PRICE FIVE CENTS

ONE ACT PLAYS WILL BE PRESENTED ON APRIL 27th BY 3 GROUPS

Students, Faculty and Coast Guard Will Give Performances in Turn

HAVE BEEN SPONSORED BY SPEECH STUDENTS FOR SCHOLARSHIP FUND

On Friday, April 27, at 8:00, three one-act plays sponsored by the Speech students for the benefit of the Student Scholarship Fund, will be given. Admission will be 50 cents.

The casts of the plays, which are being coached by Miss Cockrill of the Speech department, are as follows:

Overtures, by Alice Gerstenburg, to be given by the students.

Harriet	Betty Waterman
Hetty	Francis Ellison
Margaret	Allison Rush
Maggie	Mary Blatchford

Suppressed Desires, by Susan Glaspell, to be given by the faculty.

Mabel	Miss Ebert
Henrietta	Miss Oakes
Steve	Mr. Kinsey

In the Zone, by Eugene O'Neill, to be given by the Coast Guard Cadets.

Swanson	Cadet Hurley
Cockey	Cadet Young

Paul	Cadet McIntosh
Davis	Cadet Williamson
Scotty	Cadet Couser
Driscoll	Cadet Carr
Smitty	Cadet Dudley
Jack	Cadet Henderson
Stage Manager	Cadet Couser.
Property Man	Cadet Ainsworth.

The Play Production Group is in charge of properties, make-up and lighting for the three plays.

Exactly 150 students and three professors at Akron University signed a petition in which they agreed to commit mass suicide by decapitation February 27. The college editors pulled the stunt to see how many would sign a document before reading it.

What America really needs is a Dictator of Speech, according to Dr. James F. Bender, of the College of the City of New York faculty, who has just completed a survey of the speech defects of screen stars.

Scholarship application blanks for 1934-35 may be obtained from Miss Smith in the President's Office.

All applications must be returned to her on or before May 15th.

A DISCUSSION ON WORLD PEACE IS HELD HERE

Students Present Their Views on The Subject

BETH FLANDERS PRESIDES

On Thursday morning, April 12, a discussion was held during chapel, on the possible means for achieving world peace. This meeting was called in behalf of the anti-war action, taking place all over the country. The speakers were introduced by Elizabeth Flanders, '34, president of the International Relations Club. She urged that discussions and questions come from the audience, when the speakers had expressed their viewpoints.

The first speaker was Barbara Meaker, '34, who spoke on "International Cooperation". She said that the League of Nations had greatly weakened, and thus it showed the need for something new. Averting war will be a long process, but this process must be long, if peace is to endure. The peace conferences, which have been held, failed, because each country was grabbing for himself. She stressed the point that we will succeed in our peace movement, only if we give authority to men who want peace. Arma-

WEIGHT DANCE TO BE GIVEN IN KNOWLTON

Service League Prepares For a Novel Way of Admission

APRIL 28th IS DATE SET

The International Student Dance to be given on Saturday, April 28, is for the purpose of securing enough money so that we may have a foreign student on the campus next year. This dance is sponsored by the International Relations Club.

The Committees in charge of the dance are: Beth Flanders, Chairman; Lena Waldecker, Head of Waitresses; Elizabeth Farnum, Head of Publicity; and Marion Bliley, Head of Decorations.

The Chaperons are Dr. and Mrs. Leib, Dr. Roach, Dr. and Mrs. Lawrence and Dean Burdick.

The waitresses are to be dressed in foreign costumes and the foreign idea is to be carried out throughout the entire dance.

President Blunt has been kind enough to arrange means by which the foreign student will attend classes and have her meals free of charge. This dance is to obtain money for her room on campus. We all agree that the world needs more international relations of a peaceful sort and this is indeed a fine way to carry out this idea.

The dance will be 50 cents for the girls and a charge of one-half a cent for each pound the man weighs is charged for her escort. It is to be a formal dance in Knowlton Salon at eight o'clock.

A course in soap sculpture has been included in the new curriculum of Westminster College. It is a non-credit course.

