Off Campus Thieves Roam

by Caris Gordon

Early last Saturday morning a young man entered five women's rooms in Lambdin House, but was scared out each time. Over the past two weeks Smith-Burkard House and Cummings Art Center were broken into and robbed of valuable stereo equipment. The suspects in each of these cases is believed to be off-campus.

The following is an account of the Lambdin incident pieced together from eyewitness reports. All eyewitnesses asked that their names not be used.

Sometime between 4:45 and 5:15 Saturday morning a young man was roaming the halls of Lambdin. It is thought that he started on the second floor and worked his way up to the fourth, trying to enter rooms along the way. When he found an unlocked door, he would enter the room. No physical harm was done.

In each woman's room he entered the routine was the same. He walked to the bed and stood by until the student woke up. In at least one room he pulled back the bedsheets. In two women's cases, he woman cried out or told him to leave, he did. The woman would then get up and lock herself in her room. He did not physically harm anyone.

He was supposedly fully clothed until he entered the fifth and final room, when he only pulled off his boxers.

The fifth woman told him to leave; he walked out, and she telephoned dorm security. She was the only one of Olin's students who had a phone. There were no phones in the four previously entered rooms. It is not known why the other women did not scream out or try to get someone's attention.

Acting housefellow Melinda Goding called Security who appeared on the scene immediately. This was around 5:30 a.m. By this time several members of the dorm, who had been roused by the commotion, were searching for the intruder. Security guards joined the search. The guards cleared the fourth floor of the dorm, believing the intruder might be hiding there.

There were now many Lambdin residents in the housewife's safe giving statements and a description of the intruder to Security. There were a few students in the bell desk area, when a young man fitting the intruder's description asked directions to a dormitory. The intruder is black, 5'10", in his early twenties, mustache and very thin. He was wearing a pair of boxers. He was wearing white pants, a red sweatshirt and white sneakers. A student told Security, "I think that's him."

The Security guards took him outside the dorm to check for an I.D. and question him. The guards waited with him less than two minutes, when the intruder bolted away. Two students and the student aide, after him as he ran behind Cro, past the Infirmary, across the green behind the South dorms and over the wall onto Williams Street. The intruder "had gotten a good jump on us, and was running like his life depended on it." said one of the chasing.

Lock Up

Chief of Security Francis O'Grady wanted "no explanation" why or why the intruder got away and must talk more with the guards on duty that night.

"Why aren't the doors locked?" Chief O'Grady wanted to know. "You have to lock your doors when you go to bed." According to Security log, on Friday, March 28, around 1:00 a.m., the eve of the Lambdin incident, twelve dormitory doors were open, including several complex entrances. None of the locks were broken.

The New London police has been called in to investigate. Detective Bucko of the New London Police Department, who is in charge of the case, refused to discuss it with anyone from the College.

A 15-year-old New London youth who broke into Smith-Burkard House the previous weekend was made away with a $500 tape recorder.

Controversy leads to resignation

DR. HALL LEAVES POST

By Palmer Wallace

For the first time, Conn. will offer a course in journalism next semester, pending faculty approval. The final decision was unavailable at press time, but the course is expected to receive unanimous approval.

The course, entitled "Elementary Journalism," will be offered by the English department, and might be offered next spring. Professor Seng, in charge of the course, will be offered both semesters, with enrollment limited to sophomores, juniors, and seniors with permission of the instructor.

Credit for organizing the course goes to members of the Pundit editorial board, who presented the plan for the course to administration members and the English department. Working with board members, Mr. Seng, previously a professional journalist, submitted the course to the English department and it was approved.

The intention of the course will be to teach basic journalistic technique and, through the course, provide the student with a means of practical application of journalism. The Pundit newspaper, provide the student with a means of practical application of journalism.

Professor Seng, in charge of the course, will be offered both semesters, with enrollment limited to sophomores, juniors, and seniors with permission of the instructor.

The course will be taught by Dr. Mary Hall, an experienced professor of journalism, and was recommended for the course by the Student Health Services, thus ending thirteen years of service to Connecticut College.

The resignation was followed a week of controversy over a statement issued by Dr. Hall concerning antiscialiclo social behavior.

Dr. Mary Hall submitted an unexpected resignation as Professor of English and director of the Student Health Services, thus ending thirteen years of service to Connecticut College.

The resignation was followed a week of controversy over a statement issued by Dr. Hall concerning antiscialiclo social behavior.

Despite the controversy, Dr. Hall said she will continue her teaching at the college until the end of the semester. She also said she will not appeal the decision made by the administration.

The resignation comes at a time when the college is facing several challenges, including a budget crisis and a growing number of protests against the administration. The college has also been under pressure to improve its diversity and inclusion initiatives.

