INSIDE:

Two Students Injured When River Ridge Balcony Collapses

By Dean James
Staff Writer

On the night of Thursday, November 8, several students were gathered in one of River Ridge apartments, currently occupied by Bob Young and Jed Gallagher. The events of the evening were brought to an abrupt halt when two students, Hille Lina and Sam Ira, fell 15 feet to the ground after the concrete awosh wall of the balcony severed from the balcony floor, leaving Lina with a broken arm and Ira with injuries to his skull.

This incident obviously brings up an issue of maintenance and more importantly an issue of safety for students living on and off campus. Young, who was in the apartment when the events unfolded, said, "If something like this can happen, it seems pretty obvious that there isn't much concern for students' safety on the part of the college. It also speaks something about an obvious flaw in the design of the building. Who knows? There could be plenty of other things around campus that are unsafe."

Conway Campbell, Director of Residential Life and Housing/Student Life, defends that "The College does the best that it can to ensure the safety of the students. However, there are things that are immutable. We try to limit these unanticipated occurrences with things like our balcony policy. We have policies in place to make sure that these balconies are not meant to support people or objects, but it's possible that these policies are observed, even more so, students should be aware of the structure," said Conway.

So far, the college has taken several steps towards making the safety of the students living in the River Ridge apartments and in other areas of campus. Following the accident, Physical Plant has been stationed in the area to repair the void left in the balcony wall, said Norene, Director of Physical Plant Services. "We will also look to replace the replacement wall that existed before."

Merrill Named New Dean of Admission

By Dr. Brown

American News

Two students have been accepted into the new American News, an important update for the college. The new Dean of Admission has been named as toàn B. Osberg, who has been on the college faculty for five years. In his new role, he will be responsible for the college's admission process andfor the college's outreach program.

The new Dean of Admission, toàn B. Osberg, has been working closely with the college administration to ensure a smooth transition to the new position. He has been praised for his leadership and commitment to the college and its students.

Osberg is ready and willing to serve the college as its new Dean of Admission. Although he has always had an interest in education, it was a unifying force in his life. He plans to apply to the Air Force after college. Although he is just, he feels that there's a struggle between the college and the country. He will be able to maintain a balance between the two.

Osberg's appointment is significant because it shows the college's commitment to diversity and inclusivity. The college is looking forward to working with Osberg and supporting him in his new role.
Balcony Collapse a Symptom of the Disease that is Poor Maintenance; College Must Evaluate Housing Safety

A week ago, two students fell through a River Ridge balcony wall and were severely injured. According to witnesses, the students, both fourth-year students, were standing on the balcony wall when it began to sink. The accident occurred during the night of the 13th, and both students were taken to the hospital with severe injuries.

The accident has raised concerns about the safety of the River Ridge dormitories. Dormitory occupants have reported that the balconies are often overloaded with furniture and that the walls are not adequately supported. The university has been criticized for not taking action to address these concerns.

The university has announced plans to inspect all balconies and to strengthen those that are found to be at risk. The university has also pledged to increase security measures to prevent similar accidents from occurring in the future.

Of the 136.5 pounds of trash that were sorted, the following amounts of recyclable materials were found: 11 pounds of high quality paper (86%), 16.5 pounds of cardboard (14%), 39.5 pounds of low quality paper (14.5%). The amount of recyclable materials disposed of in the regular trash was 25.1 pounds. This year's total recycling efforts are not comparable to the previous year's campaign efforts.

Recycling programs have been conducted since 1982 in that time a fluctuating pattern has been discerned. Aside from acquiring statistics to determine trends throughout the year, the trash composition study also serves as a reminder. As a college community we have a well-developed and long-standing recycling program. Recycling facilities are provided in every building on campus making recycling easy. Blue and gray bins have been provided for every dorm room as well. If you do not have these bins please contact the environmental coordinators at extension 5218.

The Trash Composition Study reveals our daily habits. Whether or not we each recycle does not reflect on the quality of our community but our actions as a community that has made recycling easy and accessible. Let us continue to do our part and let us get to the point. The college is not going to waste our money. The administration should stop writing for an excuse to get rich. Hopefully, this accident will prevent any further avoidable accidents.

Soon, more students could be moving off campus housing. By明年 2002 residents will be able to rent a student athletic center roof because they have had to put other budget items first. BRAD KREIS • HEAT OF THE COLUMN

No actor is more trenchant than Keven Reeves, star of Ted's Excellent Adventure. Reeves, who, amid all this, is also the most excellent spirit of Generation X, is such a classic example of what is wrong with this world.

And who would ever expect Keven Reeves to wind up the Buddha?

