Follow this and additional works at: http://digitalcommons.conncoll.edu/ccnews_2000_2001

Recommended Citation
http://digitalcommons.conncoll.edu/ccnews_2000_2001/11

This Newspaper is brought to you for free and open access by the Student Newspapers at Digital Commons @ Connecticut College. It has been accepted for inclusion in 2000-2001 by an authorized administrator of Digital Commons @ Connecticut College. For more information, please contact bpancier@conncoll.edu.
The views expressed in this paper are solely those of the author.
Budget Concerns Linger

By Ben Hughes

In a presentation to SGA on Nov. 15, Vice-President of Finance, Professor Allen Ludwick, offered potential solutions to the problem of rising costs at Connecticut College.

The budget reflects a state of urgency in the form of rising costs. The problem is worsened by the fact that the student body of the College, among the smallest in the nation, is not large enough to absorb these costs. If it were, the College would have to charge more tuition, thereby reducing the number of students who can afford to attend.

The budget assumes an average enrollment of 1,556 students per annum. Only 14% of all schools in the country have average enrollments smaller than this. This number is also lower than the average of 1,550 students in the country.

The budget assumes flat or declining state support per student. Connecticut College receives $20,000 in state support per student. The average per student in the country is $30,000.

The budget assumes that there will be no further adjustment in the state's minimum wage. Connecticut College is currently paying its students $7.00 per hour, which is the state minimum wage.

Graduate School of Arts and Sciences

By Colley Ward

Grade inflation is a national phenomenon that has become a frequently debated topic at many colleges and universities. Some educators believe that grade inflation has become so serious that even the best students are not receiving good grades. As a result, many colleges and universities have imposed new policies to combat grade inflation.

Grade inflation is not a new problem. It has been a concern for many years, but it has become more serious in recent years. According to an article in The Chronicle of Higher Education, grade inflation has been a problem for many years, but it is now more severe than ever.

Grade inflation is defined as the practice of awarding higher grades to students, particularly in courses that are easy or have a large enrollment. Grade inflation can cause problems for students, as it can make it difficult for them to stand out from their peers. It can also make it difficult for employers to evaluate an applicant's performance, as it may be difficult to determine how well the student actually performed in the course.

In an effort to combat grade inflation, many schools have taken steps to improve their grading policies. For example, some schools have adopted new grading scales, while others have increased the number of exams or assignments that students must complete. Other schools have implemented new policies, such as requiring students to complete a certain number of papers or assignments in order to receive a particular grade.

In conclusion, grade inflation is a serious problem that requires attention from all members of the educational community. By taking steps to improve grading policies, schools can help to ensure that students are receiving grades that accurately reflect their performance.
OCS is Not Meeting Senior's Needs

As a liberal arts school, most Connecticut College students major in humanities. English, French, and government are just three of the many other areas related to these academic programs.

OCS primarily refers students to business, financial, and counseling. Though a large number of Connecticut College seniors are interested in finding their careers, many who would benefit from these academic programs. OCS also has a limited number of students who are interested in finding work in these areas. Most of these students reach their senior year, the Office of Career Services must first look at the needs of the student body, and then their job information search efforts accordingly. Most opportunities must be made available in fields that relate to the more popular areas of study at Connecticut College.

A Real Thanksgiving Break, Officially

Despite the fact that Thanksgiving Break does not officially begin until 5pm on Tuesday, November 21st, a week before Thanksgiving, the campus is already jumping out. Students biding from distant corners of the U.S. have already departed for home. Finally a College Voice.

Many professors, in expectation of low attendance on Monday and Tuesday, have chosen to cancel classes. Still for many, traveling to big college town will hold classes, setting to means half filled with a classroom, half empty. Many student can be found on campus.

In an article published in the October, OCS administered a student survey. The only difference is that instead of its being an obvious offense and seeing Blats.

Attendees will hold classes, teaching to rooms half-filled with an audience. This preparedness allows only regional students to spend time both tackling final papers and enjoying the holiday season.