Gate crashing in theaters at Berkeley after the University of California is a thing of the past. Fourteen police dogs will guard the doors of four Berkeley theaters.

MR. WM. BAUER, ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR OF MUSIC AT C. C. DIES AT 53

Dr. Erb of Music Dept. Writes Appreciation of Dr. Bauer, the Man

WAS GIVEN THE HONORARY DEGREE OF MASTER OF ARTS BY C. C. IN '25

In the death of William Bauer, Associate Professor of Music, Connecticut College has lost another of the devoted group of Faculty members who saw the beginnings of the institution and have been connected with it ever since. Whatever Connecticut College has become, is due to the intelligent planning and faithful service of the faculty and administration through the years. In a very real sense, therefore, Mr. Bauer has played an important part in making this College the institution which we love and which the world respects, for its high achievement; and, at its best, the College reflects the qualities which made students and his fellow faculty-members admire him.

We think of him first as a musician, for it was in that capacity that everybody on the campus knew him. His long and dignified service in connection with the daily Chapel exercises, the frequent and highly enjoyable appearances as soloist and accompanist, the uniformly excellent showing of his pupils kept him before us as one who contributed in generous measure to the beauty and inspiration of campus life. And he was a musician of parts—thoroughly schooled in the best American and European traditions, possessed of a brilliant and facile technique, good taste and keen intelligence, his performances were invariably on a high plane. There was nothing shabby or shoddy about his work. His inflexible devotion to the highest ideals made him an exacting and inspiring teacher; but, still more, a stern critic of his own work. Cheapness or sensationalism had no place in his musical philosophy. His unflagging search for the best made him a force for musical righteousness which has been of incalculable value to us and has done much to create and maintain the excellent reputation which the Music Department has always borne. His generosity in giving of his art was one of his

Prizes

On the bulletin boards of the various departments, certain notices have been posted for some time, telling of prizes to be given C. C. students for proficiency in certain specific fields. This list is a fairly representative one. Under the English department, the Theodore Bodenwein Prize for the best newspaper article, the Sarah Ensign Cady Memorial Prize for excellence in English speech, and the Norwich Poetry Prize are offered. The Art department has the Jane Bill Prize; Music, the Bryan F. Mahan Memorial Prize; Botany, the Comstock Prize; Bible, the Acheson Prizes; Mathematics, the Surpluss Prize; French, the Savard Prize; Economics, the Business and Professional Women's Club of New London Prize; Education and Economics, Prizes by Connecticut State Federation of A. A. U. W. Branches and College Club.

From time to time undoubtedly, we have looked at the prerequisites for these prizes and have intended to try out for one relating to our particular interest. Probably we have not noted the dates very carefully. Lately we have been reminded by some of our professors that the dates for contributions or try-outs are not far distant and that we should get busy if we intend to compete.

Many of these prizes have been offered to C. C. students for a period of years and undoubtedly will continue to be given if sufficient interest is shown. There have been other prizes offered in the past which have been dropped because of lack of competition on the part of students or for reasons personal to the donator. Certainly we would not care to have this present list diminish.

Rather we would like to add to the number.

The idea back of the offering of prizes is not so much the giving of money as of gaining honor through testing. A true test can be had only by participation of many. We may feel that we have no chance of winning. This feeling need not stop us from trying out, however. Whether we win or lose, we have gained something whether it be material or immaterial. We have gained a further estimate of ourselves. Therefore, let us have a greater response, and show to the donors an appreciation of these prizes.

Five Student Types

Analyzing college students has become a popular pastime for critics of higher education, and with their findings one group attacks the methods of education, and another attacks the numbers being educated. As good a classification of students as we've yet heard was expressed during an informal talk by Dean Wayne Morse, of the law school, the other evening.

Five types of students enter the halls of learning, points out Dean Morse. The first type includes the student who is just plain indifferent. He goes to college without knowing why; his folks foot the bill. He seldom questions what his professors put forth, though economic fears may prompt these dispensers of learning to withhold the obvious if it seems a bit daring. He gets his degree and becomes one of the millions.

