FREE SPEECH

This Editors of the News’ do not hold themselves responsible for the opinions expressed in this column. In no wise do we believe that this column should ever be construed as an organ for the expression of the views of the majority of the students or the editors. It is only intended as a medium for the expression of the views of individuals. We have no wish to represent ourselves as the mouthpieces of a majority of the students, because we realize that a great many of us have views that are as yet unformed, or are yet under the influence of the profession of prejudice.

Dear Editor,

Since we have returned to school, there have been many rumors flying about concerning comprehensive programs and the fact that changes might be necessary in offering one. It is felt that a comprehensive program should serve to make us more inquisitive and worried about the exams that we would normally have, and also, that any revisions are being considered should be made public.

A number of us have had comprehensive programs and would accomplish the same goal even if they result not so well as they balance themselves. Would it be possible to temper the general tone of the general principles so that all of us who fail would have the opportunity to retake the exam in time for graduation?

If the rumors are substantiated, why not inform the seniors of the changes so that we can plan accordingly and graduate for the comprehensives?

Welcome Back, Miss Blunt!

This year’s freshmen class has the distinction of being the first to enter Connecticut in the long awaited post-war period. They begin their college education at a time when the nation—and the world—were beginning to realize that a vital part—stands on the threshold of a new era—era.

This idea, stemming from an erroneous concept sweeping the country, will only lead to a complicacy similar to that of the New Deal period and to an unpreparedness that might well guide us into a third world war.

For this reason, the motives of the freshman class—along with the parents of the freshmen—must not embody a return to the “normalcy” of the 30’s, but must rather be the attainment of those goals for which our victory in this war has enabled us to strive.

The Road Ahead

The sacrifices in that struggle will not be forgotten, nor the pain that accompanied the end of the war. But it is all too natural that the assumption will take hold in the minds of the after-generation that the emergency is at an end. We must remember, however, that life itself is an emergency—a series of choices that can lead us only down the paths of construction as well as destruction. It is for the knowledge that we are making these choices that we go to college. Now, more than ever before, we must be sure that our choices are the right ones.

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

by Janet McDonough ’48 and Betty Reiffle ’46

On October 6, 1945, in Dallas, Texas, a young negro was doomed to be executed by the State of Texas. As follows: On September 15, 1941, C. L. Blunt boarded a bus in his home town and was killed while a white man, the band of the white woman jerked the negro off the bus. A fight immediately ensued. The white man, a has a gun in his possession. He shot her not left alone, but was followed by another negro. Blunt’s aim was to get all of the Negroes and to lessen the tension of the all-importance of the final exam? If this arrangement is impossible, would the faculty consider giving the comprehensive a month in advance of schedule so that those who fail would have the opportunity to retake the exam in time for graduation?

GYMANGLES

by Nancy Blades '47

A hearty welcome to all the returning students, and a special greeting to the class of forty-nine. (Frankly, I feel a little old). Most of the girls know the purpose of this article, but here it is for the benefit of the freshmen. It is a letter to the freshmen giving at least a bird's eye view of the happenings in the sports world. There are many activities and equipment available for your use. Spring will be here any day and we have asked you to give us all possible help so that you may be right on the ball. If, by any chance, you miss this little column, all notices pertaining to athletics are posted in the gym or on the A.A. bulletin board in the north end of Fandervale.

Here goes for the first article of the '45-'46 year.

The most important change around the building known as the gym is the loss of a familiar figure and the gaining of a new one. We were all sorry to see Miss Hartsborn leave, but we are very happy to welcome Miss Bloomer as the dancing instructor.

The Dance group has already gotten underway for a hang-up season. Edna Mae Wander '47 is the new captain, and has already danced her season. Edna Mae Wander '47, as the dancing instructor will award these emblems.

The latest scores (if it is at all possible) of the ball.

The favorite colors are posted pertaining to athletics are posted to purchase by being elected to the board. These colors are red and white. The name of these colors is Flamingo.

If you miss this little column, all notices pertaining to athletics are posted in the gym or on the A.A. bulletin board.

dent angle—the athletic activities on campus. The A.A. council will do its best to see that the college girls get all the sports it wants, but it is up to the student body to utilize these activities and equipment available for their use.

The seniors have stopped hopping and have asked us how I got my leg over the moon. The answer to that question will be answered now. There are many awards that a girl may get by participating in athletics of any kind. The first is the college sweater which a girl earns by purchase to be elected to membership in the college seal which is earned by being elected to four clubs. These clubs are:

- The football team is elected by the sport manager and the faculty advisor. This election is not necessary for it is a student's sport, but for extra-curricular activities it is the first sportsmanship.

- At the end of each sports season, A.A. holds a contest to award these emblems.

Reception

During their lower class having the same experience as they did in the past year.

When ten o'clock finally arrived, the women gathered in the student center with a pleasant, new experience behind them, recovered their coats in Grand Central station, and proceeded to the white Stairway. The night was probably one dollar cheaper than the day before. When a painting has been selected, perhaps the committee members will have from whom they had trodden the path. The event of the evening even (but these mixups do happen), some returned in feminine gestures. Nevertheless, the magnificent full moon shining down on the figures walking home topped off a perfect evening.

