NEW LONDON, CONNECTICUT

Vol. 52, No. 26 Tuesday, October 1, 1968

NEW CONCERN

DEAF THEATER TO PLAY HERE

NTD is coming! They will be performing Fri., Oct. 11 at 8 p.m. in Falconer prior to the beginning of their national tour.

The NTD is a professional company of deaf actors who perform for both the deaf and the hearing. When performing for the deaf they use "American" language, which is a combination of the deaf sign language and mime techniques — it is a more visual language than just sign language.

In performing for the hearing they use three readers, who are professional hearing actors, who read the parts as the deaf are performing.

One of the readers with the company is Bill Bhys, who portrayed Paris in the December Theater One production of Tiger at the Gates.

Students interested in continuing the work to be done, regardless of party affiliation, whether or not you know where to turn, and do not know where to turn, and do not necessarily want to tie themselves down to a political structure," explained Cindy.

The Liberal Coalition will offer a series of coordinating activities between those clubs on campus which co-concure with the Coalition's objectives, although each organization which enters the Coalition will remain autonomous.

The course of action which followed was determined by the students. Students organized a "sends hall" to voice their concern about migrant workers, and they raised $200 scholarship money for the child of a migrant worker.

Letters were written to many government leaders voicing concern over the Biafran situation, and a letter was received in reply from Connecticut Gov. John Dempsey. Thirty percent of Black students left the program with Afro hair styles as a tribute to their awakening sense of culture.

Several important changes were made in the Humanities Program this summer.

The entire new curriculum developed for those students included jazz, black history (not Negro history), and twentieth century film. Film making and photography were among new creative activities offered.

First-year students attended classes in history, English, math, music history, art history, and ending six mornings a week.

These students could also elect dance, sculpture and chorus as creative activities.

by Kathryn Riley

consider the United States. summer 1966: it was tense, black-white tense, old-young tense, establishment anti-establishment tense.

To live the American scene this summer meant to live Chicago and Miami, Hough and Los Angeles, Carl Stokes and Bob Brown, and that meant to live with the problems of the not-decade and with the problems of now.

Now consider a structured program designed to enable educationally disadvantaged girls to enter college: add to this program 80 teenage girls, 12structured, a course in black history, a militant black professor, prolonged exposure to the Haitian dilemma, and a serious reading of Grapes of Wrath. What you have is a microcosm of the American summer on the Connecticut College campus.

What you have is the Summer Program in Humanities. The Humanities Program as such dealt with the tensions in an academic way—the course in black history, classes about Vietnam and Batista, and discussions about music as cultural criticism. The course of action which was determined by the students. Students organized a "sends hall" to voice their concern about migrant workers, and they raised $200 scholarship money for the child of a migrant worker.

also letters were written to many government leaders voicing concern over the Biafran situation, and a letter was received in reply from Connecticut Gov. John Dempsey. Thirty percent of Black students left the program with Afro hair styles as a tribute to their awakening sense of culture.

Several important changes were made in the Humanities Program this summer.

The entire new curriculum developed for those students included jazz, black history (not Negro history), and twentieth century film. Film making and photography were among new creative activities offered.

First-year students attended classes in history, English, math, music history, art history, and ending six mornings a week.

These students could also elect dance, sculpture and chorus as creative activities.

by Kathryn Riley

Consider the United States. summer 1966: it was tense, black-white tense, old-young tense, establishment anti-establishment tense.

To live the American scene this summer meant to live Chicago and Miami, Hough and Los Angeles, Carl Stokes and Bob Brown, and that meant to live with the problems of the not-decade and with the problems of now.

Now consider a structured program designed to enable educationally disadvantaged girls to enter college: add to this program 80 teenage girls, 12-structured, a course in black history, a militant black professor, prolonged exposure to the Haitian dilemma, and a serious reading of Grapes of Wrath. What you have is a microcosm of the American summer on the Connecticut College campus.

What you have is the Summer Program in Humanities. The Humanities Program as such dealt with the tensions in an academic way—the course in black history, classes about Vietnam and Batista, and discussions about music as cultural criticism. The course of action which was determined by the students. Students organized a "sends hall" to voice their concern about migrant workers, and they raised $200 scholarship money for the child of a migrant worker.

also letters were written to many government leaders voicing concern over the Biafran situation, and a letter was received in reply from Connecticut Gov. John Dempsey. Thirty percent of Black students left the program with Afro hair styles as a tribute to their awakening sense of culture.

