Community Mourns Virginia Tech Victims In Candlelight Vigil

BY SOPHIE MATHEWSON

Following last fall's killing of school shootings, tragedy has struck again—this time on a college campus. The worst shooting rampage in U.S. history, the April 16th massacre at Virginia Tech left 32 dead and many others injured. On Wednesday, April 18th, over 200 members of the Conn community came together in a candlelight vigil to commemorate the victims, and to reassert the importance of diversity and equity, who also spoke at the vigil. "We must continue to support one another as the four corners demand." Harris also spoke about the shift in media attention from the Virginia Tech community to the gunman. "We must keep our focus on the victims and continue to give our support to them," he said.

Conn students who have visited the school (www.conncoll.edu) in recent weeks have been taken by its new look. Beyond cosmetic, the renovations have completely overhauled the form and function of the main page. The new design project, in production for weeks, was undertaken by dozens of staff, students, faculty, and administrators. Those individuals comprise the Connecticut College Web Site Renewal Project Planning Committee.

A chief goal of the project was creating a site that communicates better with the world beyond the campus community. Patty Lapointe, Vice President for College Relations and Communications, Chairperson, noted that "the home page and upper level pages have been remastered with the primary goal of making it easier for prospective students, faculty, administrators to get a better sense of the college even in a few minutes and to get the information they are looking for." Project participants have driven the look, but they said that web site is the greatest potential area for spreading information about the school.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR
Practicing Mutual Respect At Conn

Dear Editor,

Two events have happened in the past weeks that are unfortunate — in Windham the words "PAG, "FAG-GATES, and "HOMO" were found written throughout the dorm. The second — the Virginia Tech shooting — did not affect us directly, but somehow will undoubtedly affect us all.

Whether the comment is discriminatory toward the LGBTQ community, Blacks, Whites, or Jews, Conn students should be above this sophomoric behavior. We are no longer high school students, we are no longer going through the motions of learning right and wrong.

We know right. And we know wrong. What happened at Windham was a sad event; to put it lightly, it was wrong. What happened at Virginia Tech was a sad event: to put it lightly, it was wrong. Maybe I should have saved all of these words and simply wrote what I hope comes across the letter. We Don't Have To Love Each Other, but Let's All Respect One Another.

Rising Kings of Leon Move into Spotlight

BY CLARICE DOWD

CLARICE DOWD

The White Stripes broke up last year after celebrating one of the greatest rock albums of the past decade, their 2003 release Get Behind Me Satan. The album was originally released on their own indie label, and it has been described as "one of rock's greatest artistic achievements." The band has been inactive since then, with no new material planned for release in the near future. However, there is some speculation that the band may reunite in the future.

The White Stripes knew with whom they were in the spotlight after the release of Get Behind Me Satan. They were immediately hailed as one of the most important bands of the 21st century, and their music was instantly recognized by music fans around the world. The album's release set the stage for a new wave of garage rock, and the band's influence can be heard in many of the bands that followed them.

The White Stripes were known for their unique sound, which combined elements of garage rock, blues, and punk. Their music was characterized by its raw energy and intense guitar riffs, and they were known for their live performances, which were often chaotic and intense.

The band's breakup was a shock for fans, and many were disappointed that they were not able to see them perform live again. However, there have been rumors of a potential reunion in the future, and fans are eagerly awaiting any news about the possibility.

The band's music has been celebrated in many ways, including in a live DVD release of their final concert in 2007. The DVD has been praised for its raw energy and intense performances, and it is a must-see for fans of the band.

The White Stripes left a lasting legacy on the music world, and their influence can still be heard today. With the band's breakup, the spotlight now falls on the future of garage rock, and fans are eagerly waiting to see what the next generation of garage rockers will bring.

Bright Eyes Kommt Nach Berlin

MICHAEL SULLIVAN

Bright Eyes is a unique alternative rock band, and their music has been described as "innovative" and "artistic." The band's sound is characterized by its raw energy and intense guitar riffs, and they are known for their live performances, which are often chaotic and intense.

Bright Eyes has been a favorite of many fans, and their music has been praised for its emotional depth and its ability to connect with listeners on a personal level. The band's music has been described as "literary" and "poetic," and it has been compared to the works of authors such as Hunter S. Thompson and Hunter S. Thompson.

Bright Eyes has been active since the late 1990s, and they have released several albums that have been critically acclaimed. Their music has been described as "powerful" and "moving," and it has been praised for its ability to convey deep emotions and ideas.

Grindhouse Is Two For The Price of One

BY ANDY PALLADINO

As the lead to the summer season, April is typically called Grindhouse in Canada, but that's a term that has been used in Canada for over the last two decades. The art of the season is in the intentional blending of a genre with certain styles of music, which is why the term is used so often.

Planet Terror, directed by Robert Rodriguez (Sin City), is a horror film that is known for its over-the-top violence and gore. It is the first installment in the Grindhouse series, which consists of two films that are released back-to-back. The second film is Death Proof, which is the most well-known in the series.

Planet Terror: The Taking of L.A.

The taking of L.A. is a reference to the film's depiction of the city's destruction after a massive alien invasion. The city is shown in ruins, with bodies strewn about and the dead being carried away in coffins. The film is known for its over-the-top violence and gore, which is a hallmark of the Grindhouse series. The film is directed by Robert Rodriguez, who is known for his work on films such as Sin City and 3 From Hell.

Death Proof: The Drive-By Killings

Death Proof is the second installment in the Grindhouse series, and it is directed by Quentin Tarantino. The film is set in the 1970s and follows a group of college students who go on a road trip and become involved in a series of car accidents. The film is known for its over-the-top violence and gore, which is a hallmark of the Grindhouse series. The film is directed by Quentin Tarantino, who is known for his work on films such as Pulp Fiction and Inglourious Basterds.

