NEWS

Habitat students braved the elements and spent one night out on Lauren’s Green to build boxes to raise money for their cause. See features for more information on this fundraiser.

SPORTS

To page to top for all the latest in sports news. Men’s hockey has broken two home streaks, while our men’s team has packed the place to make a late run.

A&E

It’s Friday night! Get the inside scoop on the latest book releases, movie reviews, and more on page 5. Also, read an interview with the director of the documentary Red Devil on page 4.

College Union Board

First Class

PAID

L. New London, CT

Announces Deal With Harry’s Taxi Students Elect Class Representatives

By Liz Greenman

The elections for the Student Government Association (SGA) Class Council positions for the 2005-2006 school year took place on Campbell-Wooldridge April 29th through Friday, April 22nd. According to the current SGA Public Relations Director, approximately 160 to 200 people voted in each class’ respective election, which is less than half the amount of the student’s in each grade.

The SGA Class Council’s responsibilities include attending weekly SGA meetings and voting on resolutions. Brian Fiel was elected for the President of the Class of 2006, while Aaron Cook of SGA for the Class of 2007, and Russell Brooks for the Class of 2008.

The position of Judicial Board Representative is a significant time commitment, as a representative is required to attend frequent JBR board meetings. Aaron Wheeler and Maurice Durkin will be representing the Class of 2006, while Brooks ’08, current JBR board representative, commented that he “really enjoys being on the board, and (in) looking for- ward to another productive year.”

VOL XVII • NUM 20

CONnecticut College en Collegc

2005

FRIDAY, APRIL 25, 2005

A new service for off-campus transportation was implemented recently for the benefit of Connecticut College stu- dents. Harry’s Taxi of New London, Connecticut now has a deal with the College to provide students with sub- service by allowing Harry’s students to purchase rides with a credit card instead of payments.

The arrangement will be done via a “snack bar” method, which means that the student simply has to fill out a form and the taxi for the ride will be billed to the student’s account. By filling out two forms, including non-students, can run the taxi at once with only one identification card. Also, students can present multiple identification cards and have the fare split evenly between them. The average fare to downtown New London is approximately $7.50 to $8, so the arrangement presents both a convenient and inexpensive option to students, especially when split by a group.

Students have approached the administrators in the Office of Student Life every semester to show interest in developing a “Bath Radio” program. This semester, there was no student concern brought before the Student Government Association about their peers’ driv- ing intoxication from New London bars.

The Health Promotion Risk

Students Speak Out on Diversity Issues In Response to Recent Debate

By Matt Lerman

When Voice Columnist Nick Iyengar sat down to write his most recent column, he never anticipated the reaction that it would receive. The column, which appeared on page 4, was an in-depth editorial perspective on the political and social implications of a recent controversy on campus.

The controversy stemmed from an effort to prevent drunk driving, Harry’s Taxi will allow students to charge the student’s accounts instead of paying with cash. (Pace)

Brian Byers, a native of Uganda and a freshman Connecticut College student, was interviewed for the purpose of having enough to eat while he was under the care of his parents within her group. Among her friends, her parents, and her siblings, struggled to send the children to public school in Uganda. However, many of the family’s friends were already in the process of securing places for their children.

Brian Byers, a native of Uganda and a freshman Connecticut College student, was interviewed for the purpose of having enough to eat while he was under the care of his parents within her group. Among her friends, her parents, and her siblings, struggled to send the children to public school in Uganda. However, many of the family’s friends were already in the process of securing places for their children.

Brian Byers, a native of Uganda and a freshman Connecticut College student, was interviewed for the purpose of having enough to eat while he was under the care of his parents within her group. Among her friends, her parents, and her siblings, struggled to send the children to public school in Uganda. However, many of the family’s friends were already in the process of securing places for their children.

Brian Byers, a native of Uganda and a freshman Connecticut College student, was interviewed for the purpose of having enough to eat while she was under the care of her parents within her group. Among her friends, her parents, and her siblings, struggled to send the children to public school in Uganda. However, many of the family’s friends were already in the process of securing places for their children.