A Willingness to Tackle the Issues

Few issues of student life on campus have more impact than the problem of what to do with students whose zeal of self-indulgence and excess outweighs their sense of social ethics. It is not a new issue, and it often fails to command the attention it warrants precisely because thievery, vandalism and alcohol abuse have never been novelties. But the recent controversy raised by the publication of a memo by Infirmary Director N. Hall condemning the college response to the problem does underscore its importance. It also raises some equally important questions about the total response of the administration, not only to the development of our talents and capabilities, not only to our academic and extracurricular desires, but also to our seemingly infinite capacity for excess, for “impropriety,” in short what Dr. Hall terms “anti-social behavior.” is the administration willing to address itself to Dr. Hall’s statement and come up with some ideas to counter what she says is the lack of interest shown in “debating the real issue and working out possible solutions?” We believe Mr. Ames’ unwillingness to comment on Dr. Hall’s memo is a foolish and unproductive stance. Dr. Hall resigned last week mysteriously, with only the thinnest of explanations. It is our hope that her resignation will not serve to obscure the problem. Her contention that the Infirmary should not be a “babysitter for drunks” was an essentially negative one. But she did not seek the delay of an over-all review of college policy to deal with those too unruly to be manageable. Rather, she met the problem head-on, made some cogent but not always sympathetic observations, and, most importantly, said things with a degree of candor which shocked us out of ignorance and into controversy.

letters to the editor

To the editor:

We feel that being drunk is a medical problem that can be treated in the Infirmary — that's what we're paying for.

Dr. Hall's memo is a foolish and un-substantiated idea that the college Infirmary and its facilities are prepared to extend the ethics of the non-collegiate community. These facilities are, of course, her own. So, too, are administrative decisions self-contained with respect to the breadth of services required of the college Infirmary and its personnel. But within the ethics of journalism, it is your responsibility to name the real issue presented by Dr. Hall.

Letters will be held on April 16th and 17th. All candidates must have a cumulative average of a 2.0 or above.

ELECTION BOARD

The positions of News Editor and Features Editor are now open. Interested students must be at the PUNDIT meeting tonight, 6:30, Cro 212.

All reasonable ads from students and organizations on campus will be accepted free of charge.

CLASS ELECTIONS

Self-nominations for Class Officers will begin on Friday, April 4th through Tuesday, April 8th at 5:00 P.M. in the Student Government Room in Crozier Williams. Candidates may file intentions for the following class officers: President, Secretary, Treasurer, Two Judiciary Board Representatives. Candidates wishing to do so may submit a brief statement to Pundit by Monday, April 7, for publication. There will be a candidates meeting on April 8th at 7:00 P.M. in Student Govt. Room. Speeches will be held on Thursday, April 10th at 7:00 P.M. according to class in the following locations: Freshmen 78 — Fanning 301, Sophomore 77 — Hale 122, Junior 76 — Bill 166. Elections will be held on April 16th and 17th. All candidates must have a cumulative average of a 2.0 or above.

To the editor:

In retrospect, the entire episode precipitated by Dr. Hall in these pages (Memo to Deans, Housefellows, Judiciary Board, Chaplain) was regrettable. Whatever the dimensions of the problem, it existed, and its ramifications obviously concerned much more of our college community than the Infirmary. Moreover, there is every reason to suppose that the administrative and student officers chiefly concerned could have worked out a more satisfactory procedure for dealing with the problem without all the publicity, off-campus and on.

The Courier has not only the right but the duty to report issues of concern to its community, but its coverage of the drinking problem has been occasionally outweighed by other issues. It is not our role to deal with those too unruly to be manageable. Rather, we met the problem head-on, made some cogent but not always sympathetic observations, and, most importantly, said things with a degree of candor which shocked us out of ignorance and into controversy.

To the editor:

In my article “Why did Dr. Hall do it?” March 6, 1975, the word was not watertight but a small minority. But, then again, let us find some means of providing help for those with a drinking problem without publicizing it to the entire New London County.

Members of the College Council:
We wish to amend the current newspaper charter. That is, we wish to change the name of the paper from Courier back to Pundit. Review of logic for original change:
The Board considered, last fall, that the name "Pundit" was irrevocably linked to the names Donald Kane, Curin Gordon and Donald Zelich. The Board wished to change the name in furtherance of our attempt to change our image.
It would seem the Board's original reasoning was fallacious. The name is indirectly linked to the Editor-in-Chief, but rather to the newspaper itself.

Logic for the change back:
Once upon a time, when I was a freshman, many years ago, the paper was laboring under the name Satyragna. The name was changed to Pundit in late April, 1971. Everyone called the paper Pundit immediately.
As of February 27, we will have published 12 issues as Courier, and everyone still calls the paper Pundit, uh, Courier.
The Duplicating Office still bills us under the name "Pundit," our advertisers still write to the "Pundit," The Bulletin Co. still calls us "Pundit."

