TRADITIONAL CLASS TREE PLANTED BY 1932

BUFF AND BLUE SONG HEARD FOR FIRST TIME

The Freshman Class, dressed in the traditional white of Freshman Day, planted their tree in front of Knowlton House last Saturday afternoon, before the other three classes and the visitors who were here for Freshman Pageant. Caroline Bradley, retiring president of 1931, with a few words expressing the ideals of the tree, and the best wishes of the Sopho- more Class, who had been given the tree to Loi Saunders, president of the Fresh, Much credit goes especially to shovels in behalf of the class, the Juniors, for the money raised by panning for the class itself and its aspirations. Then, as at all tree plant- ings, the Freshmen sang to the other classes, who answered them. They sang for the first time the Buff and Blue song of their class.

BUFF AND BLUE SONG

In whatever we do, victorious,
Let our honor keep them high;
Here is the Buff and Blue.
Till our college days are through.

DELIGHTFUL CONCERT GIVEN IN KNOWLTON HOUSE

On Friday evening, May 16 the ad- vanced class in Musical Composition gave a recital in the Music Room. The program consisted of original composi- tion by students, under the direction of Professor Charles H. Watts, which included the following works:

- The Second Mrs. Tat~...-no Story, by Betty Edwards, a dramatic monologue delivered by a girl directing the audience by her ability. The recital was an acquisition to every audience.
- The Poem "acquired memories," the perception of what the poem was set was also written by the German. The music to which the poem was set was also written by the German.
- "The long weary road you are about to travel, the slow accretion of impressions in the consciousness of a poet," the perception of analogs, and the comprehension of the most advanced in the form of metaphor above.
- The Preliminary Skirmishes in becoming a writer. And when you have learned your trade as apprentice and

LARGE NUMBER ATTEND CLOSING DAY EXERCISES OF CHARTER HOUSE

In spite of the rain a fairly good-sized audience attended the Closing Day exercises at Charter House last Thursday. The usual ceremonies, such as the choiring of children were present, and several of the speakers took part in this program.

The first event was given out-of- doors as scheduled in spite of the drizzle. Two dances supervised and directed by Betty Edwards and Biana dy were given by a group of about twenty children in old-fashioned cos- tumes. The rest of the program was immediately brought everyone into the form of a take-off on the class- men of the class. As a result, the favorable comment of nationally known critics, and a collection of her poetry may appear in the near future.

When asked about the writing of poetry, Miss Roche modestly replied, "It would be presumptuous for me to advance theories about writing; haven't any illusions about the number of people who would listen to me! Perhaps others who have not been worked on by the German may have interpretations. In the following essay from Walter Benjamin of "The Monocle" he says, "At present a large number of novellists, but his words seem applied to our own."

Pageant Takes Form of Musical Comedy

The Class of 1932 presented a de- cidedly different and original Fresh- man Pageant last Saturday afternoon in Hollower. The Cast was a delight as they delved into the past dark ages as former classes have done. The freshmen chose to give a musical comedy in the form of a take-off on the classes at C. C. today.

Then followed in rapid succession songs and dances which surprised and delighted the crowd that had gone to Hollower. Almost an anticipation of some- thing unusual. From the moment that Allen Bartlett is to be congratulated on the unusual ability of Katherine Harr- son who composed the songs and to

Dear Editor:

Freshman, Freshman, bless your hearts—what a challenge! We admit that with the opening lines of your paragraph we catch the very spirit of our hearts. Sit on the Pageant! Freshman being irascible. We turned to the oldest available alumnus and gained her confirmation of our belief that such a thing had never happened before on O. C. campus. "There is nothing but mind. "—Hymn to Efficiency." Funereal uniforms of black and gray. If 18-year-olds do not believe that life is very good, and that she, by her very right of being, is going to make it much better, then Peter Pan had better draw himself in a little pity, for the world has grown too old.

We demanded of the marble heavens to know if we had been harboring a cloud of smokes but the vengeant Freshman has been irascible. We took to the oldest available alumna and gained her confirmation of our belief that such a thing had never happened before on O. C. campus. "There is nothing but mind. "—Hymn to Efficiency."

In the gallows which followed that marvel of chemistry, we forgot our pain and took to the blue banner over our heads, we wanted to stand up and cheer for 1932. Bard-boiled? Cynical? World-wise? That marvel of chemistry, we forgot oh Death, where is thy sting?

At a recent meeting of the Committee on Student Organizations, it was voted to approve the plan of reissuing a list of approved taxis in the "C". It was voted to approve the changes in the point system; all the plans for the Student-Alumnae House drive were approved by the Committee, with the statement that all public performances must be submitted to this Committee before hand.

With the opening of the tennis season for Izzy's pop-corn and hot-dogs is in full swing. With all the plenins and all the food that's being consumed, someone is going to be good and sick some day.

We want to say something about Pugwee, but we were so overwhelmed by the originality of the Freshman class that any of our simple remarks would be inadequate. That five-thirty rehearsal certainly had wonderful reaction. Probably a good many people saw the run for the first time.

We're all looking forward to A. A. banquet because we hear it is custom for the faculty to serve. Hope they'll remember it and "dress up" for us.

GERMAN CLUB PICNIC A HUGE SUCCESS

The German Club had a picnic in Botteswood on the seventh of May. About twenty members of the club, together with the doughnuts [filled with jelly] or, in order of preference, the chocolate sundaes, banana sandwiches, coffee, sugar, cups and condiments, and, if pressed hard enough, the huge coffee-pot filled with water, attended the festival. Under the able direction of Dr. Eip, who struggled, with much vim, played a pretty game of baseball, and danced with a fair sty for a partner, those present at the picnic were assured of having a gay time. Midsummer entailed with her, which was highly appreciated, and also taught the girls some German songs and dances. Just as the sun was setting, a tired but happy crowd of people trudged homeward, carrying the vanished coffee pot which had been forced to give up its treasure.

It is not very simplicity—of style and theme—the book has power. It takes possession of one. It is more than the "slice of life"; it is the essence of life itself. The steady, inevitable, almost imperceptible progress of society is present in Joseph, and the everlasting permanence of the fundamentals of life are in his brethren.
