SERENADED BY FRESHMEN AND SOPHOMORES.

First, the Juniors had a special trolley ride to the hotel. Then, they had the main dining room. Most Junior classes contented themselves with a more grill room—but not so 1923—they must needs have the main room. At long table, containing all around the room, save for the necessary door, was a dessert served with fern and pyramid placecards and lighted by candles, sat the ninety-one members of the class—three ex-officers who came back especially for the occasion, Miss Colladay, Anita Greenbaum and Leslie Alleman, for the Honorary members, President, and Mrs. Marshall, Dean Nye, Dr. Black, and Mr. Doyle who came by train from New York in the center of the table in front of their white a pyramidal column, reached to the "desert sands," and surrounded by palms and candles, a white pyramid which she presented to Julia Warner, as a small boy, in their class colors!

Alderman, and the Honorary members, President a white pyramid arose from the "desert sands," and surrounded by walls light and left, the cup of life was green water, tumbling over every trick.

At the lobby, the Juniors were duly greeted with padre at the original—end of their sojourn in that institution, which everyone cast awed glances.

They sang—of course they would—their class song, "The Italian Kind," and in reply to the "thirdies," "The Child Walker School"—sentimental and tearing down stone walls right and left, the cup of life was full to over-flowing. Never will we forget the evening that the world-renowned Stoppo spoke on campus, and were willing to wager that he never spoke to a more restful congregation. Never will we forget when the mascot left Sperry's room that same evening and traveled down the hall under numerous pillows and bedclothing to M. P. 8, where it spent the night. (That was before the rules materialized.)

Those were the days of real sport indeed—those careful and clandestine searchings of underground passages, ghostly classrooms in New London Hall, and other humbler places, with excitement when we recall the strange journey made to Thames on a siren. We used in large boxes to deposit the treasure in its last resting place. Considering the rank and file, we think C. C. serves as a pretty fair training ground for detective work. As a matter of fact, we think we're only a suppressed expression in us you'd never guess.

SERENADED BY FRESHMEN AND SOPHOMORES.

While Juniors and Sophomores are conversing in hoorah whispers and saying "Let's do this," and "Why not do this," the Seniors look on with the wistful smile of fifty watching the peaks of fifteen, and turn to memories of any green days for ever. Indeed—they were the happy days! What a varied course of work! the top ten poems appearing about campus.

Contemporary, by Stanley Hatt and with what and with what, see ty, every other morning, turning over ever changing rock on campus and tearing down stone walls right and left, the cup of life was full to over-flowing. Never will we forget the evening that the world-renowned Stoppo spoke on campus, and were willing to wager that he never spoke to a more restful congregation. Never will we forget when the mascot left Sperry's room that same evening and traveled down the hall under numerous pillows and bedclothing to M. P. 8, where it spent the night. (That was before the rules materialized.) Those were the days of real sport indeed—those careful and clandestine searchings of underground passages, ghostly classrooms in New London Hall, and other humbler places, with excitement when we recall the strange journey made to Thames on a siren. We used in large boxes to deposit the treasure in its last resting place. Considering the rank and file, we think C. C. serves as a pretty fair training ground for detective work. As a matter of fact, we think we're only a suppressed expression in us you'd never guess.

THEME ACTIVITIES BRING BACK DIFTY MEMORIES.

While Juniors and Sophomores are conversing in hoorah whispers and saying "Let's do this," and "Why not do this," the Seniors look on with the wistful smile of fifty watching the peaks of fifteen, and turn to memories of any green days for ever. Indeed—they were the happy days! What a varied course of work! the top ten poems appearing about campus.