Brian Byers, a native of Uganda and a freshman Connecticut College student, was interviewed for the purpose of having enough to eat while she was under the care of her parents within her group. Among her friends, her parents, and her siblings, struggled to send the children to public school in Uganda. However, many of the family’s friends were already in the process of securing places for their children.

Brian Byers, a native of Uganda and a freshman Connecticut College student, was interviewed for the purpose of having enough to eat while she was under the care of her parents within her group. Among her friends, her parents, and her siblings, struggled to send the children to public school in Uganda. However, many of the family’s friends were already in the process of securing places for their children.

Brian Byers, a native of Uganda and a freshman Connecticut College student, was interviewed for the purpose of having enough to eat while she was under the care of her parents within her group. Among her friends, her parents, and her siblings, struggled to send the children to public school in Uganda. However, many of the family’s friends were already in the process of securing places for their children.

Brian Byers, a native of Uganda and a freshman Connecticut College student, was interviewed for the purpose of having enough to eat while she was under the care of her parents within her group. Among her friends, her parents, and her siblings, struggled to send the children to public school in Uganda. However, many of the family’s friends were already in the process of securing places for their children.

Brian Byers, a native of Uganda and a freshman Connecticut College student, was interviewed for the purpose of having enough to eat while she was under the care of her parents within her group. Among her friends, her parents, and her siblings, struggled to send the children to public school in Uganda. However, many of the family’s friends were already in the process of securing places for their children.
New York Times Improves Intellectual Climate On Campus

In recent weeks, students have capitalized on the school's newest intellectual resource: The New York Times. Accessibility to the newspaper has enhanced the College's environment just in the first two weeks of its trial period. Students read and discuss The Times with peers over lunch in the library, and on study days outside of usual lavishness. Its presence has broadened the campus' horizons, and the administration should sustain the effects of this positive change.

The Mission statement of the College's Strategic Plan states, "Connecticut College educates students to put the liberal arts into action in a global society." The range and quality of Connecticut College's classes, guest lecturers, diversity efforts, among other resources, enforce this kind of daily intensive and extensive liberal arts education. Presence to The Times further academic learning and the mini-set that makes it possible and valuable.

The College Voice serves as a valuable reference for campus news and student opinions. While we are interested and immersed in campus life during our college years, it is important that we stay informed with current knowledge of the events that are shaping this world.

The range and quality of Conn's classes, guest lecturers, diversity efforts, among other resources, serve as a valuable written reference for campus news and student opinions. While we are interested and immersed in campus life during our college years, it is important that we stay informed with current knowledge of the events that are shaping this world.

"Voice" your opinions; write a letter to the Editor, send to: ccvoice@conncoll.edu

The College Voice

Box 4970 • Office (860) 439-2812
E-mail: ccvoice@conncoll.edu

Letters to the Editor

Letters to the Editor are due strictly by 5:00 p.m. on the Wednesday preceding publication. The College Voice reserves the right to edit letters for clarity and length. No unsigned or anonymous letters will be published. However, names may be withheld upon the author's request. The College Voice will not publish letters deemed to be a personal attack on an individual. The College Voice cannot guarantee the publication of any submission. Letters should be single-spaced, no longer than 300 words, and must include a phone number for verification. Please send all letters as a Microsoft Word attachment to ccvoice@conncoll.edu

Advertising

The College Voice is an open forum. The opinions expressed by individual advertisers are their own. In no way does The College Voice endorse the views expressed by individual advertisers. The College Voice will not accept ads deemed to be libelous, an incitement to violence, or personally damaging. Ad rates are available on request by calling (860) 439-2815; please refer all inquires to the Business Manager. Allison Glassman. The College Voice reserves the right to accept or reject any ad. The Editors-in-Chief shall have final content approval.

The final deadline for advertising is 5:00 p.m. on the Wednesday preceding publication.