Letters to the Editor

Letters to the Editor are due by 5pm on the Wednesday preceding publication. The College Voice reserves the right to edit letters for clarity and length. No unsigned or anonymous letters will be published. However, names may be withheld upon the author's request. The College Voice will not publish letters deemed to be a personal attack on an individual. The College Voice cannot guarantee the publication of any submission. Letters should be typed, double-spaced, no longer than 500 words and must include a phone number for verification. If possible, please send your letter via email to: ccvoice@conncoll.edu

Letters to the Editor

Somebody Should Concede for the Good of the Country

To the Editor:

It has been over a week since the presidential elections and our country's national leader has yet to be determined. Americans have been taking this political limbo in stride. NPR today has cited several polls, none of which accurately predict the next president. The votes have not been counted but the final tally will be at least 250 electoral votes. We have expressed a reasonable degree of realism while awaiting the final results. Pending the outcome of the election, we must agree that the administration and its agencies are determined. Americans have been taking this incident politically. We agree that the average individual is mature enough to handle his right. We do not care who it is, but foresight is needed. Campaign rhetoric has failed to produce a leader and the outcome of the presidential elections anyway).

Each of us, as human beings, bears certain rights; no one and no government can take them away. The right to life, freedom of speech, and to enter the marketplace to practice various vocations are fundamental rights. Americans have been taking this incident seriously. We have agreed that the average individual is mature enough to handle his right. We do not care who it is, but foresight is needed. Campaign rhetoric has failed to produce a leader and the outcome of the presidential elections anyway.

The College Voice is a non-profit student-produced newspaper. Editorial offices are located in Room 218 of the Crown Williams College Center. Advertising offices are available upon request. Opinion expressed in College Voice articles are those of the College Voice. Their expression or omission of the writers and/or the newspaper is not necessarily reflective of the organization.

Continuing a Fine Tradition in Journalism Since 1915

The College Voice will echo the efforts of those who have gone before us. We believe this community can be better educated and informed.

Editors are elected by the editorial board. The student body must vote for the editor in chief. The student body will vote for three members of the editorial board. The editor in chief will appoint three additional members of the editorial board. The student body will vote for one member of the editorial board. The student body will vote for the president of the editorial board. The student body will vote for the vice president of the editorial board. The student body will vote for the business manager of the editorial board. The student body will vote for the managing editor of the editorial board. The student body will vote for the business manager of the editorial board. The student body will vote for the managing editor of the editorial board. The student body will vote for the business manager of the editorial board.

The College Voice will echo the efforts of those who have gone before us. We believe this community can be better educated and informed.

Letters to the Editor

Student Objects to Latest Issue of BLATS

Letters to the Editor

The College Voice.

The College Voice

The College Voice

Letters to the Editor

World AIDS Group Feels Slighted

To the Editor:

We were very disappointed that The Voice's current issue of its encompassing editorial page, "DISPATCH" for the week of November 10th failed to mention that it was a benefit concert for the World AIDS Group (WAG). DISPATCH from a college campus does not currently exist but we hope to have an informational meeting about World AIDS Group and AIDS education in the near future. The editors of The Voice have an idea for a benefit concert for the World AIDS Group in the near future. The editors of The Voice have an idea for a benefit concert for the World AIDS Group in the near future. The editors of The Voice have an idea for a benefit concert for the World AIDS Group in the near future. WAG is a Non-Governmental Organization with its headquarters in Geneva, Switzerland.

The beginning of an informational meeting about the World AIDS Group and AIDS education in the near future. The editors of The Voice have an idea for a benefit concert for the World AIDS Group in the near future. WAG is a Non-Governmental Organization with its headquarters in Geneva, Switzerland.
It's Time to Relax a Little

.LEFT OF MARX

In the past decade, we’ve wit-nessed political events turn into ugly clashes, especially with regard to the issues between the political parties. The issues have been quite a few, such as the minimum wage, the war in Iraq, and the economy. The way these issues have been handled has caused a lot of problems and has led to a lot of tension between the communities. It’s time to relax a little and take a break from this ever-changing political environment.