Contemporary, by Stanley Hatt and with what and with what, see ty, every other morning, turning over ever changing rock on campus and tearing down stone walls right and left, the cup of life was full to over-flowing. Never will we forget the evening that the world-renowned Stoppo spoke on campus, and were willing to wager that he never spoke to a more restful congregation. Never will we forget when the mascot left Sperry's room that same evening and traveled down the hall under numerous pillows and bedclothing to M. P. 8, where it spent the night. (That was before the rules materialized.) Those were the days of real sport indeed—those careful and clandestine searchings of underground passages, ghostly classrooms in New London Hall, and other humbler places, with excitement when we recall the strange journey made to Thames on a siren. We used in large boxes to deposit the treasure in its last resting place. Considering the rank and file, we think C. C. serves as a pretty fair training ground for detective work. As a matter of fact, we think we're only a suppressed expression in us you'd never guess.

INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE AND IRISH PROBLEM.

AS SEEN BY MR. S. K. RATCLIFFE.

Mr. S. K. Ratcliffe, a prominent English journalist, was the speaker at Convention on January tenth. The first half of his lecture he devoted to the Irish Conference and the general problem being held at Washington. The majority expect too many definite results from this conference and forget the two most important points already accomplished — that never before has so many great powers met to discuss existing problems and confusion; secondly, that the results of this conference and even the discussion leading up to the results are made public. Previously such conferences have only resulted in silence during the discussions. The third advantage which one has the right to expect is that this conference may prove to be only one of many of its kind.

Aside from these three results of world importance the conference is aiming at improving the relations between England and the United States.

Mr. Ratcliffe discussed briefly a few of the points now being considered by the conference.

The second half of his lecture was devoted to the Irish problem. He traced the problem as it has developed from the very beginning, ending with the present state of affairs. At the end of last week the Dublin delegates ratified the agreement made in London and and independent as Canada.

Mr. Ratcliffe emphasized the importance of the solution by peaceful means rather than by war.

It was extremely interesting to hear an Englishman's views on these two important problems.

SOCIAL WORK AS A PROFESSION.

Mrs. Edith S. King, representing the National Social Worker's Exchange, gave a very fine talk on "Social Work as a Profession" on Friday evening, January 22, at seven o'clock, in Winthrop House.

Mrs. Wood and said that social work is a very new and young as an organization and that in shaping itself, is frequently profiting by the mistakes of the other professions.

The chief difference between a professional worker and another type of worker is that the former's first consideration is for service, and not for money. Social work started not as a profession but as a means of spreading service in a community to the less fortunate. To carry on the good work, the worker must be acquainted with his environment and must have a great deal of technical knowledge.

The organization is becoming much more strict in its requirements for entrance and one of the most important ideas is that the work must be college graduated.

The majority of positions now open, in the way, the management made considerable extra effort, for he was without doubt the greatest of all the architects.

Elen Gerhardt sings three great songs at this conference: A group of Schubert's songs, a modern group and lastly a group of Brahms' songs. The first and last groups were sung in German, with the interval Schubert in English. The last two were sung in English. The songs of Schubert include "Dolly the Delightful" and "There and the Malden." Miss Gerhardt's interpretation of these two was particularly noteworthy. The artistic, the unconcerned father, the relentless social reformer, who had shown no mercy, had given her another song of Brahms—"Give Night Mein Kind."

Of the group of modern songs, the "Japanese Lament Song" and the "Fairy Tales" seemed to appeal to the audience. This modern group was not of great significance, however, and Miss Gerhardt was without doubt at her best in the German songs.

The "Delightful songs of Brahms" pleased, as they will until the end of time, it is superfluous to comment upon the recent interpretation of Miss Gerhardt's interpretation of them. At the conclusion of the lecture, the singer added another song of Brahms—"Give Night Mein Kind."

Miss Gerhardt was thoroughly enjoyed by all, she said that she had been to America, that she had sung her songs intellectually, beautifully. Mr. Bos accompanied intellect and he was hardly moved, or convinced of great feeling. It was an expression of exceptional quality in their expression.

MEMBERS OF '21 WIN HONORS.

