American Student Union Organized On Campus Today

Holds First Meeting This Afternoon in the Commuter's Room

BY MARGARET BEAR '38

To promote a student demonstration against war is the first project of the newly organized Connecticut chapter of the American Student Union, a federation composed of student chapters throughout the United States and Canada. More than two million college members.

The first meeting, which will not receive financial benefit under the Blasket tax but will be run independently, will be a membership drive. Tickets of fifty cents per year, will be held this afternoon at five o'clock in the Commuter's Room.

Wednesday afternoon, April 30, the anniversary of the declaration of war against Spain in 1898, marks the opening of national anti-war week in which students all over the United States will strike simultaneously against what they believe to be the war menace to world civilization. Although plans for our part in this activity are not completely complete, the committee definitely decided that Chapel period for that day will end with a prayer, said by Miss Kelly, and will be devoted to pertinent discussion.

Frances Wheeler, who started the same movement in the Washington school where she attended last year, has been instrumental in the founding of the Connecticut college branch.

The Connecticut Student Union has been described as "an intercollegiate movement which deals with all questions which affect the international scene."

Frances Walker '38, is Elected Next Quarterly Editor

The announcement of Frances Walker '38, as the new Editor-in-Chief of Quarterly was made at a tea given yesterday afternoon in Jane Addams for the new members of the Quarterly board. Other members of the staff include:

Margaret Ball '38, Managing Editor; Carol Moore '38, Junior Editors; Ruth Gill '40 and Dorothy Rowland '46, Sophomore Editors; Caroline Neil '38 and Eunice Poulson, Summer Review Editors; Eugenia Dick '38, Business Manager; Hazel Sundt '38, Features Manager; Elizabeth Fielding '38, Circulation Manager.

Guests at the tea included members of this year's staff and a few faculty members who have been particularly interested in Quarterly: Dean Burdick, Miss Gillette, Miss Van Tuyle, Dr. Smith, adviser for Quarterly, and Dr. Jensen. Plans are being made for the old staff and the new to collaborate in the final issues which will appear in May.

Convocation Brings Robert Frost, Poet, As Guest Speaker

Robert Frost, celebrated author of North of Boston and numerous other poetry collections, will read his poems before students and faculty members at the Connecticut Convocation which will be held on Tuesday afternoon, April 20th.

Anticipating a large attendance, Miss Margaret Kelly, a member of the Chemistry department, and chairman in charge of arrangements for Convocation, has prepared a plan for admission by ticket only to this particular meeting.

This plan, which has not yet been fully worked out, will consist in the issuance of envelopes to students desiring tickets. These envelopes must be addressed by the student to herself and returned to the A. A. box in Fanning where they will be collected at half-hour intervals. After tickets and envelopes are collected, they will be placed in the students' mailboxes.

For this reason it is important that girls do not forget to write their mailboxes numbers on the envelope. "We shall be able to tell who has them only as long as they last, and since there are more students than envelopes, those who send in their envelopes the sooner will have the best chance", said Miss Kelly.

Further information concerning the method for securing seats will be made known on the Fanning bulletin boards.

Seven Departments of C. C. To Be Represented by Students

The Student Scientists' conference, the annual meeting of science students of the college in Connecticut, will be held at Connecticut State College, Storrs, Conn, on April 17, 1937.

The conference is entirely a student project and is run by students for students. The aim of the conference is to increase knowledge and ideas of scientific value.

The conference will be modeled after the meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. It has been found that regular meetings aid the student to keep in touch with the many phases of contemporary research. It is hoped that the student also has the opportunity to see and hear the work that students from other colleges are doing.

Dr. Richard Swann Lull, of Yale University, will be the conference chairman. He is a foremost paleontologist, will be the guest speaker. Dr. Lull is a Fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and the Geological Society of America, as well as being a member of other science groups.

He has been the editor of the American Journal of Science since 1938.

Dr. Lull Opens Conference

Dr. Lull's lecture at 10 a.m. will officially open the conference. Following the talk, the conference will break up into groups listening to student papers, demonstrations and exhibits in all sciences will be given.

Seven departments will be represented from Connecticut College. These include: Biology, zoology, earth sciences and geology, zoology, physics, botany, home economics, and chemistry.