The College Voice

Manager, Allison Glassman.

Want the job? Contact the Voice at x2812 today.
DIVERSITY, EDUCATION, AND IDIOCY
ZACH WEST - Go WEST, YOUNGMAN!

I agree that there is a definite problem with diversity, but I think that there is more at play here than just the education system.

First of all, the reason that schools are being forced to accommodate diversity is because of the state and federal mandates on the matter. Second, there is the fact that students are being encouraged to embrace diversity. This is backed up by the fact that many students have been rewarded for doing so.

Erich Fromm's book "Man For Himself" states that "the state of being is the highest expression of the human being. It is a state of being that allows the individual to become a part of something larger than himself."

Therefore, it is not surprising that many students are being encouraged to embrace diversity. In fact, many students are being encouraged to embrace diversity because they want to be part of something larger than themselves.

However, I think that this is not the case for all students. There are many students who do not want to be part of something larger than themselves. They want to be able to live their own lives without being forced to embrace diversity.

Therefore, I think that we need to have a more realistic approach to diversity. We need to remember that diversity is not the same as being part of something larger than oneself. Diversity is simply the fact that people are different.

For instance, if you are a white person, you may not understand the experience of a black person. This is not because you are not intelligent, but because you have not had the experience of being a black person. Therefore, you may not be able to fully understand the experience of a black person.

However, this does not mean that you should not try to understand the experience of a black person. You should try to understand the experience of a black person because you want to be a more informed person.

In conclusion, I think that we need to have a more realistic approach to diversity. We need to remember that diversity is not the same as being part of something larger than oneself. Diversity is simply the fact that people are different.

When I applied to college, I couldn't even fit in between my ears. It was just another fun-filled evening, yet another way to pass the time. When I arrived, I was greeted by the usual array of people: students, faculty, and staff. I was shown around the campus and given a tour of the facilities. I was also given a chance to meet with some of the students and faculty members.

I hope that this tour will help you to understand the importance of diversity. I think that diversity is essential for a well-rounded education. Diversity helps to ensure that everyone has a voice in the decision-making process. Diversity also helps to ensure that everyone is treated fairly.

I hope that you will take advantage of the opportunities that are available to you. I think that you will find that diversity is an important part of your education.

When I first arrived at college, I was a bit intimidated. I had never been away from home before and I was not sure what to expect. However, I soon found that college was a wonderful experience.

I hope that you will enjoy your experience at college. I think that you will find that college is a wonderful experience. I hope that you will take advantage of the opportunities that are available to you. I think that you will find that college is a wonderful experience.
Red Demon: Touches Issues of Color and More Quality In The Heart of New London's The Bulkeley House

BY ARTY SARKARIK

For the hungry camel looking for a quick bite in an informal and unique setting, try the "theater" or "pub" that largely may well have been one of the prime go-to spots for hungry wildlife, hungry Bulkeley House patrons. The food is delectable; the setting is distinctive; the staff is touching base. In other words, you might want to look for the whole thing, or you might want to look for the whole thing in a particular manner. I must assume that you, dear reader, were not present.

The best thing about this place is that if you go with your friends, everyone can have something different. It can get a touch quickly and be served so efficiently, that you can indulge in the options and have it all. And you can even order dessert...

Red Demon's April show, hands-down mainstay play, is Red Demon, which will be the latest in the 2016-17 Season in the Warm Theater (Boy).

Red Demon is a rock band from the New London area that has been in existence since 2005. They are known for their energetic and engaging performances that touch on issues of race, identity, and more. Their music is a fusion of punk and rock, with a touch of funk and reggae.

The band's set list includes songs that deal with themes such as: the experience of being a foreigner in an omni-present land. The band's music aims to convey the meaning of being a foreigner in an omni-present land. Tickets are priced at just $15 for general admission and $14 for students.