The Child-Walker School of Fine Arts and Crafts of Boston has had unusual distinction this fall in the judgements awarded by the Pequot Arts Institute of Design of New York on its open competitive problems. On the first problem representing an Indian frontispiece, submitted Nov. 7th, eighth first mentions and three highest awards. The Child-Walker School, which had a total enrollment of 1900 was received, received eight first mentions and three second mentions. Dorothy Gregson, Roberta Newton, and Abbey Gallion, all from 1911 who are now attending the School of Fine Arts, have received, received, received eight first mentions and three second mentions. Dorothy Gregson, Roberta Newton, and Abbey Gallion, all from 1911 who are now attending the School of Fine Arts, have received, received, received eight first mentions and three second mentions. Dorothy Gregson, Roberta Newton.
LETS ABIDE BY TRADITIONS.

What is it that colors the atmosphere of a college? Of what does the spirit of a college consist? This is the question every son or daughter on every campus, always and inevitably draws to a restatement and to a restatement back to friends and associations of his college days? It is the traditions and the customs that have made our college what it is, however old, however lovely—but it is the traditions. People who have lived there—those traditions and customs that they have built into the very fibre of the place.

Connecticut College is young, and, to be sure, its customs have not been tried with the test of fifty years, but how can we ever become truly a part of our campus life if they are entirely ignored? The declaration of the Senior privileges is one of our newest customs and like all things new, it will be a little while before we truly "privilege" to become accustomed to the new order of things. But during this period of transition can we not take a word from a Senior in good spirit—as it should be? And to forget that in one, two or three years we will have ourselves arrive at a dignified and privileged state to which we all aspire. C. A. H. '22.

SYRACUSE CALLS ARMS PARLEY.

MUCH EXPECTED OF CONFERENCE WHICH IS NOW IN SIXTH SESSION.

University Rivals—Washington—Lloyd George Attending—Chinese Triumphant.

Syracuse, N. Y., Dec. 12.—That college students advise a lively business in current events when presented in connection with amateur dramatics was shown in the recent conference of the Washington university conference on limitation of armaments, being demonstrated by their attitude toward the mock conference which is now in session at Syracuse University.

Soon after the invitation to the Washington parlour had been announced and several weeks before it convened, the Historical Association and the International Relations Club decided to pool their plans for a program that would present their conference in imitation of the international gathering. The purpose was to put the students into the diplomatic china meetings, to acquaint the students and public with the careful procedure, and problems of the great gathering, and hence to stimulate an intelligent interest in the cause of world peace.

The endeavor to make as practicable the details of the real conference are limited; but where interest might be heightened or information might be conveyed by departing from the historical accuracy, there is no objection in doing so.

Students Organize Conference. It is a student affair. A committee, composed mainly of graduates and undergraduate students, selected forty students to impersonate the delegates, experts and advisers at Washington, and by the time each of the delegations arrived in America he had an understanding at Syracuse carefully scrutinizing the press dispatches of his doing. The City Library and the University library were co-operated in making available bibliographies, and a file of clip-"paper was kept in the History Seminar.

The majority of the delegates are members of the Cosmopolitan Club and do not have to imitate a foreign accent or suffer the parestic sentiment of trying to represent another country they represent. This applies particularly to the Chinese, and it is only at the conference the local papers found that the Chinese students' Club had objected to including their delegation which is of great interest. This includes reminiscences of Hunter in its extremely early days. Hunter visited from the outside, or architecturally considered, contributions from the art department, and many other articles written by the Faculty. (This has been done at Connecticut College in former years.)

From the Hunter College Bulletin. In the present eagerness for college publicity, one instructor has fallen into the habit of sending every newspaper that comes under her eye for the college name.

Going home in a subway Sunday night, she saw the word, "Hunter." Eagerly she leaned forward to read "Hunter bags five African portraits!"

OUR ERROR. The News wishes to make a statement made concerning comedy awards, in the issue of the preceding week, January 13th. The words of "The Poppy Trail" were written by Marie Antoinette Taylor '22, and the music by Ann Slade '22, Margery Wells '22, and H. G. Wells, the special reporter of the "Sy-

AS OTHERS SEE US. Some girls occasionally give the impression to college students consider themselves privileged characters in this community, that they feel that their connection with such an honorable institution gives them the right to do exactly as they please. By doing "exactly as they please," we mean, for one thing, making as much noise as possible in the trolley cars, in the theater, on the street, or anywhere they may be, in fact.

