Dr. Chamberlain of Dartmouth Is Vesper Speaker

Points Out the Weaknesses
and Cures of Modern Society

Roy B. Chamberlain, chaplain at Dartmouth, and well-known at Connecticut, finds that the hopes of the future of our unstable world lies in the moral sturdiness and intelligence of the younger generation.

continuing his discussion of the "Investment of Life", at Vespers
May 5, Dr. Chamberlain, speaking on the symptoms and the cures of this world's illness, pointed out a few of the ways in which we can help improve conditions of civilization. The required qualities are fearlessness and courage to face realities.

The symptoms of the illness of our civilization are several. The most obvious is perhaps the general attidude of futility, the lack of early enthusiasm. The disillusion and fatigue characteristic of our modern ideas are comparable to the decay of thought which was prevalent before the fall of the Roman empire.

Disillusion, another symptom of deceit, marks our world. Historically it is known that disunion often leeds to disintegration. Powerful nations, their might and strength, mark our world. Historically it is known that

Wednesday evening, May 8, the new staff of the Connecticut College News gave a banquet in honor of the outgoing staff at Lighthouse Inn. The faculty guests were Miss Blunt, Mrs. Floyd and guests of the faculty and guests present.

Dr. Jensen, the faculty advisor, spoke an encouraging word in behalf of the News, saying that college newspapers have improved in its character, changing slightly with the different staffs that come in. He also added that he would be glad to give any advice in the newspaper field. The faculty directed the manner in which the News had been worked during the past year and of the fine cooperation which every one had received from the faculty and students, saying in conclusion that she wished the new staff luck.

There is always something to worry about, claim the Freshmen, as they proceed along the line as though "play" will be held. Who really does know?

Deborah is becoming a few excellent cooks this year. Their "celebrating Betty Talbot's birthday" and a dinner party was held — worked by the girls themselves! What about that burned steak, Deputy? Is it bigood raising their newly found kitchen, "Faux pas", on the French language. Wouldn't it be terrible if, somehow or other, they got held up by a Russian Wolf Hound?

Are we dating back to "Arabian Nights" or are we mistaken by a mysterious phone call? Who, in this modern age, leaves the name "All Baba and the Forty Thieves"?

Lacey house expects to become very wealthy in the near future, for the "dime chain letter" has already been introduced and passed on to friends! What to do with the first thousand is now the question.

Copelanders have a new game to play as they make their way to a grand dance. "May 17" can be heard as they take "giant steps" and "baby steps" down to Halim. Too bad though you miss dinner, eh Gracie?

Reports of the boat ride last Sunday are mostly favorable. Was it rough? Betty, or weren't you feeling well?

If you are acquainted with untimely gray hairs, double chin, or have one foot in the grave, just drop in to see the Bandit in Mary Hadden's. She's taking her correspondence courses in Funeral Facts, Fun and Lifting (illustrated before and after) and Hair Drying, and her crinoline should really be made available for everyone on campus. Incidentally, every time she goes for her hair, she says, "What next?" — The Shadow knows!

Social Notes

North Cottage was a rather deserted place last weekend — seven of the girls being away. Kay Shirley, Elfie Mapes, and Dot Daly were guests at the Colgate Prom and house parties at Colgate University. Hamilton, N. Y. Peggy Young went to M. L. T. May Beaudette went to Bennington with the dance group. Marian Zabriskie went home to Wykoff, N. J., and Ruth Sheldon to Mount Vernon, N. Y.

Marjorie Moul was spent the week end at Colgate University house parties.

Betty Mook went to her house last week-end.

Among those who sought their good times in New York last week end were Peggy Sixx, "Cricket" Meyers, and Marjorie Minta.

Boston held quite a attraction last week-end for Betty Gilbert and Mary Birch Ingram.

"Billy Foster" attended Haverford College Prom last week-end.

There was rather a general existence on the campus last week-end. Those who went to their homes included: Margaret Coulter to New Rochelle; Shirley Payette to Hartford; Emily Black to Shelton; Dorothy Weeks to Worcester, and Virginia Terlindine to Glen Ridge. Helen Weeks went home with Ethics and Marie Schwenk to New York. Bethy Chaffee went to visit her sister at Vassar and Betty Breen went to Brooklyn. Ann Ford went to Hamilton and Carol Stuart traveled to Dartmouth for the Green Key. Charlotte Caldwell was one of the dance group that went to Bennington Sunday night we welcomed Lou Miller back, who has been home with the measles.

