Our paths were thru the winding vale, o'er which the savage trod,
 They were not wide, nor scarce a guide, but all the ones we had.
 Our houses made of logs of wood, rolled up and squared and corked with mud,
 If the bark was tight the roof was good, In the new country.

From the deerskins we made our moccasins to wear upon our feet.
 A checkered shirt was thought no hurt, good company to keep;
 And if a visit we did repay on a winter's night or a winter's day,
 The oxen drew the ladies sleigh in the new country.
