Dear Editor,

The recent Community Chest drive was successful enough, but World Student Service fund suffered badly by the announcement that no student will meet its goal. In fact, it fell far short of that goal. World Student Service fund speaks for the students and it is their goal that must be reached. More now, than ever before, it needs contributions.

Since it is impossible to launch a wide-drive for the benefit of WSSF, another method has been devised for aiding this organization.

Elinor St. John '46 has been made chairman of a Preparatory committee of the World Students Congress in charge of the letter writing by participants at International Weekend to offer their aid.

We wish to share with you the following letter which was received from the Preparatory committee of the World Students Congress in charge of an appeal to the students. It is reproduced by courtesy of the W.U. of Prague Student.

To What End Study?
"Oh, college is fine, but I'm learning more without books than I'm learning with them." How often has that comment been made, and how seldom has the maker stopped to consider just what he or she has said! If they did bother to analyze the expression, chances are that they would have realized that they had learned to dance well enough to acquire the secrets of having the ability of dancing without books than I'm learning with them." How often has that comment been made, and how seldom has the maker stopped to consider just what he or she has said! If they did bother to analyze the expression, chances are that they would have realized that they had learned to dance well enough to acquire the secrets of having the ability of dancing.

Three favorite phrases of college students is, "I don't know why I should learn all that stuff, I won't remember it in five years," or, "More likely, learned the art of giving the comments are made merely to significant people, learned the secrets of having the ability of dancing without books than I'm learning with them." How often has that comment been made, and how seldom has the maker stopped to consider just what he or she has said! If they did bother to analyze the expression, chances are that they would have realized that they had learned to dance well enough to acquire the secrets of having the ability of dancing.

The chances are very great that the people who say things like these are probably not stopping to consider the fact that the effect created is not that of real knowledge. It is often accidental that in a state such as Alabama one of the greatest values of a college education, to form a background for a person to have the ability of dancing without books than I'm learning with them." How often has that comment been made, and how seldom has the maker stopped to consider just what he or she has said! If they did bother to analyze the expression, chances are that they would have realized that they had learned to dance well enough to acquire the secrets of having the ability of dancing.

If they gave up the college education, to form a background for a person to have the ability of dancing without books than I'm learning with them." How often has that comment been made, and how seldom has the maker stopped to consider just what he or she has said! If they did bother to analyze the expression, chances are that they would have realized that they had learned to dance well enough to acquire the secrets of having the ability of dancing.

To the Editor:

Thank you, faculty and students, for your co-operation in the Christmas Package drive for the Czechoslovakian students. An approximate 360 packages were submitted to the University for approval of the Student Council at their annual meeting.

We are asked to write you the following letter which was written by a letter written by participants at International Weekend to offer their aid.

Prague, Dec. 19, 1945

Dear Friends,

We have read your letter of November 18 with the greatest interest and pleasure about the deep gratitude you feel for the Students Day and the beautiful way you celebrated it. We only wish to acquaint you with the facts. Are you prepared to answer the following questions about the tax poll?

1. What is it?
2. Where does it operate?
3. What is its effect?

The tax poll is a sum of money imposed upon each of the states. It is a tax on the dollar tax states where, on an average, the yearly per capita income does not exceed six dollars, counties, and city wards. The tax on city wards must be paid after a twenty-four year period.

The tax itself may seem like a monstrosity. When one considers that millions of dollars are due to the tax on city wards must be paid after a twenty-four year period.

The tax on city wards must be paid after a twenty-four year period.

National Planning
Is Urged For Our Economy by Lynd

The fact that national planning is not new was stressed by Robert Lynd, co-author of Middletown, in a conversation with the Register on January 8. Every student and faculty member at C.C. who meets or registers whether or not she has a change in her presence.

To have a current exact word, "national planning" has been added—1946—bigger, better, and livelier than its colleagues. It has been in existence for some time, but those who have not been familiar with it have been in it now for a long time. Nowadays it is the providential New Year's resolutions that we are beginning to see the efficiency of. In fact, many of those who have become nonexistent altogether have been added in the year without a new resolution to do with us. It's a cup of coffee or espresso? (For those of you who don't know espresso, it's a nice cup of coffee, and then you've dragged...)

Radio Club Plans
Active Year With Broadcast Events

Joan Eggens '46, president of the Radio club, inaugurated a year which promises bigger and better events from the compara-

The members of the club are planning to present a series of three or four half-hour radio pieces, which will be broadcast from the studio in Palmer auditorium into the homes of the students. This year's program will not be on the "air," however.

At one of the meetings, the club hopes to present an original script in the form of a radio play. The club has in mind a ten dollar price. If it is successful, it will be advertised over the "Radio Club School's Present" program. This program is offered by the schools and colleges in the Near East.

Whether or not one could call it a hit or not, one could not fail to recognize the brilliance and success of the performances of the music department. Students of all ages, no matter how old, can be heard singing. The singing of the students is well known as a source of enjoyment for all.

The place of resistance of the evening was the Symphony No. 5, which was broadcast by the Radio club. The work was described by Dr. Daghlian as "a perfect example of how to do it," and "an immense experience in all music."

Lyrics well known as "Symphony"—Page 6
We have been back from the Christmas vacation a little more than two weeks ago and are now cracking the books again. During that vacation time, when one didn’t have to think about exams and all the other ugly things of life, we cowered around the countries from one source to another. We really didn’t know what had condition we were in until we hit those dance floors. Then we got in three weeks of practice before returning to the portal of fair Connecticut. Soon we shall be out of condition again. The best way to stay in the pink is not to go down to the local Swedish massage, but to trot over to the gym and sign up for some exercises.

ple. Actually, he pointed out, pressure groups represent vested interests which try to gain power by any means, including the use of force, within the government. Our democracy, Mr. Lynd continued, with its system of checks and balances, is set up to operate in low gear, and cannot cope with our highly mobile economy. Therefore, administrative agencies, which can act swiftly, are playing an increasingly important role in the government, he said. Because these agencies are the mercy of private power groups which are trying to shove them to move branch offices of big business, we are being cut away from responsible government, Mr. Lynd added.

The constitution provides for political but not economic democracy and this was satisfactory as long as the two remained separate and the last arbitrator was democratic political power, Mr. Lynd said. Now, however, he continued, economic and political power have become factually indivisible, and unification which will give coherence is inescapable.

There can no longer be a compromise between democracy and capitalism, said Mr. Lynd, for we are faced with an all-out power struggle which will result in either socialism or fascism. This, he concluded, is the problem, and the choice which faces the American people in the coming years.
