MODEL ASSEMBLY MEETS AT WELLESLEY

The New England college's Model Assembly of the League of Nations will be held this year at Wellesley college, the week-end of March 6 and 7. Connecticut College has accepted the invitation to send a delegation to the Assembly. Thirty-four other colleges beside Connecticut are participating.

Six commission meetings are to be held on Friday. Saturday the model Assembly will convene. Discussion in the morning session will center around reports and resolutions suggested by various commissions. In the afternoon, Briand's proposal for the United States of Europe will be considered.

It is expected that there will be much livelier discussion of current questions and that the Model Assembly will be more successful than ever.

Mary Butler Made Chief Justice

This Mary should be elected to fill the same office as Betty Butler has so efficiently filled this year is a happy coincidence indeed. Mary prepared at Dwight School in Enfield, N. J., and at the Centenary Collegiate Institute.

KATHARINE CONNELL

In "The Barretts of Wimple Street" by Rudolph Besot

This is the excellent play about Elizabeth Barrett and Robert Browning which has set critics and theatre critics a-trump with commendable excitement and enthusiasm. It is of all current plays in New York, the one performance that has won not only deserves to be there. Everyone who ever went to Connecticut College will be there on the afternoon of March 28. Center section tickets (reserved box on balcony, second balcony) have been reserved by the Connecticut College Club of New York—proceeds to go to the women's aid of heavily head-quarters in New York City.

Wont you order yours now? Drop a line to Emily Western, 14 East 16th Street, New York City, chairman of the Connecticut College Club of New York, and you will be the lucky winner. Only six performances will be filled in the order received, provided they are accompanied by check or money order. Or send 25c for the balcony $1.50, 25c, Second Balcony $2. Oxford students are protesting vigorously against the invasion of their campus by women, saying that the mounds of the university the idea of "lost hallucinations and impossible hats."

THE GENTLEMAN IN THE PARLOUR

By W. Somerset Maugham

It is certainly a relief, in this day of love-tattered novel and rhyming verse, to come across a writing style as w. somerset maugham’s recent issue. anyone who has read ha litte’s de-licious book on the gentleman in the parlor will appreciate the significance of maugham’s title. the book is a record of a journey from rangoon to new york, and was a rambling series of familiar essays.

as the author informs his readers in the preface, “there will be little information; he has written it for a change of scene, and hopes that it will amuse those who care to read it. maugham has, after all, the right to be quoted in future for the construction of academic relationships after the war.”

after finishing his course of lec- tures at harvard, professor frieck will visit the theological seminaries at yale, princeton and the lutheran seminary in new york. he will talk of “what the youth of germany are thinking about,” with special reference to religious inter- ests. the public is invited to attend.

“the gentleman in the parlor” and “the gentleman in the library” have enjoyed a following pattern of his style, one about which the seas and catalogued so that neatly put away on shelves, older and have everything cleaned and dusted, to wish to organize his thoughts especially of the way in which the usual travelel’ has never before.

somerset maugham has a delightful manner of expressing himself and of giving a clever flavor of speech that is not to be found in the usual run of books. he goes on to explain that he is not writing for the educated or for the rich, but for the people who read the same books as he does and are interested in the future of the human race.

If all the long arms on the basketball teams were placed end to end, they would reach 500 feet.Visitors on the campus last Friday afternoon were alarmed to see a dish pan sail cutting out of a fourth floor window in New London Hall. It seems it was only a Home Ec student rejigging over the success of her apple pie.