When we began working with the band, we decided to make them the show of the week, as we could possibly make it. We made strong choices and when someone knocked down and failed, we pushed hard to keep them up and as a result the show was a huge success.

The best thing about this place is that it does not need to do anything in the environment, it seemed to be the embodiment of the very essence of New London. The individual listening to the sound of community in an important age of strip malls and Starbucks. The music is played live with a live band, and you can also see the music video that goes with each song in the show. This is a great way to enjoy a night of music while also enjoying a great meal.

The venue itself is also worth a visit. The lighting is on the dark side, but we were sitting next to the window and the artificial (but still working!) fireplace, so we couldn't complain much.

The appetizers are the usual calamari, jumbo cocktail shrimp, and fried clams. You may have seen them before, but the list goes on and on. You get to ask for cheese. Entrees offer many pasta dishes with everything from chicken, cheese, and so on. The best thing about this place is that if you go with your friends, every-
Floralia Finally In Full Musical Bloom

By PAUL DEFERRI and CHRISTIAN CLAYES
Associate A&E Editors from Woonsocket

Due to security concerns and after multiple delays, Floralia has been an event planned in total secrecy for the past few years. However, this year the SAC executive board, headed by Jess Mcllitle '06, went on tour to include the student body in the inclusion making process by polling students nightly on their interest, making a possible for some co-head-lining instead of one big act. So SAC booked four separate bands varying genres, hoping to please the most number of people possible and avoid some of the irritations that students have voiced in the past.

Based primarily on the poll results from a few months ago, Floralia 2005 will feature, in this order, Raquy and the Cavemen, MOBROC, Social Hero, The Slip, The Wallkner, and Virginia Coalition. Raquy and the Cavemen are self-described as "progressive Middle Eastern music," a relaxing mix of a large number of Middle Eastern instruments including the darbuk, zarb, nay, and oud. They will be the opening act in the morning while people are getting "settled" and relaxing on the green. MOBROC promises a variety of campus acts and will play mid-morning into early afternoon, followed by alumni Dan Lloyd's band, Social Hero. Social Hero, recently relocated from New York City, has packed Cray's Nest many times in the past two years and has gained a large following on campus.

The Slip is the first of three big-name acts. World-renowned musician Baba Plack describes them as "analog jazz, an act between [Pat] Metheny and [Bill] Frisell." The band formed at the Berklee College of Music in Boston and has played together since then with a mixture of acts. According to the All Music Guide, their most recent album has been compared to the likes of Brian Eno and the Velvet Underground with strong hints of 12-string arrangements. The garage rock band broke into the mainstream scene when their song "The Rat," which was produced on the debut commercials.

The band scene, they frequently sell out venues throughout New England and all across the country.

Fever Pitch: A Basic Hit

By JASON RICE

Rise Above

I wanted that my loyalty to the Yankees wouldn't make watching Fever Pitch unwatchable. However, the new Family's brother's movie Yankee-finally serious mostly avoids commenting on the rivalry between the Boston and New York baseball teams. Fever Pitch, an adaptation of the novel by Nick Hornby follows Ben (Jimmy Fallon) and Lindsey (Drew Barrymore) as they try to put aside their obsession in order to make their relationship work.

Ben seems to have the more consuming addiction, which has him playing the Red Sox before all other things in his life specifically, he puts it "before breathe-ing and eating." Lindsey, on the other hand, is far from perfect with her workaholic tendencies.

Although it is initially hard to adjust to Drew Barrymore falling in love with a leading man not portrayed by Adam Sandler, Jiminy Fillon fills his goofy yet adorable shoes easily. In fact, I even venturer that it is refreshing to see someone else do the familiar. Ben and Lindsey have great chemistry, and the audience can't help but agree that mostly to Barrymore and Fillon's acting, and not simply the written characters. The movie appeals to the romantic comedy lover as well as the true baseball fan. Fever Pitch asks the audidence whether it is harder to love someone or a team, especially a team that has given him so little over the years.

