Free Speech

Several of the features which appear in the newspaper enjoy a greater popularity than others. One of these is the free speech column. If any student or faculty member disagrees with the opinions expressed, he is free to write a letter or article opposing it in the same space in the newspaper. This is the case for free speech. There is, however, another side to the story. Free speech should be a spontaneous affair which comes to the paper entirely unsolicited. This, unfortunately, doesn't happen. Under normal circumstances, lack of free speech would indicate either a state of complete agreement or the existence of no controversial issues. On this campus, the majority of the students leaving their rooms is a rare sight. Or that dormitory corner where the conversation is spontaneous and short of action. This is, however, an old story that needs no further going over at this time. What we would like to have is a self-generating free speech column. Can you help us?

Library Rules

Any of the library's materials which are found in the shelves but not on the correct shelves, will be taken from the shelves and placed in their proper positions in the stacks. Books and periodicals must be treated with care. The damage or wear to their covers, a stricter enforcement of the regulations of the library is expected.

Because spring vacation is approaching soon, the due dates of books will be changed slightly. All books charged out on 28 day loan before March 18, will be due on March 31. All books charged out on 7 day loan before March 18, will be due on March 25. All books charged out before March 18, will be due to be returned on March 26. All books due on April 1, will be due on April 15. All books due on or after May 1, will be due on May 15. However, books due on April 1, and May 1, will be due two weeks after return.

The student-faculty library committee is sponsoring an art show, which will be on display in the library from March 18 through March 28. The call for entries is open to all art majors and, in fact, anyone interested in the aesthetic world of art may apply. The exhibition will be open to all art majors and everyone is urged to attend. The show will take place in the library.
Lyman Allyn Museum Celebrates Twenty-Fifth Anniversary: Mr. Mahew, Mr. Mcclow Plan Gala Exhibitions for Event

On Saturday, March 2, 1957, the Lyman Allyn Museum, in celebration of a quarter-century of service, opened its doors for a gala open house, and a week-long celebration, with special events scheduled on display until April 7. For several weeks the Lyman Allyn Museum has been busy with the preparations to make this event one of the most exciting in the history of New London. In 1939, the museum opened with five permanent collections: paintings, sculpture, glassware, and jewelry, and a selection of 19th-century sculpture. The museum has grown, and today it houses 7,692 items, including paintings, sculpture, glass, jewelry, and other objects. The museum has also added new galleries and permanent exhibits, such as the Gallery of American Art at Andover, where works by Charles A. Platt of New York, and Andover's own Native American Museum. The museum also houses the Westfield Foundation, which has made a significant donation to the museum, allowing it to expand its collections and facilities.

Miss White Gives Views on Medieval Education Methods by Mary Rymes '59

In Halsey Auditorium, at 4:30 this afternoon, Miss White spoke on Medieval Education Methods. To the few unacquainted with Miss White's British origin, this was a new treat in the realms of wit and humor. Miss White's views were received with enthusiasm and interest, and her speech was enjoyed by all present. The rest of the afternoon was devoted to the war, productions such as the Hasty Pudding Show, and the committee is running a mobile view on medieval art in the halls of the museum. The committee is also working on a new exhibit, which will be unveiled in the fall. The museum is open every day, and admission is free. For more information, please visit the museum's website or call 555-1234.

Tuition Payments

At a meeting of the Board of Trustees on March 1, several changes were made to the schedule for the payment of student fees. The total for resident students, $2,160, will be divided as follows: $1,465 due March 15, $535 due January 29, 1958, and $535 due January 29, 1958. For day students the schedule is as follows: $1,465 due March 15, 1957, $610 due September 19, 1957, and $610 due January 29, 1958. The 100 dollar deposit in May reserves a student's place in the college, and is not refundable if the student subsequently withdraws. President Park has stated that each department of the college is planning to make the payment of student fees as convenient as possible. The department of the Connecticut College Music Department, and by Fenno Heath, a music major, will be paid in the form of a study abroad. President Park has also stated that the department of the Connecticut College Music Department, and by Fenno Heath, a music major, will be paid in the form of a study abroad.

Exchange Student Contrasts Systems Greek vs. American by Hannah Boye Christianson

One of the foreign students at Connecticut College this year is Rena Kirkmaier, from Rome, Greece. Last spring Rena wrote to Connecticut College asking if it was possible of receiving a scholarship. A few months later Rena returned to Greece, and she left almost immediately for "God's own Country."

Rena, who is associated with American life and with the language, was in New London two months in a camp for children, who were born in the United States. Not only did she stay in the camp improve Rena's English considerably, but it also proved to be a very interesting and educational experience, especially since one of Rena's main interests has always been to help others.

Rena's first impression of American life was one of speed and rush, which it took her a long time to get used to. Rena did not feel very much the stranger at American University, but she did not know very much about the American dormitory life since it gives the student a chance to get a closer contact with her fellow students. Rena usually takes from four to six days, depending on the field, in order to be admitted to a university, the high school girl is very capable to get the entrance exam since the universities have a very long time to get used to the college life.

There is no dating system in Greece comparable to the one in America. Since Rena is a Greek girl, she never would get out with a boy for more than a few times with the same boy, but she has been around the block, even with her family. Therefore, it is hard for Rena to get used to the American social functions.

Rena finds the studies very hard in fact, much harder than she expected after what she had heard of American colleges and universities. Diddi, major interests at Con-has found the study facilities excellent here. In the University in any library, any books which she wanted was not available for three weeks or more, or there would not be the places to sit and study in the library that she found here.

Even though Didi has found that concentration is high and quiet, she has felt as if it were just slipping off of her. She still has to think about things when she is free.

We Crave Creativity

As announced before in the News, the Five Arts committee is again holding a contest for a new Five Arts emblem to be used on posters and programs for this year’s Five Arts weekend. The best art this year is drama, and the emblem may include some sense of the drama theme or it may be a design of pure letter forms, as was the design last year. Shape and size are not restricted, although they should be within reasonable limits: square, rectangle, circle, or any variation of such forms may be used, and these ideograms should be turned in to Dusty Heimbach in Jane Addams House. Watch the next issue of News for an inter-dormitory mobile contest in connection with Five Arts, and get to work on those emblem designs!

Drama Death

The Five arts committee again this year held a playwriting contest to seek a suitable play for performance on Five Arts Weekend. We were encouraged by the number of original plays submitted and by the promising quality of many of them; however, we were unable to select one for production this year. Exhibitions of student theatre work done during the course of the year will still be shown. We hope that those who submitted plays will revise and rewrite them into dramatically producible material and resubmit them next year. Thank you for your participation. Your ideas were often fresh and interesting.

state are hindered by the division of this colony and protectorate among three large tribal groups. Harris concluded that political independence in this area must be accompanied by economic independence and that the peoples of this area must build up a sense of national ethnic groups whose members have more mobility than they presently do.

The rapporteur from the East and Central African platform emphasized the need to unify its educational development in this area.

Harris, who studied under H. H. Joachim at Magdalen College, Oxford, upon the acquisition of a B. Litt. degree, took a post at the University of South Africa were summarized in 1941 as the Colonial Service as a Colonial Officer. He returned to Africa in this capacity as a school inspector.

In 1940 Professor Harris took a post at the University of South Africa where he spent six months as Secretary to the Bibliothecauctore. In 1944 he joined the British Army as a Commandant of the Royal Army Medical Corps and took an appointment to the British Colonial Office in the K.N. There he spent eight years. He returned to Africa in 1951. BrOBW