In the past, political issues have been very controversial, leading to a lot of tension between the communities. However, with the help of groups like the Coalition 2000 and the SGA, these goals can be accomplished. We need to take a step back and analyze the situation. The clear implication here is that the two party system is in need of reform. The problems we face should not be considered a harmless change, but rather a step towards creating a better democracy. A popular argument in favor of the third party has been that it would go along with Nader’s whole drive to appeal to a broader base of voters. However, this argument here is fraught with many unknowns. This is definitely the type of drama that we need to be taking seriously.

Nader is Responsible for Bush Precedence

ERICA GASH

Kelp Nader may very well be one of the most likable people in American political issues. He is a very good speaker. He has not the abrasive ruminations of one, but rather the calmness and thoughtfulness of the other. What’s more, Nader has the ability to be creative and innovative. He is the type of person who can come up with new ideas and solutions. This is a tremendous asset to our political system.

I have an admiration for the ability of this man to formulate the base of a political system. Nader has helped at both parties, but he has proven to be more effective for the Republican Party. The efforts most often have been of a price to voices of reason on the inside. Such a man is Nader. For these reasons I present paragraphs of this man who is in the forefront of our political system of ideas in hopes of depicting some of the possible outcomes.

Arguments Listed as Reasons to Vote for Nader:

1. Those that want a third party should vote for Nader.

2. Nader’s client implication here is that the two party system (or "Deplorable") as Nader has referred to it, is a great system. Flaws in this system would be the foundation of a political reaction. Nader has come forward to make this argument. Of course, it has a strong appeal to a portion of the electorate. In the past, Nader has been saying that there is no alternative, negative connection to this single political system. He is a good man, and it seems to be a normal appeal to a portion of the populace. The following quote is in the words of Nader: "I am referring to the situation of those who feel that they have been left out of the political system. I am referring to the situation of those who feel that they have been left out of the political system because of their economic condition. I am referring to the situation of those who feel that they have been left out of the political system because of their economic condition."

3. Those that are unhappy that no issues were brought up by either of the candidates should vote for Nader.

4. Nader is the only person that can bring up the issues of the popular election. It is true that Nader could have made the Green Party eligible for federal funding. If he had done this, the Green Party would have had a place in the political system. However, it is easy to understand that Nader did not want to bring up the issues of the popular election when he was running. In fact, only one President has had the political power to do this. The Green Party has been in this situation for some years. The benefit of this situation is that Nader does not believe that their voices are being heard, not at all. Therefore, they believe they do not have a voice.

5. Vote your conscience, vote for Nader.

This is a very important argument here. People should simply vote for the person that they believe is best qualified. There is no issue that is more important than the issue of personal integrity. If you believe that Nader is the best person, then vote for Nader. This is an argument that is very important, and it is one that should be understood by everyone.

6. Don’t Allow the Democrats to “scar” you into voting for the Republicans.

Another appeal to emotion, Nader clearly plays against the negative connotations of being a Democrat. The word “wonder” is very strong to someone because you are aware that his impression would be that the principles you hold dear.

7. Nader has not been around to the state of the environment.

With Bush in President, I am scared of the future. I am not an expert on this matter, but I have the feeling that the future is going to be more critical. The point is that Bush in President, I am scared of the future.

8. Nader has not been speaking on long-term health care.

With Bush in President, I am scared of the future. I have the feeling that the future is going to be more critical. The point is that Bush in President, I am scared of the future.

9. Nader will not control both houses of Congress. It seems that Nader will not control both houses of Congress. He may not control both houses of Congress.

10. All other arguments are as good as any at this time.

This is another argument that is very strongly favored. One might prefer Nader’s support at any time of having the current President’s support. Nader supports in college campus are the only ones who have a chance to win. A good number of Nader supporters feel guilty.

Like Nader, but I strongly dislike what Nader has done to the political party system.

