Fathers to Discuss Parents Fund Plans

Eleven fathers of Connecticut College students have been invited to attend the mid-winter meeting of the Parents Fund Committee this Friday, at The Castle in Norwich.

Dr. H. John Rowland of Chatham, N. J., chairman of the committee and father of Susan Rowland '65, will preside at the meeting, called to discuss progress and plans for the College's newly established Parents Fund.

Other members expected to attend are: William H. Guillow of Boston, vice chairman and father of Ann Guillow '65; David J. Murphy, associate professor in English, and winner of the 1958 National Endowment for the Arts; Robert W. Deane, III, of San Francisco, author of "The American Way of Life." The meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joebel Loomis, 433 St. Nicholas Avenue, New Haven.

Miss Dorothy Brown, Syracuse, Harvard, et. al. Bethurum - or Mrs. Loomis, as she is now called - is retiring from the Connecticut College faculty for 28 years. She died December 12, 1964, in England, doing research.

Although her plans are still uncertain, Dr. Bethurum hopes to spend his next year at a number of schools, including Harvard, Princeton, and Bryn Mawr.

Miss Tuve, who attended Wheaton College in 1951, received his degree from the University of Minnesota in 1924 and her master's degree in English in 1925. She was awarded her doctorate in philosophy from Bryn Mawr in 1939.

Miss Tuve was awarded honorary degrees from the University of Minnesota in 1939 and from Goucher College in 1957. She received the Bachelor of Arts degree from Augustana College in 1953.

Girls to Attend Yale Sno-Ski Annual Event

A weekend might bring anything from a new book to a broken leg. This possibility comes courtesy of the Yale Outing Club, whose Sno-Ski is to be held from February 13-14th.

As usual, the rendezvous occurs at Pico Peak, Vermont. It begins on Friday evening, when the town is taken over by bulldozers from Brown, Syracuse, Harvard, etc. The activities do not start until the next day, but once under way the pace is hectic.

Saturday morning and afternoons are completely filled with skiing, tenting, and downhill races; for the novice or daring there are frozen waterfalls. There are a variety of trails and slopes, so any type of skier can find plenty of places to travel.

After a brief clean-up at six on the weekend, the crowd reassembles at some predetermined spot, such as the town hall, where the local bartender serves their "banquet." It is sufficient to ravish appetites, and to provide the "banquet." It is sufficient to satisfy ravenous appetites, and to revive flagging energy. Those who are still uncertain of the coming semester on a biography of Tap: Dr. Bethurum has announced. Federalist, and a study of his role in the major portion of her efforts will complete work on his book, edited by Learned Societies. She was fellow in the Medieval Academy, Modern Language Association, Romance Phil Beta Kappa and other organizations.

Miss Tuve contributed to the Biographical Directory of the American Congress, 1873-1961, and to the Dictionary of American National Biography. She is an author of 18 books, including seasons and months, Elizabethan and metaphysical imagery, and the collected poems of John Donne. She has also been a visiting professor in English for NATO and Atlantis.

Miss Tuve was the holder of awards from the British Academy, American Association of University Women, American Council of Learned Societies. She was fellow in the National Academy of Arts and Sciences and an officer and member of the Roland de Larchmont Mendelssohn, Richard Jackson of Connecticut, and of the faculty of Connecticut College.

Miss Tuve taught along with other English-speaking students at Wheaton, the Tudor Drama course and the Underclass Sections at Connecticut College.

English Professor Emeritus, Dr. Bethurum, to Retire Soon

Professor Emeritus of English, Dr. Charles Shain, head of that department at Connecticut College for 28 years, Miss Dorothy Bethurum - or Mrs. Loomis, as she is now called - will retire from the college faculty for 28 years. She died December 12, 1964, in England, doing research.

Mr. and Mrs. Loomis will spend the next month of their vacation with their grandson, who graduates last June, will also be with the Bethurums, as will Miss Dorothy's parents, the Bethurum family.

Members of the committee from the college are: Dr. Charles Shain, Dean of Academic in the English Department; Dr. Alastair MacFadyen, Associate Professor; Dr. Robert M. Cumbie, Associate Professor; and Dr. John A. Loomis, Professor in the English Department.

Robert D. Hale Reviews for the Production 'Skin of Our Teeth'

Roller coasters and dinosaurs, Homer, Moses and bingo playing, much fun and variety to the production. All of this and plenty of that filled the stage in an attempt to bring the audience in Palmer Auditorium. This was the play wrote Thornton Wilder's 'Skin of Our Teeth'.