February 18 I went to Harris and Larrabee and asked 119 people eating lunch the following question: Do you prefer "Pundit" or "Courrier" as the name of the paper, or doesn't it make any difference?
The results were as follows:
47 per cent preferred "Pundit" 12 per cent preferred "Courrier"
36 per cent, don't matter
I asked 50 people of three choices given.
When Edward P. Morgan was here last fall, after being introduced, the first thing he said to me was: "Why did you change the name of the paper?" "Pundit" is such a good name.
In short, the name "Courrier" simply has not worked. We are willing to admit our failure, feeling that we may stand accused of not being able to make up our minds; of making ourselves a laughing stock (This is the feeling that every time the paper appears or is read, "there is something fundamental distinction" but when biological drives will always specifically male or female be made concrete through what have been classified as persons will realize that these are with genitals.
"masculine" courses, or playing "masculine" clothes, taking part in "masculine" sports. The liberated person will realize that these are simply clothes, courses and sports, and involvement in them by men OR women (and that's WOMEN, you patronizing pig, not GIRLS) has nothing to do with genital lightening. The liberation of women requires the liberation of men, too. We are not trying to transfer or obliterate our sexuality by exchanging clothes or roles, we are simply becoming more fully sexual and more fully human by balancing our natures. Any man that can only appreciate a woman's sexuality when she is barefoot, pregnant, in the kitchen and wearing a skirt, ought to stand down and think about his distorted view of his OWN sexuality. Start thinking, Walter!

for eleven years before coming to Connecticut College in 1962. And at a time when female doctors were a rarity Dr. Hall served as Assistant Physician, Psychiatry at Connecticut State Hospital from 1949-1950, Assistant Resident, Pediatrics at Yale Medical School from 1950-51 and as a teaching assistant in the Pediatrics Clinic at Yale Medical School from 1954-1953.

Whit at Formations
Not all her time has been spent in the traditional sessions. Dr. Hall spent one month, 1,000 miles up the Amazon River in Brazil with a team of Peace Corps doctors in 1966. She served as President of the New England College Health Association in 1972.
Dr. Hall graduated from Alfred University in 1948. She received a M.S. from Yale University in 1943 and a B.A. from Conn. in 1941, graduating Phi Beta Kappa. The '41 Koekante refers to Mary Hall as "Elbow deep in formaldehyde ... Dry Humor. Scientific neatness - Which at formations ..." in a 1967 interview in the New Haven Register Dr. Hall states, "It is not a time has come to share value judgments with students without trying to impose our opinions or what. We have been remiss in our responsibilities in not doing it."

Dr. Hall's Statement
A resignation is, I believe, ethically required when a difference in opinion as wide as this exists between me and the administration under which I serve. I cannot support or implement the administration's policy.
The issue is here, and remains, my concern about irresponsible, antisocial behavior whether it be open drinking, vandalism, or behavior which is acknowledged in your own college newspaper to cost the college $75,000 a year. The point is irresponsible, antisocial behavior (referred to most specifically seven times in the statements) which cannot be dealt with primarily or solely as medical.
The issue is not, and never was, "problem drinking" which might lead to alcoholism. The statement is in no way, as it has been headlined and editorialized upon, our "views on alcohol."
The statement also indicates my awareness that "the only way to fill this particular vacant is by means for handling UNRESPONSIBLE, ANTSOCIAL BEHAVIOR is to let the vacuum become apparent. Since no one seems interested in debating the real issue or working out possible solutions, this resignation should surprise no one.
I hope that some of you, some day will really read the statement as it was intended and written, and that together the Administration and Student Government can face and work on the problem.

will you and the rest of the universe ever grow up? OF COURSE "basic male-female biological drives will always provide the essential human dynamics" but when you think those distinctions must be made concrete through specifically male or female clothes and coquetish inincere little sex-games and stereo-typed role-features in order for sexuality to come across, you've got a problem. A woman does not sacrifice her sexuality by wearing what have been classified as "masculine" clothes, taking "masculine" courses, or playing "masculine" sports. More waste

Dear Editor:
A group of students concerned about world hunger and the waste on campus, recently met to share ideas on dealing with these problems. Here are some of the ideas they came up with:
3) Have a meat plan option in which each student would choose and pay for 21, 19, 14, or 0 meals in the dining halls per week. 2) Have a vegetarian option at each meal or 3) have one dining room serve vegetarian meals. 4) Encourage family, co-op students, and off-campus students with usable space to plant their own vegetable gardens. 5) Suggest that interested students set up their own vegetarian co-op.

My Way

To the Editor:
After four years at Connecticut College, I have tried time and again to have my say -- usually in the wrong places. This is where I should have gone initially but you know what they say about spilled milk.
All right, everyone I was afraid to confront: give ear; if the shoe fits, you know what to do with it.
I'm tired of Frankie Freshman and his Fabulous Freaky Friends philosophizing through a film of false fanaticism.
I'm sick of Sally Sophomore and her sexless, pseudo-sophisticated supporters. (Somehow she's sans the stamina to swing, but makes scathing statements about some who do.)

