Rena Rinsky Is Named Woodrow Wilson Fellow
Rena L. Rinsky, '67, has been awarded a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship for one year's graduate study in any area of the social sciences, the academic year 1967-68. The fellowship includes tuition, a fellowship stipend and round-trip travel expenses.

Woodrow Wilson Fellowships are awarded annually to students in Canada and the United States who have demonstrated interest in becoming college teachers. In addition to students at graduate schools in the United States, the Woodrow Wilson Foundation also awards a supplementary grant to the school where each fellow chooses to enroll.

Rena was one of five students to receive Canon's highest academic honor last fall when she was named a Winthrop Scholar on the basis of her election to Phi Beta Kappa after only three years of undergraduate study. She also received the Franklin Scholars Award for having the highest academic average during her freshman year.

In addition to her accelerated college program, Ryna, a psychology major, studied the effect of light on human eyes for an honors project this year. During her junior year she was a research assistant in the psychology department.

She has completed her graduation requirements in January, the same year she filed for the program for the graduate assistant in the psychology department.

Boston Symphony Orchestra's summer school, the Tanglewood Institute, conducted by Erich Leinsdorf, 105 musicians, plays live to about not a single faculty member.

The orchestra, which contains 106 musicians, plans to live to about 700,000 people a year.

Erich Leinsdorf

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Erich Leinsdorf, will make its 26th appearance here at the final 1966-67 program of the Boston Symphony Orchestra at 19:30 p.m. April 10 at Symphony Hall.

The Boston Symphony has been on the faculty of every season except the first season, 1939-40, when the program was initiated, and during 1945-46. Erich Leinsdorf has been the Symphony director since 1962. The concert will mark the end of the 28th season of the concert series.

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, founded in 1831 by Henry Higginson, has toured widely in Europe and on the West Coast. More than 500 works have been recorded since 1917, and more than 30 million records have been made and sold by the Symphony and the Arts Building.

More than 100,000 people hear the Orchestra at Tanglewood, and some 400,000 listeners hear from all over the world study of the Orchestra's summer school, the Berkshire Music Center.
Editorial
A Writer's Analysis

Students were recently requested to answer seventeen questions pertaining to Connecticut College's first student critique. The questionnaire, a process which is at best enigmatic. Furthermore, it is hoped that the students' responses will be analyzed to determine the course's effect on the students' decision to continue or discontinue their courses of study. However, with this proposed innovation of sign-out rules, there seems to be an increased number of cars on campus (e.g. (Continued on Page 8, Col. I)

The advertisement, which would be written by members of Volkswagen or the airline, would suggest a glossy photograph of a chap-clad oriental grinding a cigarette out against a pastoral background of rolling hills and open fields. The headline would read: ARE YOU PUTTING FRONT? They would run something like this:

To the Editor:

With much thanks to Anu and her fellow students, and the core of the critique,

the production as a whole, nor did

the parts of the whole. In short,

the production as a whole, nor did

the parts of the whole. In short,

the production as a whole, nor did

the parts of the whole. In short,

the production as a whole, nor did

the parts of the whole. In short,

the production as a whole, nor did

the parts of the whole. In short,

the production as a whole, nor did

the parts of the whole. In short,

the production as a whole, nor did

the parts of the whole. In short,

the production as a whole, nor did

the parts of the whole. In short,

the production as a whole, nor did

the parts of the whole. In short,

the production as a whole, nor did

the parts of the whole. In short,

the production as a whole, nor did

the parts of the whole. In short,

the production as a whole, nor did

the parts of the whole. In short,

the production as a whole, nor did

the parts of the whole. In short,

the production as a whole, nor did

the parts of the whole. In short,

the production as a whole, nor did

the parts of the whole. In short,

the production as a whole, nor did

the parts of the whole. In short,

the production as a whole, nor did

the parts of the whole. In short,

the production as a whole, nor did

the parts of the whole. In short,

the production as a whole, nor did

the parts of the whole. In short,

the production as a whole, nor did

the parts of the whole. In short,

the production as a whole, nor did

the parts of the whole. In short,

the production as a whole, nor did

the parts of the whole. In short,

the production as a whole, nor did

the parts of the whole. In short,

the production as a whole, nor did

the parts of the whole. In short,

the production as a whole, nor did

the parts of the whole. In short,

the production as a whole, nor did

the parts of the whole. In short,

the production as a whole, nor did

the parts of the whole. In short,

the production as a whole, nor did

the parts of the whole. In short,

the production as a whole, nor did

the parts of the whole. In short,

the production as a whole, nor did

the parts of the whole. In short,

the production as a whole, nor did

the parts of the whole. In short,

the production as a whole, nor did

the parts of the whole. In short,
Dr. Dumas Malone to Deliver Lecture for Phi Beta Induction

Dr. Dumas Malone

"Thomas Jefferson and Our Time" is the topic of the Phi Beta Kappa Convocation lecture to be given by Dr. Dumas Malone Thursday April 6, at 8 p.m. in Phelps Auditorium.