The American Association of University Women organization consists of a chairman of each department, a Junior representative, and a Junior representative. The chairmen are as follows: psychology, M. L. Fertig '38; mathematics, Frances Wallis '37; zoology, Betty Warner '38; physics, Catherine Warner '39; Botany, Evelyn Anderson '38; home economics, Dorothy Bartlett. '38, and chemistry, Elizabeth Cherry '38, Milla Rindge '39, the Senior representative, and the Junior representative is Gertrude Bates '38.

Peace Patter

Antiwar Week

Admiral Byrd, in launching the spring drive of the Emergency Peace Campaign on April 6, said, "The object of our No-Peace Week Crusade is to provide an effective antidote to the contagious war fever that sweeps peace-loving people into offensive foreign wars." Our purpose in Connecticut in joining students all over the world in Anti-War Week—April 19-24—is to provide this antidote through a thorough definition and understanding of a workable and lasting peace and an intelligent analysis of all of the war forces that are integrated in the national and international scene today. If this is to be anything more than superficial, we of the International Relations Club and the American Student Union ask the cooperation of the entire student body.

It is your responsibility to see that we make full use of our program and then demonstrate your conscientious intention to work for peace in the April 22nd nation-wide student Strike Against War. Hysteresis for peace is no way to support hysteresis for war. Watch for the student meetings and speakers during anti-war week.

Signs of Spring

Seniors touting around in anything from a smooth-looking 1937 Ford with rubberized floor mats and siren horns and arms which reveal too much eagerness to return from southern climes at least ten shades darker. Newly acquired jewelry in the forms of rings and fraternity pins. Sunday visitors. No more Senior waitresses. Peep frogs starting up at a great rate in Bullockwood. Fog and fog-horns in the distance. Rain storms that come disguised under the name of April showers. A carton of genuine Planter's Punch, straight from Jamaica. New wardrobes. Meetings. White shoes so new that it hurts to look directly at them. Golf enthusiasts in overcoats and mittens. No more eagerness to return from balmy nights. Spring fever. Sighs from library workers which feels and looks strangely like snow. Crowd in the Arboretum of a thousand people. Sunbathers. To and from class. Interviews for that last meeting. Spring houseparties already in the making. Petitions and signatures. Betraying officers presiding at their last meetings. "Our hearts to you, our hands to you." Open windows. Nights which smell strangely like spring, if you really stop to think about it. Something which feels and looks strangely like snow. Sights from library workers on balmy nights. Spring fever. Lawn mowers. Sunglasses. Junior Prom invites in the mail. Colleens. Strollers in and from class. Crowds in the Arboraeum of a warm weekend afternoon.

Answers on Page 8
From now on, going to Vespers will be purely voluntary for the students. This new system, called the "tag" system in Amalgamation meeting last Tuesday, April 6, in the gymnasium, was voted on to: to retain the system of compulsory attendance once a month to have the tag system in effect on Sunday, any type of compulsory system entirely. The new system was voted on in favor of the three of the three, Elizabeth Fessenden '39, argued in favor of retention of the compulsory system. She stated, "It is too bad to go to Vespers compulsory system." She pointed out that good speakers are sure to attract the students, and that "with a little scolding, people would get more interested." Other Students Speak Winifred Nies '38, who spoke in favor of the "tag" system, explained, "We have a compulsory system to make us see how valuable Vespers are. Vespers is a compulsory system to be tried for a while so that students could realize how well the tag system is working, and then vote on whether to continue it or not." The tapping system was also debated by the students and the faculty at the meeting. During the elections, however, books to be left were left to the discretion of the students in which the elections are to be held.

Margaret McConnell read a letter from Mr. Colin S. Buel, secretary of the Board of Trustees of Barnard College, in which the Board thanked the students for having donated $7,000 to Barnard's junior college.

Since the elections are to start soon, Betty Gilbert explained the rules of the election this year and the meeting closed with a tribute to the students by Margaret McConnell.

Returning to college on the train, we saw the girls, who had spent their vacations in Florida, looking very sun-burned.

Ruth Hall was a student from Duke quite changed by the Southern sun.

Dottie Rewand was still bubbling with excitement about the wonderful time she had with a Harvard man during Easter. Memories linger from one vacation to the next.

Who is the latest competitor for the attentions of the leading lady of "Dover Road"?

Could it be that distance lends enchantment to Jane Young and her George called the girls at Cape-land from the Stork Club before vacation?

After this vacation, Frankee Turner has decided that it is all. All of which goes to show that she is running true to form with a different love each vacation. It's peculiar how old loves return.

Margaret Abel brought forth a delicious looking angel food cake which everyone fell in love with. On the train?

