Eugene List, Pianist, To Be Last Star of Concert Series

Artist Continues His Career in '46, After Discharge From Army

Last in the Connecticut College Concert Series will be the performance of Eugene List, well known musician who will present a piano concert in Palmer Auditorium March 15 at 8:30 p.m.

Four months after Pearl Harbor Eugene List enlisted in the United States Army, interrupting a concert career in the course of which he had already established himself as a rising star in the American musical firmament. One of his fellow students of the induction center asked him what he was going to do now that he was a civilian playing the piano. "I played alone," Mr. List explained. "When I am alone I can think and I think..."

It was President Truman's suggestion that List play for the Forces, which he received honors both from the President and Vice President.

Discharged from the army early in 1946, List picked up the threads of his interrupted career.

IRC's Constitution Approved by World Student Committee

by Betty Anderson

Last Thursday the constitution of the new International Relations Club was approved by the World Student Committee which the Club is working under. Formal establishments of the IRC will take place upon election of officers for next year. All those students interested in International Affairs are urged to apply for positions by the form which was sent out February 16 at 7:00 in Fanning 305.

During the past year, the Student Council at Connecticut has worked together with the World Student Committee for the purpose of establishing IRC. An explanation of the function and purpose of the IRC as described in the Constitution was given. Students who did not hear the report, on Wednesday afternoon, March 15 in Palmer Auditorium.

The former rise in tuition, announced during the spring of 1947, resulted from the necessity to keep the college running, to increase salaries to meet the inflationary prices will rise any higher.

At the present time it does not look as if prices will rise any higher; however, they do not appear to be falling much lower. Salaries and wages for educational employees must be raised to help the college keep pace with industry and government. In spite of the fact that our faculty and administrative staff are well trained people that will not permit us to fall behind.

The increase to 1600 dollars $300, an added factor in the need for increasing the college's present problem. This increase to 1600 dollars is with bad Latin and false syntax.

But again the question is the intent audience found the World as a substitute for that understanding section, one of our present world: and in the Pacific School of Religion. EDITORIAL

Disturbing Attitudes

The extent of the capacity to keep an open mind is one of the goals of our educational system. This mind is not to be interpreted as one which is susceptible to all impressions indiscriminately, but a mediating, coordinating system which controls all our activities. When our minds will be able to ask questions but to view all sides of an issue. Then, most important, we must be able to discriminate and select what we believe to be the "right" answer. This process is most easily done to listen, to think, for oneself, and in its assimilation.

Now, any intelligent decision or stand on an issue can only be made when most of its dimensions have been examined critically. In this way, our arguments often become evident and our thinking can be revised or reinforced accordingly. Thus, the lack of an intelligent viewpoint or the failure to undertake this kind of knowledge which we seek in college should not be considered isomorphically. It can have meaning for us only when we apply it.

The prime premise for the premises that are reasonable to be disturbed by the attitudes of many college students. Allowing others to think and act for us makes a clear example of our willingness to violate the principle that the US would be at the service of the West in a military capacity. Of late the arguments on the various provisions of the North Atlantic Pact are concerned with nations of Western Europe which the US would be at the service of the West in a military capacity. North Atlantic Pact Is Seen As Wedge in East-West Unity

by Phyllis Clark

In these tense times of international attention, has been devoted to the pending North Atlantic Pact.

On March 17, 1948, the governments of the United Kingdom, Belgium and the Netherlands signed the North Atlantic Treaty, and on February 15, 1949, they signed the North Atlantic Treaty. This treaty was signed by 24 nations on May 23, 1949, that the "association treaty" was signed, the North Atlantic Treaty nations announced another agreement. They guaranteed their mutual defense, and their military strength to assure effective action against aggression, and that US support was essential.

They guaranteed their mutual defense, and their military strength to assure effective action against aggression, and that US support was essential.

The North Atlantic Treaty expresses the intention of the US to pursue a policy to strengthen the economic and political world peace and security, and to insure the effectiveness of our efforts for economic recovery.

Time has proved that economic recovery and security are very closely related. Practical means are to be found. The economic recovery and security are very closely related. Many of the principles are not all huge concepts of world-shaking significance; military strength to assure effective action against aggression. In July, 1948, the negotiations, with a view to early conclusion, were begun in Washington. The objective is to provide for their mutual defense, and their military strength to assure effective action against aggression.

It seems obvious that the North Atlantic Treaty nations should be well aware that they are now being sought whereby Treaties, alliances, and the like arrangements are made within Russia during World War II. Kuhn, Thomas Organ Recital
Proves Artistic, Enjoyable

by Rachel Oher

The performance of music presented by Judy Kuhn and Lauranne Thomas in a Senior organ recital at the Chapel Tuesday evening, March 1, Judy's playing, precise and controlled, was artistically technically. Lauranne's commendable musicianship... A beautiful legato was attained in the Bach Chorale Prelude, Erb, with religious fervor, and Peace, on the same piece, was played with much understanding.

Judy brought the program to a most exciting conclusion with the pompous Finale from Symphony No. 3, for organ by Louis Vierne. Here the organist's expert presentation of the piece will appeal to those who enjoy the manuals as well as her feeling for the normal work and, especially in the middle section, was demonstrated.

Both girls succeeded in giving an artistic and enjoyable performance.

shops feature sportsewear by leslie alderman, cc alumna

A former art editor of the CC News, Leslie Alberman, on 30th anniversary of extensive national publicity as designer of denim sports' clothing labeled the SHIPSHAPERS. In addition to this game, much article has one of its own Sailor's Delight Skirts, Topcoat Maltesers, Bow End Shorts, Crew Slacks, So Deep Bags, Jil Jacqui, Drunken Sailor Wallets, Swan Wave Hats and Worse II Aprons.

Miss Alderman has worked in publicity in New York on Mail's magazine and was assistant editor of Textile World. She did sales promotion for International Silver, and sales for a firm in the Advertisment Effectiveness business. In 1933 she was told that she would never be able to work again. She spent time in the Adirondacks. Finally, tired of boarding around, she designed her own house (it was a floor arts major).

In the front door is a real broad-shouldered with a ship's lantern and ship's bell on either side. Alcove across the back of the house are steel shaded windows showing a view of Milford harbor. Her intense love for salt water and boats provided the motive for her new play clothes, (the Shipshapers).

Before selling the rights to the use of her name, Leslie Alderman made her clothes on a custom-made basis—to order, to fit. Among her original cutters are many famous people: Rob Russell of the movies and her sister Clara LaRoché, with whom she grew up summers, Mrs. Brock, Pemberton, Mrs. Robert Vanderbilt, Mary Lewis, Danna March, fashion editor of Harper's Bazaar, Eunice Shopper, fashion editor of the Herald-Tribune, Mrs. Roy Larson, wife of the publisher of Time, Life, Fortune, Architectural Forum.

"Mary Lewis's name, of course, helped. She has the exclusive right to the New York market. Miss Lewis's store at 746 Fifth Avenue is sandwiched in between the Tailored Woman and Bergdorf Goodman, a swank location. It's all right to get interested girls, because Shipshapers are here in New London ready to be seen at Fashion Fairs. Inexpensive, well cut, good new denim is lovely soft gray, clear yellow, a new shade of dark blue and the old faded blue.

While in college Leslie Alderman was a song leader, danced and sang in three musical comedies, participated in every sport. She won the school cup in tennis and was pretty generally in the thick of all extra-curricular activity. She is especially anxious to have Connecticut college awareness of her clothes before some of our other alumnus colleges on the New England scene and is delighted that Miss Lucy Savage of Fashion Fairs is cooperating.

Publicity Drive

Staff personnel at the teachers college and in the State Department of Education have been at work in solving problems in recruitment and training. They have been agreeing upon the details of organizing a publicity program for the workshops in which the trainees will receive their basic instruction. The Department has engaged Mrs. John A. Baker of Westport to spearhead the recruitment drive through the schools.

Mrs. Baker states that she with the assistance of many public spirited citizens will contact women's organizations, civic and educational associations, school superintendents and high school principals between the present and July 1 in an effort to motivate college-trained persons to register for the emergency training. Mrs. Baker and her assistants will utilize all media available in publishing the project and in informing the public of the situation.

The acute shortage of teachers is due largely to the increased birth rate and to the failure of unsought and large numbers of children in the Connecticut public schools. For example, in 1933, 22,086 children were born in the state, whereas in 1947 there were 44,980 children. The increase of 22,919. In 1949, there were 173,385 children enrolled in public schools; however, by 1958, it is estimated this number will reach 317,973, an increase of approximately 45 per cent.

College Graduates Wanted

This drastic increase in student enrollment will be accompanied by an increase in teaching personnel. Presently, thousands of Connecticut youth will be teacherless. Negative alternatives available to them are just around the corner.

 motorcycle AULN magazine, literature and the media provide programme summaries, etc. The World Student Committee has been urging the state to register all classes of CCCU and its program of the last year and the possibility of it fulfilling the CCUN purpose of building an informed public opinion.

The IRC will have within its organization a UN committee which will act as an information center, spearheading UN activities and being the channel through which students at CC may relay their opinions of problems confronting the UN to the appropriate UN and American delegates. The CCUN is at your service but must make its service feel by becoming informed and working with, as well as using, your CCUN group on campus.

Superintendents are the elimination of kindergarten, doubling classes in parochial schools, and the elimination of special teachers who provide the enriched curricula.

To meet the current emergency all persons who have had successful college work in an accredited institution of higher learning and are interested in teaching as a vocation or in opportunities for Parvise during the year are urged to register with the Registrar of the parochial school. Graduates of liberal arts colleges of professional schools for teachers, particularly those who have majored in secondary education, and of normal schools will be eligible for candidacy in the program.

Screening Candidates

To protect the children involved, the Screening Board of each teachers college will attempt to weed out those who may be academically or physically insensible and also those who are emotionally or personally unfit for guiding children.

Each candidate will be required to take a physical examination by a doctor appointed by the State Board of Education and to submit official transcripts of college work completed. Selective admissions examinations will also be given at each college center in order that the most meritorious may be screened in the program.

Although trainees will be dealt with on an individual basis, faculty in training will be essential because of dissimilarly in previous education. The 12-week workshops will provide the orientation committee essential to insure a reasonable degree of success with children; however, all trainees who desire to continue in the summer session will acquire additional credit toward regular licensure.

Since most trainees will be ineligible for the regular elementary certificate, they will be issued a Temporary Emergency Certificate, which must be renewed annually or until such time as the teachers college with which the trainee is registered certifies to the Department that all requirements have been completed on an in-service basis. Furthermore, the institution providing the workshops will supervise the trainee's work through the first year.

Deemed Fine Preview of Coming Boston Concert
by Rachel Olsen

The preview of Mr. Donald Currier's piano concert which is to be given March 13, in Boston, was held last Wednesday at Holmes Hall by an enthusiastic audience of students, faculty members and friends. Mr. Currier's fine technique and competent musicianship displayed in a well-worked out program, including works of Bach, Beethoven, Hindemith and Chopin, gave us sure indication that his concert will be a great success.

Priscilla Lynch as Death was notable for the delicate cynicism of her representation, as well as her grace of movement. As Santa Claus Margaret Farnsworth was sincere and effective in the several changes of mood required by the part. Muriel Philips was an unaffected child (a pleasure in these days of self-consciousness) and Janet Regazzoni as The Woman displayed uncanny dignity and an emotion that never became sentimental. The players in the mob were responsive and notably articulate. Too often, when bouquets are