Dumas Malone, biographer-in-residence at the University of Virginia and former professor of American history at Virginia, Yale, and Columbia universities, became committed to the biographical field during his editorship of the Diplomacy of American Biography. Among his eight published books on the lives of creative figures in U.S. history are four on Jefferson. He is also preparing a five-volume Jeffersonian study and is editor of a two-volume general interpretive histories. Malone was managing editor of the Political Science Quarterly from 1933 to 1958 and for thirteen years chairman of the History Department at the University Press.

The New York Times Foundation awarded him travel grants on two separate occasions to view sections of the world, a journey he has described as productive and satisfying. Malone received his A.B. from Emory University, A.M. and Ph.D. from Yale, and LL.D. from Northwestern.

Dr. Malone is author of Public Life of Thomas Jefferson and Cooper, 1961, and Columbia, 1956.

During his two-day visit to the campus the visiting Phi Beta Kappa Convocation to take place Thursday afternoon with a seminar on the Intellectual History of the United States and with a Friday morning class in Colonial and Revolutionary America.

On Today's Ethics

Professor Brand Blanshard will present a lecture sponsored by the Philosophy Club on "Bacon and Feeling in Physical Ethics," at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, Mar. 21, at 7 p.m. in the Sterling Lecture Room.

Professor Brand Blanshard will present a lecture sponsored by the Philosophy Club on "Bacon and Feeling in Physical Ethics," at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, Mar. 21, at 7 p.m. in the Sterling Lecture Room.

Students Compete in Bowling, Basketball, Badminton, Fencing

"Hall the conquering hero!
This may well be said to these students who are members of the Connecticut College Bowling and Badminton teams, who participated in various tournaments, both state and regional, during the semester. Participation in these tournaments is sponsored by the Physical Education Department.

Seven students and three faculty members took part in the Connec-tical State "C" Badminton Tournament held in Quinebaug Wednesday, Mar. 11 and Sun., Mar. 12. The total entry was the largest in some years. Events played were Ladies Singles, Ladies Doubles, Men's Singles, Men's Doubles, and Mixed Doubles.

Family members participating were: Margot Hurst, Bernard Hurst, James Williston. Students participating were: Carolyn Gore, Amy Ayres, Katharine Bohlen, Katherine Bunce, Mary M. H. Kerster, and Barbara Sabin. Mr. Blanshard received his education at the California Institute of Technology, the University of Chicago, and Harvard.

A student course critique, presented to the faculty, will comment on the course information not included in the catalog or on a student's request. The published critique will be presented for each course: 1. a report in the manner described above; 2. a list of required books and papers; 3. a comprehensive summary of the general student sentiment as expressed by students who have participated in the course; 4. the written presentation will be made by a student who has taken the course. The questionnaire consisted of 17 questions; fifteen of which required responses to be scored on a scale of 1 to 5. Some of these questions concerned course content; "How interesting is the reading?" others pertained to the use of new materials. The question, "Do you think that class discussion (including sections and labs) contributed significantly to your understanding of the course?" was included in the questionnaire.

The last two questions provided the student with an opportunity to comment on the course. The comments will be forwarded to the relevant professor.

The questionnaire concluded with some questions concerning the student's views on the course. The published critique will be available to students and faculty members.
The Draft Proposal

PROS and CONS

Students, Faculty Voice Ideas on Draft Revision

By Sue Rankin and Jacqueline Hill

The editors of the student newspaper at Berkeley, the California Daily, spoke thus, that they think undergraduate deferrals should be continued, while the editors of the Brown, Cornell, Dartmouth and Princeton, as well as the University of Minnesota, said that they should be maintained.

The students and faculty of the University of California feel that they have the opinions of the proposed draft.

Dan Phillips, '68, said on the subject of undergraduate deferrals, "I think it's unfair that the only people who have to fight are the certain elected officials and aliens.

Favors Selective Deferral

Deli Back, '67, maintained, "The top quarter of undergraduate students shouldn't be taken at all, but be drafted, the young men who are in school and that there would be no longer."

She said she thought that by deferring the enrollment of students, only those who really wanted to be in school, and that there would be no longer. She also maintained that the lottery would produce an over-inflated society, therefore, she felt that the present system is the most effective way.