Three full course meals, with seconds on dessert if desired is the new diet endorsed by Mary Coppes and Harriet Smart. Their prescription for a perfect 24.

What Junior on the late bus Saturday night made a remark which caused many ears to turn red for some unknown reason.

Could it be because distance lends enchantment that Betty MacMahon has a peculiar love each vacation. It's peculiar how old loves return.

And there is the Junior who fell in love with Mr. Logan accompanied by friend Norma Bloom lives in Cleveland. Those all in the interest of science.

The Newsmen's Rejoice Over Recent Gift

Mosierites Rejoice Over Recent Gift

By Janet Marsh '40

If you, too, are interested in the New London significance of the name "New," you will be interested in the stories that have been pieced together to form the quaint little local history that is still related to London in one phase, if not other—relation being the fog.

From the first days of September, the moodier days of the overcast sky. The Freshmen arrive at college prepared for sunny autumn weather but two days hence the New London-Navy store is doing a rushing business in rubber-boots and slickers. October and November are the months of equinoxal rains. The chilled wind brings gales of water over the unprotected campus. The November rains change to December snowstorms, but New London, not to be undaunted, has this year substituted her winter finery to a true "London fog." Skis, skates, and ski-suits are returned home in the same manner they are sent as the first March winds blow over the hill.

Students turn hopefully to the approaching spring days. They realize that May flowers need no other—this relation being the fog.

The roles are as follows:

Spring Play, to be given May 15, is called as follows: Katharine, Kathryn Chatten '38; Luba, Mary Elizabeth Schutter '40; and the male characters, played by members of various New London players' organizations, are Captain Blintshli, Jules Racine; Nicola, Pen Jones; Major Pettick, Jack Emmon; Officer, Elmer Watson; Stewart, Stewart Witty.

PEACE PLAY

MOTHER Earth and Her Children. A short, one-act peace play by Barbara Abel, will be presented on Tuesday evening, April 27, under the auspices of the International Relations Club, the Peace Group, and Wig and Candida. Those taking parts are Mary Textside '40, Margaret Evans '40, and Marion Grabin.

COMMENCEMENT PLAY

The Commencement Play this year will consist of several scenes from Shakespearean drama, presented by Wig and Candida with the assistance of the Senior Class. It will be given on Saturday, June 12, after the class day exercises. In addition to the parts of the program, there will be a presentation by Miss Harthurn and her dance group. Any college student wishing to take part in the Commencement Play is asked to see Miss Ray during the next week.

Excerpt From Enthusiastic Letter Writer

"But of course you're going to the costume dance! It's in Knowlton April 24th, and is going to look like a gathering of the nations because it's an international party. I can't decide whether to go as a peasant in one of those intriguing dirndlts or a Scotch what-have-you, or possibly an Eskimo outfit, but I'm keeping in mind the prize for the prettiest costume. It's all to raise money for the Student Friendship Fund and the admission's only twenty-five cents a person. You can wear street dress and your escort won't be wearing evening clothes anyway. But the idea is simply swell and the Grand March for judging costumes absolutely demands something unusual. Maybe the atlas has countries where people wear old clothes, and there's always the Dutch costume I had years back. Anyway, I'll get a costume in some form. Specifically since we thought of asking our dates to an international dinner first. See you in Knowlton on the 24th, in costume."
R. C. Proposes More Student Assemblies

Because of the recent decision at the Amalgamation meeting concerning Vespers, a committee of the Religious Council will, on Tuesday afternoon, consider a plan for making the daily Chapel services more interesting to students. There will be a greater number of student-conducted assemblies which will take various forms every other week between now and June. In the Fall, there will be an opportunity for all Freshmen and Transfers with various passions and interests to participate in the planning of these services.

A long hour before the inconvenient alarm told her that it was time for home economics class. By this time she had succeeded! Nothing could convince her that a home ec. lecture was quite as necessary to her as her sleep. Why hadn’t everyone always told her that health comes first? She settled down again and this time disregarded the alarm, falling even to set it. That evening she had a date.

7:00 o’clock the next morning. A shrill alarm went off. Our goon was out of bed like a light, turning off the alarm. She stood for a moment, considering. Today she had a real reason for not attending classes; she had had only six and one-half hours of sleep and she felt lousy. Like cigarette smoking this cutting policy came to be a habit.

When she returned home in June the local newspaper printed the following story: "Miss A. Goon has returned home permanently from Connecticut College where she has finished its two year course."