It is necessary for each one of us to take action so that such social injustices will not occur.

Editor's note: As we go to press it appears that this statement has been changed to life imprisonment. C.C. students who write letters or articles in The Collegian will be interested in the government's decision to phase out its processing facilities. Congress and the State of Texas have made the decision. The most lenient sentence, however, may be the one given to the defendant in order to maintain his or her dignity.

U.S.S.R. Will Hold First Meeting Oct. 9 at 6:45

The United States Student Assembly will hold its opening meeting of the new school year, October 9 at 6:45 in the Commuters' room in Fanning. The meeting is open to all who wish to attend, and are welcomed. The meeting will be held in the early part of November.

Freshmen Arrive a la Bates

As Senior Redbud Drapes

by Jane Butler '46

With the onset of another college year the customary fall rush of room seekers is in full swing. To each class the problem is slightly different. It goes like this.

The grave old seniors bravely break out the tousled hair from their packing box, and start their search for quarters. The red buttes are rusty and worn, and with it a prayer that the windows—why the prayer obvious is that they are not as good as those of the dormitories. The young ones, being at the mercy of these ugly brutes, don't help them either.

Old Timothy

The old-Timbs go up the windows, and tiptoe into bright new blouses from the book store. The seniors are ready to start life. Books, almanacs, swimsuits, briefs, bikini, barometers, pictures, books of notes and countless souvenirs. The boys can't be entered at times, and will be going places. "This is life!"

Now come the juniors. Moving into new dormitories is quite an event. Some cases caused an uplift in decor as well as prestige.

The A.A. council will give this year the new essentials—bedspreads and sheets, dresser mats as possible.

Flossom and Joetman

Their accumulation of what many questionably market junk is gone but not forgotten. As the time begins, all mostly packed in boxes, are in storage, ready for use. Good for none, and out will come the pet Teddy bears. dance decorations and such. The juniors, it may be had, have a little bit of this collection of bus signs, street signs and the like. Very decorative.

National Trend

The quad sophomores find their rooms looking quite the same, last year's decorations giving way to a smaller variety of models. Quite different, Miss Butler.

From last year, these "dors" are condoned on how quickly newspapers accumulate information. Probably the courses requiring daily news coverage account for the sophomores and seniors, when swaying to "Life a Bulletin Board," and some of these are really sensational.

Freshman rooms, now that the dust has settled, have taken on a homey atmosphere. It's a bit early to say just how strategically the novices have settled. They haven't had as much time as the rest of us, but like every other freshmen class before them, they arrived a la Bates for the most part.

Candidates for Freshman Fraternity

A visit to any freshmen room will reveal any upperclassmen of her first days at C.C. C.C. No rugs, shiny lamps, unreserved table space, uncooked meals. Sickles and sandwich loaves are baked and eaten. As the little old women, Most of the girls know is up to the student body to utilize these colors for homeiness, thanks to Mrs. Stevenson.

The summer brought forth a lot of marriages and engagements, and they are all here! Fifty-seven of you were definitely included in the happy numbers. Wednesday was the wedding day, and wedding bands on campus.

Mimi Steinberg '46, a junior, left college as Mrs. Don Ullery. Her marriage took place in June shortly after her last graduation from the Coast Guard academy, and it's a big change for her. She is now Mrs. Ullery.

Mrs. Armin Trudia '46, the former Sue White, is back at school after her marriage in June. She was married on west court where her Navy husband stationed was.

Louise Angell '46 is back with a new name too. She is Mrs. Ralph GroomUSTOM. Her husband received his commission from the Coast Guard academy in June.

Another Coast Guard bride of this summer is Patricia Williams '46. She was married to Ensign Gil Magee, also a June graduate of CCG.

Mrs. Joseph Edlin '46 returned to college this fall. She is the former Minnie Stenfield. Her husband is in the Army Air Corps stationed in . . .

Darrell Lowet '46 announced her engagement this summer to Sgt. Edwin Morrill of the Army. They will be married in June.

Day Wilson '46 is sporting a Coast Guard miniature these days. He, along with Ensign George Richardson, UCG, George Schwartz, USCG, and Karrin Smith, a student at the academy before his graduation in June.

Marie Aun Bloomer, another '46, announced her engagement via long distance this summer, (L.I.C.) Dave Powel, USCG serving in the South Pacific, is her fiancée. Dave hasn't seen the engagement ring he gave her yet, but we are sure it won't be of diamonds.

Mary Carpenter '46 has a Coast Guard fiancé too. Her engagement to Ensign McConnell was announced this summer. Jack graduated from CGA in June of '44.

CC Religious Council Plays Significant Role on Campus

The Religious council cooperates with Dr. Lambourne in arranging the daily chapel service. Every other week a day is reserved for student speakers, and it is hoped that students will speak on the subject of the week.

Katherine Noye '46 has charge of the arrangements for the entertainment of vascular speakers, and Jan Whitman '47 will be with the publicity committee.

Sugestions Welcome

Religious council would welcome suggestions from students concerning the way in which religious life might be increased. It can create its value to the college community, and fill more of the needs from which it springs. Any student desiring to participate in the work outlined above is requested to confer with the chairman of the Council cabinet.