The other day, in a crowded trolley car, a rather short man, clinging wildly to a high arm, and swaying about with the general car, re- marked scornfully, "These college girls make me sick!" His companion remarked, and grumbled, that he "thought so too." Everybody around him, everyone, was trying to concentrate on their newspapers, everyone seemed to ignore the bored expressions. Now just what was it that called forth such an uncomplimentary comment? Why was it that his remarks were greeted as though it were wrong that there were no college girls on the trolley car? It was because the short man was depriving a seat, and was being jostled about in such a manner? Or was it because the crowd of girls, both seated and standing, were talking and chatter- ing and singling and because they squealed nearly every time that the car lurched, and laughed loudly over their own jokes, or because they an- imatedly discussed everything from movies and basket-ball to professors, for the benefit of the whole car? Certainly if we have come to the point of making a jest of our hilarity, it is time we reformed.

At the last concert in the Lyceum everyone knew which girls arrived. They came with such a rush and roar that no one thought that there was a mad stampede of eager basketball girls explained to her neighbor. "It is the college girls," So it seems that we have a reputation for bad behavior and an unusual amount of noise. Perhaps, for the comfort of the people living around, giving a wrong impression we might control our wild spirits and become more so- cial in public.

22.

The result of Hunter College being so prominent in college publicity, one instructor has fallen into the habit of sending every newspaper that comes under her eye for the college name.

Going home in a subway Sunday night, she saw the word, "Hunter." Eagerly she leaned forward to read "Hunter bags five African portraits!"

OUR ERROR. The News wishes to make a statement concerning comedy awards, in the issue of the preceding week, January 13th. The words of "The Poppy Trail" were written by Marie Antoinette Taylor '22, and the music by Ann Slade '22, Margery Wells '22, and H. G. Wells, the special reporter of the "Sy-
GREETING CARDS
For all Occasions
KEENEY'S
15 MAIN STREET
FINE FLOWERS
AND ARTISTIC CORSAGES
FISHER, Florist
Flower Phone 16-4, 104 State Street
Flower and Plant Gifts by Telegraph

O'LEARY'S
HOTEL AND RESTAURANT
FOR
LADIES AND GENTLEMEN
Corner Green and Golden Streets
New London, Conn.

Slavin & Hoffman
JEWELERS
111 Bank St., New London

THE BEAUTY PARLOR
MAIN DOWNGROVE
 Fancy Toilet Articles, Manicuring, Massaging, Massage, Various Treatments. Electric Treatments
Room 222, Plant Building
Telephone 116 New London, Conn.

THE STYLE SHOP
17 Bank St., Lawrence Hall Building
MINES' AND WOMEN'S
READY-TO-WEAR APPAREL
OF DISTINCTION
Always Moderately Priced
P. B. KENYON
PHOTOGRAPHER
30 STATE ST.
New London, Conn.
Telephone Connection

The Specialty Shop
MANWARING BLDG.
Hostelry, Underwear
Waists, Neckerchief, Corsets
THE COLLEGE GIRL'S MECCA

Get It At
STARK BROS., Inc.
DRUGGISTS
110 STATE STREET

CONNECTICUT COLLEGE NEWS
A "B. A." in Hotel Management.
Degree Proposed by Hotel Man Will Require Hard Study.

Mr. J. K. Blatchford, secretary of the American Hotel Men's Association, suggested that a hotel man should have a complete college course, which will enable him to meet the degree of Bachelor of Arts. The course suggested is as follows:

For the first year: English, biology, chemistry, French, physiology and textiles.
For the second year: Chemistry, bacteriology, drawing, shop, home economics, sanitary chemistry, farm mechanics, floral arrangement, interior decoration.
For the third year: Economics, chemistry, trade foods and supervision, food preparation, household mechanics, accounting, botany, psychology, and food selection.
During the senior year: Labor problems, municipal administration, institutional management, hotel management and marketing.

