First National Chorus at CC Before Carnegie Hall Debut
by Jean MacCarthy ’58

Conn College’s First National Chorus is offering music lovers a preview on Thursday evening February 13 in the Panel Discusses Repercussions of Sputnik’s Flight

On Tuesday evening, February 11, at a forum in the Connecticut College auditorium, The Importance of Sputnik was discussed by authorities in the fields of science, education, and politics. The panel members were Dr. John M. Ide, technical director, and Rene Wickens, conductor of the Schola Cantorum, and a large group of others, including Dr. David多达, director of the chemical department, who commented that the American people to the launching of Sputnik by the Soviets ranged from a . . .

One hundred and fifteen girls achieved the distinction of being on the Dean’s List for the first quarter of the year. The list was headed by the Seniors who had the highest average of 3.0 to 3.2, followed by the Juniors with an average of 3.0 to 3.2. After the outstanding symphony orchestras of the world, Dr. Ide discussed the Union Message and the significance of the President’s proposal to the United Nations as an influence.

Sen. Prescott Bush Speaks at Windham Lectures at Palmer
by Atheline Wilker ’58

On Thursday afternoon the Young Republican Club was privileged to have as its guest the Honorable Prescott Bush, the United States Senator from Connecticut. His topic was foreign aid and foreign trade. Senator Bush opened by saying that the subject of foreign aid and foreign trade were very much inter-related and of such great importance that the United States had to be represented by the President in the State of the Union Message.

The subject of foreign aid falls under the Mutual Economic Assistance Program. Senator Bush has proposed $2,000,000,000 for foreign aid. One part of this program is military aid and defense support for the cost of which the United States will pay $2,000,000,000. Senator Bush stated that there was little controversy concerning this proposal, for many progressive and neutral countries are interested in the stabilization of their economies.

IRC Begins Plans For New Semester With UN Authority

The flux of events at Connecticut College has been one of the main topics of discussion in recent weeks. However, several resolutions have been read and passed by the Student Senate, which has given the Students a voice in the current political events.

Connecticut College students make their New Year’s resolutions in February rather than in January. At least this is the case for most of us; few, if any, actually commit to the resolutions of the semester rush to the library. Soon things simmer down to normal again; there will be less work and more contact with friends. This is where the problem comes; as the semester comes to a close, the stress of the semester gets into full swing, however, we have one of our own creation.

Our particular gripe concerns the squad car that can be seen flashing its bright red light all around campus. Now the police are there to be seen away from any and all threats, pranksters, or other undesirable people from our campus. If the little red light had managed to achieve these ends, that would be one thing. Unfortunately all the reports we can gather is the not the case. We absolutely cannot stand to see the cars cruising around the auditorium during functions which are open to the public. It gives us the impression that we are in a prison of sorts. This feeling is magnified when we see a squad car siting on the road next to the little red light. Institution life must, we reason, entail a certain amount of freedom, but why must they emphasize the fact by putting us under what amounts to police surveillance?

The police's invitations certainly are enticing. Everything on the program sounds like a bowl of fun. I guess A. M. Milne would be surprised to know how many places like the Pooh, and how fun he is endorsing. At any rate, you can expect representatives from the various dorms, one from each school around (and even some that do not have dorms). This is all in the usual fun, and it's the shock that you can't get at the little red light. Is there anything that the police are interested in obtaining. So if you haven't yet made arrangements you'd better get on the stick.

Those French and their movies. I hear that the ending for last Saturday's campus movie was quite incoherent and sever al of our friends were disturbed about it. Perhaps Adams has not been there. But—then, it's not my opinion that counts.

With elections coming up soon, everyone is scouring about either enquir or signing or recruiting people to sign petitions for the various candidates. Student Admissions is running high concerning the results, and we're very looking forward to spirited campaigning and voting.

Well, now, what seems to be the problem over in Freeman and JAY? At least everyone looks well. It's a wonder more people don't take advantage of our convoluted schedules. The Arboretum freezes over nicely making skating the sport of the day. Then, too, the time of year skating liberty parties from CCA, make it even more fun. If you haven't tried it yet, how about coming down to the Arboretum some cold day and practice falling gracefully.