Contrary to the American independence and stoicism, it is no crime to admit one's basic loneliness and need for fulfillment through other human beings. There seem to be a lot of virgins on this campus - and I'm not speaking in technical terms alone. The saddest form of innocence complaints about wisdom it lacks while it employs every available escape tactic. All individuals have the option to create self-destructive Frankisle: results of drug use are inevitable, although we don't know what, or how long, we are Miss Sophomore: frustration leads to jealousy and gossip. Both of you (and anyone else who has spoken to us) are an unjustified anger is better shown constructively than held in. If a meal was wasted in one day on campus, and make a display of it as it is a means of making students aware of the waste problem. 7) Post signs at the beginning of each food line suggesting that each student specify the amount of food he would like to be served: large, medium, or small. Some of these ideas are already within our reach, the others need a lot more continued on page ten
A federal grand jury is investigating corruption in the New London Police Department. Seventeen cops and ex-cops have been served subpoenas following a year-long investigation into police connections with prostitutes, drugs, larceny, brutality and gambling, according to a government source quoted in the New London Day. New London police must part with their long hair because of a notice given by fire Chief Guido Bartolucci, claiming excess hair to be a safety hazard. No hair can stick out from under the band of the firemen's helmets and no beards; moustaches must be short. The firemen are willing to negotiate, claiming, "We're just a bunch of All-American boys."

There has been another oil spill at the State Pier on the Thames River. According to a Coast Guard spokesman, the ten to twenty gallon spill came from a waste-oil holding tank of the Submarine Jack. High winds prevented the Navy from containing the spill.

Telthon to raise the roof

In a move to help the College Development Office in its drive for pledges to the new library fund, student members of the Development Committee have organized a fund-raising telthon to begin sometime next week. Director of Development John Delmotte, the telthon will run the entire month of April. Student volunteers will man telephones in the Alumni Office each weekday night from 6:00 to 9:00 p.m. "We plan to concentrate on those who have not been previous contributors to the college. While our emphasis will certainly be on contributors to the Library Fund, pledges to help us in all areas of college life will be sought as well," Delmotte said. Though Delmotte did not say that a lack of gifts and bequests had left the college in a financial bind, he did say that it was "awfully tough" to raise money "with the economy the way it is."

Volunteers who wish to help out on the telephone should contact Robbie Roberts in Blunt or stop in at the Development Office in Fanning.

Food Awareness Day

April 17 has been designated as Connecticut’s National Food Day, and universities, colleges, schools, churches and community organizations all over the country are planning activities to mark it as a day of awareness of the world food crisis and focus of nutrition in the United States.

Oxfam-America, the agency which last November moved thousands of Americans to go without food for a day to give the money saved to combat world hunger, is calling Americans to "plant a seed for change" on this day. In urging individuals, family and community to plant and raise vegetables themselves in window boxes or small gardens in the developing world and our own poverty-stricken rural areas, where the need for food is greatest.

Generally, Food Day will be used as an opportunity to raise awareness of a resource, how it is distributed and used, much as Earth Day was used a year ago in "planting" the idea of recycling and "ecology" and our natural resources.

Plans at Conn

Here at Connecticut College, a small (so far) group of students are developing plans for Food Day. These would involve an all-campus sunrise gathering to share in the excitement of the Food Crisis. Members of the community will be urged to write letters to congressmen, to demand that the government take action. Herb and vegetable seeds appropriate for planting in student rooms would be sold. Information on making individual pledges to reduce meat consumption, or to fast, would be available.

Between now and Food Day, an informational table will be set up with facts on the conditions of world hunger, on the various food relief and development agencies, and the work they are doing, on political action which is taking place, as well as action which has been proposed or needs to be raised. There will be information about nutrition and our consumption patterns, about ways we can feed ourselves without ripping off the rest of the world, or our own bodies; about what it means if we stop wasting, and reduce meat consumption, and what it will mean if we don’t. Among the problems of food will be available, and some examples of action and concern on other campuses.

Focus on Education

As well as learning about healthful ways of eating for ourselves, a target on this campus will be waste, particularly in the form of food. Faculty involvement is needed as well as an increasing student interest.

Pre-laws Form Club

The first organizational meeting of the Connecticut College Law Club was held on Wednesday, March 24, 1976. At that meeting suggestions for plans were discussed. Among those proposed was the establishment of a Law Information Center, law related speakers, programs to increase awareness and a possibility of establishing internship programs.

According to the organizers of the club, Bob Jaenheimer, 78 and Nick Holland 78, the club hopes to present law related activities of interest to pre-law students as well as to the entire college community, by attempting to work in conjunction with other campus organizations.

The next meeting of the Law Club will be held on April 3 at 4:00 p.m. in the Blunt living room. At this time, there will be a vote for the ratification of the constitution and the election of officers for the 1976-77 academic year.

Health Services Sub-committee

The Student Government Subcommittee on Health Services is interested in your complaints and suggestions about the college Health Services. We ask your comments about alcohol and drug policy, the cost, prices, convenience, effectiveness or any other matter related to the campus Health Services. Talk to any members of the committee, or come to an open committee meeting which will be held Thursday at 9:00 p.m. in the Student Government room in Crouse-Williams. Your comments or complaints will be held confidential upon request. We will use the information gathered to draw up a report which will be presented to the administration and to the search committee for the new college doctor.

Members of the Subcommittee:

Bourgin Justifies Dropping of A-Bomb

By Mark Bandal and Susan Zaleski

"Questions of priority cannot be discussed intelligently. How can anyone deny...?"