EXCHANGES.
Worcester Tech.—In a series of wireless tests, the W. P. I. station is in the few that have been heard by operators in Scotland—representatives from the American Amateur Radio League. The signals were especially clear due to an improved method of aerial wiring which was inaugurated last year.
By way of something new in Inter-Continental communication, basketball reports will be sent out broadcast by wireless telephones during the progress of the game.

Williams College.—A committee of professors, instructors, and students has been appointed to assist in raising a fund of a million dollars or more to be known as the Woodrow Wilson Foundation. From this endowment annual awards are to be provided each year after "meritorious service to democracy, public welfare, liberal thought, or peace through justice." The educational committee that has been formed is working in every college of the country with committees of professors and students, who will seek friends of this endowment.

Middlebury.—A committee, consisting of the four class presidents and the president and vice-president of the Undergraduate Association, has been appointed to consider the establishment of the honor system at Middlebury.

CURRENT EVENTS.
To American eyes so far so clear these Japan as a world power as the Quadrant's Pact of the Pacific. This treaty signed by Japan, Great Britain, France, and the United States (although not yet ratified) comes as a dramatic climax in the drama of Japan and the United States which began with Commodore Perry's expedition to the China Seas and Japan in 1852-53. Japan proved a willing pupil to western civilization, and is the Russo-Japanese War of 1904-05, for the first time in modern history, an Asiatic nation defeated a European nation.

The United States was not particularly concerned with Japan's annexation of territory and extensions of influence from the class of the Chinese-Japanese War to 1905, to the beginning of the World War. But at the end of the War of the World, when the Peace Conference gave Japan a mandate over the former German islands of the Pacific north of the equator, the United States saw Japan established between the Philippines and our potential base at Guam, our cable rights in Yap improved, and, as one critic of the Versailles Treaty put it, Japanese territory brought two thousand miles closer to the Panama Canal.

Japan proper is only about the size of Montana. Her population amounts to sixty millions. Like England she must sustain maintenance abroad, and her products must go to foreign markets. And so, it is pointed out by Ambassadors Shibusawa, at Washington, while China's trade to Europe is merely another market, to Japan it is a necessity, Baron Shidehara in an article for a recent History (New York) gives an illuminating account of Japan's attitude. He notes the fact that Japan has more reason to fear a white peril than Australia and the United States to fear a yellow peril. He enunciates the policy of eastern expansion which the United States has pursued since the Civil War. In 1867, fourteen years after Perry's treaty had opened Japan to American trade, we acquired Alaska and the Aleutian Islands from Russia. In 1899 we annexed Hawaii, and later in the same year, as a result of the war with Spain, we acquired the Philippines and the Island of Guam. In 1914 the opening of the Panama Canal lessened the distance in a military sense between the two nations by making our Atlantic fleet available to use in the Pacific on comparatively short notice.

Under the three-power naval agreement which has just been reached in Washington the Japanese have abandoned an ambitious and highly costly program of battleship construction for the near future. Her radio for capital ships is three feet, in the relationship, while that of Great Britain and the United States is five. Japan's army is modeled on the Prussian type. Fred. W. H. Pittkin in his timely book "Must We Fight Japan?" sums up Japan's present standing: "Japan today commands the military power of the United States. The navy efficiency of Great Britain and the magnificent indentation of the United States." Her representatives at Washington Conference have been working themselves in accord with such sentiments advocated for limitation of armaments.

MEMBERS OF 21 WIN HONORS.
Concluded from page 1, column 4.

The more sources of interest we have the richer is our life.
Our interest is in the pleasing of our customers.

ALLING RUBBER CO.
Best Quality
Sweat Shirts and Sweaters
Tennis Shoes and Rubbers
162 State Street, New London, Ct.

LOOSE LEAF BOOKS
DIARIES AND STATIONERY
SOLOMON
44 Main Street

STRAUSS & MACOMBER
WATCHES, DIAMONDS
AND JEWELRY
106 State Street, New London, Conn.

