VESPERS SERMON BASED ON NEW BOOK

Rev. J. Gordon Gilkey Speaks

Reverend J. Gordon Gilkey of the South Congregational Church of Springfield, Massachusetts, speaker at Vespers, began his sermon with the question, "Can a person who has no sense of God gain one?" There are many people eager to gain a sense of God and willing to try, but who fail to do so, continued Dr. Gilkey.

More than all else, he said, do small kindnesses keep people from gaining this sense of God. As an uncomfortable chair at a concert keeps a person from enjoying the music, so hindrances keep people from gaining a sense of God. Contrary to common sense, Dr. Gilkey feels that this is properly a British national treasure and offered to sell the work for the price paid and also offered to contribute 1,000 pounds toward raising a fund by popular subscription to purchase the book for the nation but added that if the book was to go into private hands he wanted it himself.

The book was started sixty-five years ago when the young teacher of mathematics used to teach his girls out west. They used to help him with his book and illustrated it with drawings which later became the basis for the actual things one can do to increase the vividness of the sense of God. First, said Dr. Gilkey, put out of your life that which seems to you unworthy. No one can tell you what is worthy or unworthy. Each of us must learn to understand his higher nature and take over his own personal purpose. Second, directly repeat what stimulates your own higher power. Again there is no universal rule—each one knows what the particular stimulant is. A third point—one overlooked by most Protestant Christians—is to re

Plans Nearly Completed for Junior Prom

Interest Increases As Event Draws Near

May fourth and fifth are the dates set for Junior prom week-end. Early Friday the campus will begin to look like a co-ed institution and by Friday night it should be necessary to have the New London police on call at the intersection between New London streets to regulate vehicle traffic. Social activities will start off no doubt with many dinner parties on Friday night. The first scheduled entertainment for the royal promenade is a valse performance put on by local talent. At ten that evening there will be a dance in the west tenon which lasts until two. Saturday evening there will be the usual baseball game between the Prom men and their bootleggers. A tea will be given Saturday afternoon and Small Junior Night will be Junior Prom, the great event. It will begin about eight-thirty and end at twelve. There will be twelve program dances and two extras. supper will be served between the sixth and seventh dances.

Larry Golden's orchestra will furnish the music. The Prom committee is composed of Alice Safford, Margaret Burroughs, Ethel e McLaughlin and Helen Smith, chairman.

Dr. Rosenbach Buys Original "Alice in Wonderland"

The original Alice in Wonderland which was written in Lewis Carroll's own hand and presented in her childhood to Mrs. Alice Pleasantr Hume, the great-niece of the famous illustrator, has been purchased by New York's Covington auctions rooms in London. Sir John Fraser says: "This is the highest price that has ever been paid for an authentic manuscript. The British Museum bid against me to save it. It is a British national treasure and offered to sell the work for the price paid and also offered to contribute 1,000 pounds toward raising a fund by popular subscription to purchase the book for the nation but added that if the book was to go into private hands he wanted it himself."

New Jersey College Planning to Establish French House

The New Jersey College for Women, in the establishment of a French house on Campus is contemplated for next year. This is to be a dormitory for twenty-nine French students who are members of the French faculty. The college regulations will be left to the discretion of the French students. They will be advised to keep French hours and to speak French only as far as possible.

Dr. Cadman Gives His Views on College Exercise

Asked by the Harvard Crimson if he thought college exercise classes were made compulsory, Samuel Parkes Cadman of the University of Chicago, New York, replied: "They are no longer something for the more energetic of the college classes. Military-like regulations still insist upon students attending college, but a great many have abolished the idea, and in a university like Harvard it is indeed justifiable. The mere fact, however, that there is no required college attendance does not mean that one must turn his back upon it. President Angell, of Yale, recently wrote that voluntary attendance had proved more satisfactory at Yale than the old system."

BOLLS-SESSIONS APPROVED

THE NEWS OF NORTHWESTERN University recently published an editorial warning the "bull-session" as one of the most educational features of American college life. Probably this is a first stroke for a movement that will put the time-honored sport on a new intellectual plane. Northwestern college lectures are usually given when there has been a constant plea for "independence of thought," "originality" and many other desirable qualities in the col-

EXTRA-CURRICULAR CLASSES
Vagabonding has taken a new turn at Rugers University with the organization of a discussion group by students in American government who feel inadequately prepared to attend class. George H. Rhyo, '29, is the instructor who holds forth once a week. He calls roll regularly so the vagabonders, who number about sixteen, find it necessary to cut their regular classes at times in order to attend the extra-curricular sessions. Professor Shy lectures from carefully prepared briefs supplemented with blackboard diagrams. One of the students has explained the aim:

"We have united our chosen few for the purpose of eliminating a definite objectionable element which has arisen in our class. A student marks our quiz papers, and it is absolutely necessary that every man know the course as cold as the Arctic regions. For this reason, and only this, have we devoted one hour a week to American government."

member that God is trying to find you all the time. Dr. Gilkey in concluding, said, "Tonight as you pray, remind yourself that God is trying to find you more than you are trying to find Him."

It is interesting to know that Mr. Gilkey based his sermon upon the last chapter of a new book, The Certainty of God, which he will publish this spring.

HOOVER POPULAR CANDIDATE WITH STUDENTS

According to the Independent the results of their country-wide university ballot show that Hoover received almost half the votes of students and faculty in some colleges and universities. Smith came in only a fair second with Reed following in third place after Hoover. The ten men chosen to appear on the ballots received in all 46,879 votes while the total count for all choices approached 94,099. However there were some names not generally listed; such as Will Rogers, Aimee Semple McPherson, "Big Bill" Thompson of Chicago, Lindburgh, Normal Thomas, President Butler of Columbia, and a college professor. In the five women's colleges that took part Hoover was overwhelmingly the winner. The entire list follows:
