Juniors Proud As Sophomores Stand Defeated In Mascot Hunt

By MARY-ELAINE DEWOLFE '39

Junior banner—the Class of '39 in gold dress, the sophomores with anxious, yet knowing looks, the freshmen full of awe for the occasion. Long white tables, a brilliant lighted room and at the speakers' table President Blunt in gold-embellished black velvet, Dean Burbick in black and white, Miss Parcells in black, Betsey Parcells, always poised, but now wearing an expression of anxiety, and Drs. Jensen and Smyser occupying places of honor. Scowling waiters in white jackets and a full-throated singing of the college hymn. And then silence, as Betsy sorts a stack of telegrams and reads the sophomores' guess—a flag pole. Relief and satisfaction on the faces of juniors, disappointment and, in some cases, incredulity for the sophomores. Dr. De Oltrogge, mascot chairman, explains clues.

Freshmen singing and freshmen reciting—poems in praise, not of "practically nothing" but of the class of '39.

Festive food and then speeches. Pride at President Blunt's appreciation of the class and Dr. Dean Burdick audibly refused potatoes, appreciation of her tribute to the mascot hunt, and more laughter.

Students Are Urged To Patronize Union Beauty Shops

By Miriam Rendberg '38

During the past several months the beauty shops of New London have been forming a union. The purpose of this organization is two-fold. It would ensure a standard high grade of work in all shops by 1. Regular inspection; 2. Minimum prices. Inspection is a feature which is extremely important in maintaining a high sanitary level in beauty shops. Directly, of course, the union would ensure greater security for the operators. To be effective, all shops must join the union. Several, however, have persistently refused to unionize. The reason for their resistance is obvious. By offering cheap specials, these shops can undercut their competitors. Cheaper specials are made possible necessarily by cheap materials and unskilled labor. The union is faced against such inferior work, and so these shops are left to a fertile source of income.

At the college with all our some seven hundred girls are a substantial beauty buying public in New London. If the word union is distasteful to you, concern for your personal welfare should prompt you to patronize union shops. Don't forget, non-unionized shops are often responsible for shoddy work and the unemployment of other beauty shop operators. Names of union shops may be obtained from M. Kinsberg, Jane Addams house, or from any person with any degree of sensitivity, and love for the fine and beautiful. Even if the story were not superb, the book would be more worth reading for the fine description of the rugged and beautiful countryside. The more familiar I become with this small portrait and realize its great significance, the more I am sure that this book, above all others, will be one of the great books of the age, possibly one of the books of all time.

This book may be purchased at the Connecticut College Bookshop.
Margaret Goldsmith Wins Swimming Cup at Meet

The Sophomores led the Juniors 34-31 in the first race for first place in the college swimming meet last Thursday, March 9. It was decided that the time results of all races would be mostly contested, but the high light of the evening was the 100-yard freestyle. Frank ’30 seemed to have a definite lead over Patricia Hahn ’39 until the final sprint when Pat pulled herself up to Polly only to be defeated by three-tenths of a second. As a climax to a very fine meet Marcella Brown ’38 presented the Swimming Cup to Mary Anne Scott ’40; Antoinette, Nancy Pequignot ’41.

Jessie Anne Foley Finds French School Work Taxing

Jessie Anne Foley ’37 who is now studying in France on a fellowship, has written back of her work she is doing. An excerpt from a recent letter follows:

"I was astonished the other when I last wrote you my program was finished. After going to the classes and reading in literature here for several weeks, I found them not only well chosen and well presented, but also technical for foreign girls, perfectly at home in the language, who are capable of understanding French; sometimes they are even studying one act of Racine. I could hardly believe that I was reading.

The Kingdom of God, when dwelling in a man's heart, is the beginning of his Christian life. Understanding the teaching of Jesus is based on the two great commandments, to love God and to love one's neighbor. The Kingdom of God comes to work in the individual's heart is by the power of the Holy Spirit. When the second and last part of the college Annual musical event was held simultaneously with the college collegiate Telegratphic Meet was held at the college Telegratphic Meet was held at the college. Mr. Carter, the president of the college, spoke of the program, and introduced the speakers for the evening. The program included several musical numbers and a talk on "The Kingdom of God," by Mr. Carter. The concert was well received by the audience, and was judged to be a success.