The constitutional conservative falls into the second group. He finds comfort in the status quo; why should he argue and dream and plan and strive for change? The here and now is its own defense and justification. This group is quite often well versed in history or literature, but dynamic conclusions are not in the nature of its members.

Third in the list is the hedonist, unconsciously so, for he does not know hedonism is a philosophy. He knows "pleasure and pain" as the leading motives of life, he seeks the one and avoids the other. He it is who gives the administration occasional trouble and must be reprimanded or sent to another environment.

Fourth group is the idealist and crusader. He is the most forceful of college students. He is the leader of leagues and protest movements; he embraces the cause of freedom and justice. He is never at rest, and no ideal is too impractical for his support.

And lastly, there is the critical realist. He is the doubter and skeptic, the eternal asker of questions. He is the "why" student. He has the courage to disagree, the energy and mental discipline necessary for practical affairs. He knows how to use the intellectual tools necessary in any directed attack on the social problems of the day. Too often, however, he lacks initiative, purpose, the drive that gets things done.

Out of this deficiency comes the suggestion of the union of the last

Ask the girls who went to the "Temperance Convention" at Wesleyan if they had a good time—and don't fail to find out about the exciting discussions that went on long after the regular meetings were over.

Sight-seeing tours seem to be all the rage this year, and as for efficient guides to the familiar places in Boston, there are none better than a certain group of Juniors who will show you around, rain or shine. P. S. Put strings on your berets if you don't want to reach there hatless.

Unless you wish to be rated rather low on I. Q., don't go rocking back and forth in class or smiling to yourself or someone will come up from behind and say "Hmm! That's just what feeble-minded people are apt to do—are you sure you belong in college?" Perhaps the cure might be to start them rocking too, by the power of suggestion.

The newest method of hair-dressing is done, so I'm told by the operator's standing on a chair so as to be able to see all parts of the victim's head. Of course, if the victim is decidedly shorter she might stand on the chair herself. Or it could be done by mirrors and wires if neither wanted to so elevate herself.

The most unique collector of the year, we are sure, is the Freshman who takes pigs' eyes from the Zoo. lab. "I'm making a string of beads for my sister," was her only confession on the matter.

Oswald, the pet turtle of Reed House, has disappeared! He pinned a badge on his right shoulder and made his way out into the wide world. Information con-two groups, the critical realist and the idealist or crusader. To hold the idealist down to the practical is the task of the realist; to give purpose to the realist, of the idealist. With any group that successfully uniting these two eminently useful types of student, it is possible to produce surprising results in fields of practical social and political activity. —(Editorial reprinted from The Oregon Emerald.)

The University of Arkansas is well represented in the councils of the State's legislators, for Neal King, a freshman in that institution's school of law, is a member of the House of Representatives of Arkansas. He is but 26 years of age, and has taught in public schools of Arkansas for a number of years.

cerning the P. F. (see Liz for meaning) will be gladly received. When last seen, he was dressed in a sports suit of shabby green. Poor Oswald is only twelve.

May we heave one fond last sigh for Prentice, the house of engagement rings and broken hearts.

What Yale man got the surprise of his life when he opened his suitcase back home? C. C. girls are such devils!

Friends and relatives, beware—there is one among us who takes us at our word! Given the permission to do away with what she considered an undesirable article, she immediately strode to the door and smashed it to a million pieces—whatta woman! Another year abroad and we'd have to take out life insurance.

CAMPUS CHARACTER

She is rather a small person, yet full of energy. Her round cheeks, rounded turn-up chin, and short nose remind one instantly of the kewpies drawn by Rose O'Neil. Her black eyes are always dancing and her black hair shingled and slightly waved usually looks wind-tossed. The proverbial "cheshire cat" grin is invariably present, and her "Hell-o" said in her own characteristic voice—that voice!—one would recognize anywhere. Her real first name is hardly known—instead the name of an actress whom she was thought to resemble, (what gestures) given to her in her freshman year, has stuck to her. In an attempt to "get the jump" on the Juniors at mascot time, she tried to prove that "gentlemen prefer blonds," but the Juniors aren't gentlemen, and still prefer the brunette. Such wit deserved reward!

