEAKS

Connecticut College was fortunate in having a speaker at Vesper, Sunday afternoon, Gypsy Smith, Jr., son of the man who is known on five continents as an evangelist and an ardent preacher to our boys in the trenches during the Great War. Mr. Smith chose as his subject the great words of Christ. “Follow Me.” His urgent appeal was for the people of all nations to give up worldly ways and become Christians in the true sense of the word. “And what,” asked Mr. Smith, “is a Christian? Is it by being a member of the church that we become Christians? No one can be a Christian who does not possess the spirit of Christ.”

THE CHILDREN’S MOVIES

The Service League has given its second Children’s Movie Show. It returns more than covered the expenses and the pictures were pronounced a success. About 450 young people came in the morning. Those who have made them a success.

SENIOR MEETING

At a meeting of the Senior Class held December third, the “Comedy of Errors” was chosen as the Senior play. The schedule of try-outs will soon be posted, and the girls are urged to come out enthusiastically for the parts in which they are interested. By a class vote “Pep” is to be returned to the kennels from which he came. It is with much regret that we must announce a “feather” for the Sr. class. Katherine Hurlburt, ’21, assistant cheer leader, conducted the singing.

SENIORS SING

The Seniors were able to have a stone wall sing on Friday evening without rain. The combination of the cold, clear night, and the many voices was most effective. Katherine Hurlburt, ’21, assistant cheer leader, conducted the singing.
Besides our regular college calendar we have a social calendar which was arranged last year. What is the use of having this second calendar if it is constantly being supplemented, and if the affairs do not take place when they are scheduled.

Politics on a college campus is unnecessary, unfair and thoroughly objectionable.

Perhaps, if the subjects to be brought up at these meetings are arranged along with the notice of these meetings "post mortem" could be eliminated.

Girls with very good useful and constructive ideas excuse their silences by saying that they simply can't talk or that the language is too difficult to define or to describe except by saying that they place an un-American and un-democratic interpretation upon "a". This is shown in the attitude of certain girls, an attitude which is difficult to define or to describe except by saying that they place an un-American and un-democratic interpretation upon "a".

An Error

There was an error in Column Notes last week. The note about dinner at Mrs. Power's should have read: "All students must be chaperoned at Mrs. Power's after 7.30 p.m."

Matters to Think About

Connecticut College has three hundred and five students. Non-academic groups on campus which meet regularly are the Literary Club, Mandol'n Club, Service League, Dramatic Club, Forensic Circle, French Club, Spanish Club, Ukulele Club, Community Sing, Dramatic Club, Three Disraeli Groups, History Club, Mathematics Club, Class Meeting, Student Council, Alumni Association, Student Council, Könne Board and News Staff.

The phrase, "C. C.'s always different" is being used to cover a multitude of sins and omissions.
The first unavoidable relationship of social workers to capital is that of the capitalist to the social worker. The question arises as to what extent shall a social worker shape his activities in order to obtain support from men of wealth? It is regrettable that there is at present this dependence.

However, the alternative commonly sought is such that we can hardly make a choice. For the only other source to which charitable organizations may turn for maintenance is the state—that is, to politics. Social reform has always been one of the greatest tools in the hands of the politician. He achieves his own selfish goal through pretexts of "utopian" legislation and through many "friend of the under dog" speeches. The opportunity for political favoritism and for party promotions is too large and they have been practiced far too much in this field to permit further gain by a stronger hold. So the relation of social workers to capital is that of the greatest tools in the hands of the capitalist.

Here again that blinds the eye of the capitalist to the satisfaction of the authorities. He is prepared to meet any demand for grievances unless this is in your power, your spirit which should be a "Yo M. C. A. motto. Did you ever stop to think about yours?—and adopt as your motto positive, active, SPIRIT.

Federal agents declare that evidence has been secured to show that the injunction issued by the United States against the coal strike has been violated. In fact any statement by miners in sympathy with the strike or any agreement to continue on strike is considered a violation of the injunction. The miners have not returned to work and the output remains at one-third of normal, practically that of the non-union mines. The Fuel Administration has "issued a detailed analysis of the position taken by the State Department. "In dealing with this case, the Administration is regarding it merely as one of a long train of wrongs in which Mexican Government has failed to act to the satisfaction of the authorities at Washington."

It involves no tendency towards insurrection, and the effort towards orderly processes of government. That is upon which he had reached the decision that under present conditions no action is required or is in conflict with the right of free speech. Anything really worth while should enlist your cooperation, my cooperation, everybody's cooperation. And if it fails in your power, you must realize that your spirit which should be a "Yo M. C. A. motto. Did you ever stop to think about yours?—and adopt as your motto positive, active, SPIRIT.

"Spirit, mind and body" thus reads the Y. M. C. A. motto. Did you ever stop to think about yours?—and your spirit?—You say, "Of course I've got ours, everyone has." and that's all you think about it. You never bother to wonder whether it's a good healthy wide-awake spirit or a lazy sleepy one? and too many of us have sleepy ones. We are no accustomed to big enterprises in this wonderful present-day world that we're always taking them for granted. Something tremendously big like the Americanization movement may win a word of approbation from us. We say it is a good thing and let the matter drop.

The prompt establishment of drastic action to increase the supply of coal on hand, in fact, shade trees are being cut down near Lincoln for fuel. For a day or at least, if it is expected that the government will withhold the necessary action increase the productive power of the laborers. He is prepared to meet any demand for grievances unless this is in your power, your spirit which should be a "Yo M. C. A. motto. Did you ever stop to think about yours?—and adopt as your motto positive, active, SPIRIT.

Grown in the 20th Century can you afford to be asleep? Ask yourselves that question and you must answer, Yes, unless you want to risk the world a world which is not actually in conflict with a reasonable understanding of the right of free speech.

Dean Nye's Discussion Group, 110 State St.

Dean Nye's discussion group met as usual Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The subject under discussion was "The Religion of the Greeks and Romans."