Mr. Bourgin holds that ethical considerations do not, should not, and cannot play any role in decision-making policies. We must intend to demonstrate here (1) that it is not possible to consistently defend Mr. Bourgin's position, and (2) that in fact Mr. Bourgin uses his relativism as a form of concealment with which to avoid critical examination of the U.S. government in the past thirty years. The following contradic- tion made by Mr. Bourgin in the course of his lecture is just one example which may serve to illustrate the problem.

Mr. Bourgin justified the dropping of the atomic bomb on Hiroshima by arguing that the United States information was that it is not possible to consistently defend Mr. Bourgin's position, and (2) that in fact Mr. Bourgin uses his relativism as a form of concealment with which to avoid critical examination of the U.S. government in the past thirty years. The following contradiction made by Mr. Bourgin in the course of his lecture is just one example which may serve to illustrate the problem.

The explanation for Mr. Bourgin's contradiction states is, we believe, fairly clear. For Mr. Bourgin the historical reality of the situation changes with the need to rationalize past American policy decisions. From this conclusion, we offer a few suggestions. It is clearly inconsistent to argue that priority considerations are not involved in policy decisions. It is also clear that public policy decisions will never become rational if government officials continue to work on page eight.

Conn Bicentennial awarded $2000

By Walter Palmer

Conn. has been named one of two schools in Connecticut as a National Bicentennial Community. This is a huge award to the school for its outstanding Bicentennial program by the Conn. Bicentennial Committee. Mr. Evans, chairman of the school's Bicentennial committee explained that the school has been awarded $2,000 to fund the program.

Conn. is one of many schools participating in a program to commemorate the nation's two-hundredth birthday.

France has had an uninterrupted history of wine production dating back many centuries, the Roman legions carrying the wine wherever they marched. Of all the truly great wines, at least fifty per cent come from France. We are all familiar with the stunning wines of Germany made from the noble grapes, in particular the incomparable (7) Trockenbeerenauslese wines produced in the Mosel that are just little clumps of sugar. France matches this with the great Sauterns of the Bordeaux region. However, the wines of France are not always as good as French wines. This question asked of different wine dealers in the recent 1930's, having been of the wines are so-so, and continued on page eight.

The horizon category involves a trip to France that may have historical significance to the community. Librarian Haze Johnson will be publishing the historical documents to be displayed in the new library.

A Bicentennial award and flag will be presented to the school in a ceremony this spring, possibly parents weekend.
Peasant Weekend to Enrich Culture

Connecticut College will devote this weekend to the peasant culture of eastern Europe through a series of exhibits, films, and demonstrations. The exhibits and films open to the public without admission charge.

According to the organizers, the departments of sociology, anthropology, history, and the program in Russian studies, the events will focus on the combined visibility of the peasant way of life in an area of Europe now undergoing modernization. They hope through this weekend to draw attention to the validity of studying this part of the world, the diversity and richness of its folk culture, and to provide Connecticut College students and the community with a rare experience.

Beginning Friday and running through Sunday, Palmer Library will display an exhibit of "Yesterday's Photos: Folk of Polesie," photographs of rural eastern Poland in the 1930's taken by Joseph Orzech, the late Polish anthropologist. The photographs have been loaned to the college by the University of Texas.

On Saturday afternoon from 1:00 to 10:00 a.m., in Oliva Hall, a film called "Program: Dance," will be shown.

Filoins from eastern Europe, a group of selected ethnographic films and videos, will be shown Saturday morning from 10:00 a.m. to 12 noon in Oliva Hall of Cummings Arts Center.

Good, solid drama made its way to Connecticut College March 25 and 26. Presented in Palmer Auditorium, "The Indian Wants the Bronx" by Israel Horovitz, was a powerful piece of good theater.

Under the able direction of Kevin Murray, "The Indian Wants the Bronx" tells a contemporary story of two teenagers, themselves the "for The Bronx" house, they are destructive, dehumanizing the contemporary society. Distinguished by its technical excellence and choreographic inventiveness, "Project: Dance", which has a special emphasis on performance and production, includes the works: "Seasons", "On Any Given Night", and "It Takes Two to Tango".

Single admission prices for Friday and Saturday concerts will be $1.50, $2.50, $3.
Keith's Column (deleted from April 1)

This week marks the release of the first set of albums from the CoCoFoWo Record Company and this new company shows real promise for providing fine entertainment in the future.

A gent named Oakes Ames has released a single which gets my award for best bizarre-rock record of the year. He has taken Pink Floyd's "Money" and changed the lyrics quite a bit. In his version, he promises to disembowel his children if his listeners will buy carrels in a new library. Alice Cooper, you've been outdone!

The Mary Harkness Band has issued an album called "Conductive to Reading." The first side of the album begins with five minutes called "The Incineration of the Final Stereo" and then moves on to sixteen minutes of a literal rendition of Paul Simon's "Sounds of Silence." This cat features the occasional sound of a crockpot (not the other kind of roaches here!) crawling across a room but little else. However, the second side of this disc livens up a bit as the Band is entertained by the residents of the New London City Jail.

The recording company has come up with a very novel technique: they've hired the lounge act "Boys in the Basement." When I put the album on my turntable, it smoked itself. As it tokeh, the speakers spewed forth the voices of twelve persons screaming "Hey man, put on the Dead!" This might be the record to play but one can only play it once.

