Students Dislike Negro Segregation In College Policy

College students overwhelmingly disapprove of policies which discriminate against Negroes, according to the Associated Collegiate Press National Student Opinion Poll.

Students from all sections of the country were asked: What is your opinion of college poll policies excluding or discriminating against Negroes? The results were: Approve 17 per cent, Disapprove 76 per cent, No opinion 5 per cent.

In the South, 49 per cent of the students who answered the poll question stated that Negroes may or may not attend college, whereas 67 per cent in the North and 68 per cent in the West, indicated that Negroes may or may not attend college.

In a recent political survey of college students, Negroes were placed on a plane with Jews, Catholics, and Communists.

No 'A'

Dear Editor:

I was astonished to read your newspaper report of the views of college students on Negro segregation in college poll policies. In my opinion, the poll results were not representative of student opinion, as Negroes have been misrepresented in the past.

I would like to ask you to publish part of a letter from Negro students who are particularly impressed with the poll results and who have interviewed and very accurately included this situation in their studies. The poll results are not to be taken as a true representation of Negro student opinion.

I would also like to point out that the poll results were not representative of the entire college student body. The poll results are not to be taken as a true representation of Negro student opinion.

Sincerely yours,

ROBERT LEVENS

4 UN Weekend Panels End in Deadlocks, Some Solutions

On the weekend of March 14, during the United Nations Conference held here, the United Nations in Arison was the general heading of discussions.

A summary of round table one, "The United Nations: A New Deal or an Appraisal," brought out the fact that the UN is an international organization with historical background. An approach to peace can be international or national. In order for the UN to be an instrument of international policy and in order for it to establish the trust among nations without which it cannot function, the UN must enlighten the peoples of the world and show them the gains which it makes possible.

"The UN is an all-voting, can take three alternative courses—negotiation, discussion, or arms. In Greece, some progress has been made, but the situation there is unsure. The panel reached no decision regarding Korea.

Positive accomplishments, however, have been made in the fields of world health, education, and modern dance classes. The students are invited to attend this exhibition.

Technical assistance was discussed by panel two, which discussed domestic problems in the field of world education. The United States, especially, needs the goods of foreign countries.

Barriers to world trade arise in the form of tariffs. Europe has the problem of a lack of sufficient purchasing power. The UN through its General Assembly, of world health, education, and modern dance classes. The students are invited to attend this exhibition.

Berle Speech Opens Weekend Conference on UN in Action

United Nations Weekend opened Saturday night with a speech de- livered by Adlai E. Berle in the Auditorium. Mr. Berle spoke on the United States in the UN, a topic which was the theme of the week- end conference. Prior to his talk, Dean Barcik welcomed delegates to the college.

Introducced by Patricia Tussel 59, Mr. Berle began his lecture by reviewing the principal objections to UN policies. He said that most opposition comes from those who consider the unilateral actions of the UN impracticable and largely a matter of "moon-shot idealism," and maintaining United States interests and the cause of peace through the UN is not fac- ing the problem realistically. Mr. Berle then went on to probe the UN is the only possible instru- ment of peace in the world today.

Alternative methods of obtain- ing peace outside the UN or a similar organization are, accord- ing to Mr. Berle, neither workable nor adequate. If the choice to inti- mate a world system of alliances, there would be rates and difficult- ies on all sides. France and Ger- many could not long maintain friendly relations, and there is danger that Germany might sud- denly change sides as she has done before. Japan would be the key to an alliance in the Pacific, and she could not easily choose to ally with an opposing force.

An effective regional arrange- ment for peacekeeping and de- fence under the direction of the UN seemed to be the only prac- tical solution to the problem. This system would bring nations to gather for mutual benefit and pro- tection, eventually making them interdependent. The UN has four such regional arrangements: the International Group; the Euro- pean Defense Treaty; the Pacific Pact, and NATO.

Mr. Berle concluded his lecture with an evaluation of the UN as a life line for nations in the strug- gle to secure peace.

Gartland, Chapple Make News Once More

Nancy Gartland '54 and Carolyn Chapple '54 have now become almost full-time occupants of the NEWS office. Here they may be found amid the galleys and the glue and the general air of confusion which reigns there especially on Monday and Tuesday evenings when they are preparing to put NEWS "to bed." It things in the NEWS office need cheering up, Carol and Nancy are always ready to supply one of the songs from their singing group, the Discords.

NANCY GARTLAND

Editor-in-Chief Gartland, an American, History Major, halls from Hamden, Connecticut, where she attended the Hill House High School. During her three years there she was active on the newspaper, The Sentinel and secretary of the senior class.

Nancy has been on NEWS here at Connecticut for three years, starting as a reporter. Her sophomore year she was not only assistant Copy Editor of NEWS, but in her junior year, she served as News Editor.

This year has been a busy one for Nancy. A resident of Freeman, she was a runner for the Junior Mascot Hunt Committee in the Fall and is chairman of the Fathers' Day Script Committee. During her sophomore year she was selected secretary of Knowlton, Manager of the '54 hockey team for the past three years, Carol has worked not only on NEWS during her sophomore year but on Sophology as well. This year it was she who made a mysterious journey by night to hide a banner for mascot hunt. Thefinder would have been disappointed, however, for the banner was the decoy banner, Carolyn being the chairman of the decoy committee. Plus her duties of managing editor of NEWS, Carol has been kept busy as a house junior and also as a member of the script committee of the Junior Show.

During the summer, "La Chappelle," as she is called by her friends, worked as a receptionist in an advertising office. One summer Carol worked as a cub reporter for a newspaper in Wisconsin, but it is with chagrin that Carol speaks of this experience. It seemed that it was her duty on this job to meet all trains. One day the train just didn't come so Carol went home, thereby missing a big scoop of the summer, a train wreck. Now never is a train late.