When Ben explains the plight of the Red Sox to Lindsey on opening day of the 2004 season, the surrounding fans help him illustrate the pain and torment of the Boston fans, including the brutal realities of Billy Buckelew and Rocky "Friggin" Dunn. For one, the Sox fans don't sound hard, but simply like die-hard fans who stick by their team through the good, the bad and the ugly. Ben's obsession has possessed him to wallpaper his bedroom in Red Sox patterns, reconstruct the Green Monster in his living room, and have absolutely no life during the baseball season. As a schoolteacher, Ben's career conveniently caters to baseball season, which peaks in the summer. But suddenly, he must somehow accommodate his love for Lindsey in the midst of his overwhelming worship of the Sox.

At first Lindsey's corporate job (one can't help but see her as the metaphorical "Yankee" with an empire-building career) is too much for him. However, when his Green Monster runs, an airbrush session with various tries options — be sure to bring a few extra dollars. Solaris tickets will be on sale from 12-1 at exactly the price paid for them by SAC. They will be cheap, so stock up.

The closing act for the day will be Virginia Coalition, the band that received an overwhelming majority of votes on the CamelWeb poll. VaCo, as they are known to the fans, played at Green last year in Easter Weekend. They too come from the D.C. area (Northern Virginia), and attended high school together. VaCo combines aspects of rock, funk, and go-go music. The band is known for their high energy and engaging live shows.

Finally, sophomore Window Poster will be spearheading a new feature this year — a DJ tent. Poster is finalized plans to have student DJs mix for a few hours during the day to offer yet another alternative to the main stage attraction.

On top of the bands, Floralia will have a more local business presence as an obstacle course, and finish with an artist on site for those who wish to have a physical reminder of the moment. To top it all off, there will be an ice cream truck with various treat options — be sure to bring a few extra dollars. Solaris tickets will be on sale from 12-1 at exactly the price paid for them by SAC. They will be cheap, so stock up.

See page two for detailed information about our policies regarding letters.

"Voice" your opinion! Write a letter to the Voice.

see page two for detailed information about our policies regarding letters.
Habitat Students Participate In Annual Live-In

Erin O'Brien

On Friday, April 22nd members of the Connecticut College chapter of Habitat for Humanity set up cardboard boxes on Larrabee Green for their third annual "Live-In," a reminder of poverty housing in America as well as in the world. Tim Ley, an incoming senior and president of Habitat for Humanity International, said, "It's very much like a walk-a-thon, where individual participants function[es] very much like a walk-a-thon box every night of the year." The Live-In, required support from various members of the campus community. For instance, the Outing Club lent Habitat members their supply of heavy-duty sleeping bags for the night.

Ley remarked on Habitat's efforts in getting the whole campus involved in the project. Habitat wanted to get as many people and groups involved, so that the student body and organizations would look at this as a collaborative effort and feel proud that we pulled together in an effort to fight poverty in the world.

In addition to receiving support from outside clubs, Habitat members also helped other campus organizations that were involved in Earth Day and Blackout Night during the same weekend.

Ley mentioned also that by sleeping outside, Habitat members' dorm rooms did not use any electricity Friday night in the spirit of Blackout Night.

The Live-In has received a total of $2,000 thus far, but Ley remarked that Habitat is still expecting further donations in the upcoming weeks. Moreover, Habitat members plan to fund the rest of the cost for their Cambodia project through remaining funds from last year's Live-In.

Ley said that Habitat members plan to continue the Live-In tradition every year. "We hope, however, not to continue the tradition of rain, which has occurred for the third year in a row," Ley added.

Students Elect Class Representatives

continued from page 1

Moira Wenner, when she graduated from Connecticut College last year, chose the Student Activities Council (SAC) over the Tufts Student Government because, as she said, "I just did not want to be part of that image. It was never about power, but about being...active in Tufts student life..." Wenner's experiences at Tufts reinforced her decision. "I love Tufts," she said, "but I'm glad I don't have to spend all my time in the Student Center..."

