College Regains Its Voice: Newspaper Resumes Publication

The Voice, Connecticut College's student newspaper, has resumed publication after a two-month hiatus.
Cheers for new housing system

Shelly Metevier and the Residential Life and Housing Committee should be commended on their efforts to modernize and improve our college residence halls. The new system is coherent and just as it considers a student's first year and beyond and a student's housing experience with his/her roommates. With the changes instituted, seniors will get what they desire: first priority in the housing lottery.

The new lottery system, "priority" takes on a new meaning. Priority is first dictated by class year, then previous housing accommodations are taken into consideration. Juniors and Seniors who have the least amount of time left at Conn are now guaranteed housing that they will find most conducive to their college lifestyle.

The system ensures a student strength that separates us from other schools and we should capitalize on that strength. I'm optimistic that students will still pick a random lottery number that ensures more objectivity in the process as a whole.

Some students may disagree with the new standards for priority, but the proposed system is more egalitarian and less subjective. Although the housing lottery system has undergone an extensive makeover, the Residential Life and Housing Committee has managed to maintain the positive aspects of the current lottery system. Students will still have the ability to re-inhabit the halls they have inhabited and students will still pick a random lottery number that ensures more objectivity in the process as a whole.

Baldwin Debunks Greenman's Claims

In the article, "The Historical Leonardo: The Do Vinci Code" by Elizabeth Greenman, the College Voice failed to mention the many historical falsehoods given the plentitude of scholarly reviews on-the-line which Greenman could have used to educate her lecturers. The Do Vinci Code is a 450-page thriller to be familiar with its many historical falsehoods.

The emperor Constantine did not suppress "apocryphal" literature before the beginning of the third century. They were looking for an impor tant role of women in the first three centuries. As suggested by Robin Lane Fox and other recent scholars, Christianity was sufficiently women-friendly to spread among women in the first three centuries. Women were a clear majority in the churches of the time. As noted in my talk, the interest in "feminized" Christianity was sufficiently women-friendly to spread among women in the first three centuries. Students Oppose Central Campus Options for New Fitness Center

The campus has recently received an online survey concerning the construction of a new fitness center for the college. One goal of the survey was to gather student opinion on this new facility - to be constructed as part of the proposed central campus development plan.

Sexually Charged Cabaret Brings Scandal to the Stage

Director Jeremy Make is all praise for his talented and dedicated cast. "I love doing musicals because it is a lot more fun and there is a lot more room for creative voices," he says. "Musicals are not done here very often, so it is a treat to do a much bigger show. There's a lot more effort involved, especially in combating the lighting and sound."

The crew has been rehearsing since the end of January, but the musicals were not added to the mix until the last Sunday. This is just another obstacle that the cast and crew has had to overcome to create a performance they feel passionate about. "The dancing, singing, acting, director, choreographer — everyone's putting over 100% into this show and it really is coming together rather well," Roybal says.

The musical will be performed in tanal Theater from Thursday, March 4, through Sunday, March 7. There will be evening performances (8 pm) on Thursday through Saturday and matinee performances (2 pm) on Saturday and Sunday. Tickets are for sale in the tanal Theater box office at $6 for students and $10 for adults.

Students and Faculty invited to tanal Dance Festival

The Portage to San Cristobal of A.H., which debuts on March 10 and 11 at 8 pm in tanal Theater, is a spoken word piece written by an accomplished group of poets. Based on the acclaimed novel by scholar George Steiner and adapted for the stage by John Van Druten and Arthur Kopit, The Portage to San Cristobal of A.H. is a story of a Jewish student named Michael, who is determined to make the most of his time at college. The novel follows Michael as he navigates the challenges of college life and comes to terms with his own identity as a Jew.

Director Jeremy Make is thrilled by the opportunity to bring this powerful work to the stage. "This is the most exciting show that we have ever done," he says. "It's a chance to really stretch ourselves as a group and to explore new ideas and concepts."

The production is directed by Lawrence Thelen and is performed by a talented and diverse cast. The cast includes Owen Cooney, Michael DeMarco, Josh Duclos, Seth Leary, Lauren Matison, Steven David Oven, and Alexi Paulin. The production is presented by tanal Theater and is part of the tanal Dance Festival. The festival, which is being held this year at Smith College, provides an opportunity for students to perform in an academic setting and to showcase their skills. The festival is open to the public and is free of charge.

 Kellogg's new album, Bulletproof Heart, continues the trend set by his previous three folk-rock albums. With every Kellogg song's word choice, his voice, and his arrangement, there is a certain level of authenticity that is hard to come by these days. The title track, "Bulletproof Heart," is a fantastic example of this. Kellogg manages to capture an eery vibe that he conveys throughout the track. It's a simple, yet effective song that stands out amidst the contemporary music scene.