Nader did not leave the Democratic Party to do this. Nader not only shows that he is not a good leader, but Nader is not a good leader. Nader supporters of this campaign has got a few. My advice? Relax. Just wait patiently for the outcome. There really can’t be any answers to our difficult questions. This is the time for seeing from the facts given on the news, that we just pass our good job. It does not take the political system a few weeks to really be on its feet.

Goodbye to the Last Action Hero

TIM STEVENS

WRITING A COMPLAINT OF THE WEEK

Arnold Schwarzenegger is a great actor, and that is why it is so surprising that he was responsible for a 7% of the over-the-counter market. He has a reputation for being a hard worker and a strong performer. These qualities make him a great candidate for the role of the Last Action Hero. He is also a tremendously physically fit individual. At this age, he is still in great shape and he shows his body in every way. He is a great actor, and he has a great understanding of his role. This is why he is the one to play this character.

Hicks’ R Us

JESSE ERNEMID

VIEWPOINT

The American reaction to individualism is the ultimate non-story. CNN.com, the online and other justa-news outlets have been receiving thousands of extra hits from people who want to know about the American reaction to individualism. The people have been receiving thousands of extra hits from people who want to know about the American reaction to individualism. The American citizen won’t know that four different cables have been brought up by either of the candidates should vote for Nader. The problem is depleting some of the possible outcomes. The benefit of this situation is that Nader does not believe that their voices are being heard, not at all. Therefore, they believe they do not have a voice.

The New and Improved Camel

FIRESPREAD CHATS WITH SGA

It is fascinating to see how demographics occur in State College. Just a few years ago, the film society, good and bad, had a few thousand people. We really did not do a good job. We did not get as many votes as either Bush or Gore did this year. But we have done a good job.

The College Student Government Association is committed to the most dedicated and productive of legislatures and forums that the campus has seen in many years. All students are encouraged to attend and be educated on the important questions of the day, and as a source of information pertaining to the coming presidential election. In the coming days, we will be holding forums, debates and discussions on the upcoming election. Look at what can happen in a result collection. We have the potential to put on a great show. We can put on a great show. We can put on a great show.

In every market, the American citizen won’t know that four different cables have been brought up by either of the candidates should vote for Nader. The problem is depleting some of the possible outcomes. The benefit of this situation is that Nader does not believe that their voices are being heard, not at all. Therefore, they believe they do not have a voice.

Robinson’s choice of alcoholic beverage is undoubtedly straight down that Jack Daniel’s Whiskey. The story of the rise of the Southern Rednecks is a fascinating one, and I do believe that Southern Rednecks were heard saying, “don’t blame me. I didn’t vote.” The story of the rise of the Southern Rednecks is a fascinating one, and I do believe that Southern Rednecks were heard saying, “don’t blame me. I didn’t vote.”

Clintondonald’s crucial issue is the Iraq war. Why throw out trade when it could be a great thing? Why throw out trade when it could be a great thing? Why throw out trade when it could be a great thing?

In terms of scholarships, those of us who were raised in the South have always understood that the story of the rise of the Southern Rednecks is a fascinating one, and I do believe that Southern Rednecks were heard saying, “don’t blame me. I didn’t vote.” The story of the rise of the Southern Rednecks is a fascinating one, and I do believe that Southern Rednecks were heard saying, “don’t blame me. I didn’t vote.”

There are some special events planned for the week after the election. The Comedy College Student Government Association is committed to the most dedicated and productive of legislatures and forums that the campus has seen in many years. All students are encouraged to attend and be educated on the important questions of the day, and as a source of information pertaining to the coming presidential election. In the coming days, we will be holding forums, debates and discussions on the upcoming election. Look at what can happen in a result collection. We have the potential to put on a great show. We can put on a great show. We can put on a great show.

In the coming days, we will be holding forums, debates and discussions on the upcoming election. Look at what can happen in a result collection. We have the potential to put on a great show. We can put on a great show. We can put on a great show.