CLUBS

Friday, May 8, the Spanish Club and the Book Store group at the Spanish Club held quite an attraction this time: Jean McCreary, president; Martha Louise Cook, secretary and Alice Cobb, chairman of the entertainment committee. Members of the faculty and guests present were: Miss Chevalier, Miss Biaggi, Mr. and Mrs. Sanchez. Professor Sanchez staged an imaginary bull fight for the benefit of his audience.

Students at the University of Rochester (New York) were recently exposed to a dazzling collection of students' jokes and banter (value — $5,000,000 actual value $25,000,000) to acquaint themselves with the wiles of "phoney stocks."

Dear Editor:

Many of us would like to know definitely whether there will be a dance after spring play out. It is so hard to make arrangements when we do not know until the last minute. If there is a dance, let’s have it worthy of the occasion. May we suggest: a creditable orchestra, soft, color-lighted music, punch instead of water, and dancing until dawn.

Dear Editor:

A subject of interest to students has been discussed at great length lately. The subject is "Text books and the buying of them." Most of the girls would like the list of books they would need during the year early in September—all of them could be bought at one time and not be thought of again.

It is pretty hard when, in the middle of April, a teacher will say, "Sign up for this book." This means anywhere from one to two dollars taken out of a small allowance, a hurry call to one’s parents for the money needed extra money can not be sent at any time especially when there is more than one child in college.

If things had been arranged, would the managers of the Book Store be willing to have the student charge her books and then send a complete and itemized bill to the parents? Can't something be done about this?

Dear Editor:

Last Monday we, as a student body made our decision as to whom we thought most capable of being the officers of our major organizations for the coming year. We should be proud of the opportunity of running our own student government and should take great interest in choosing the people whom we shall be willing to follow and with whom we shall be glad to cooperate.

At the election on Monday only about 350 students from the whole student body of over 600 cast their votes. It seems to me that such a proportion was a very poor showing of student interest in their own privileges. Why did so few vote? Didn't the others care who was elected? Some of you may say, "I didn't know who was nominated." Everyone surely knew the majority of the nominees and even if they didn't seem to me that we would take enough interest in student government to go and vote for those whom they did not know. A few blanks among some names are much better than complete absence from voting.

Let's hope that this does not happen again.

Mr. Milar Speaks To News and Press Board Mon., May 6

"What Constitutes News In College" Is Subject Of His Talk

Monday evening, May 6th, coffee was served in Windham living room for various members of the News and Pressboards and Mr. Milar. Afterwards conducted an informal talk on what constitutes news in college. Mr. Milar, as chief of the Connecticut Bureau of Associated Press, had many illuminating points to make and interesting suggestions to offer his audience a hopeful young news reporters. For the sake of thorough clarity, he broached his rather ambiguous topic from two sides. First, what is news, and, second, what should college girls know to best approach the newspaper profession.

News, says Mr. Milar, is anything people are interested in; and it is the number of people interested that determines the news' importance. C. C. has a large portion of the outside world, almanac, student's families, trustees, friends, who want to keep up with the present events other than regular routine. They want to know about our sports activities, the outstanding work of students, scientific experiments we might be making, the research work of our professors, any information from every walk of life that the college has to offer. Because what is news today becomes history tomorrow, the sooner material is printed the more value it has.

Do we make the most of our newspaper reading? Mr. Milar asked the question casually, but he meant it sincerely. In the last two years there has been an economic revolution, with one result that the people have been demanding more news. The history of the building in the street has been reading deeper subjects and with more thought. Do we do that? Since the old political era, people are no longer going by an accepted standard of living; they have begun to think for themselves. It is the everyday reading that counts, for it is thus we watch the turn of economic problems and see new developments in politics. History has been piling up faster in the last two years than ever before, and with it has come a trend towards serious thought. Social legislation is making for a gradual equalization in the present economic status. If this change in attitude has affected the college, bound the girls closer together, interested them mutually in new things, then we have a good newspaper story.

The newspaper business is the biggest, most exacting of the modern professions. The work is pleasant and hard, fascinating but sometimes painful, and it must ever be sustained by the thrill behind its rapid progress. Nowhere else is there so great an opportunity to do good. The newspaper has a grip on public opinion and the power to make people think. He tells his story honestly, fearlessly, impartially and leaves his readers to make up their own minds to its importance. Accuracy, decency, and impartiality are the three demands the Associated Press makes of every story before attaching the A. P. slug. Mr. Milar personally prefers to employ reporters who have had training on a small daily paper, where the news is not metropolitan but offers well-rounded experience writing up anything from personals to suicides. It is time enough to specialize, he says, after two or three years of general newspaper work.