Senior elections are an especially important time for the College because, as she said, "Tufts is such a small community..." Wenner was elected chair of Tufts SAC in 2004, and is now running for her second term. There are five students running for the four positions on Tufts SAC, each with a different platform, but all with the goal of making the College the best place it can be.

"If you're everything, you're nothing," Wenner said. "Everyone cares about the Tufts Center and the Multicultural Center, but nobody really cares about the Student Activities Center. Nobody cares about the undergraduate council, but everybody cares about getting a good education, a good experience, being able to be involved in student life and the community."

Wenner is running on the ticket that includes senior co-presidents Anne O'Brien (English) and Kim O'Donnell (Economics), as well as junior co-presidents Mike Coughlin (Economics) and Pauline Pillay (Economics). O'Brien and Coughlin have been involved in Tufts SAC for their entire college careers, and Pillay and O'Donnell are new to Tufts SAC but are already active on campus in other organizations.

"I think that if you look at the candidates on the other ticket, which consists of three seniors and a junior, it's clear that they are running on a 'do not do anything' platform," Wenner said. "What's great about Tufts SAC is that we work with administrators and do big projects...and we're not afraid to make mistakes."

Students suggest that Wenner and her ticket are the candidates who would be most likely to make a difference on Tufts campus.

In addition to Wenner, the candidates on the Wenner ticket are running on a platform that includes a focus on the Tufts Center and the Multicultural Center. They also plan to make the SAC more accessible to students, and to increase student involvement in SAC-sponsored events.

"I think students are tired of SAC meetings," Wenner said. "They just want to know about what's going on, and what it means to them..." Wenner said that the Wenner ticket would work to make SAC more accessible to students, and to increase student involvement in SAC-sponsored events.

"I think students are tired of SAC meetings," Wenner said. "They just want to know about what's going on, and what it means to them..." Wenner said that the Wenner ticket would work to make SAC more accessible to students, and to increase student involvement in SAC-sponsored events.

"I think students are tired of SAC meetings," Wenner said. "They just want to know about what's going on, and what it means to them..." Wenner said that the Wenner ticket would work to make SAC more accessible to students, and to increase student involvement in SAC-sponsored events.

"I think students are tired of SAC meetings," Wenner said. "They just want to know about what's going on, and what it means to them..." Wenner said that the Wenner ticket would work to make SAC more accessible to students, and to increase student involvement in SAC-sponsored events.

"I think students are tired of SAC meetings," Wenner said. "They just want to know about what's going on, and what it means to them..." Wenner said that the Wenner ticket would work to make SAC more accessible to students, and to increase student involvement in SAC-sponsored events.

"I think students are tired of SAC meetings," Wenner said. "They just want to know about what's going on, and what it means to them..." Wenner said that the Wenner ticket would work to make SAC more accessible to students, and to increase student involvement in SAC-sponsored events.

"I think students are tired of SAC meetings," Wenner said. "They just want to know about what's going on, and what it means to them..." Wenner said that the Wenner ticket would work to make SAC more accessible to students, and to increase student involvement in SAC-sponsored events.

"I think students are tired of SAC meetings," Wenner said. "They just want to know about what's going on, and what it means to them..." Wenner said that the Wenner ticket would work to make SAC more accessible to students, and to increase student involvement in SAC-sponsored events.

"I think students are tired of SAC meetings," Wenner said. "They just want to know about what's going on, and what it means to them..." Wenner said that the Wenner ticket would work to make SAC more accessible to students, and to increase student involvement in SAC-sponsored events.

"I think students are tired of SAC meetings," Wenner said. "They just want to know about what's going on, and what it means to them..." Wenner said that the Wenner ticket would work to make SAC more accessible to students, and to increase student involvement in SAC-sponsored events.

"I think students are tired of SAC meetings," Wenner said. "They just want to know about what's going on, and what it means to them..." Wenner said that the Wenner ticket would work to make SAC more accessible to students, and to increase student involvement in SAC-sponsored events.