Why this sudden craze for Petit Poucet?

It looks like a lot of shots of Dartmouth Carnival on TV, but I don't understand why I didn't see more Conn. girls out on the slopes competing in the skiing races. Just because it's dangerous and you have to be a very good expert doesn't mean a thing. Anyway, there were plenty of smiling faces at the Downs, but only a few girls were ranked high in this category because they'd never certainly portrayed a fabulous time, and with that—there was all the fun.

That's about it for now, gang. I've got to get back to work—Wally said: "Women are such expensive things!"

So You Think We Live In That Ivory Tower

by Susan M. Kyder '60

New life arrives this week from Papago, New Zealand, for all you people who think there is no such place as the sun. There is, and that’s more, there is a place called Papago, New Zealand. They’ve just been discovered in the Papago hills. There are only 80 of them, but they do wear beards, raise pigs, speak Maori, and have a name. Who could ask for anything more?

Anybody who has any chance to plan even up to Midwinter Weekend by setting off a firecracker in the street, from this news, the University of Connecticut is out of it. The College authorities, who tried it there, and the whole college had to be removed. Nothing more serious than singing songs, but it’s the shock that counts.

And weep for poor Mr. and Mrs. John Chisholm of Essex Fells, New Jersey. Seems the good people are being plagued by an unseen and unknown enemy. For two weeks; all sorts of uninvited broadmenn, milkmen, baby photo graphers, and encyclopedic salemen have been arriving at the portals of the Chisholm residence. The entrance, while it is open, there, refuse to go until routed by the police, and the Chisholms are at their wits end. Hmm.

From southern Illinois comes a story that is quite amusing. The English department at Southern Illinois is quite concerned over the spreading habits of its students. In a recent series of class themes, it appears only 14 percent of the students were performing in errors. Common mistakes, groused the professor, included the Spanish word for "feet" for "feet," and "for" for "foro." Not bad, indeed! What did those poor chaps do wrong have been.

And in conclusion, let us consider Stanley Zaklinchnik, the janitor. A lady did not wish to purchase one of his Bibles. Mr. Zaklinchnik picked up a hatchet and hacked her front door to pieces.

The Library Will Judge Book Collections

On February 24th

The entries to the book collection contest accepted at the main desk of the Library any time prior to February (twenty-nine mid-day). The winners will be announced in the weekly, and the collections will be judged.

The rules of the contest are extremely simple. Any book collection, however wide-spread on campus. It may be a single volume, such as the four volumes of T. S. Eliot’s "Old Possum’s Book of Practical Cats." Any book collection will be accepted.

The prize for the best collection, as decided by the judges, will be $25.

With the new year, new semester, and new books comes a new resolution, new resolutions, new year, and most of us are very thankful. Whatever we did wanted to do something and sometimes it was really annoying for Lord's sake. Do Robin has a Nanny too, Mr. John Herzog, assistant to the Dean of the Graduate School of Education at Harvard will be on campus Monday, Feb. 15. He will discuss the need for a Pan-African American organization. He would like to talk to any ghrist Jerry M. T. A. or M. Pro. Faculty Advisory Councils. He will give a degree offered those interested in secondary education. It's pertinent to students interested in primary education. Jerry will go to Mr. Wheeler's office, New Haven, Ct., at 9:30 A.M. for an appointment to see Mr. Herzog.
Deans List

Congratulations to these girls who have attained such a high distinction by making Dean's List.

For Chief Justice...

PEGGY BROWN

Peggy Brown, whose home is in Baton Rouge, attended National Cathedral in Washington, D.C., where she was editor of the yearbook and campaign manager in charge of the Charity Drive. During her first two years at Connecticut, Peggy served on honor court and in the spring of her sophomore year was elected president of the Board of Student Judges. This year she has been active as a house junior.

A French major, Peggy has maintained a high scholastic record, being on the Dean's list for four semesters. After graduation, she plans to study abroad. Summers have given her an opportunity to travel, which is one of her favorite pastimes. She spent the summer of '56 in Badenbad, Germany, and this past summer she enjoyed a trip through the western part of this country.

