Dear Editor:

I want to make you aware of the current situation that is unfolding in the world. The United Nations Assembly has called for a general strike on June 6th and I believe it is essential that we stand together as a country to show our solidarity with this cause. We cannot afford to let this moment pass by without action.

Sincerely,
[Your Name]
Executive Editor of America will lead Discussion Later

The third and last of the Inter-faith gatherings now in progress will have as speaker at 7:00 p.m. on Sunday, April 3rd at St. John's Church. The Rev. Father LaFarge, S.J., of New York City, will speak about the life and works of the famous Italian scholar, the Stella Mares Singers of St. Mark's Church, and the direction of John J. McCar-there will be discussion after the service in the Religious Library.

Father LaFarge was born in Newport, R.I., and is the son of the artist, author, and decorator Father LaFarge. He was graduated from Harvard College with an A.B. degree, spent four years of study in the Sorbonne, Paris, and in the Roman Catholic University of NVA., Austria, and was ordained as a priest of the English Mission Society of Jesus in 1905. He pursued advanced study under Dr. Innes and with Professors F. E. Hudson and at Woodstock College, Md. He has taught, written, and edited for the English and Latin Missions of Southern Maryland, being especially concerned with the propagation of educational and social work in that area.

Executive Editor and Author

In 1936 he joined the staff of the New York Catholic, and since then has become executive editor of that paper. He is a frequent contributor to its Modern Times, frequent articles in America, The National Catholic, and other Catholic publications at home and abroad, and has been an officer of the English Missionary Society of Southern Maryland, being especially concerned with the promotion of educational and social work in that area.

Trainee Positions In Civil Service Opened to Women

The Civil Service Commission has announced that the federal government is seeking to fill 300 vacant positions. Women are especially needed to help do research and clerical work in the fields of chemistry, geophysics, geology, mathematics, engineering, physics, and radio. The positions offer salary up to $4,000 per year, plus overtime.

Trainees may offer for the assistant grade, one year of college study, for the junior grade in their particular options. Persons enrolled in college courses may apply, subject to completion of the course. Ages limits are flexible, but no one over 35 is required.

Three positions in technical and scientific work will be filled in the English Missionary, the Indian Missionary, and the American Missionary. The salary is $1,480 a year plus benefits. The minimum educational requirement is that applicants must have completed one year of college work in at least one of the following subjects: English, science, biology, or general science.

Ruth Hine Elected Head Of Science Conference

Ruth Hine '43 was elected chairman of the '44 group for 1944 at the meeting of the Science Club February 21st. The post of chairman of the Science Club is held by a woman for the annual Student Science Conference, which is the committee that plans and conducts the conferences of the various science departments. The purpose of the conference is to bring together the students of different colleges and to provide a forum for the discussion of scientific questions. The conference is open to all students, regardless of their major, and is intended to promote cooperation among the science departments and to encourage students to participate in scientific research. The conference is held annually, usually in the spring, and is organized by the Science Club. The conference typically features presentations by students and faculty members on a wide range of scientific topics, as well as discussions and workshops. It is an opportunity for students to engage with scientific ideas and to network with their peers. The conference is a valuable event for students who are interested in science and who want to learn more about the scientific community. Protestantism Is Defined by Rev. Dr. Richardson

Before discussing Protestantism in the post-war world, it is important to know just what Protestantism is, declared the Rev. Dr. Richardson at Vespera Sunday, February 22, Protestantism he interpreted through the media of the four freedoms which he feels are fundamental to it. These are freedom from the law of the grace of life, freedom from the magic of religion for the liberty of life, freedom from infallibility for creative growth of life, and freedom from state religion for a vital, personal truth of religion.

In discussing his views of the post-war world, Dr. Richardson mentioned what each of these freedoms would lead to. The first freedom, he thinks, should be the savior of individualism, while the second should bring about more practicality. The third freedom from infallibility, should lead to more thinking for one’s self, and the fourth should make for semi-religion in the state.

Basing his ideas on these freedoms, Dr. Richardson told what he believes is certain and what is likely to happen in this world after the War. There will be collectivism rather than isolationism, he foresees, and imperialism will probably rule in politics.

College girls have definite responsibilities in preparation for this post-war world. These include thinking for one’s self, knowing and discussing, and preserving learning and culture.

her disposal than Germany; the Jinger Japan is allowed to hold prisoners who will be free: the Japanese are an intransigent people; and last, China is the stronger she will be—alone for four and a half years. China has borne Japan’s sadistic fury alone for four and a half years. The problem of giving greater aid to China has taxed the ingenuity of the entire world. India brings to the mind the other portion of the world which is within the British Empire. India by the time this paper comes out, the Mahatma is no longer the Mahatma. Nobody is able to predict what the consequences of his death will be. There is any question of telling what will happen in India if Gandhi stays alive. The Indian problem is by its means soluble and the Chinese will be the first ones to suffer for that.

English, Music and Arts Stressed at First Major Talk

Miss Rosemary Park, dean of freshmen, introduced the speakers at the series of freshmen major talks which was held in the East house dining room on Wednesday, February 17.

