Elshuco Trio Please.

The famous Elshuco Trio gave a most delightful and interesting program to an appreciative audience last Monday night in Bulkeley Auditorium. The program was entirely controlled by the charming personality of the scenery, Luciello Grassi, as well as by his playing. The other two members of the trio were equally pleasing. William Willskie, the oldest member of the trio, won the audience immediately. The youngest, however, the violinist, displayed marvelous talent.

The program, though it looked somewhat monotonous and uninteresting, proved to be quite the opposite. The trio in D Phat Major by Franz Schubert, played with a masterly air, and was followed by a slower lyceum of Antinio Vivaldi. The Scherzo movement was playful and light, and the Rondo was a succession of phrases tossed back and forth between the strings and the piano.

The second number on the program, the Trio in B flat by Gabriel Bocchieti, was the oldest number on the program. For this reason it was very short. The length of compositions is of a much later period than this one. This composition was also of a simpler structure than the other numbers on the program. Nevertheless it was delightful and made a strong appeal to the audience. As an encore a Noblightly by Franz Schubert was played.

The third and last number on the program was the most modern, in point of composition, but even this was not a recent composition. This number was the Trio in D Minor by Anton Arensky. It is a pleasant, melodious number, very dramatic in theme, which has a lovely and a solemnity in the Allegro and Elegia movements.

The Trio was very generous in giving encores. Besides the encore after the first number, the second number had one, the third number, and the Scherzo by Saint-Saens, the second Scherzo by Brahms, and the first in B flat by Schubert. All three were unusual and interesting selections which are very seldom heard.

WESLEYAN GLEE CLUB CONCERT A SUCCESS.

Connecticut College entertained an appreciative audience last Tuesday evening, January 31st, in the gym. The audience numbered probably two hundred and fifty. The music was given by the Wesleyan Glee Club, with a program of sings and songs which were entirely new to the audience.

In conclusion, the Wesleyan Glee Club leaves the campus for the summer term, in the hope that next year they may return with an improved program.

Students Must Know Labor World.

The study conference, representing States Ideals and Attitudes, was held in the gymnasium on Monday, December 22, 1926.

Something must be done" writes Jerome Davis of the Yale Institute School in the December Center to increase the interest of the college body in the peace problems of the day by States Ideals and Attitudes. In every age the question of peace has been brought up. John-son, father of the plan, said when questioned concerning it. In case the possibility that the ideal of peace may be abandoned, permanent peace must be sought. The war spirit and war feelings must be outlawed and declared a scourge of modern life. The world often arouses the antagonism of religious bodies, in their official actions, as well as an appeal. The forces of civilization must therefore unite to bring about the peace world as we know it today.

The war is the most colossal, calamity and sorrow of modern life. War is not inevitable. It is the supreme enemy of mankind. Its futility is beyond question. Its continuance is the suicide of civilization. We are determined to outlaw the whole war system. Economics and industry, social welfare and progressive civilization, morality and religion, all demand a new international order in which righteousness and justice between nations shall prevail and in which national and local problems shall be solved, and prepare for war no more. For the achievement of this high ideal the life of the nations must be controlled by the spirit of mutual goodwill made effective by the UN. These are irrefutable and unanswerable arguments. War must be outlawed and declared a criminal offense in all countries.

The war spirit and war feelings must be banished and the war preparations and the armament race of the nation must be ended. The Forces of Civilization must therefore unite to bring about the peace world as we know it today. Economics, religion, and morality are the forces of civilization. These are the forces which must unite to bring about the peace world as we know it today.

THE EVE OF REVOLUTION.

Recentl¥, we talked of revolution. To many people, revolution is a word that has no meaning. The two have a close relationship.

Here dreams and visions of the ideal college to which they are, perhaps, sitting talking with our student Government organization. Its aims—nothing in particular—the process—yet concealed. A committee of students who are working to perfect the organization. This committee is quite evident, and has been working on a new plan of organization. It is hard to find and is actually disheartening. The Church should not only labor for the country and for the world, but it should give itself to constructive policies and dynamic methods of promoting good will. It should proclaim the message regardless of the opinion and of political exigencies.

4. This Church should teach and practice brotherly love and reformation. It should never become the agent of the Government in any activity alien to the spirit of Christ. The Church should look to the responsible statesman of a Christian origin and to the world's progress and to the world's understanding of the truths set forth in Old Testament. It is inspired by goodwill for the country and for the world, and is now free from the limitations of the Church. It is now free from the limitations of the country and the nation.

GLANINGS FROM THE AMERICAN CAMPUS.

Students at Pennsylvania State College have joined the crusade against compulsory chapel. Their disapproval was expressed by a vote of 1,700 to 315.

The first college football game in the United States was played by Harvard and Yale fifty years ago. While inspecting the Harvard campus visiting students from Germany noticed a long line of parked rivers. Great was their astonishment when they learned that the cars belonged to students. "Who in Germany would think of such a thing?" exclaimed one. "Never would a student dare to come in a car while his professor walked. Aah! But in such a wealthy country, such a wealthy country."—

The daily paper at Harvard recently published "a confidential guide to students," in which more than forty sons from the Himalaya mountains to the United States was played by Hurley recently. We have taken them.

John Hopkins is importing 20 persons from the Himalayas, mountains to be used in the study of evolution.

TIME SCHEDULES PROPOSED.

Concluded from page 1, these 3 hours sufficient; it concluded pointing out that 2 plus remained for eating and other activities.