KAY WIELAND

Kay Wieland is a candidate for the office of Chief Justice of Honor Court. A native of Boy Village, Ohio, Kay graduated from Bablo High School where in her senior year she was editor-in-chief of the school yearbook. She was elected to the National Honor Society in her junior year, was a member of Quill and Scroll, served as vice-president of the Y-Teens, and took part in the senior play presentation. For four years she sang in the school choir and also participated in the senior ensemble, the Choraliers.

In her freshman year here at Connecticut, Kay was elected house president of Knowleton and during her sophomore year served as vice-president of Windham House. She was also a member of last year's Soph Hop Planning Committee. This year her activities have included that of House Junior and Honor Court Judge. Kay is majoring in European History and plans to pursue this subject through further study after graduation.

EMILY HODGE

Emily Jane Hodges, known as Em, comes from Cleveland, Ohio, where she attended Laurel School for Girls. At Laurel, Em managed to keep herself busy with extracurricular activities as well as her studies: she was secretary of the Freshman class, vice-president of her Sophomore class, chairman of the Choral Society, business manager of the school newspaper and yearbook, and a member of the school Glee Club and Choir, and for two years was a member of the Laurel Student Council and the Junior Council on World Affairs.

When Em came to Connecticut College, her interest in school activities did not subside. As a Freshman, she was Social Chairman of her dormitory. In her sophomore year she was elected president of Katherine Blunt House, automatically making her a member of the House of Representatives. At present, Em is president of the Junior Class and a member of Cabinett.

JUDY BASSIN

Judy Bassin attended Prospect Hill School in her hometown of New York. She graduated from Bablo High School and was editor of the class in her junior year, worked on the news paper, and was a member of her year. Judy was art editor of the yearbook.

This year she is public chairman of Service League, secretary of Art Club and is head of the decorations committee for Junior Prom. Judy is an art major and plans to pursue her studies after graduation from Connecticut. Throughout the fall she has been eagerly looking forward to Spring Break announc ing campus activities.

BARBARA QUINN

Barbara graduated from Choate School in Windsor, Connecticut. As a senior there, she was elected president of her class and president of the Freshman class. Barbara is a native of West Hartford, Connecticut, and graduated from Montclair High School. Her freshman year at Connecticut, she was elected president of the Freshman class and was also the president of the Freshman class. Sophomore year she served as treasurer of the class of '56 and as vice president of Katherine Blunt House.

JULIE SOHMSEN

Julie Somhense, a candidate for the office of President of Student Government, comes from East Hanover, New Jersey, where she was graduated from Montclair High School. During her freshmen year at Connecticut, she was elected president of Granco Union and also president of the Freshman class. Sophomore year she served as treasurer of the class of '56 and as vice president of Katherine Blunt House.

Julie is majoring in American History, which she hopes to teach after graduation. Summers have given her an opportunity to travel, which is one of her favorite pastimes. She spent the summer of '56 in Baden-Baden, Germany, and this past summer she enjoyed a trip through the western part of this country.

A junior transfer student from Colby College, Annette was an active member of the college Newman Club (a religious organization), the International Relations Club, the world literature club, and the French Club. She was elected to represent two years in the Dormitory Council.

For Wig and Candle

LISTA KENNAN
Lista Kennan, a nominee for president of Wig and Candle, is now president of Jane Addams House. She lives in Princeton, New Jersey, and attended Miss Flan's School there. During her high school years she was very active in the Dramatic Club and the Athletic Association. Lista is co-chairman of the Sophomore Class, and advertising manager of her school's yearbook.

Since entering Connecticut College Lista has been a member of the German Club and president of Blackstone. This year, along with her activity in Wig and Candle and directing plays, Lista is an English major. Eventually she hopes to become a professional actress. All this along with being president of a house requires a very talented girl.

CYNTHIA ENLOE
Hailing from Manhasset, Long Island, comes a candidate for the President of Wig and Candle. Cynthia Enloe, Bette S. of 11 Long Island Avenue, Boston Post Road, Yonkers, New York, was class treasurer for two years. Cynthia became secretary also in the school orchestra, Service League, and Girls' Athletic Council.

