Inventory Reveals 169 Books Missing

Miss Hazel A. Johnson, college librarian, stated last week 169 books are missing from the third level of the library stacks alone. The Mary E. Kirby and Gipper News results of the annual inventory of 1965, the library's fifth level of stacks.

The purpose of the library, Miss Johnson said, is to provide a place to make something available. Therefore, it is neat for us to be able to replace these lost books, frequently a difficult and costly operation.

Often, the books are out of print. In this case, the library advertisements in "The American Antiquarian Bookseller," a journal of rare books and rare book dealers, an inventory of books a year. 1969.

Another problem facing the library is the volume of books which are placed in one area of the library, with different editions or an entire new set of books. A new area of the library has been opened up to the library for $12.50.

One alternative employed by the library is to borrow the books from another library and borrow the pages.

Another problem facing the library is the demand of books from a variety of books a different edition also. a new, less recent or an entire new set of books. It is not desirable to buy a whole area of a library with the books, the library will buy.

An additional alternative employed by the library is to borrow the books from another library and return the pages.

To the Editor:

I would like to congratulate and thank the Student Council and Kathy Doyle who brought The Fantasticks to the College on Nov. 31. The group was excellently cast, both as actors and singers, and the play was wonderfully entertaining for all! Ticket sales were handled smoothly and the College stage crew worked very efficiently. I hope this success will encourage more of the same.

Physical Education

By George Romoser

Because the Physical Education Department is endeavoring to offer a more balanced physical activity schedule to the College population, we would like to take this opportunity to present the bases of the current programming.

The program is based first on the students' needs for the human body, which includes physical and mental health, and to help maintain a level of physical fitness which will contribute to the future emotional and physical well-being of the students. It is also based on sound scientific evidence for the development of a healthy, active lifestyle. The program is designed to be challenging, motivating, and physically and mentally stimulating. In addition, the program is designed to provide a foundation for sound physical activity throughout the students' lives.

The program is further directed toward establishing sound patterns of behavior and of regular physical activity. The habits established here should help the students to maintain the future emotional and physical well-being of their lives. We also recognize the importance of a healthy lifestyle and encourage students to exercise regularly.

Senior Melodrama

Due to the expense and unavailability of Talentshows, the Class of 1982 decided not to have a Senior Melodrama this year. We think that Senior Melodrama is a tradition that should be continued, and we hope that the upcoming class will consider this tradition. We believe that participation in the Senior Melodrama would be a great asset to the Class of 1982.

Prof. Kent Returns to Conn After Sabbatical at Berkeley

Dr. John Kent

"I have received for publication a completely different perspective after being away for a year," says Professor Emeritus of Sociology Dr. John Kent.

Kent, who has taught and conducted research in sociology at the University of California at Berkeley for the past 30 years, returned to his office at the University of Connecticut this month. He plans to continue his research on the sociology of family and is currently writing a book on the family in the United States.

Kent's research has focused on the role of the family in shaping individual behavior and in shaping social institutions. He has published extensively on the family and its interaction with society, and his work has been cited in a wide range of academic journals.

In addition to his research, Kent has been active in a number of community organizations, including the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Sociological Association, and the American Academy of Political and Social Science.

University Bridge

By Larry Cohen

Taking preemptive action against the "right" band keeps the opponents from the right contract or having to make a guess as to whether to defend or bid. Today's hand is an example.

East and West are using the weak two bid which is gaining favor with many of the younger players around the country. The bid shows 4-4 high card points and a six card suit. It is most effective when the jump-concentration is in the long suit which should be no worse than K10xx.

North vulnerable placed double in the bare minimum, but he is afraid of being shut out of a game.

East's jumped is a tactical maneuver. He doesn't think four spades will make, but he hopes the opponents might go overboard: South is now in a very uncomfortable position. He makes the wrong decision by bidding five hearts.

South has to play very carefully to hold the losses to down one. (Continued on Page 5, Col. 2)

Five Seniors In English Honors Program
Choose Own Topic, Personal Faculty Advisor

by Gail Goldstein

This year there are 16 girls participating in the English Department's Senior Honors Program. Pat McGurk, Robin Frenze, Gail Chalvov, and Mary Blatter satisfied the requirements of a 2.5 cumulative average and a 3.0 average in their major.

Each participant has chosen her own topic according to academic interest, along with a personal advisor for further guidance and in formation.

Six Americans Post
Pat McGurk, whose advisor is Mr. George Willman, is pursuing a study of six American poets in three centuries, including Lowell and Frost. President Charles E. Shaw adds Ernieндt in the study of her topic, The American Novel of Manners.

Robie Frenze, under the guidance of Miss Edna C. Thompson is studying Spencer's Fairy Owners. With the counsel of Mrs. Jour van der Meer, the American Epic is receiving attention from Roosevelt observers at the end of the day.

Ideal Important
Mary Blatter, from Albany, N.Y., commented, "The ideal of the honors program is important because it affords the student an opportunity to undertake independent study, to discuss a topic with a specialist in that field, and to secure police in public presentation of her research.

Mathematicians with Versatility & Imagination

Look into NSA

Mathematicians are key members of the intelligence community at the National Security Agency, a scientific and technical agency based in the United States, perhaps in the world. NSA is the Agency responsible for developing and employing "cultural" communications systems to transmit and receive vital information.

You and NSA

As a mathematician at NSA, you will be involved in solving communications-related problems, many of which are classified. You will apply mathematics, matrix algebra, finite fields, programming languages and symbolic logic to the problems. NSA is located on beautiful ocean beaches, and other summer and winter activities are available.

Career Benefits

NSA's liberal graduate study program permits you to pursue two masters degrees in one year. Nearly all graduate study costs are paid by NSA. Additionally, the cost of textbooks is an additional subsidy.

Religious Careers: To Be Discussed

"Theological Education and Related Careers" is the subject of the Conference which the Department of Religion is planning for the weekend of February 16-18, 1967. At the 1966 Conference, women holding the degrees: Master of Religious Education, Master of Art in Religion, Bachelor of Divinity and Master of Sacred Music spoke to the girls concerning their preparations for a "Christian Profession." Faculty advisors discussed inter-collegiate, overseas and student work, the teaching of religion, parish ministry, religious education and music, fields for which a student would require graduate work, fields in which the Seminary is seeking to expand and ready to educate the student.

Valerie Smith, '77 and Susan Goffrey, '86 attended the Conference last spring. The spirit of the Conference, according to Valerie was not directed to recruiting students for the Seminary but rather to describe the value of graduate study in the field of religion. Susan was impressed by their visits to churches and the discussions of the importance of the church to the community as a center of cultural and social activities.

Students interested in attending the conference should contact Mr. Wiles. After discussing each student's intentions, Mr. Wiles will submit the names of several students whom he feels are best qualified to attend the conference.