The proposal that all people, boys and girls, should be part of whatever service after high school, would be considered improvement of under-privileged and efficient use of resources. He commented that moving undergraduate deferrals should be disadvantageous since the second draft since intelligent men should be used in the most important.

Mr. Back said he does not think the lottery is the way to achieve this. The new troops would also help maintain such deferments are in the national interest. Furthermore, he maintains college deferrals are not really unfair because the unpredictability of world affairs could fair as just as easily subject to an soldier as to an officer of the system than that of the nation. They do think, nevertheless, that the inequity of the system is dishonorable and must be ameliorated.

The average 10 year-old would be chosen by some combinations of the old law, or whether they desire to stay safe. It is evident from the responses of parents who have lost a son in the Vietnam situation, that the Johnson administration, believes the present system is the most effective way.

The new troops would also help maintain such deferments are in the national interest. Furthermore, he maintains college deferrals are not really unfair because the unpredictability of world affairs could fair as just as easily subject to an soldier as to an officer of the system than that of the nation. They do think, nevertheless, that the inequity of the system is dishonorable and must be ameliorated.

The average 10 year-old would be chosen by some combinations of the old law, or whether they desire to stay safe. It is evident from the responses of parents who have lost a son in the Vietnam situation, that the Johnson administration, believes the present system is the most effective way.
Postmaster's Par Excellence - Mr. James Freely

Photo by Dresler

Dear [Name]

Your request for information on the summer term was received and has been processed. Please find enclosed a form which contains the necessary data for your summer term plans. You will receive a reply no later than [date].

Sincerely,

[Signature]

---

Susie and George Find Fulbright Scholarship for Study in India

By Jacqueline Earley

Susie Eidel, '67, who applied last fall for a Fulbright scholarship in India, went to her mailbox Tuesday evening and found a letter postmarked from New Delhi. She said she was afraid to open it.

"The letter informed me that I had been accepted as a teaching assistant in an Indian University on a Fulbright Grant," Susie said. She went and told President Shane she had been accepted. Her secretary asked her how she felt. "Surprise, surprise," she said.

"Great-you can start getting your first dozen before you leave," Susie said.

Planning to leave June 23, Susie explained that she will go through an orientation in Srinagar and Delhi before finally jetting off for England. "My duties were that I made all the arrangements for my Fulbright Grant," Susie said. "I plan to study in a less-frequented area of the country," she explained.

Susie explained that she is interested in India because she lives near the Indian Institute of Technology. "I have had little contact with Indian students," Susie said. "I am interested in their culture, and she explained that there are many interesting people in the country who can give a first-hand account of the Fulbright experience.

---

Coeducational Summer Term

June 23 - August 19

Liberal Arts - 73 courses in humanities, sciences, social sciences - intensive foreign language instruction and introductory computer course.

Congregation of the Arts - Courses in drama, music, painting, sculpture, film series, chemistry, and cinematography, composers-in-residence, Aaron Copland, Hans Werner Henze, Frank Martin, Dartmouth Repertory Theater Co. - professional and student actors.

For information send coupon below to:

Dartmouth College, P.O. Box 587, Hanover, N.H. 03755

Please send me summer term information CC

NAME

ADDRESS

ZIP

---

 Garcete Theatre

Now Playing

Rock Hudson & George Peppard in

TOBOKU

Starts Friday

ENDLESS SUMMER

A documentary on surfing
MISS JOHNSON GIVES PRELIMINARY PLANS FOR EXPANSION OF LIBRARY

by Beth Daglian

Have you ever trod all the way over to the library to find your favorite spot taken and all the easy chairs in use? Well, don’t give up hope yet, for the day is coming when you'll always be able to find your place free.

On the advice of Keys D. Metz, Librarian Emeritus of Harvard University, who devotes his time to advising colleges with library building problems, an expansion of Palmer Library is being planned. The preliminary plan for the proposed expansion of the library extends the present wings back creating two inner courts. The site of the present building will be doubled, providing temporary space for classes, seminar rooms, and faculty offices. This space will gradually give way to stacks as the book collections grow.

According to Mr. John H. Det- mohl, director of Development, some money for the library has been received. At Christmas President Shain received a check for $100,000 designated specifically for the library. However, concentration on fund raising will not start until after the new art center is finished some time in 1969. In this phase will have to books so students can find them,” said Hazel A. Johnson, head Librarian with the rank of Professor; in steps have been taken to make the books more accessible until the needed space will be available.

These steps have included new lighting, arrangement of the seating so that more girls can be accommodated, a new shelf in the public library, and an extra shelf on the fourth floor.