(NSFA)—With the cooperation of the New Haven Railroad Company, Westinghouse engineers have installed an experimental 5 meter radiophone system on one of the road's regularly operating freight trains. Complete two-way radiophone equipment is installed on both engine and caboose of the train permitting the engineer and brakeman to communicate at all times without difficulty.

"Question with boldness even the existence of a God; because, if there be one, he must more approve of the homage of reason, than that of blindfolded fear."

(The Editors of the News do not hold themselves responsible for the opinions expressed in this column. In order to insure the validity of this column as an organ for the expression of honest opinion, the editor must know the names of contributors.)

Dear Editor:

Some time ago, the subject of having the library open Sunday morning as well as Sunday afternoon was brought up in House Meeting. Since then, we have heard no more about the matter. Has anything been done about it, and if so, what? If we cannot have this privilege, we would like to know why. If we can, isn't it about time that the plan went into effect? Now that spring is here in reality, there is hardly any of us who isn't tempted to sit in the sun, take long walks out-of-doors, or, for the more lucky, take a spin in the car. We are up and doing fairly early in the morning. That is the time of the day when we want to work—not on Sunday afternoon. Therefore, I think that it would be greatly appreciated by the student body as a whole, if we could have this privilege of studying in the Libe Sunday mornings, and if we could have it as soon as possible, so that we might enjoy all the more the warm days.

ALUMNAE NOTES

After three years the C. C. Alumnae Register ceases its ghostly moans and crescendos once again to walk the earth. It is now erasing the last traces of its past, under the capable eye of the printer, and will take up its new public life some time before college closes for the summer. In its still weak state it softly cries: "Don't forget to give three cheers for Miss Moss, our Alumnae Secretary, my guide in this almost superhuman revival."

The State Social Workers Conference will meet at C. C. this month, with several alumnae returning "on business", or perhaps "in (social) conference". Helen Forst, '24, will be here from the State Hospital, where she is a psychiatric social worker. Anna Buell, '23, will also return to campus, these several years having established her as placement officer for the State Department of Social Welfare in Hartford.

The New Jersey chapter of the alumnae held its big meeting of the year at the end of March, at the home of Mrs. Eleanor Vernon, '27, in Montclair. Eight students who will enter C. C. next year were guests. The drawing of the winning ticket for the trip to Bermuda was held, and as a result Matilda Belcher of New London, sister of Marjorie Belcher, '36, spent Easter weed-end under Southern skies.

The Hartford chapter of the alumnae held a meeting April 8, at the home of one of our alumnae Trustees, Janet Crawford How, '24, Miss Kathryn Moss, C. C. Alumnae Secretary, spoke on alumnae activities.

Home Ec. Demonstration Aids New London Women To Plan Balanced Menu

Demonstrations of food preparation in low cost menus to assist women in families where there is no employment are being given in New London by the Home Economics department of Connecticut College. Dr. Margaret Chaney, chairman of the department, is cooperating with the New London Division of Unemployment Relief, the New London chapter of the American Red Cross and other social service agencies, in helping women to obtain the greatest amount of food value for the money supplied them by relief organizations.

Uses of various inexpensive foods including evaporated milk, cereal products, inexpensive cuts of meat and vegetables in season are explained and their cooking demonstrated. The women are instructed in classes of about ten persons. Foods contributed by New London grocers are cooked in the demonstration of the various menus and recipes recommended by Dr. Chaney for their high nutritive value at low cost.

SENIOR-JUNIOR TEA

The Senior-Junior tea will be given on Saturday, April 21st at 3:30 P. M., in Knowlton Salon. Gertrude Tetor, Chairman of the Entertainment Committee of the Senior class, is in charge, and the program will consist of speeches, to be followed by the tea. The faculty guests are to be President Blunt and Dean Nye, in addition to Dean Burdick, Dr. Lawrence and Miss Oakes, honorary members of the Senior class, and Miss Barnard and Dr. Leib, honorary members of the Junior class. All of these guests will speak, with the exception of President Blunt and Miss Barnard.