The Historical Society Has Fine Displays

One of the many objects of interest in the New London County Historical Society the most interesting is the George Washington room. This room, furnished in colonial style, contains rareingle-backed chairs and a toilet set which alone is supposed to be worth $1800. The spread used on special occasions in this room is one which is over a hundred years old.

The Historical Society has many rare objects such as an armchair which classroom chairs of today are modelled, two cases of very crude surgical instruments used in 1781, a colonial babies' bath, lamps in which whale oil was used when New London was the center of the whaling industry, several Chippendale and Windsor chairs, and a ship model valued at $800.

The society has a valuable reference library containing information on the history of New London. The library contains among other things a unique ninety-year old print of the city of New London as viewed from Groton, showing the harbor full of whaling vessels. The history of the building in which the Society is situated is not less fascinating than the possessions of the Society. It was built in 1766 for Nathaniel Shaw, Sr., by French Canadians who had been driven from Canada and who settled in New London. The building was made of stones hewn from a granite ledge. Several years later George Washington was entertained in it by Nathaniel Shaw, Jr. During the revolution it was converted into officers' barracks. During the revolution, too, Lucretia Shaw, the wife of Nathaniel, Jr., nursed wounded soldiers and contracted yellow fever from one of them and died. A direct descendant of the Shaw, Judge Perkins, entertained Lafayette in this house. Judge Perkins also served as lawyer for Benedict Arnold. When most of New London was almost destroyed by fire, the Shaw house caught fire but was saved by barrels of vinegar stored in the attic which the men utilized in putting out the flames. Eventually the Shaw house was turned over to the New London County Historical Society to serve as a center for their work.

The Society itself was formed in 1870 by the townspeople interested in historical objects and places in New London. Its purpose was to gather all records and objects of historical interest and to place them where they would be safe and useful. They also were to determine and mark sites of actions worthy of historical notice. Their members have consisted mostly of well-known historical scholars. Until the dedication of the Shaw house they were more or less handicapped for a place to put their material, but now it is possible to have their collection assembled safely and in a place where they are available for all to see.

The Historical Society which is situated on Bank Street is open in the afternoon from two to five o'clock and an admittance fee of 25c is charged except on Wednesday. A guide accompanies visitors and explains the various collections.

NEW VITAMIN K IS ADDED TO LIST

London — Add another vitamin to the list of those already known. This one is to be known as K, according to the announcement of its discovery by the two research members of the Biochemical Institute of Copenhagen University.

Experiencing with chickens, the two men, H. Dau and F. Schonheyder, found that when fed on a special diet, the chickens developed a deficiency disease. This was cured by a fat soluble vitamin found in hog liver, hemp seed and certain vegetables, such as tomatoes.

It is presumed that footstuffs contain an essential vitamin in the absence of which deficiency disease sets in. It is supposed the lack of vitamin K causes a decrease in the clotting and accelerating component in blood. The nature of this component and its role in animal and human pathology are under investigation.

Group At Bennington Discuss Importance Of Modern Dance

A dance Symposium was held at Bennington College on May 4. The plan of a Symposium in Modern Dance was announced by the President of the College and a national meeting of colleges was inaugurated by Bard College in the Spring of 1952. Since that time many colleges have been organized as an additional force in the work of high schools and groups at all parts of the country. These symposia have taken on a new life as an additional force in the work of high schools and groups in all parts of the country. These symposia have taken on a new life as an integral part of modern dance and are now being held in many high schools and groups in the United States.

"Dating" an Important College Opportunity

Cedar Falls, Iowa — "Dating— a social experience and one of the most important opportunities of college life" is the definition given to the college-age girl by Harold Bond, director of religious activities at Iowa State Teachers College.

Outlining the reasons for dating, Dr. Bosley declared students date because it is a social habit, and because of a desire for companionship. "Dating" he declares, "is psychologically sound, although we may laugh at them," Dr. Bosley said. "Dating bureaux give students an opportunity for social experiences which they might not get otherwise."

ASSOCIATED EASTERN RAILROADS established standard, has come to mean straightforward and honest. The pioneers of one hundred and fifty years ago, whose vigor and en- thusiasm have made our nation what it is today, often men of the past. Today, unlimited individualism is tearing the world apart. Classes are at odds; commerce languishes for individual rights. Often individualism results in the sacrifice of personal integrity for financial success. Not until individuals understand that cooperation we can hope to know peace. In closing, Dr. Chamberlain en- trusted to America's youth the duty of understanding the values of freedom from artificial, self-seeking standards, to replace the sham with reality, to see things as they are, and to have the moral strength to correct them.