A first-of-its-kind exhibit will be opened to the students of Connecticut College's Architecture and Design department community, and residents of the New London area. The show, which will feature 80 large-format photographs of buildings in the New London area, and the making of the second semester will present buildings in New England.

Amoretti the Ugly will be on exhibit from January 23 through January 27, 2023, and is open for our enjoyment. Tuesday through Saturday from 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., and Sunday from 2:00 to 6:00 p.m.

Examinations are held upon un-authorized exhibit staff, the know the value of a short break every ten minutes, when we show it. This exhibition is just such an opportunity. The opinions expressed in the exhibit are not necessarily those of Mr. Sharpe, the art director of the Lyman Allyn Museum. In this show, we're strong about any of the photos shown, we feel free to write a poison pen letter to the service provider.

"It's very hard; the courses are interested in a career with the Spanish club on campus under directions of Frances Sienkowski, FO TERTULIA ESPANOLA PLANS NEW EVENTS

La Tertulia Espanola, the new Spanish club on campus under the guidance of Frances Sienkowski, announced its new officers and plans for the coming semester, this year's activities.

Sunny Bonham will be the vice-president, Gayle Sanders, the secretary-treasurer, and Elly Allyn, the publicity chairman.

La Tertulia plans to meet regularly every Thursday afternoon from four to five o'clock in the Student Union. For more details contact the new officers or the Spanish professional chairman.

January 16, the Saturday night campus movie will be a recent Mexican film, Yanico, which opened in the Lincoln Center Film Festival in the spring of 1966. Although not directly sponsored by La Tertulia Espanola, the club is helping with publicity.

The first semester, the club held several programs to acquaint itself with customs and problems of Spanish-speaking countries, as well as specific film programs. The Spanish Art Club, to be given in English, and a poetry reading, in Spanish, the club hopes to bring to the campus to present a Spanish play.

Peace Corps Volunteer Needs Fiat Basketball Skill in Tunisia

"I think that women in Tunisia, much like women in the States," Jerry Fite, a young Peace Corps returnee, offered adding that the Tunisian women are, at times, allowed to walk unveiled in the streets.

Speaking on behalf of the Peace Corps for college graduates, Jerry talked candidly on his two year mission to Tunisia to a group of Connecticut College students at the last week before Christmas. In relating his own experiences, he exposed some American misconceptions about Tunisian life. The "Lebanese and Tunisian" image, he said, did not include the many wide streets, bright lights, and modern buildings found in the major cities.

He commented that the State Department itself was not totally aware of the extent of modernization in these cities. When Jerry and his fellow volunteers wrote to Washington requesting a vehicle, they received only a bundle of old newspapers, and after an hour or two, the Tunisians retorted, "I thought you said it was only in the south!" The volunteers could find no answer for this.

The benefits of the Peace Corps, Jerry concluded, were derived not only by the underdeveloped country, but by our own country and especially by the Peace Corps volunteers themselves.

Electronic Engineers—Mathematicians, All Degree Levels

In an era where the frontiers of intellectual endeavor demand constant investigation, imagination must be the core of any endeavor.

The research laboratories at the National Security Agency exemplify that rare activity where imagination and a spirit of fun runs through the design process. A spirit of fun runs through the design of a working prototype or field test model.

COMPONENT MINIATURIZATION STUDIES— Practical attempts, through basic design and analysis, to reduce the size yet improve the capability of communicating devices and electronic data processing systems.

SYSTEMS SIMULATION STUDIES— Utilization of modern digital and analog computers to predict the feasibility of engineering ideas and innovations.

MAJOR COMMUNICATIONS SYSTEMS DEVELOPMENT—Design of new antennas, transmitters, receivers, and terminal equipment. Constructing preliminary and basic engineering models to demonstrate the feasibility of using new communications concepts, techniques and circuits. Adapting and perfecting these through the design of a working prototype or field test model.

MATHEMATICAL INVESTIGATIONS— Exploring the phenomena of the interrelation of mathematics and electronics in the design of secure communications systems; an essential element of the complex science of cryptography.

ENVIRONMENTAL TESTING— Proving the capability of components and systems by simulating atmospheric extremes. These tests are conducted with the latest equipment capable of simulating a wide variety of environmental conditions.

For the ENGINEER and the MATHEMATICIAN, NSA provides a unique variety of opportunities in a NEW dimension of science and technology. To assure the success of this venture, scientific employees are encouraged in pursuing graduate studies at local universities under Agency sponsorship.