Among the students who will take part in the program is Mary Seabury, President of the Senior class, who will tell the Juniors of the responsibilities they are to assume upon becoming Seniors. She will also introduce the Senior Faculty members. Marjorie Nicholson, President of the class of 1935, will then say a few words and introduce the Junior Faculty members.

The hostesses for the tea will be Mary Seabury, Marjorie (Continued on page 6, column 2)

DR. H. H. TWEEDY OF YALE STRESSES NEED FOR UNSELFISH LOVE

Tells of Superstitions of the Past and Present

"Now that we are educated and civilized we have put away the beliefs in ghosts, goblins and nymphs—the things of an enchanted world," said Henry H. Tweedy of the Yale Divinity School at Vespers, April 15. We have, however, a new variety of superstitions. Multitudes of well-educated people would a "little rather not" sit at a table for thirteen, or shatter a mirror, or walk under a ladder. Good upright Christian people still believe in such superstitions as the fact that the Lord created the world in six days, and that woman was made from the rib of man. Another ruthless superstition is the prevalent spirit of selfishness. We are headed straight for an Inferno if we do not love with a generous, boundless good will. There are drives in our body that are so strong that they can make us beautiful or evil. Are we then going to cure ourselves of superstitions and become beautiful or follow the "dirty, smutty way"?

The best way to cure ourselves is to follow the heart and the mind of Jesus. He taught us that the love for God and the love for Man is the right way. More than mere emotion of the mystic God is in the first type of love. To gain this type we should start out to make ourselves the finest women possible, and then see the wonderful intangible thing that will happen. We will have a real sense then of the love of God. As for the love for Man, we cannot love everyone, but we can treat them as Jesus did, in a kindly generous way.

Love for God and Man is the only thing which can give us that which our souls crave, and can build us the world we want. Judge Christianity at its highest and best, and "play it" and it will lead to "the most tingling and abiding happiness, and to the heaven every man, woman and child wishes".

Smith College Held Science Conference on Saturday, April 14

CONN. GIRLS TAKE PART IN DEMONSTRATIONS

The Fifteenth Annual Meeting of the Connecticut Valley Student Scientific Conference was held at Smith College on Saturday, April 16. The students were welcomed by an address by Dean Marjorie H. Nicholson of Smith College. A lecture on "Endocrine Influences in Growth and Development," by Doctor Allan Winter Rowe, of Evans Memorial Hospital, followed. Papers in all sciences, demonstrations and continuous exhibits were presented during the day by representatives of the different colleges. Among these Connecticut was well represented. One of the more important lectures was that of Professor Charles P. Berkey of Columbia University on "Central Asia" under the auspices of the Department of Geology.

The Conference will be held at Massachusetts State College next year at approximately the same time of year.

The median score for athletes was 78, and for non-athletes, 82. The slight variation is due to the fact that athletes study less, according to Dr. Billings.—Arizona Wildcat.

PRESIDENT BLUNT TELLS OF ACHIEVEMENTS BY PRESIDENT ELLIOT

Notes Resemblances in C. C.'s and Harvard's Progress

At Chapel, April 17, President Blunt announced that the Memorial Service for Mr. Bauer would be held on Tuesday, April 23, at 5:00. President Blunt also mentioned that the Acheson Bible Prizes, given for so many years to C. C. students by Bishop Acheson who passed away recently, will be continued by Mrs. Acheson.

On March 20, President Blunt was to have spoken on President Elliot of Harvard, whose 100th birthday anniversary was celebrated at that time. Although the exact date has passed, the subject is still of importance, inasmuch as a correlation between the Harvard as it was when President Elliot first came into office and Connecticut College may be made. At that time, Harvard was a college of approximately 600 students and 60 faculty, the same size practically as C. C. Although we have no desire to grow to be as large as Harvard as it now is, we do desire to have certain of the ambitions held by the University during its growth. In the two volumes on the life of President Elliot recently published, certain achievements during his presidency were summarized. One outstanding change was the introduction of a system of electives by which individual stimulation and work might be fostered. All other American universities took up this change in their curriculums following President Elliot's example. Another point brought out related to the remarkable rise of the scholarly quality of professors at Harvard. President Blunt pointed out that in the five years she has been at C. C., the number of professors in rank and doctorates has increased over 50 per cent, salaries increased 14 per cent, and the student body 9 per marked characteristics; and we are all the better for the many performances we were privileged to hear him give.