I have also received the soundtracks from two new disaster movies in the past week. One, "Chainsaw Vaseotomy," bills itself as the ultimate disaster flick. The other, "Dinner at Harris," makes little sense until one heats up the sample of pork roast included in the album jacket.

WECN Marathon:

Pledges Break $2500 Mark

by Pierre McCrory

The recently held WECN Marathon was a resounding success," according to its chairman, Stuart Cohen. The event, staged in the studio headquarters on the second floor of Croiter Williams Center, was a five day (March 1-5) 24 hour day extravaganza which had disc jockeys ask and receive from their listeners a total of $2,847.44 in pledges.

The busy Mr. Cohen, whose enthusiasm for WECN is pleasantly contagious, directed the Marathon with the help of three others in his committee: Andy Rawson, Mark Frankel, and Frank J. Siegel, who is General Manager and Vice-President of WECN.

In a recent interview with Mr. Cohen it was learned that the station is steadily receiving cash and checks and as of this morning had received a total of $1,500. This money has been deposited and accounted in a bank. The money has come from approximately 500 people, half the donations came from the College, and the other half primarily coming from the Coast Guard Academy and the nearby Sub Base in Groton.

Reasons For Marathon

As WECN became an operating children's station the day of the school year, it became apparent that the money which had been allocated to the station by the student organization would not be enough to cover the operational expenses. The expenses which the money received in the marathon will be used for will include: new records, tapes, microphones, two new turntables, spare parts, carriages, and a new transmitter. The new 10 watt transmitter will provide an increase in modulation or as Mr. Cohen explains, "will give the signal greater clarity and farther range." The expected listening range of the station with the new transmitter will include Norwich to the North, Rhode Island to the East, Old Lyme to the West, and Orient Point, Long Island to the South.

Mr. Cohen, who believes that the station will eventually receive donations from over 95 per cent of the pledges, asks that all monies be sent to WECN MARATHON, Box 1271 in the school Post Office. Also, he asks that those people who were promised T-shirts, records, certificates, and discounts to please be patient and that they will be honored shortly.

What's the Difference?

Feast or Fast

by Janet Noyes

Five years ago, in the spring of 1970, Earth Day raised our awareness of the value of clean air and water and other natural resources. The fuel crisis and inflation have since forced us to understand that our oil and electricity are expendable and valuable resources. We can no longer afford to waste. But in the wake of all this awareness, another natural resource has been ignored, taken for granted by many Americans, and wasted thoughtlessly. That resource is FOOD.

Much of the food we consume does not even nourish us. We have grown accustomed to waste, over-eating, and eating over-processed foods, which often serve to deplete the nutritional reserves in our bodies rather than satisfy our bodies' needs. Meanwhile, unequal distribution of the world's food resources has contributed to malnutrition and starvation in Africa, Soth America, Indochina, and even America.

The upcoming Food Day, on April 17, will be a nationwide effort to raise consciousness about world hunger and waste. But just as Earth Day alone was not enough to change peoples attitudes and lifestyles, neither will one day of hunger-awareness. Individuals must take it upon themselves to change wasteful habits.

Airports, individuals and groups across the country have made personal pledges of commitment to fast for one meal or one day a week, abstain from the meat of grain-fed animals for three days each week, or to take some similar inconvenience for a trial period or for their entire lifetimes. The money they save in this way, they use to help alleviate hunger elsewhere.

The following notice has been posted outside each dorm dining hall. Please consider what it means for you, personally:

_Earth Day_ and all the mirrors, clocks, books, and elements which indicate that we are living in a time of plenty and _our_ health, _our_ wealth, _our_ environment are all in_our_ hands. But the majority of the world's people for several decades or more have had to depend on the love and care of others to meet their daily needs.

In the eyes of the world, America is a "land of plenty" — plenty of waste, that is. We have the means and the responsibility to change that view. How?

1. Adjust our eating habits:
   a) eat less
   b) buy meat substitutes (cheese, eggs, grains, seafood)
2. Share our money and resources with those who need them more.
3. Be conscious of, and avoid waste: food, clothing, and encourage others to do the same.

Newman, Gangler Receive Watson Fellowship

NEW LONDON, Conn., March 20—The Thomas J. Watson Foundation of Providence, R.I., announced today that Ted E. Gangler of North Haven and Sarah R. Newman of Omaha, Nebraska, are among 71 graduating seniors in the U.S. to be awarded fellowship grants of $7,000 each.

Fellows are members of the Class of 1972 at Connecticut College, and both plan to use their stipends for a year of independent study abroad. Miss Newman expects to work in Ireland where she will trace the vegetational history of salt marshes along the west and southwestern coasts. Gangler hopes to be able to work as an unalarmed apprentice to one of France’s leading film makers to learn the techniques of French “New Wave” cinema.

Miss Newman is not a stranger to salt marshes, having done an independent study in her sophomore year on Maine coxe marsh in the Thames River. She also was a field researcher for a vegetational study of Connecticut’s coastal salt marshes, undertaken by faculty members of the Connecticut College botany department for the state Environmental Protection Agency.