Several important changes were made in the Humanities Program this summer. For the first time since the Program's inception, half of the students were returning for their second year. The entire new curriculum developed for those students included jazz, black history (not Negro history), and twentieth century film. Film making and photography were among new creative activities offered.

First-year students attended classes in history, English, math, music history, art history, and ending six mornings a week. These students could also elect dance, sculpture and chorus as creative activities.
TOPIC OF CANDOR

by Gayle Cunningham

You've heard a lot about freedom around here, haven't you? All kinds of freedom: the freedom of lesser requirements, the freedom to protest, sexual freedom, social freedom, political freedom. It goes on and on to the utmost and every kind in which an individual finds himself.

Sometimes it all gets a bit boring, doesn't it? Everyone cries "get involved!" "GIVE A DAMN", but isn't that asking an awful lot? Isn't it much easier just to go through college enjoying youth and leisure, leaving all the problems of the outside world for later? What is youth if you can't enjoy it?

Why it's reached the point that a nice young lady at Connecticut College cannot pick up her campus paper without being hauled a new challenge. And what's worse, it accustoms you of being apathetic. It seems quite a bit of space was used last year in this paper accusing the young women on this campus of apathy.

Well, those of you who became rather bored with all of this may be in for a pleasant surprise this year. You are going to find that all those people who spent so much time last year encouraging you to become active have become too involved to waste three harassing you. It has become evident to the "involved" group that the problems facing them are too great to divide their efforts between real world and re-creating. They have become totally committed. So now, Ladies, you may make your decision for the year. You may join us now, or try to ignore us. You may continue in your present world or join the real world with all its faults and try to right them. And you don't have to give your answer to this question to anyone but yourself, because, after all, that's who you will have to live the rest of your life with.

Any student who replied to the ad that was placed by the International Center for Academic Research, that appeared in issues of CONN CENSUS during second semester, 1968, should, if possible, send cancelled checks, money orders, etc., as well as any mail she has received from ICAR, including the envelopes in which received, if available, to:

Mr. J. J. Sullivan
Postal Inspector
Boston, Massachusetts 02107

Correspondence and envelopes received from ICAR should be initialed and dated by the student prior to forwarding to Mr. Sullivan.

This company is under investigation by the Post Office Department for using the mails in a scheme to defraud. Therefore, any correspondence will be appreciated.
Biafra: Land of Hate and Grave Misunderstanding

by Robert Lambotte transcribed by Bill Hillier

Two points are important to note. First, five-fifths of the production of oil, and about 90% of the oil to be found in the eastern provinces (now Biafra), lies in the oilfields between North and South. North and South did not differ in the content of their oil; until the importance of the oil riches of Biafra were constituted clear.

It is already certain that in a couple of years, with the top middle ten oil producing countries, we will have a

Then in whose interests was it to provide the break of Nig-

Barclays Bank and the Bank of England, backed by the political power of the British government, were not at all interested in supporting the Biafran cause. The British government was more concerned with its own interests, which were served by the continued existence of a divided Nigeria. The British government's support for the Biafran cause was not motivated by any humanitarian concern, but rather by its own strategic interests. The British government was more concerned with maintaining its control over Nigeria and preserving its own economic and political interests. The British government's support for the Biafran cause was not motivated by any humanitarian concern, but rather by its own strategic interests. The British government was more concerned with maintaining its control over Nigeria and preserving its own economic and political interests. The British government's support for the Biafran cause was not motivated by any humanitarian concern, but rather by its own strategic interests.
Support the Candidates

At present the Liberal Coalition is supporting three candidates who represent the beliefs of the group. Senator Abraham Ribicoff, candidate for United States Senator from Connecticut, William St. Onge, candidate for U.S. Congress from the Second Congressional District in Connecticut, and Allan Lowenstein, candidate for U.S. Congress from the Ninth District in New York.

Cindy explained that since the three candidates are Democrats, the three separate Youth for Ribicoff, St. Onge, and Lowenstein groups will come under the auspices of the Young Democrats for practical means of implementation.

Canvas

Youth for Ribicoff, coordinated by Chris Howard and co-sponsored with Yale University, will canvas the area. Last Wed., Sept. 25, Conn girls joined Take accountability in a recruitment drive on the Yale campus. The Connecticut College Youth for Ribicoff will provide either private cars or a bus to transport Conn girls to Stores to hear a major policy speech by Sen. Ribicoff on Oct. 20.

The group also plans to canvas in the "Thomas Valley" area every weekend in October except Political Forum Weekend, October 25-26.