During the last year and a half Cynthia has been equally interested in student activities. In her Freshman year sheFreshman represented as president of the Sophomore Class, and was an Honor Student. She was an active participant in the Dramatic Club and in student affairs in general. Cynthia was the co-founder of the Junior Gift Committee. This year, along with her activity in Wig and Candle, Cynthia has been equally interested in student activities. In her Freshman year she represented her Sophomore Class, and was a member of the Sophomore Yearbook Committee.

In her Sophomore year, Tommie was an Honor Court Judge and co-chairman of North Cottage. This year she is Sophomore Class AA representative and a member of the Cunn Chords. Tommie has been nominated as the Speaker of the House of Representatives.

CAROLYN KEFFK
Carolyn Keefke truly had a unique and exciting career back at her high school. During her Sophomore and Junior years she was on the school hockey, basketball, softball, bowling, and volleyball teams. She was a cheerleader for two years and served as a representative to the Girl's AA. In addition, Carolyn found time to be active on the school paper and in Student Council.

As a sophomore, she was elected secretary of her class. Carolyn's interest and enthusiasm for sports has continued since she came to Connecticut. She has played basketball, softball, volleyball, and basketball. Last year she was on the basketball team for the entire college, co-head of the music committee for the Sophomore class, and AA representative for her dorm. This year she is Junior AA representative and was elected treasurer of that organization.

In addition to these activities Carolyn is an enthusiastic house junior for North.

What’s it like to be with IBM?

"When I joined IBM," says Mary Bayer, "some of my friends at college wondered how I would manage a career in a field considered difficult. I thought this would be best. I was a history major—and here I was entering the electronics field!"

Today, a System Service Representative for IBM, Mary Bayer is an important part of the sales organization. In less than two years, she has assumed an unusual and challenging responsibility. Before and after the installation of an IBM machine-system, she assists both management and customer personnel—answering questions, arranging demonstrations, and obtaining orders, setting up procedures to handle specific customer problems.

"What impressed me most about this job, as it was described to me at Campus Interviews, was the variety of the work I would be doing as a System Service Representative. I didn’t want to be tied down to routine office work, and I didn’t want a secretarial position. As I had not been technically trained, other companies would not offer me any kind of a job spot. The IBM group was not only willing to train me but offered a wide variety of business experiences—and at a good starting salary."

Receive extensive training
Mary Bayer first received 16 weeks’ training in Machine School at the Company’s New York City Education Center. Here she learned the basic principles of calculating and accounting machines—the same principles that are used in the most advanced electronic languages. In addition to Machine School, she attended Application School in Endicott, N. Y. This describes as "a kind of finishing school for System Service Representatives. You learn how to apply IBM systems to a variety of business and accounting procedures such as inventory control, accounts receivable, payroll and many others. You receive a course conducted by excellent instructors with many years of field experience."

realize that the Soviet Union possesses extremely powerful rockets. Sputnik enlarged our problems of research. In the United States we are striving to narrow the gap between the scientist and the average citizen."

Miss voytek furmuk spoke on the impact of Sputnik in the field of education. Miss Voytek stated that today more emphasis is placed in the United States upon educating the whole child. Our primary and secondary schools offer courses in driving cars. It cannot be taught in the home. Our training systems and research scientists and engineers, who are working to improve the creation of the atomic expert. A more rewarding career, she felt, is a business career. For a staff, on the other hand, leadership is eternal vigilance."

"The price of safety is eternal vigilance." Sen. Barlow pointed out the reasons for speech many senators. Many Americans are apt to state, "If the Soviets hold up. As defense, he pointed out, it is only a smoke screen, which is often wasteful because we waste our money. We must do something about Sputnik, she said. clipped faculty must consider the future of man. As we can see the danger in the Soviet Union, this is a very critical time."

Mr. Barlow said that the launching of Sputnik enlarged such patriotism, assurance and loyalty. He stressed the fact that the members of the Senate are aware of how much they really know. Commander Lichtenberg concluded his address with a very appropriate statement, "The price of safety is eternal vigilance."

Miss Dilley introduced her talk by saying that the initial American reaction to Sputnik was one of shock. This shock has been replaced with Russi made. Upset with promotion. We must reassert a belief in peace."