Some students will probably be surprised when they come back next year and find stacks in the Palmer Room,” added Miss Johnson. This is just a temporary measure, however, and as soon as the building is expanded the stacks will be moved.

Miss Johnson also added that the use of the library is increasing along with the growth of its collection. In 1965 each student borrowed on the average 30 books while last year on the average each student borrowed 45.

Compilations of

SEIFFERT’S BAKERY
225 Bank St. 443-8600

Joseph F. Dudley, Proprietor, Opens Four Winds Bookshop

by Jacqua Hill

A retired cowboy, oil field worker, painter, shipyard hand, and treasure hunter (for the lost Dutchman) has a good offer for those who tire of old paperbacks.

Joseph F. Dudley, owner, and Roger Lyford, art adviser, said they have been attracting old books over the past four months, from all sections of New London to their State Street store, The Four Winds Bookstore.

Mr. Dudley has an array of old and new fiction, non-fiction, biography and specialized topic books in both hard and soft covers. He will give one paperback for the customer's any two.

For non-traders, he offers not only books, but greeting cards, post cards, stamps, coins and even art work, taken in on consignment.

When asked what he thought of Conn girls, Mr. Dudley described them as being "very sophisticated, educated, lady-like and regular little angels." To show his appreciation for their patronage, he offers a ten per cent discount on any used books for girls who show their Conn I.D.'s.

The owner considers home "anywhere he hangs his hat" and has chosen New London for the time being not only because he was born here, but also because that he predicted that the town would thrive due to the interest of the New London people.

Apparently Mr. Dudley is well qualified to judge the most profitable area since he has made his home in Mexico, Tahiti and Canada among other places. He set up a similar store which deals in de luxe appliances as well as books in Los Jala, California.

The Four Winds is open six days a week from 9:30 a.m. to 6:00 p.m., with late hours on Friday and occasional other nights. Mr. Dudley stressed that he would keep his store open for anyone who wanted to come in and buy a book.

"Mr. Dudley said he likes deal- ing in books best of all the profes- sions he has tried. The constant turnover of his commodity indicates that he knows how to run his business. He gives, however, most of the credit to his patrons. "Due to the girls, the Navy's and the people of New London's fabulous support, we are able to stay in business," he stated.
Pamela wore a mini skirt, sweater, white go-go boots and 4 union labels.

Her skirt may be mini or full. Her neckline may be turtle or plunging. Her feet may be in boots or ballet slippers. But Pamela is always in fashion. And so are the union labels in her clothes.

No matter what the occasion, Pamela—like most American women—wears union labels wherever she goes. The union label in women’s and children’s garments is the signature of 450,000 members of the International Ladies’ Garment Workers’ Union.

It is a symbol of decency, fair labor standards, and the American way of life. Look for it when you shop.

For a free copy of “Your College Wardrobe” examine your wardrobe, find an ILGWU label, snip it and send it to: Radio City Station, Box 608, New York, N.Y. 10019, Dept. M-6.
Frances Rakatansky, Cellist, Anticipates Musical Career

Frances Rakatansky, '67
Photo by Bisetti

South was a player of quick decisions. He cheerfully played small from dummy accepting the free fines. Later he regretted the 9 over 7.

Winning the heart jack, South led small to a spade to the ten. East ducked, won the second spade and took the heart.

Dealer now tested diamonds with the ace and king on which West led the second spade. A small club was led and East made the final trick. After that, East covered and West won the king. West led the jack of clubs and East found his ten in the nine when South ducked.

In the meantime the defense had collected a spade, two clubs and two diamonds.

After the hand, North quickly asked his partner why he had not taken his nine clubs. He pointed out that if South had not been so quick to take a free trick at trick one, he could have gone on to play with the heart ace and taken two hearts, four spades, two diamonds and a club.

Time Current Affairs Test

1. As 1966 opened, President Johnson extended the wording of the Vietnam War. He
A. Legalized the U.S. presence there
B. Expelled the Viet Cong out of Congress
C. Re-elected President Ky
D. Sent an assembly to write a constitution
2. As a possible prelude to peace negotiations, the Manila conference, which was attended by foreign troops from South Viet Nam:
A. After Hanoi surrendered unconditionally.
B. Within months after North Viet Nam withdrew its forces and ceased infiltration there.
C. If Moscow revokes its support of East Germany.
D. When the country becomes a U.S. protectorate.
3. By year's end U.S. troops stationed in South Viet Nam had been increased by some 200,000 men to 350,000, all led by General
A. James Gavin.
B. William Westmoreland.
C. Cornelius Ryan.
D. Omar Bradley.

(Answers on Page 3)