Youth for St. Onge

Coordinated by Cindy Conrad, Youth for St. Onge sponsored canvassing in the New London-Middletown areas last Saturday, Sept. 29. Conn College students for the St. Onge campaign for the New London area is Diana Cheyne and for the Middletown area is Jill Mant. Connecticut College Youth for St. Onge along with five other college groups will be on the present draft system and modification. Jill Mant '70 will represent Conn.

Video-Taped Seminar
Tentative plans also call for a video-tape seminar with St. Onge and college students on local and national matters at the University of Connecticut, according to Cindy.

Mary Grull, '70, coordinator of Youth for Lowenstein, plans to organize canvassing trips to Long Island for the next few weeks.

New ADA Chapter

The new chapter ADA chapter is formally chartered by its parent organization, ADA. The organization was formed in 1947 to restore liberal influence in national policies. The famed economist John Kenneth Galbraith is its 1968 chairman.

Chris explained that: "In the past the campus ADA has merely been a forum for debate. ADA favors the instruments of free competition in defending the forces of Communist and Fascism."

Specifically, the campus ADA is interested in enacting open debates on current issues and enforces the premise that the youth should bear a greater responsibility in the affairs of the country.

Emergency Campaigning
Although ADA itself is not affiliated with any political organization, it strongly urges its members to support candidates who concur with their objectives which are similar to those of the Liberal Coalition.

Chris added that the ADA is dedicated to changing social conditions, and endorsed Senator McCarthy at its National Convention (Continued on Page 6, Col. 5).
sense of Black identity.

"Blacks... have the experience tioned in the situation.

conception, and so much in-

In order to confront the prob-mechanism is the same kind of

"Blacks have been denied

Such is the case for most

"I don't have...革命

defense of the slavery

for them to present their action of Black sub-culture, such as a certain note, the slang, the dancing, music."

Nancy Austin '70 added that giving in any way... of difference.

Even the miners are un-

I find myself losing touch with the Black community.

I think that establishing a

"Also, I came from the

New York. And an inte-

Of course, the feeling was... difficult.

"I think what most... existence.

It is almost impossible effective manner. But... to me.

"I have come here with no

be liberal was difficult.

"So many whites are under

"Give me liberty or give me death' is the same kind of

"But I was never... service.

"Even the freshmen... of high school."

"Blacks... in the world... no different.

"I tried to see if I could de-

"I was... another Black."

"I think the dorm situation really effects your total picture of life here.

Also, I come from the Boston."

Tuesday, October 1, 1968 ConnCensus Page Five

BLACKS (Continued from Page 1, Col. 2)

tremendously impor-

"I have been at Conn. When I decided to come here... to see... exchange or... to attract able Black students to campus."

"I have noticed... students, sending its firsts."

"I was in high school... the dancing,

"I have noticed... they will grow as people, as well

Enrollment Office is bringing groups of high

THE CINEMA SHOWCASE

"Free Thea. Parkl M leAn

NOW at 1·3-5· 7 and 9 p.m.

"Robert, O'Leary, and McNeil...

"Mr. Hersey... there is no disqualificais... in Washington, D.C., which is so used to an integrated way of Washington, D.C., which is so "I have been... Negro has influenced my whole life, although I'm an independent Negro second, Being Negro has... opportunities here.

At present, Conn is engaged in the admission office is bringing groups of high

THE ADULTEROUS".

GIOYANNA CAINE

INTO THE WORLD OF

MICHAEL CAINE

THE CINEMA SHOWCASE

GRIMES CLEANERS

Dry Cleaner

54·58 Ocean Ave. 443·4421

54·58 Ocean Ave. 443·4421

442·9456

9¥e 9/wft

DARY FORBES'

"The Style Shop"

NEW LONDON

GROTON

COATS, DRESSES, SPORTSWEAR

FISHER FLORIST

DECORATED CAKES FOR BIRTHDAY PARTIES AND OTHER FESTIVITIES

ON CAMPUS EVERY TUESDAY AND FRIDAY

24 HOUR SERVICE

(payable by various sources; however, only seven students applied. Of the four, seven were accepted and three enrolled—in a total of 12 years.

in 1968, there was still only one Black student in the class.

In 1964, seven Black students were enrolled. In 1965, of the 10 students who were accepted, only four matriculated, and the next year, of the 23 applicants, 10 were accepted and nine enrolled.