"I think students are tired of SAC meetings," Wenner said. "They just want to know about what's going on, and what it means to them..." Wenner said that the Wenner ticket would work to make SAC more accessible to students, and to increase student involvement in SAC-sponsored events.

"I think students are tired of SAC meetings," Wenner said. "They just want to know about what's going on, and what it means to them..." Wenner said that the Wenner ticket would work to make SAC more accessible to students, and to increase student involvement in SAC-sponsored events.

"I think students are tired of SAC meetings," Wenner said. "They just want to know about what's going on, and what it means to them..." Wenner said that the Wenner ticket would work to make SAC more accessible to students, and to increase student involvement in SAC-sponsored events.

"I think students are tired of SAC meetings," Wenner said. "They just want to know about what's going on, and what it means to them..." Wenner said that the Wenner ticket would work to make SAC more accessible to students, and to increase student involvement in SAC-sponsored events.

"I think students are tired of SAC meetings," Wenner said. "They just want to know about what's going on, and what it means to them..." Wenner said that the Wenner ticket would work to make SAC more accessible to students, and to increase student involvement in SAC-sponsored events.
Top 10 Animals a Camel Could Kill in a Fight

10. Lemur
9. Guppy
8. Lemming
7. Mole
6. Yak
5. Llama
4. Bearmel!
3. Skunk
2. Liger (bred for its skills in magic)
1. Sloth

Camel Curiosity

There's a Camel's Hump State Park in Vermont's Green Mountains.

Camel Quote

"I have absolutely no empathy for camels. I didn't care for being abused in the Middle East by those horrible, horrible, horrible creatures. They don't like people. It's not at all like the relationship between horses and humans"

-Actress Rachel Weisz
Many of the recent articles published seem to be all about getting people to view an article of an ephemeral bias. Many students only want to learn about the current course of the economy, but though, is that learning about other cultures really deeper in understanding of one's own. We live in a world where the people of the world are connected; our community at large acknowledges our responsibility to get to know people from other places who may share our world. The editorial contains specific projects that the student body needs to understand about affirmative action in the era of unprecedented diversity. All American students and not just African American national or any two race called courses that are internationally awarded in the same curriculum that reflects a diversity of educational and personal experiences. The permission to write is merely one section of the world which. The statement of the literature includes everything, from the perspective of the reader. I would like to take this opportunity to address some concerns that are rising and can be tied black students!! Asian students are equal, he gets the benefit of the doubt here. I am equal, he gets the benefit of the doubt here. I am equal, he gets the benefit of the doubt here. However, this is a weak distinction. Conn should be pouring every cent that we can into improving the relationships between and among students and faculty. This diversity has never been achieved equally if not more lessons are embraced by the students and staff. Learning about other cultures is not that difficult. It is merely allowing our students to have the opportunity to learn about the myriad of cultures in the United States that are very much part of the 20th century world. It is not possible to understand people with different backgrounds and experiences. There is no way around that. But is it not possible to understand how they were going to do this. This is the classic "dumbing down" thesis. I interpret that statement to mean that learning about one's own culture, a true understanding of one's own. It is not possible to understand people with different backgrounds and experiences. There is no way around that. But is it not possible to understand how they were going to do this.
Men's Lacrosse Splits NESCAC Games
Driscoll Named Camel Of The Week

The Camels' 3-2 victory Saturday over Colby was a much-needed win for the team, as they have struggled to find consistency this season.

Driscoll Named Camel Of The Week

Senior goalie Hunter Driscoll was named Camel of the Week after leading the Camels to a 3-2 victory over Colby. Driscoll made 10 saves in the game, including three in the final 90 seconds to preserve the Camels' lead.

The Camels regained their winning ways in the opening five minutes of the second half, as they scored three goals in a row to take a 5-2 lead. The Jumbos, however, scored the next two to cut the lead to 6-4, but Conn's defense held tough to secure the win.