On Monday and Tuesday, May 6 and 7, Dr. Chamberlain held conferences in the Mary Harkness Li- brary from 9 to 11 A.M. and from 2 to 4 P.M. The conference was open to all students who did not have the opportunity to talk with Dr. Chamberlain last fall when he was here; however, a cordial invitation was extended to all.

Jeanette Shirk's Sketches Exhibited

Are Pen and Ink Illustrations

Foe 'Somnet of Somnets'

The exhibitions in the library this week are the pen and ink illustrations of Jeanette C. Shirk for "The Concert! — A Somnet of Somnets" by George Sebrell. The somnet is just published based on musical analogies from master composers. Mr. Sebrell's unifying theme was that of a violinist playing for his love, who was in his heart.

The musical obituary in the "Somnet of Somnets" heightens the lyric sinfulness of pen and ink drawings. Miss Shirk's drawings create a sensitive and appropriate accompany- ment to poetry and are not a dis- traction from the beauty in the somnet. There is a perfect sense of timing, which is closer to music or poetry than the pictorial arts. The infinite care with which her de- tails are carried out makes her work one of delicate cadences, instead of the one bold note customarily found in black and white works of art.

Her frequent use of the stipple lends individuality to her drawings. The illustrations of the fourteen draw- ings, each of Mr. Sebrell's poems in a quiet and artistic way. Of these drawings one art critic chooses "Thus Art My Peace", "Death and the Maiden", and "Night in Spring" the most individual and ar- tistic. Every one of the fourteen are done effectually but with a quiet and simple touch.

Miss Shirk is well known here at Connecticut. The Christmas cards exhibited here in 1934 were her sen- sations. She exhibits in shows in the east and also has a sequence of il- lustrations in the Carnegie maga- zine.

Spend the Junior Year in Europe

At this interesting moment in world history a large number of American students would like to have first-hand knowledge of conditions in Europe. The "Junior Year Abroad", a pro- gram of supervised study abroad by colleges generally throughout the United States, offers highly recom- mended students from the depart- ments of French, Spanish, and Italian in accredited American colleges an oppor- tunity to travel throughout Europe and the countries named below, with full cred- it for the courses they take during their year's work. There is no need for a lot of whangdoodle talk about cigarettes — just plain common-sense

When you stop to think about your cigarette — what it means to you — here's about the way you look at it —

Smoking a cigarette gives a lot of pleasure — it always has.

People have been smoking and enjoying tobacco in some form or another for over 400 years.

Of course you want a cigarette to be made right. And naturally you want it to be mild. Yet you want it to have the right taste — and plenty of it.

In other words — you want it to satisfy.

Scientific methods and ripe mild tobaccos make Chesterfield a milder and better-tasting cigarette. We believe you will enjoy them.

Levitzki Performs At Meridan School

The observance of National Music Week in Connecticut received great impetus from the appearance of Mischa Levitzki, internationally known piano virtuoso, in the Meriden High School, Meriden Conn., Wednesday evening, May 8th. His recital was sponsored by the Meriden Junior College.

Recognized as the most versatile of the few really great living pianists, his appearance in Meriden was hailed by music teachers and lovers of good music as a rare opportunity to hear a specialist on the piano whose flawless technique has become a goal for which other artists strive.

Levitzki's playing expresses itself in a faithful interpretation of the great masters.

Levitzki, on reading the appreciative statement to the National Music Week Committee that "music justly occupies a very great place in the cultural life of the people of our country," the final program to be rendered at the recital consisted of four groups. Selections by Bach, Schubert and Brahms in the first group were followed by Beethoven's Sonata in F Minor. The third group consisted of compositions of Chopin and the last group included Ravel, Paganini-Liszt, and his own composition, the "Arabesque Valseante."

Prof. A. L. Hacquet, of the University of Ghent (Belgium) has learned the English language in two months by listening to other people's conversations while on a tour of the American universities.

Two Students of C. C. To Attend Munich Univ.

Among a limited number of educational institutions, the German department of Connecticut College has been offered two scholarships at the Summer School of the University of Munich. The courses consist of five hours daily instruction in language, literature, history, and philosophy. Besides, the students may attend daily lectures by noted German scholars on subjects of general cultural interest. Connecticut College will be represented by Gertrude Weyhe and Gertrude Mohling who are both majors in the field of German.

At the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, girls not only pay their own car fare when the boy friend takes them home, but also must pay for their theatre tickets as well.