As a member of the faculty, he was modest and self-effacing. He never exploited himself, never demanded the center of the stage, was little concerned with the applause or other externals that often mean so much to members of the craft. Inclined to conservatism in matters of educational policy, he was always open to suggestion and willing to try any experiment which seemed reasonable or promised to work to the advantage of the student-body or the College as a whole. He was an indefatigable worker, both in the routine of personal preparation and in the investigation of new materials and methods as they appeared.

As a man, he embodied the best attributes of a true gentleman. Modest, kindly, undeviatingly honest, loyal, devoted, he brought to Connecticut College the kind of personality which its friends and admirers would steadfastly seek in those to whom it entrusts the plastic minds and personalities of its students. Incapable of compromise with the mean or low or ignoble, his was an example that, without obtruding itself, made its impress upon the student-body for its good.

It will seem strange—and lonely—not to see his familiar figure or hear the piano or organ speak under his masterly touch. But no one would be so thoughtless as to feel that his influence or his spirit have left his familiar haunts. On the contrary, they are built deep into the very foundations of the College, into the lives of the students and the traditions and the background which so potently shape us all to their pattern. He is gone, but the memory of his personality lingers and the influences for good and beauty and better living which he set in motion will survive as long as his memory endures.

(NSFA)—The University of North Dakota finds an interesting way to help students who have more ambition than wealth. Half a dozen old railway cabooses have been turned into a dormitory unit; and some thirty students are comfortably, if unconventionally, housed at a weekly rental of four hours' work each on the campus. One may imagine that the good-natured humor of the campus calls them "the young conductors."

Due to the death of Mr. Bauer, the choir concert has been postponed indefinitely.

APPLICATIONS FOR VINAL AND MOSIER ARE DUE MAY 1st AT LATEST

Applications for residence in Vinal Cottage and Mosier House for the year 1934-35 are due on or before May first. Girls desiring to live in either of these houses should get application forms from Miss Ramsey and return them to her before the above-mentioned date.

Residence in these houses is limited largely to girls in need of financial assistance. Scholastic records will also be considered in the selection of the girls. In Vinal Cottage first preference is given to students who are majors in the Department of Home Economics since here the girls receive valuable practice in the administrative duties of a homemaker. Other students are included in the group. Each girls has certain weekly duties which involve comparatively little time. The amount saved during the year by girls who live in Vinal Cottage is $150. Students who live in the cooperative house, Mosier, do all of their planning of menus, food preparation and care of the house and are able thereby to live more economically. Three hundred dollars or more is saved yearly by the girls living in Mosier House. In both houses the work is supervised by a member of the Home Economics Department.

Information concerning either of these houses may be secured from the Department of Home Economics, Room 403, New London Hall.

Here's a New Year's resolution of a Converse College student: "Because I know that sleep will make me healthy, I shall not get up for breakfast."

ments will gain us nothing. We should seek the road to peace, and if only individuals will recognize world peace, work could be started in the right direction.

Ernestine Herman, '34, spoke on "Communitistic Attitude for World Peace." She explained the communitistic platform, of converting the world at one time into communism. This would eliminate economic, political and industrial motives, which are very often the causes of war. She also added, that it was time to face facts, for peace will never be accomplished by sitting around a table and dreaming. A communitistic war will be a war to end war!

The last speaker was Alice Taylor, '34, whose speech was "The Socialist Platform of World Peace." She declared war wasteful and unintelligent, and maintained that we must accept its challenge. Socialism offers a plan by which it is possible to remove the causes of war. The Socialists are building their platform on the idea that you can't get something for nothing. She suggested that, we, here at college, could approach this problem with better wisdom, if we made ourselves intelligent about war, if we educated others, and if we supported important legislatures. This will achieve world peace and advancement.