In summary, Grindhouse is a series of films that are released back-to-back, each with its own distinctive style. The first film is typically a horror film, while the second is a thriller or action film. The films are known for their over-the-top violence and gore, which is a hallmark of the Grindhouse series. The films are directed by some of the most celebrated filmmakers in Hollywood, including Robert Rodriguez, Quentin Tarantino, and Tim Sullivan.

Tuition

There is a bright side to the high cost of education. With the rise in tuition, there is a rise in financial aid available to students, granting more students the opportunity of receiving a great education, which they would otherwise not be able to. I agree that the benefits of receiving a great education make the high cost worthwhile.

"I'm surprised at the media's attention to the gunman's ethnicity. When there was the tragedy at Columbine, there was no focus on the fact that those guys were White. I read an article in a Korean-American newspaper about how they're afraid there's going to be a huge backlash."

-Jake Coffey '07

"I'm frustrated by how the press is focusing on whose fault it is, there are so many factors at play. Everyone is busy ascribing blame when they should be paying attention to bigger issues, like how society treats cases like this."

-Adam Romanow '07

"I know some people who go to Virginia Tech, so at first I paid very close attention. Since I got in touch with--I haven't been glued to the press is focusing on whose responsible for the situation. There was hardly any attention focused on the fact that a specific religious out-group was looked at for a motive, it was just a little too narrow."

YOU COULD WIN $100!!!
Each week there will be a different theme in which Connecticut College students, faculty and staff may submit up to three digital black and white images. The editorial and photography editing staff will judge and pick a weekly winner, which will be printed in The Voice each week. The winners of each weekly contest will be put into a pool for the "semester's best" photo contest, which will be judged by The Voice staff, Photography Professor Ted Henderickson, Alumni Magazine Editor Susan Lindberg, and Slide Librarian Mark Brownstein.

HOW TO ENTER:
Submit up to 3 (black and white only) digital photographs to camelphoto@gmail.com. The deadline is Wednesday by 11:59 pm. "It is possible for The Voice to change color submissions to black and white before judging."
Attach information—name, e-mail, campus box #, and title of each photograph.
Optional: Include a one or two sentence description of photo.

CII Linds.ey Coit ’08 found Miner on a visitors’ goal, bringing the Camels’ own three unanswered goals of their own. With 2:44 left, Eastern Connecticut State’s Kara Bradley shots in 24:30 of play, while Jenna Conn and attack-9-6. Attempting to squash a turnover with 1:24 to go, the Warriors showed Connecticut State’s Kara Bradley goals in the fourth overtime. Noteworthy was the performance of superstar Golden State Warriors (8): Considering how well the Mavericks have performed this season, this series will be highly competitive. The Warriors look to continue their winning streak against Colorado College on Thursday. In the second half, the Blue and White effectively worked the clock to maintain its lead. They had an excellent young team that can overtake this veteran Heat squad. Despite the fact that the Heat has an All-Star in Tim Duncan, Yao Ming is now a dominating force. I think, at times, that he is from Manchester United keeping him at the club until 2012. He will be continu-Continued from page 10

Bulls have an excellent young team and I see them winning this series fairly easily in five games. There is no doubt that the NBA playoffs are an exciting time of year for basketball fans. With so many great teams, there will be a host of matches that make him the highest-paid player in the United States.

We will have to wait and see if it is good for the award. I don’t know about you, but I’m excited!

were scoring in the third to bring the score to 5-4. Into the Camels were in the game in the fourth quarter, the hosts were not to be denied. After Dénioq scored with 6:16 left, the Camels applied suffocating defense. That forced the Warriors to make poor decisions, and when Will Schramm ’09 coralled a ground ball off Eastern Connecticut State turnover with 2:24 to go, the Blue and White had sealed another victory. 7. The NBA regular season finally came to an end on Wednesday and brought the NBA playoffs with it to see the playoffs arrive. This is truly the second, and most important, half of the basketball calendar. There were some very interesting matchups to look forward to. So I am going to try my best to preview all of it for my loyal readers. Let's start off with the Eastern Conference.

Detroit Pistons(1) v. Orlando Magic(8): This is probably the easiest one to predict and most lopsided of the first round match-ups. The Pistons just put the hurt on the Magic twice this season and will hopefully continue to do the same in every post-season game. Tayshawn Prince, Rasheed Wallace, or Rip Hamilton, almost any Detroit player, would be a tough opponent in the playoffs. I am predicting a five game sweep in the first round.

Toronto Raptors(3) v. New Jersey Nets(6): The Nets had a pretty good season, but now that the season is over, I think that they should fall like a rock. The Raptors are a very balanced team and will be too much for Jason Kidd, Vince Carter, and the rest of the Nets. I am predicting a 4-1 win for the Raptors.

Miami Heat(4) v. Washington Wizards(7): About two fairly even series. However, the Wizards have come down with some injuries to key players in the last few weeks of the regular season. Most importantly, Gilbert Arenas“ Army” is absolutely an embarrassment for the Wizards. The Wizards will not be playing any good ball this season. What should the Wizards be doing is letting LeBron James do his work in his first year as a franchise cornerstone. Mike Woodson will be a problem for many teams, but he can’t do much when the Wizards have no team. I predict a sweep for the Heat.

Cleveland Cavaliers(2) v. Washington Wizards(7): About two fairly even series. However, the Wizards have come down with some injuries to key players in the last few weeks of the regular season.