At Harvard, freshmen have been told that 10 hours a week is the minimum time allotment for studying, nine hours for each course and four for tutorial work. Thus far the remaining 125 have been left to their discretion.

While it is possible that certain of the more conscientious may take the official schedule seriously, it is to be suspected that the more effective attack on the problem is from the opposite angle. If standards of work be made sufficiently high and student interest in attaining them sufficiently stimulated, hours of study will probably take care of themselves—Harvard Crimson.

OPEN LETTER.

Concluded from page 5, volume 1, hostess, as only two old friends can talk, when suddenly the doors burst open, and, preceded by the cry of "Seniors, Seniors!" an avalanche of girls descends upon us. They bang noisily in, talking, laughing, becoming quiet only when the signal is given for the evening hymn—sometimes not until after it is started. Then, disputing, ever to be served, they again begin in their chatter. We sit in silence, awaiting a chance to resume our interesting conversation, but we are not given a chance to do so until we are once again out of the dreadful din and confusion.

Do you suppose that we do, actually, make such an impression on our guests? It is not at all unlikely. However, out of consideration for each other, as well as to ourselves, how much more pleasing, how much more dignified, it would be to enter quietly and talk more coldly. Informality is an excellent quality when it is not carried to excess, yet surely one hour made sufficiently high and student interest in attaining them sufficiently stimulated, hours of study will probably take care of themselves.

YALE ABANDONS SEPTEMBER COLLEGE ENTRANCE EXAMS.

Beginning in 1927 September entrance examinations for admission to the freshman class at Yale will be given up altogether. The list of incoming freshmen will depend on school records and the confidential reports of headmasters coupled with the results of the June examinations.

In an article in the New York Times, Professor Robert N. Corwin, chairman of the Board of Admissions, is quoted as saying:

"Under the present condition most of the applicants who are burdened with admission conditions at the completion of the June examinations—those with but slight deficiencies as well as those hopelessly in arrears scholastically—plunge headlong into tutoring schools, in the hope of gaining a sufficient number of credits to give them admission in September. At the end of these examinations, however, a small portion of the total number of those eleven-hour applicants can be admitted. Those who are unsuccessful are left in a rather hopeless plight, since the lists of most preparatory schools and colleges are then compiled.

"It seems accordingly as unfair to require September examination of any applicant whose deficiencies are such as to leave practically no hope of admission, as it is unnecessary to require them of a candidate whose deficiencies in June are already marked.

"The few hectic efforts which may be made during the late summer months, usually under the direction of a coaching staff, have little predictive value and are of measurable benefit only to the tutoring school."

"The best proof of a candidate's fitness to meet the requirements of a new position is evidence that he has been successful under conditions not dissimilar to those in prospect. The interest of the Yale examiners is therefore centered upon the evidence of how each applicant has done his last job, which is in case his preparatory school. This affords the greatest predictive value as to his probable success in his next scholastic venture."

Professor Corwin contends that the plan is undoubtedly grown benevolent as it will encourage forlornness in the preparatory schools, will give the student summer tutoring and because it will tend to dissuade those whose school work has not been adequate for entering college.

TWO DELEGATES TO ATTEND NORTHFIELD CONFERENCE.

Florence Hopper and Margaret Elliott have been chosen as the representatives of Connecticut College at the New England mid-winter Plenary Conference, to be held at the Northfield Hotel February twentieth to twentieth. The speaker at the Conference will be Reverend Nathaniel N. Dit, of Detroit, one of the editors of the Christian Century, who has cancelled his Open Forum engagement to accept an invitation to lead the conference. He will take for his theme, "Why Be a Christian Today?" and will challenge and stimulate the thoughts of the delegates. The discussions will tend to find out what real Christianity is and what the implications of the Christian way of life must be, as it is lived on the campus. The conference will try to consider fairly and open-mindedly what those who profess to be Christians actually must do if they are to live effective Christ-like lives.

The conference is in the nature of the Silver Bay Conferences held in the summer and was planned by the New England Field Council, the Magna Council, and representatives of the Silver Leaf council at their joint meeting at Boston in October. The delegations are limited to two delegates from each college, regardless of the size of the college.

VASSAR PLANS "ESCAPE HOUSE" FOR UNSOCIAL.

Continued from page 2. The suggestion is carried out he considers it advisable to call upon the best architect available but preferably one who has studied the Pantheon and has designed railroad round-houses. The name suggested is "Escape House." Its purpose is to provide a place where any student may reside for a month when she is weary of the ways of the campus world and constant contacts with her kind, or may be sent there on petition signed by a sufficient number of her residential associates. No implication attaches to such a temporary residence at Escape House, however. The purpose of the hall is to provide an element in college life which is greatly needed, and to be assured at those times when it may be most essential—namely, solitude."

TO SEND STUDENTS ABROAD.

An interchange of college students has been proposed by the Inter-Collegiate Veterans' Federation of Paris. The underlying idea is the promotion of better understanding among nations.

The American Legion, as the representative of the federation, with a view to organize such scholarships at different American colleges to bring students of eight foreign nations—New York Times.

AUDIENCE AWAITS SPEAKER IN V. N.

The Tuesday afternoon convention audience sat in expectant repose, awaiting the speaker. When half an hour had passed and two members of the faculty had vainly searched all corners of the New London railroad station, without finding Frank Tanenbaum, who was to have addressed the audience on the condition in American Prisons, the audience began to display their disappointment. Rumor located him at the New London seaport; but we have not sought to verify this.