FINE WATCHES REPAIRED AND ADJUSTED

UNION BANK & TRUST CO.
STATE STREET

J. TANNENBAUM
Fine Stationery and Imported Novelties
All Office Supplies
Whiting's Stationery by the Pound
166 STATE STREET

ISAAC C. BISHOP
PHOTOGRAPHER
Phone 403 Manwaring Bldg.

GROCERIES AND MEATS
A. T. MINER
THREE STORES
101 Williams St. 75 Winthrop St.
Crystal Ave. and Adelaide St.

THE NATIONAL BANK OF COMMERCE
OF NEW LONDON

SAVINGS ACCOUNTS
New London, Connecticut

"IT'S A WINNER"
OUR HOT FUDGE SUNDAY
Served with Whippped Cream
Try one at the COLLEGE PHARMACY, 301 William St.
"Meet and Treat at Our Fountain"

The Specialty Shop
MANWARING BLDG.
Hostelry, Underwear
Waists, Neckerchief, Corsets
THE COLLEGE GIRLS MECCA

Get It At
STARK BROS., Inc.
DRUGGISTS
110 STATE STREET

LYON & EWALD
Think of Us for any
SPORTING GOODS
You May Want

FLASH LIGHTS and GENERAL HARDWARE
88 State Street, New London

NEW SPORT HATS, SCARFS and SWEATERS
FUR CHOKER SCARFS for present and spring wear

TATE & NEILAN
Hatters and Furnishers
State and Green Streets, New London, Conn.
The Bee Hive
131-143 State Street
New London, Conn.

THE COLLEGE TEA HOUSE
"Nuff Said"

BRING YOUR FILMS TO
CHIDSEY'S
TO BE
DEVELOPED AND PRINTED
GREETING CARDS
NOVELTIES
115 State Street
New London, Conn.

Telephone 2464

MRS. R. N. CLARK'S PARLORS
15-17 Union St., New London, Conn.

"Say It With Flowers, Every Day in the Year"
Connecticut College Florist
TURNER'S FLOWER SHOP
Flowers for all Occasions
335 Huntington Street
New London, Conn.

Telephone 2464-2

HUBER & CHITTENDEN
WE SPECIALIZE ON
Fine Silk Hosiery
Silk Underwear, Kid Gloves Handkerchiefs

EMIL SEIFERT
BAKERY
Specialists in Fancy Pastry, Pies, Bread, Rolls, Cakes, Etc.
91 Main Street, New London

CONNECTICUT COLLEGE NEWS

DE LIBRIS.
(With the customary due apologies to Browning)

Had I but plenty of knowledge, knowledge
Enough and to spare.
Then would I know well my lessons
And be a "shark for fair.
Ah! such a life, such a life, as one
Leads thus, free from care!

No dreaded recitations, by the Muse.
No unprepared lessons at least;

With no fear of being called on, one's
Life is a perfect feast;

While the unprepared student lives,
I maintain it, no more than a beast.

But as I left the bookshop from chapel,
Then off to French class—farewell,
My history I've neglected, I remember not a date,

Though I'm responsible for several,
And I'm called on; 'twas ever my fate

But the marks—marks—and the Perfect recitations, why—
They make your semester report
A thing of beauty,

And cause teachers to talk of your
Sense of duty,

And gain you honors here by and by,
And prices, as a matter of course.

When you've endeavored, and
Envious glances of passers-by,

But bless you, it's dear—it's dear!
Study, study at double the rate,

You must spend extra time upon Lit.,
And be sure to remember the date

Of the War of the Spanish Succession,
And know if Cheve was a city.

Students can scarcely be choosers, but
Still—ah, the pity, the pity,
That to attain fine marks one must grudge,

And wear out one's patience while
Improving the mind.

But crash—bang—bang go my books;
Gaining studious honor is strife,

But if hygiene and zoology hub,
There are no finer things in life.

Dr. E. G. Guarno, '25.

JUNIOR MASCOT UNVEILED IN THE MOHICAN.