The young ecologist has also completed a developmental and vegetational history of Waterford Creek marsh in the Thames River. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Newman of North Haven and the grandson of Mrs. Julia Szecczepankowski of Danvers.

The Watson Fellowship program is the only national fellowship competition which supports a year of self-generated education abroad for recent college graduates. This year’s 71 recipients were selected from a candidate pool of 160 graduating seniors nominated by 38 small private colleges throughout the country. The winners were honored for commitment to their field of interest and potential for leadership in it.

The fellowships are awarded annually by the Thomas J. Watson Foundation, a charitable trust established in 1916 by the late Mrs. Thomas J. Watson, Sr., in memory of her husband, founder of International Business Machines Corporation.

This attitude can only lead to futile attempts—witness Simon Bourgin—to rationalize any and all government policy, no matter how mistaken. The balance of terror, Viet Nam, and the maneuverings of Richard Nixon can all be seen as products of view in which rationalization is a substitute for rationality, and winning takes precedence over morality.
Allen J. Lambdin
Conn Trustee Dead at 85

Allen J. Lambdin, 85, business manager of Connecticut College during 40 years in which the campus expanded into its present shape and character, died Sunday in Charlotte, N.C., where he resided after retiring in 1962. Mr. Lambdin, a retired Army brigadier general, died in the Mercy Center in Charlotte after a long illness.

He came to what was then called Connecticut College for Women in 1922 and supervised the construction and operation of 65 new college buildings. One of the seven structures in $1 million North Dormitories project, which he initiated, bears his name.

Mr. Lambdin is credited with landscaping the college campus and was cited by the Board of Trustees in 1963 for changing it "from a bleak, stony hillside to a place of unusual beauty."

Mr. Lambdin, who had a lifelong love of good music, developed and administered a college concert series and a chamber music series. He founded the New London Oratorio Society and conducted it for 10 years.

After his retirement from the college, he managed the American Concert Series of the Leningrad Symphony Orchestra of Saint-Pierre et Miquelon; offered in Toronto: French, Spanish and German language courses; Ancient Greek and drama courses offered in Saint-Pierre et Miquelon: French language courses offered in Mexico City: Spanish language and civilization courses.

Carmines: Creative Wizard

by Bill Looney

The Rev. Al Carmines, cleric, musician, playwright and a major presence on the off-Broadway theater circuit will be in residence on campus during the week of April 6-13 under the auspices of the Theologian in Residence Program.

Rev. Carmines has been lauded by various critics as America's greatest living composer in the musical theater. His latest effort, "Sacred and Profane Love," was awarded an Obie for best music in "Home Movie" and "What Happened?" based on a play by Gertrude Stein. Carmines came onto the Judson Poets Theater in New York, which is affiliated with Judson Memorial Church, where he is minister.

"The Chapel Board created the Theologian in Residence Program to press some interchange between religious insight and that of other disciplines," said David Robb, College Chaplain. Mr. Carmines is a man of enormous creativity, and I think his visit will be both fun and enlightening."

Rev. Carmines will begin his week in residence as the leader of the morning worship service in Harkness Chapel at 11 a.m. this Sunday. Later the same evening, he will be featured in concert in the Dance Studio of Crozier Williams beginning at 10 p.m. On Tuesday evening, Carmines will be the keynote speaker for a Faculty Forum on the subject "Exploring the worlds of Art and Religion," at 7 p.m. in Oliva Hall. Other events will be held later in the week.

Dear Editor:

In your last issue of the Courier, your editorial stated that College Council did not approve the money ConnPIRG had requested. In fact, College Council did approve the $1,800 but we are holding it at the request of Ted Hathaway.

Respectfully,

Kenneth H. Gardner
Secretary-Treasurer

Dear Editor:

Dear Connecticut College Community:

Our Dance Festival Weekend recently spent at Connecticut College was a great success! My dancers received a taste of "college life" and a rare, invaluable opportunity to display their talents. A special thanks to all the students who gave us their rooms and made it possible to own, to the Department of Dance, and to the Connecticut College Community for being there and letting a beautiful thing happen.

Sincerely,

Praeticia Coville

Gymnasts defeat Bridgeport

by Anne Rehbiard

The women's gymnastics team cleared out their regular season's competition with a bang, outclassing the University of Bridgeport by a score of 275.50 - 269.76.

For the first time this year Ann Drouilhet did not win the vaulting event, which she had been the strongest person in the event with a 7.2. Conn also took first in this event with a 7.0. Marty Gaetz placed second in her best finish of the year. Kathy Bradley took third with a 6.76. Ann Drouilhet placed fifth at 6.43, and Denise McClain took sixth with a 5.72. At this point Conn had nearly twice Bridgeport's scoring lead 20.89 - 10.83.

Kathy Bradley won on the uneven bars with a 6.67. Ellen Barbas placed second with a 6.42. Marcy Connelly placed fifth at 6.43, and Denise McClain placed sixth with a 6.35. Apparently higher scoring in the top three. The rest of the scores in this event were consistently bad than one point.