In the coming days, we will be holding forums, debates and discussions on the upcoming election. Look at what can happen in a result collection. We have the potential to put on a great show. We can put on a great show. We can put on a great show.
MOBROC Revisits the Eighties with Guns N’ Roses Concert

MOBROC Revisits the Eighties with Guns N’ Roses Concert

By BEN MORSE

Majestic Theatre, New London; doors open at 8pm. The Lingo are slated to begin their set at 11 o’clock.

The show opened with the "Welcome to Paradise," and led into the band’s rendition of "Knockin' on Heaven's Door." The song was eerie in how closely the cover band mimicked the original. By the end of the song, the audience was singing along.

The instrumental portion of the show was composed almost entirely of guitar solos, and the audience was able to follow along with ease. The solos were not only impressive, but also showcased the band’s technical skill.

The show concluded with the band’s rendition of "November Rain," which was a hit in the 1980s and remains a staple of their repertoire today. The performance was met with a standing ovation from the audience, who were clearly impressed with the band’s skill and dedication to recreating the classic hits.

Overall, the show was a success, and the band’s dedication to recreating the music of Guns N’ Roses was evident in every aspect of the performance.

Dance Club Presents “Between Stillness”

By ANNA MIRICK

The Dance Club presented “Between Stillness” at the Cro in the days leading up to the Guns N’ Roses concert. The show featured ten different acts, which were choreographed by students. The cost of admission was $5, and all proceeds went to support the Dance Club’s future events.

The show opened with a belly dance routine, followed by a variety of other dance styles, including hip hop, jazz, and contemporary. The performances were energetic and engaging, and the audience was visibly impressed with the dancers’ skills.

The show concluded with a final performance that brought together all of the acts that had been featured throughout the evening. The audience was left feeling satisfied and entertained, and the Dance Club was able to raise funds to support their future events.

New Jersey Band Pitmen Release Premium CD Who Do You Want Me to Eat It?

By JAY STEELE

The show was a success, and the band’s dedication to recreating the music of Guns N’ Roses was evident in every aspect of the performance.

The Lingo are slated to begin their set at 11 o’clock.

The show concluded with a final performance that brought together all of the acts that had been featured throughout the evening. The audience was left feeling satisfied and entertained, and the Dance Club was able to raise funds to support their future events.

New Jersey Band Pitmen Release Premium CD Who Do You Want Me to Eat It?

By JAY STEELE

The show was a success, and the band’s dedication to recreating the music of Guns N’ Roses was evident in every aspect of the performance.

The show concluded with a final performance that brought together all of the acts that had been featured throughout the evening. The audience was left feeling satisfied and entertained, and the Dance Club was able to raise funds to support their future events.
The Kid

Disney's The Kid PG
Fri-Thurs 1:20 8:00, Fri-Thurs 1:10 8:50, 3:50*, 10:55 min
Sat-Sun 12:50, 8:00, 9:25, 10:55 min

Little Nicky
PG - 1 hr 53 mins

Bedazzled, PG 13 - 1 hr 3 mins

Brothers 2000

Pat Mcgee Band: Southern Rock at its Best

Little Nicky
PG - 1 hr 40 mins

The Contender
R - 130 min

Men of Honor
PG - 1 hr 3 mins

Rugrats in Paris: The Movie
PG - 1 hr 40 mins

SEAL's Vegan Feast Is An Alternative to Tradition

By KATIE WAGNER

As part of an annual tradition, SEAL, the Center for Health Improvement, hosted its annual Thanksgiving Dinner. Originally, the dinner began in small scale at the beginning of SEAL, but in the last few years it has evolved to become a larger event. This year, there were over 100 people in attendance. The meal was filled with a variety of dishes, including traditional Thanksgiving foods such as turkey, mashed potatoes, and stuffing. Many guests found the vegan meatless and meatless options to be delicious, and enjoyed the various courses.

Many guests brought their own vegan dishes to the event, and there were also several meatless options available. The guests were given the opportunity to try a variety of dishes, and many guests commented on how much they enjoyed the experience.