By 1967, applications had gone up to 29. Of these, 12 were accepted with 10 of them accepting. This year, 21 of the 25 applicants were accepted, with a 10 percent matriculation rate.

There are some people who are skeptical about the decision to have a Negro student admitted. Many students think what Negroes can offer to the college is insignificant.

It is in these realms of international finance that the real causes of the present tragedy must be sought. Those who stood to gain from the breakup of India found sympathetic elements among the bourgeoisie of the eastern provinces of Burma. But it is almost impossible for me now to envisage themselves as the people's natural right to self-determination and use this as justification for succession, nor is it in any way possible for them to present their action as revolutionary.

CLUB NIGHT FREAKS OUT

In keeping with the political nature of the year, the centers of attraction at Tuesday's Club Night were the bannered booths of the Liberal Coalition, the combined forces of the Young Democrats and American Democrats for Action, and the Young Republicans. Their tables offered bulletins and other information for the coming elections.

Peter Martini, Republican candidate for the U.S. Congress from Conn., William Moore, Republican candidate for the Conn. Senate and Peter Higberg, Republican candidate for the State House of Representatives, were on hand to present their opinions on pertinent issues and answer questions as they mingled with the students.

The newest addition to Club Night, the affiliations with Yale and Wesleyan, was an all-out success. The Young Democrats and the Young Republicans both offered male inducements to their booths from coordinate Yale clubs.

The Vietnam Information Committee advertised a seminar with Wesleyan for the near future. The WCN-WBRC, Conn.-Yale, series was also in evidence as they broadcast the proceedings from the snack bar area.

Under the direction of Rudi Freelon, Club Night was expanded to include representatives of all the College's groups and clubs. Strong throughout the gym and lounge of Costris-Willems were tables and booths providing glimpses of the club activities that range from the performing groups, such as the Russian Chorus, to special interest clubs of the nature of the Committee for Understanding Racial Attitudes.

Live performances were also given throughout the two hour event by the Swifts, Cox Chords, and Madrigals.

NEWS NOTES

COALITION

(Continued from Page 4, Col. 4)

CLUB NIGHT

FREAKS ... variety, or bookstore.

INC.

LONG ISLAND CITY, N.Y.11101

••• where Imagination Is the essential qualification

$1.95

Larger size CUBED:

98°

line paid) in sturdy tube. Original mate-cable.

POSTER MART, P.O.Box 11317. Enclose $1.95

paid)...

expanded to include representation for the State and National con-cooperation... and are...

These programs are partially or wholly universities can be partially or wholly reimbursed through NSA Fellowships and other assistance programs.

The deadline for PQT applications is

October 5, 1968. Pick up a PQT Bulletin at your Placement Office. It contains full details and the necessary last registration form. College Relations Branch, National Security Agency, Ft. George G. Meade, Maryland 20755.

At any college campus, for...

national security agency

THE CARD 'N PARTY SHOP

Gifts, Cards & Knick-Knacks For All Occasions

and

The Charlie Brown Center of New London

IN THE NEW LONDON SHOPPING CENTER

For the Liberal Arts Major, PQT can open a whole new world of opportunity ...

Each year, NSA offers challenging career opportunities to Liberal Arts majors through participation in the Professional Qualification Test. This year, NSA has scheduled the PQT for Saturday, October 19, 1968. Completion of this Test by the Liberal Arts major is a prerequisite to consideration for NSA employment.

The Career Scene at NSA: The National Security Agency is the U.S. Government agency responsible for developing instrucmtal communications systems to transmit and receive vital information. As an NSA professional, you will be trained to work on programs of national importance in such areas as:

• Cryptography—developing & logica.

l proof of new cryptologic concepts

• Research—the gathering, analysis and reporting of substantive data

• Language—used as a basic tool of research into a number of alphanumeric fields

• Programming—includes data systems program writing, and development of mechanical and administrative procedures

• Documentation—technical writing in its broadest sense, including research, writing, editing, illustrating, layout and reproduction

Your specific academic major is of secondary importance. Of far greater importance is your ingenuity, intellectual curiosity, perseverance—plus a desire to apply them in assignments where "imagination Is essential." SALARIES start at $6000 or and are supplemented by the benefits of federal employment. ADVANCEMENT AND CAREER DEVELOPMENT—NSA promotes from within and awards salary increases as you assume greater responsibilities.

If you are interested in stimulating your professional and intellectual growth in many ways, including intensive formal as well as on-the-job training,

Adventured study at any of seven area

... where imagination is the essential qualification