No Conn gymnasts qualified for the individual competition as a score of 8.0 or better was needed to qualify for individual competition. The top five in this event were: Cinthia Sidelsky, 8.0; Kathy Bradley, 7.75; Ellen Barbas, 7.7; Ann Drouilhet, 7.7; and Marcy Connelly, 7.6. The next five: Joan Eldridge, 7.5; Cindy Sidelsky, 7.5; Jeanne McNeily, 7.4; Janet Connelly, 7.4; and Sandy Eldridge, 7.3. The remaining results are:

Blunt, Morrison semi-final victors

by Barry Gross

On March 31, the intramural basketball semifinals were played in Crownier Williams Gymnasium. Both were rematches of games played earlier this year, but this time the results were reversed. In the opener Blunt played Smith-Burdick. Blunt reached the semi by defeating Freeman in the quarterfinals and Smith-Burdick by defeating Windham-Harkness I. Blunt had won the earlier game by four points. This time Smith-Burdick prevailed 62-50. It was a gutsy effort by Blunt who despite being riddled with injuries, gave it their best effort. Andy Krevolin led Blunt with 18 points, and Jim Pendziek had 12, despite some early foul trouble. Burdick playing an outstanding inside and rebounding game was led by Paul Lantz's 18 points. Mike Weirnest and Bill McCauley both had 16 points, most coming on shots within fifteen feet.

The second game was the grudge match between Marshall and Morrison. Marshall had won the earlier game by eleven points. This time, Morrison on top on some fine outs did shooting, winning 65-64. It was Marshall's first defeat of the season, as Morrison did a fine job in shutting off Marshall's outside game. Scotch Greenland and Dave Biro playing their usual fine game led Marshall with 14 points apiece. Morrison who led all the way was led by George Knappler with 22 points, and Larry Thomas with 20.

Despite the intense rivalries between the teams, both games showed good sportsmanship. They were good clean ballgames, and the teams were treated to 8:30 p.m. commended on this account.

The final should be a classic, putting Smith-Burdick's size against the good shooting of Morrison. Both teams are well balanced. Although Burdick may have a bit more depth, Morrison's playmaking and shooting may be hard to overcome.

8-1 at Home

Talented hoopsters end season

by Barry Gross

The 1974-75 Conn College men's basketball team was one of the most successful in the school's short basketball history. The team ended the season with an 11-9 record which included a strong finish in the final ten games, posting an 8-1 record. Conn had an outstanding home game record of 8-1.

The final game of the season was played here on March 4. The Camels won this rematch with Manhattanville by the score of 102-74. They had lost in their first encounter at Manhattanville by one point in overtime. The game was closely played for the first eight minutes when it became apparent that Conn's depth was just too much to overcome. Don Mills scored his and the team's second highest personal point total in one game in the school's history, the record being 44.

At 7 p.m., April 3, the Intramural Basketball Championship game will be played Smith-Burdick and Morrison will clash in an effort to claim the coveted Harkness Cup.

The winners of the intramural volleyball games of the past week are: the Windham-Harkness I team, the Park Chipmunks, Smith-Burdick II, the Hartness Bulldogs, and Windham I.

Crew team opens season Saturday

by Anne Rohlbard

The crew team will begin racing on Saturday, April 14. The women will race Yale and the University of Rhode Island at URI and the men will race URI also at URI. The team began preparation for their season last fall with a running and weight-lifting program. There are 36 oarsmen and 6 coxswains. The men and women each have two, eight-man shells and there is one man's four-man shell. The crew began rowing twice a day during spring break at the University of Virginia. They have been rowing here every day except Sunday since the 25th. The crew coach, Jim Utwin, doesn't want to make predictions on the season because it is hard to tell how good the other schools are until they race this year. A team may turn in a good race and still lose by a wide margin. For instance, Yale has indoor rowing facilities and we don't. They have, therefore, been able to practice rowing for a longer period of time than we have.

Mr. Ricci says that while it is hard to tell how good the team is, it is easy to tell how good the local papers. Mr. Ricci also says that the sport of crew itself is not as easy as it looks (as any of us who have seen the crew team after their beginning practices realize). A lot of coordination and conditioning go into preparing for what may be only a four-minute race. There is also a different type of mentality in preparing for a race than for a game. In a race there is no second chance, they go out there, and in their one shot, give it all they can, and in the space of four minutes it's all over.

Anyone interested in playing can sign up in the student center. Those interested should contact Intramural Commissioner Dave Merves in Brantford, ext. 674.

Gene Kuneckawa and Colleen Sullivan are the captains of the women's basketball team and their home game is April 11 Monday.

Gene Kuneckawa and Colleen Sullivan won all seven of the men's and women's singles and doubles, respectively, and the mixed doubles, recently at the State Interscogiate Bedminster Tournament.

Colleen is an "A" Player. Colleen was selected for the State "B" Tournament for Women. A victory in this tournament places her in the "A" class, which is the highest ranking to achieve.

New Basketball Commissioner for Intramurals

Applications for next year's basketball commissioner are now being considered. A committee will review all candidates. If interested, please submit your name to Paul Lantz, Box 906, no later than Friday, April 11. Basketball Championship Tournament.