(Continued from page 1, column 1.)

usual pep and cleverness. With their bonier figure over the plains they sang, and as a reward for their good spirit, Julia Warner and Katharine Francke in their capacities as president and vice-president showed them the mascot in true kindness since they are never to find it, so sought the Juniors. Julia Warner, Helen Hemingsway and Marjorie Backer constituted the committee on the menu and decorations. Margaret Heyer and Jane Gardner made the pyramidal place-cards on which was painted the design from the Junior rings. Emily Shyemaker modeled the temporary Sphinx which, although she claimed it wasn't really finished, was excellent.

Give a Thought to Books

We carry a comprehensive line by the old masters and modern writers in subjects of all classes for Children, Boys, Girls and Grown-ups.

THE CHAMBERLIN & SHROPSHIRE CO.
BOOKSELLERS AND STATIONERS
240 State St.
NEW LONDON, CONN.

The Quality Drug House of Eastern Connecticut

The NICHOLLS & HARRIS CO.
ESTABLISHED 1850
110 State Street
BRANCH, 253 Williams Street
NEW LONDON, CONN.

TAIL LIGHTS.

Even the fiercest of storms cannot make the stout hearts of our faculty quail,—of the female members, at least. Having set their minds on a jaunt to Brunswick last Wednesday, Miss Ernst and Miss Flack, accompanied by our gallant Ivan and Mrs. Noci, sallied forth into the very teeth of the gale and made their way to the seashore. There they spent an enjoyable half hour with the view. The only attire in all the results getting such an adventure, rubber boots and all, and no stint to advocates of this new pastime can be found.

Senior privileges are now in operation. (It certainly is a privilege to be allowed to wear such hats and make such a hideous racket with a dinner bell.) But cheer up, fellows! Supposing we couldn't wear hair nets or eat with our knives! Surely we have a lot to be thankful for.

The Big Hunt is on again. One cannot pursue her solitary way to the post box, or raise her screen after 10 P. M. without being suspected of secret designs.

The dancing craze in Gym is now at full swing. And why? Because the girls don't think it's Na-tur'! Try as they may, the Physical Education department can't make nymphs of us.

Deep into the Gym some Monday night, at the witching hour of nine. There you will see the faculty at gay frolic, with the elastic basket ball and doing all sorts of frivolous yet health-giving stunts.

Late commers to meets should be designated as the "chain gang."

Take a deep breath! Mid-years are almost upon you. Breathing space is limited.

Well! The suspense is over. The Juniors have their "trot-ley-car" now—it isn't! We don't wonder, now, that they were able to maintain a "sphinx-like" silence.

"These are the days of real sport,"—as the old lady said in the circus. What with Sophomores "detecting" all around, we don't dare take a mouthful of fear we'll "miss a trick."

JUNIORESQUE.

We have a little mascot.
It's as sphinx-like as can be.
And sometimes we are sorry
That it can't talk to us.

As one Junior remarked in a Physical Ed. class the other day after doing the "gymnastics": "I've seen some pretty tough fellows but never one so tough as Gym."

Compliments of
Edward S. Doton
District Manager
THE MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY
of New York
PLANT BUILDING
New London, Conn.

PERRY & STONE, Inc.
JEWELERS
FINE STATIONERY
MARK CROSS GLOVES LEATHER GOODS
128 State Street, New London

LEVERONE, MUSANTE & Co.
Imported FRUITS Domestic
53 State Street
New London, Conn.

Feldman's

Dr. E. G. Abernethy
DENTIST
85 State St., New London, Conn.
Goldsmith Building
Telephone 739

Women's Medical College of Pennsylvania
For announcements and further information, address
MARTHA TRACY, M. D.
Dear, Philadelphia, Pa.

Compliments of
Brainerd & Armstrong Co.
SILK MILLS
Union Street
New London, Conn.

Moccasin
Style
Sport
Shoes
SOLD ONLY BY
THE G. M. WILLIAMS CO.
NEW LONDON, CONN.