The languages were the subject of Beatrice Dora- thy Bethurum, chairman of the English department. She an- swered three questions in the talk; what the study of literature would mean to the young student, how it will help one to make a living, and how it will aid one to become a good citizen. Through the study process without a major will learn a definition of true hu- manity. Miss Bethurum cited books that are examples of excel- lence in the realm of literature. In this time when men are fight- ing for our culture, fighting that it may live, women have a great responsibility, Miss Bethurum said, in keeping the culture alive both now and after the war until the men can finish the education that they are now forced to leave. Miss Bethurum told of real examples of how students had kept soldiers sane and had helped war workers at home.

importance of Language

The foreign languages are of great importance in this time especially in the fields of censor- ship, cryptography, and in relations with other countries. In the tre- mendous amount of making the peace, an ability to communicate in all languages, a knowledge of the history and literature of the countries will be necessary. Although we are talking about lan- guages especially, Miss Bethurum stressed the importance of select- ing a major that you are inter- ested in and in one which you feel you will do good work.

Mr. Arthur Quinnell, music major. There are two groups of students who can choose music as a major; those who have a keen interest in the field and those who study the music profession. The opportunities in the music field are both voca- tional and non-vocational. One can teach, enter mercantile lines, and do all forms of secretarial and li- brary work connected with music. Make music is also a valuable avocation and a source of constant pleasure. The department is divided into three sections; the theoretical, the his- torical, and the applied. A music major is allowed to emphasize any one of these branches after taking the required number of credits. If Miss Bethurum, Mr. Quinnell emphasized the importance of choosing a major which will not only give an ade- quate background of knowledge but also develop the student as a personality.

Fields for Fine Arts Majors

The fine arts were discussed by Mr. Robert Logan, head of the depart- ment. He said that there will be a great demand after the war for trained people and that we owe it to ourselves and to our parents to choose a subject in which we are interested and find comfort. Miss Logan agreed with the first two speakers in saying that in choosing a major one should choose in line with one’s interests and abilities.

The demand for craftsmen, workers, map mak- ers, propagandists, and designers has increased since the war and more workers are needed con- sistently. These are all fields that can be entered by a fine arts ma- jor. There are two majors in this department, the history of art and applied art.

Look upon each day as the whole of the whole, not merely a sec- tion; and enjoy and improve the present with a feeling of wishing through haste to rush on to another— Rushkin.

INSURE YOUR HOME AGAINST HITLER!
The state of existence is doubt — the present, the future — the possibility of life, of hope, whether he is still living at the present moment, but at any rate it is safe to say that a bull calf has been confirmed and the lower regions of Buck Lodge for the purchase of porcelain in the Botany lab. If it is confirmed by the Botany lab. If it is not already put out of this world, his future is very uncertain at least. Post mortems will follow his experiment. We realize that our taking a chance by announcing the coming death of a benefactor to Buck Lodge we think, in order to take advantage of the situation, it is safe to request that all boys who are at the Sap and return for extra rations of beef.

The home economics classes conducted that wonderful chocolate cake with the gooey frosting that we had no trouble in our pockets, and Barbara Dillon '43 was one of the helping hands. Just as the added cocoa made the chocolate cake from the confectioner's sugar box into the bat, the students with the cardboard in it was supposed to be the cake served to the college, the cardboard in the candy bar was served to the same Miss Dillon.

Morganthwaite Urges College Girls to Invest in Bonds

Editor's note: The following is a release which has been sent to Dr. Henry Morgenthwaite, Jr., the Secretary of the Treasury.

Fundamentally, this is a young man's war. But in many important ways this is also a young woman's war: young women in our command centers, in the defense industries overalls; young women in field and factory, in office and hospital. You as young women students have a definite part to play in this crisis. For the next few weeks at least, this is considered to be a very important time for the women of the U.S. Army. The coming of the war means that a great many of the women who have been and still are engaged in the Army as nurses, as kitchen help, as secretaries, as telephone operators, as guards and as motor drivers are being called into service.

There are tremendous stakes in the war; for if we were to lose the war, they would lose their futures, and youth deeply deserves a future. They also have a share in the fighting and they appreciate it with their characteristic enthusiasm. Many of them have known that, for my own daughter, a college education is no longer a dream, but a reality. There are not nearly as many war services her classmates are reporting as there were just before the war. One thing you can all do is to purchase War Savings Stamps. Perhaps you cannot invest vast sums of money, but you can invest an appropriate share of all you receive or earn. And as you invest this money you will also be investing your own sacrifice and your future, and your country's future. For this reason you should also buy War Savings Stamps and invest not only in yourself, but also in your country.

Class Basketball Games Begin Wed.

Interclass basketball will be held on Wednesday evening, March 13 with sophomore-senior, junior-senior, and junior-senior games. There will be a series of six games held on consecutive Wednesday nights. In order to play on a class team, a girl must have had at least three hours practice before attending the regular game practice. The freshmen will present their class banner at the first game.