The Camels' victory came against NESCAC rival Colby, and it was their first win of the season against a conference opponent. Despite starting the season with four straight losses, the Camels have shown resilience and are not giving up on their chances for a successful season.

Women's Lacrosse Playing Strong Late

The Camels' defense has been a key to their success, allowing just 18.6 goals per game this season. This is the lowest goals allowed per game in the NESCAC this season, and it has helped Conn to climb the standings.

The Camels' defense has been a key to their success, allowing just 18.6 goals per game this season. This is the lowest goals allowed per game in the NESCAC this season, and it has helped Conn to climb the standings.

Reasons Why I Like American Sports

Many other duos will report to the scouting combine this year, including the top prospects in the NFL Draft. It's an exciting time for football fans, and there will be plenty of action to follow as the prospects make their way through the Combine and on to the NFL.

The NFL Draft is a Great Event

The NFL Draft is a highly anticipated event for football fans, as it marks the beginning of a new chapter for the team and the players. The draft is a time for celebration and reflection, as the teams prepare for the upcoming season and the players look forward to the opportunity to play at the highest level.

Football fans will be glued to their TVs as the teams make their picks, and they will be watching closely to see which players will make the biggest impact for their teams. It's an exciting time, and there will be plenty of action to follow as the teams continue to build their rosters for the upcoming season.

Reasons Why I Like American Sports

Many other duos will report to the scouting combine this year, including the top prospects in the NFL Draft. It's an exciting time for football fans, and there will be plenty of action to follow as the prospects make their way through the Combine and on to the NFL.

The NFL Draft is a Great Event

The NFL Draft is a highly anticipated event for football fans, as it marks the beginning of a new chapter for the team and the players. The draft is a time for celebration and reflection, as the teams prepare for the upcoming season and the players look forward to the opportunity to play at the highest level.

Football fans will be glued to their TVs as the teams make their picks, and they will be watching closely to see which players will make the biggest impact for their teams. It's an exciting time, and there will be plenty of action to follow as the teams continue to build their rosters for the upcoming season.

The NFL Draft is a Great Event

The NFL Draft is a highly anticipated event for football fans, as it marks the beginning of a new chapter for the team and the players. The draft is a time for celebration and reflection, as the teams prepare for the upcoming season and the players look forward to the opportunity to play at the highest level.

Football fans will be glued to their TVs as the teams make their picks, and they will be watching closely to see which players will make the biggest impact for their teams. It's an exciting time, and there will be plenty of action to follow as the teams continue to build their rosters for the upcoming season.

The NFL Draft is a Great Event

The NFL Draft is a highly anticipated event for football fans, as it marks the beginning of a new chapter for the team and the players. The draft is a time for celebration and reflection, as the teams prepare for the upcoming season and the players look forward to the opportunity to play at the highest level.

Football fans will be glued to their TVs as the teams make their picks, and they will be watching closely to see which players will make the biggest impact for their teams. It's an exciting time, and there will be plenty of action to follow as the teams continue to build their rosters for the upcoming season.
Why I Like American Sports

GERALD WOLS

Int’l Man Of Sport

continued on page 9

Sports

Why The NFL Draft Is Great

I love drafts. When I was in high school, I would watch the NFL Draft in its entirety and memorize every pick each and every year. After the draft we would then pres- ent to have a draft of our own. I think the most incredible draft is probably the NFL Draft. I love drafts. When I was in high school, I would watch the NFL Draft in its entirety and memorize every pick each and every year. After the draft we would then present to have a draft of our own. Instead of the NFL Draft, we would create a draft of our own, which would be How The NFL Draft Is Great

SPORTS

June 24, 2005 • Page 10

Men’s Tennis

Women’s Tennis

Women’s Lacrosse

Walters

Women’s Tennis

Women’s Tennis

Women’s Tennis

Why The NFL Draft Is Great

NFL Draft is Great

Sports

Why The

NFL Draft Is

Great