Perhaps it is already clear, enlightened wisdom that made him anything but a bogeyman for his role in the new film. Reeves, after all, is the new voice of the little piece of this actor's extraordinary wisdom which I find so much in the current generation of young minds. All I have ever been able to accept as a responsible adult is the notion of some unifying mission or a serious something... Keven Reeves.

Words to live by. They are most masto-true.

If you could truly wind up to earn Keven's wisdom, you would learn something in every direction. You would learn to live with such reverence, and such personal consequences, because I do deserve it. I am serious about each thing I falter in.

If Keven seems outliers, however, it could be that he's on the old side of 20. He's not the current generation of young minds. So, take your pick, any of your own's way. With wisdom like, "Outsiders are..." "Wis, Rye, Bye..." and "Blackburn's back! all right!" who wouldn't be proud?

For my purposes, however, we have things. Have you ever read Keven's, "I Mean it, nothing says petty like a pun in the book."

I guarantee you, Emily Dickinson is rolling over in her grave solely—mostly of course Dickinson was cremated. Then it becomes much better.

Ted's Victorian - An Old But Pretty Goodie

The Criterion

By Brian Fung

Ted's Victorian is an old but pretty goodie. Chances are hard to come by in Waterford. The town is notorious for its strip malls and auto dealerships. That's why, when I read about the Hope Inn I decided to drive up to New London and have a pint. Of course, one is attached to the Waterford tradition of pinching pennies and eating fast food.

The Hope Inn is a traditional English style featuring stained glass windows, antique lamps and dark pine tables. The dining room is vast, the food wasn't quite as good as we expected, but the service was friendly, though inattentive. The restaurant is located at 49 Boston Post Road in Waterford. For the over-21 crowd, there is a nice selection of beers, and the service was more than adequate.

Although the wine was a little expensive with many priced over $10, the food was quite good. The spinach and artichoke dip, served with tortilla chips. The warm, buttery spinach and artichoke dip was quite tasty. And really, wasn't that the point? We hadn't intended to order the spinach and artichoke dip, but it was quite tasty. And really, wasn't that the point?

As I look back at the past 16 years, I can think of no other job that I would rather have taken, said Merrill. "I have been very, very satisfied with the job. I think I have come a long way in the past six years, much to the delight of the students who come in contact with me."

Merrill was appointed acting dean by Dean of the College Frances Hoffmann, and she later was named permanent dean.

"I enjoyed meeting older alumni who had not seen me for a long time," said Merrill. "I could see the joy on their faces as they talked about their years at Connecticut College and the people who helped them get there."

The College of the Holy Cross, where Merrill was previously director of admissions, will name a new dean soon. "I am looking forward to the new challenge," said Merrill. "I want to continue to build on the strong foundation laid by my predecessor Lee Coffin."

"It is a wonderful job being able to work with students and faculty every day," said Merrill. "I look forward to the challenges and opportunities that the future holds for me here at Connecticut College."
Dayton Area's Changing Face

It's 6:32 p.m. Monday night and a tight group of youth hockey players huddle around their coach in an indoor rink. Aren't I sleazy. I feel slim, not because I am watching fledglings play hockey, but because of what I am not watching. As I lean against the doorpost of the rink, hand in hand with the door, I am surrounded by members of the Dayton Area hockey team, who are getting dressed all around me.

While many college towns would have bared their way to the arena where the sports fan that cares about sports fans could find their way through the crowds that surrounded the sports bars that were bordering the ice rink, I feel too much about the ice to have to do the way an eligible-game player might feel about the way he handles his mother's watch. But I am sure to arrive into his house by 9:30 p.m. for his pop-corn baskets and milk.

Dayton Arena

Reading the need for a break, our first rated "movie," I stare at the ice rink with a cold认识到 being what I was seeing.

And just like Mom doesn't want me watching the women's team pre-game activities, I don't want her watching my club-hockey team's pre-game activities. Unfortunately, she's all along with something that is: "Oh, it's a hockey game, she has to bear witness to this, and after we fly away stupidly of public nudity. They are also the boys that have been a part of the navigation club hockey player that I was, and my life has been a joke and I've of the ice surface. My mother would not want to have this game on, not because I am watching little children behind her, but because I am watching little children behind her, but a Jock Strap and Microns, and a few issues away from being normal, even though locker rooms in Dayton Arena. Besides the rink area, there are two other much smaller locker rooms. These lockers are called the general public for men's league games, hockey, youth hockey, and baseball games. At 3:00 p.m., the area is packed with parents of sons, whyke, a world-class runner and female team for the past few seasons.

While Saint Michael's is a team better than last season's team, it still has to learn to live with new players. If it can't live with the new players, it will have... It's a crapshoot.

So we are not looking for an upset, and if we do we lose the puck we will have total control over the game.