Kellogg's music is a testament to the power of simplicity. The songs he writes are not complicated, but they are emotionally resonant. His voice is smooth and his lyrics are evocative. He manages to make every song about a different emotion or experience, which is a rare feat in today's music industry.

Kellogg's music is also notable for its versatility. He can sing about love, heartbreak, and societal issues, and he does it all with equal ease. His music is a reflection of his own life experiences, and it's clear that he's not afraid to share them.

Kellogg's music is a breath of fresh air in the world of contemporary music. His songs are a reminder of the power of music to move us and to help us understand ourselves and the world around us. His music is a testament to the fact that, even in a world that can often feel so cold and distant, there is still a place for music to bring us together.

Kellogg's music is a must-listen for anyone who values authenticity and emotional resonance in their music. His songs are a reminder of the power of music to touch our hearts and souls, and they are a testament to the enduring legacy of folk-rock music.
The Residential Life and Housing Committee along with the directors of Residential Life and Housing, Sherry Meredith, have proposed changes to Conn's on-campus lottery system. They processed their decision to the Student Government Association (SGA) during the SGA's weekly meeting on Thursday, February 13 in the 1963 Room.

As new changes were introduced, the housing lottery system gave priority to students on the waiting list who had the most amount of roommates. As a result of their decision, the older system was changed. The new system is set to be released on-campus starting Monday, February 16.

In order to meet the demand of the students, the lottery system was revamped. The lottery system is more flexible for students to choose their dorm. It has been improved to a certain extent. The system was primarily changed to ensure that the students who won the lottery would remain in their dorm for the remainder of the semester.

The new system was designed to simplify the process for students to be assigned a room in their chosen dorm. The system will now take into account the students' previous housing preferences. The system will be rolled out automatically to students who will be ready to answer questions and assist students with the Self-Service is rolled out.

In addition to the changes made to the lottery system, the College has also implemented a new software product, Banner, from SCT. The new software system was introduced to support the perception of the College's goals of promoting excellence, embracing pluralism, and differentiating us among selective liberal arts colleges.

The College's goals of promoting excellence, embracing pluralism, and differentiating us among selective liberal arts colleges are critical to Conn. The administration has consulted faculty, students, trustees, and members of the community in order to achieve these goals. The President cited the importance of improving classrooms, residential life, and print and digital resources. The College has been working to implement the changes in order to achieve these goals.

The College has been working on implementing the Banner software since August 2003. The Banner software was designed to support the College's goals of promoting excellence, embracing pluralism, and differentiating us among selective liberal arts colleges. Dear Jeffrey Weichsel,

I was very impressed with your opinion letter that appeared last week, "Russia at a Crossroads," because I strongly believe in legislation for women. Your positions on a number of major issues are important to American women. Your view that family violence is a major aspect is important because the concerted action of the Trump administration on this issue is crucial.

We must support the Trump administration's actions to address the issue of family violence. The Trump administration's actions are crucial to achieving our goal of preventing family violence.

Some Thoughts on Gay Marriage

Dear Write:

Let's use an analogy. Let's say that the radical group of conservative Jews that feel this way are organized as the "Conservative Jews Against Gay Marriage." The form of habenism that they follow tells them to say that the people who do not keep kosher are wrong and should be stopped by the government that claims separation of religion and state.

In all, I would ask that we not interpret my view to try to put themselves in the shoes of those whose wishes you do not entertain. My view is that there can be no solution to the conflict between family love and the state. I believe that the state is the partner of the person who was raised in the family the person was raised in, or the family the person was raised in. It is not necessary to have the same religion as they are passionate about their family. Again, if we оборудовались for the organizations did themselves a favor by urging the planning committee to select the Athletic Center as the site for the new fitness center, I would like to point out that many societies that are spreading this because the meaning he brings to human affairs is a great deal. Men's Basketball Hopeful for Future
After Year-End Slump

On February 19, Conn's women's basketball program, led by head coach Brian Swanson, went on a high note by beating the Lehigh University Mountain Hawks, 71-61, in Hamilton, N.J.

The victory capped off an exciting season for the women's basketball team, who have experienced the ups and downs of the season. The team has shown great potential, but has also struggled with consistency throughout the year.

Swanson is confident that the team is on the right track and that they will build on their success in future seasons.

After fighting to a 1-1 series tie, Game 3 saw the Predators win 4-1, and Game 4 was a 5-2 win for the Blues.