There was some discussion of the topics, which was limited because of lack of time.

PRIZES ARE AWARDED FOR FASHION DESIGNS

Among the winners of the cash awards in Young American Designer's Fashion Contest for College Girls, is Rebecca Holmes '37. Florence Baylis '34, won Honorable Mention. The dresses fashioned from the winning sketch-designs can be seen in those department stores having the exclusive representation in their cities of "Young American Designer Dresses."

(NSFA)—All men are born with an aggressive hatred to which they must give vent, Dr. A. A. Brill, noted psychiatrist, declared in a recent address at Barnard College. "We are willing to obey the law and lead fairly respectable existences," the speaker asserted, "but when we examine our dreams and fantasies we find ourselves killing somebody every day."—Columbia Spectator.

L.H. HOUGH, NOTED AUTHOR WILL PREACH SUNDAY IS POPULAR PREACHER

Lynn Harold Hough, dean of Drew Theological Seminary, Madison, N. J. will be the speaker at the 7 o'clock vesper service on Sunday. Dr. Hough has held pastorates in Detroit and in Montreal, but his preaching and lecturing throughout Canada have made him a familiar figure in the whole dominion. Similarly his frequent visits to Great Britain have given him contacts which extend all about the empire.

For seven different years between 1918 and 1926, Dr. Hough has been a guest preacher at City Temple in London, during which time his brilliant gifts of exposition, and intellectual resilience, dedicated "to reach a great conclusion which logic makes secure" have come in for favorable comment. A review of his most recent book Vital Control says of him, "No other American preacher, at least, has risen to the heights nor visioned the breadth of the criticism of life and letters as has Lynn Harold Hough." His message has been described as being broad, and based upon conceptions which do not make intellectual death the condition of spiritual life.

Dr. Hough is a widely known university preacher, is a contributing editor of The Christian Century, and the author of over a score of volumes on religion and letters. Among these may be mentioned: Adventures in the Minds of Men; The Artist and the Critic; Flying over London; Productive Beliefs; and The Quest for Wonder.

(NSFA)—Visitors to Franklin Institute in Philadelphia are greeted by Mechanical Egbert, the robot, with a "How do you do?" and "I am very glad to see you". Egbert's tones are clear and cultured; he even pauses a bit to emphasize the "very glad". Then his right hand rises in a stiff salute, and he awaits the next visitor. Institute officials call Egbert the most perfect greeter in the world. The secret of his success lies in an ordinary automobile headlight, concealed behind a radiator in the lobby. A special screen allows only invisible infra-red rays to shine on two photo-electric "eyes" in the platform on which Egbert stands. As long as the light continues to shine, nothing happens. When a visitor walks across the beam, however, a relay is set in motion, and a little electric motor turns a phonograph record in Egbert's stomach. When he has finished speaking, another motor pushes a rod up through his right leg, and Egbert salutes.

BREAKFAST ON ISLAND IS SERVED BY C. C. O. C. TO A GROUP OF THIRTY

Thirty-three eager-to-eat hikers went to the Island for Sunday morning breakfast prepared by C. C. O. C. Immediately upon their arrival at the Island, they started to suck their oranges while waiting for the fires to be built. Before long, however, the call for "burned bacon" came through and strips of bacon were eagerly consumed with other edible articles. After being comfortably (or uncomfortably filled), walks about the Island or sunbaths were enjoyed, until it was time to return to the college.

Jean Vanderbilt '36, chairman of the Club, was assisted in her preparations for the breakfast by "Ginny" Deuel '37 and "Emy" Moore '37. Those interested were asked to try out for C. C. O. C. board, which will take on new members this week.

These programs prepared by C. C. O. C. are for all at C. C. Attend one and you will want to attend all. C. C. O. C. will probably have other breakfasts on the Island. If you have missed this one, don't miss the next.