Music Majors Have Selections Played

The college orchestra at a recent rehearsal was visited and orchestrated by two music majors in connection with Dr. Erb's composition and instrumentation courses. They are "Waltz" by Marie Schwenk ’39, and "Minuet" by Janice J. Essm. The orchestra has been chosen to represent the college in an upcoming competition, but has been found not to be ready to perform as it should be. The orchestra is being rehearsed with the utmost care and attention, so that it may be ready to perform at the highest level of excellence.

Basketball Games

The Freshmen opened the basketball season by outscouting the Juniors 35-12 in a game which marked the debut of the Freshman banquet. June Moore 43 and Dorothy Cushing ’41, forwards, combined with center Mary-Jane Tracy to net many spectacular baskets. The close guarding of the Freshmen guards robbed the Juniors of many chances to add to their score. The second team game between the Seniors and Sophomores was won by the latter team. Pat Al- word’s accurate shooting netted ten baskets which, added to the three baskets shot by Bruce Thralls, made the final score 20-16.

The Seniors defeated the Juniors 25-21 in a close game Friday night, March 6. Peg Nelson 28 was outstanding, but the guarding on both sides was so close that the forwards had little chance to score. The game was almost too fast, but excitement ran high as the Sophomores struggled to even the score. Several times the difference in score was only one point, nevertheless the Senior defense held firm and their opponents could not get ahead.

In the second team game the Freshmen defeated the Juniors 49-16.

This Collegiate World
By Associated Collegiate Press

A giant microscope, weighing nearly one ton, built on a new slow-motion focusing principle, was described recently at Harvard University.

It works somewhat like the world's largest telescope, in reverse. It focuses by remote, electric control. It magnifies distinctly 6,000 diameters, which is four times more than the theoretical limit of clear definition.

The Harvard giant will magnify 30,000 diameters, which would be like taking an accommodation point as tall as the Washington monument.

The slow-motion focusing is done with a screw which moves the microscope lens so slowly it is imperceptible to work by hand. In focus, several hundred screws are available for adjusting to extreme sharpness.

Clarity of objects is what the liberal arts college needs most; President Dian Ryan Fox of Union College told a group of Union College alumni.

"It cannot be a simple objective such as would be found in Germany or Italy or Russia, but one that training personalites to make the most of themselves and personalities different. We would not regiment them if we could, for our national ideal is one of mutual contribution, each sharing according to his peculiar strength."
First Sign Of College Growth Began With Grant Of Mrs. Vinal

By BARBARA L. FAWCETT '37

(Reprinted from News, October 14, 1936)

Just thirteen years ago was held the first Alumni weekend at Connecticut College. The school was then less than half as old as it is now, and the eighty alums who returned for this memorable occasion were able to relate many stories about the infancy of the college.

Since that time, Connecticut College has progressed by great strides, and we who revel in its success feel that the hand of destiny is guiding it through the years. One of the latest developments is the appearance of the alumni magazine "The Connecticut College News," with its up-to-date news of campus happenings.

New Improvements

Now these earlier students may return to find the college's present 715 members occupying the beautiful new dormitories which, until just a few years ago, were mere dreams of the school's founders and visionaries.

The library, the gymnasium, the science building, and all the other classrooms and lecture halls have been modernized and improved.

The campus itself has been improved with the addition of the Mohican Hotel, which will accommodate guests for the coming season. The hotel will be a welcome addition to the college's facilities, providing much-needed accommodations for out-of-town guests.

There are also plans for the construction of a new athletic field, which will be used for the upcoming football season. This field will be the focal point of the new athletic complex, which will include a new track and field facility.

In the art world, the college has acquired a number of new works of art, including paintings by contemporary artists. These works will be displayed in the new art gallery, which will open later this year.

The college has also received a grant of $100,000 from the National Science Foundation, which will be used to support research activities in the sciences.

In recognition of the college's contributions to the community, the town of New London has presented the college with a key to the city, symbolizing its official recognition as a vital part of the community.

The college has also received a grant of $100,000 from the National Science Foundation, which will be used to support research activities in the sciences.