The Blues took a 2-1 lead in the series and are now one victory away from advancing to the second round of the NHL playoffs.

The Predators can still qualify for the playoffs with a win in their final game of the season, but it will be a tough challenge against the Blues, who have been playing well all season.

And he just keeps coming back

On Sunday night, the Coyotes and the Sharks played to a 2-2 tie in overtime, with the Coyotes winning 4-3 on a goal by Shane Doan in the third overtime period.

The victory was the Coyotes' fifth in the last six games, and they will now turn their attention to the crucial final game of the season.

The Sharks, who have been inconsistent all season, will look to make a statement in their final game to end the season on a high note.

Mets pull off wild, late rally in win over Giants

On Sunday, the Mets rallied from a 5-3 deficit against the Giants in the ninth inning to win 6-5, and it was a wild, back-and-forth game that had fans on the edge of their seats.

The Mets, who were struggling all season, have now won three of their last four games, and they will look to build on this momentum as they finish the season.

The win was a huge morale booster for the Mets, who have been struggling all season, and it showed that they are capable of competing with even the best teams in the league.
Women's Swimming Finishes Season Astounding 17-0-1

By GRACE VOLO

The Connecticut College women’s swimming team enjoyed a very successful season under head coach Mark "Mad Dog" Madsen and his assistants Ed Bates College '15, and Nora Kelly, the diving coach. The Connecticut College women’s team won their regular season portion of their schedule successfully this weekend. The women completed their first ever undefeated dual-meet season by knocking off #9 Bates College 159-141. Women’s 400 Yard Medley Relay and Women’s 100 Yard Backstroke were both run unofficially by Wesleyan University this weekend. The Camels finished with 724 points.

The San Francisco Giants, led by Barry Bonds, held a 3-2 series lead going into the seventh inning of Game 6. The Giants went on a 15-0 run and eventually scored a goal with three minutes left in the fourth quarter, before the Lakers went on to win Game 7. The Lakers went on to win the NBA championship. The motivation of the Connecticut College women’s hockey team this season was to get to the NCAA championships. Kovenock was the only three-event winner at the meet, scoring the trifecta with victories in the 50, 100, and 200 yard freestyle. The time in the 200 IM of 2:15.02 topped a record she had previously set in 2005. All three finishes qualified Kovenock to compete in the NCAA Championships in St. Louis, Missouri.

This year, a new star has been born in Connecticut athletics. All Wilson '93 scored the most points of any freshman in the NECAC during the fall season.

Women’s Hockey Qualifies for Playoffs

By PETER STERN

Since the history of the program, the Connecticut College women’s hockey program has been in existence, the team has never won a game in the NECAC championship tour- nament. For the second year in a row, the Camels will be playing in the NECAC tournament. This Saturday will be our chance to get that first tour- nament game against rival Middlebury College.

An early February run of three straight wins gave the team breathing room with her sixth period, and while it would prove to be all Conn would need, an empty net goal in the closing minutes by Reardon would seal the victory. At this point in the season, the Camels had one one key contributor throughout the past season after all the hard work that the team undertook during the duration of their season. Kovenock was the team’s best all-around athlete and the team’s top scorer. Wilson was a provisional qualifier for the NCAA Championship in both the 500 and 1650 yard freestyle events.

The Camels finished third versus Middlebury, 3,300 points back. Four other teams were provisional qualifiers for the NCAA Championships. In the 200 yard medley relay, the Connecticut College women’s team finished with a time of 1:37.96, for the #10 position. Wilson, Lingo, Franzyck, and Kemper posted a time of 1:35.12 for a fourth place finish. In the 100 yard freestyle relay, Wilson, Lingo, Pop Almoine, and Kemper finished with a time of 57.42 for the #9 position. Franzyck, Kett Dur, Lingo, and Kemper recorded a time of 1:13.52 for an eighth place finish. Other noticeable performances included Almoine '07, who finished 13th in the 500 yard freestyle, #11 for the #11 position. Almoine was a true sensation. There are lots of good swimmers to work with, and we can be sure to be on track with the highest of expectations.

And He Just Keeps Coming Back

So, a funny thing hap- pened after my last article was published. I was right about the Lakers going 0-3 and particularly about the Lakers being the only team to score in the first half of the game. Again, the Connecticut College women’s hockey team.

The NeoScubs, and took a page out of the book on how to come back from behind. The Lakers went on to win the NBA championship.

The debate, however, now continues on page 11.

Here at the College Voice, we’ve touched on the idea of a comeback issue. After a few weeks named this issue "The Big Comeback Column."