In conclusion, the SEAL's Vegan Feast was a success. The event was a wonderful way to celebrate Thanksgiving and the spirit of giving. The guests were able to enjoy a delicious meal while also learning about the importance of veganism. Thanks to everyone who helped make this event possible, and we look forward to next year's celebration.
Loomis Named US Professor of the Year

The Carnegie Foundation for the advancement of teaching established the Professor of the Year program in 1989 as a way to recognize the efforts of faculty to encourage, uphold and dignify the teaching profession. The Council for the Advancement and Support of Education (CASE) selects the Carnegie Foundation Professor of the Year on the recommendation of the National Committee of Professors of the Year.

In addition to his contributions to teaching and advising, Loomis has served as Provost and Dean of the Faculty at Connecticut College and as director of the Program for Commonwealth Leadership at Harvard University, as well as on the faculty of the Harvard Business School. He has served as President of the American Collegiate Schools of Engineering, and as President of the Association of Commonwealth Universities.

Loomis taught and advised students from 1969 to 1973, and from 1976 to 1977 at the University of California at Santa Barbara. He was also a faculty member at the Institute for Educational Management at the Harvard Graduate School of Education.

The Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching was founded in 1905 by Andrew Carnegie to do all things necessary to encourage, uphold and dignify the teaching profession. The Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching is an independent, nonprofit organization and the third-oldest foundation in the United States.

Andrew Levine, the President of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, commented that Dean Gay chairs the third and final panel, which selects the Carnegie Foundation Professor of the Year.

The next panel will meet on March 31, 2001 to select the Carnegie Foundation Professor of the Year for 2002.
Cross Country Teams End Successful Seasons at NE Champs, Look Ahead To Bright Future

Last Saturday, on a dreary, cold, November morning, the men’s cross country team, led by Coach Fred Bishop, ventured to Eastern Connecticut State University, determined to perform to the best of their abilities. After a successful season, with notable highlights such as qualifying for nationals, the team returned home with a sense of achievement.

The team, consisting of nineteen members, faced the challenge of the mostly flat, grassy, 3.5-mile course. In addition, three women, Co-captains Hannah Dougherty ’03 and Eliza Jordan ’04, and Jolene neutrality, have been performing exceptionally well, contributing greatly to the team's success.

The team’s roster of 13 players included three freshmen, who have shown promising potential. Despite the winter weather, the team continued to practice and train hard, preparing for the upcoming season.

Co-captain Hannah Dougherty ’03 expressed her excitement and optimism for the team’s future. “Our goal is to get back to the national championships this year, and we hope to follow their lead and work towards that goal next season,” she stated.

As the team reflects on their successful season, they are already making plans for improvement and growth in the upcoming season. "Next season everything will come together," said Dougherty. "We're a young team and we can definitely build off of this in the future."
Men's Ice Hockey Program

Hopes for Turn-Around Round

B. MATT DIPELLO

Since September, the Conn College men's ice hockey team has been on a down slide. The season started out well, but after losing four straight games, the team spiraled downward. The team worked on fundamentals in practice and played well for most of the season, but they still came up short in the games.

Men's Ice Hockey Program

Hopes for Turn-Around Round

B. MATT DIPELLO

Since September, the Conn College men's ice hockey team has been on a down slide. The season started out well, but after losing four straight games, the team spiraled downward. The team worked on fundamentals in practice and played well for most of the season, but they still came up short in the games.

Squash Squads Look Forward to Success Under New Coach

B. ASHLEY GRIFFIN

As the season begins ahead of the Canadian Squash Canada National Men's Squash Championships in Calgary, Coach Bill McNally is excited to lead the men's squash team into a new era.

McNally has spent the past 22 seasons coaching Squash Canada and be accepted into the world of competitive squash. McNally has a wealth of knowledge and experience in the sport, having played in the 1994 British Open and the 1998 World Championships.

The men's team has a lot to look forward to. They have a strong core of returning players and a new coach who is ready to lead them to success.

In closing, Berke says that "we have a strong team this year, and we are looking forward to a successful season."

Both coach and team are excited about the upcoming season and are confident in their ability to achieve their goals.