NEW FACULTY AND STAFF

17 New Members Added

Seventeen new members have been added to the faculty and administration staff of Connecticut College for the coming year. Among them is Miss Evelyn Utley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Utley of Waterford, who will be an assistant in the chemistry department. Miss Utley graduated from Connecticut College in 1930. Last year she was a research assistant in food chemistry at Columbia University. Miss Drusilla Fielding '32 has also returned as a research assistant in the economics department.

Other new members of the staff: Dr. Dorothea H. Scoville, resident physician; Dr. Margaret W. Kelly, associate professor of chemistry; Sarah Wentzell, instructor in botany; Edith Tomkins, assistant in botany; Cynthia A. Goodsell, instructor in Home Economics; Rowena E. Hersey, assistant in the library; Grace F. Holt, assistant in the library; Virginia E. Davis, part time assistant in physics and astronomy; Mlle. Jeanne de Bouvie, instructor in French; Leone Sechi, instructor in Italian; Louise Chevalier, assistant in French; Kathleen Hussey, assistant in zoology.

Dr. Scoville comes to Connecticut College from Vassar where she was resident physician for three years. During that time she also served as pediatricist during the summer sessions of the Vassar Euthenics Institute. Dr. Scoville received her Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Cincinnati in 1915 and her M. D. degree from the medical college of the same university in 1919. During the war she was engaged in field work in food conservation under the University of Kentucky and the United States Department of Agriculture.

FRESHMAN WEEK

On Thursday, September 15, the Freshmen arrived for the traditional Freshman Week.

On Thursday night the Freshmen were welcomed by President Blunt, Dean Nye, Dean Burdick, Grace Stephens, president of Student Government, and Janet Townsend, Junior President. Dean Nye spoke briefly on College history and ideals.

On Friday a boat ride was enjoyed. On Saturday night a "sing" was conducted by Dr. Erb. On Sunday Dr. Laubenstein gave a religious service. A picnic was held that evening at the Hemlocks.

The intervening time was taken up with tests—physical, psycho-

WHO'S WHO IN 1936

Two sports champions are members of the new freshman class at Connecticut College. They are Marjorie Cadwell of Detroit, national breast stroke champion, who swam in the Olympics at Los Angeles during the past summer; and Josephine Merrick of Upper Montclair, N. J., who is the squash champion of New Jersey.

Four daughters of college professors are also among the freshmen. They are Dorothy Barbour, daughter of Prof. Henry S. Barbour of Yale Medical School; Thayer Hunter, daughter of Prof. Walter S. Hunter of the psychology department of Clark University; Grace Nichols, daughter of Prof. George E. Nichols of the botany department of Yale; and Margaret Richardson, daughter of Prof. Norman E. Richardson of the Presbyterian Theological Seminary of Chicago, Ill.

ANNUAL RECEPTION HELD

Tuesday evening the Service League gave its annual reception. Since it is the first event on the social calendar, it gave the Freshmen and transfers an opportunity to meet the newly returned upperclassmen and to become better acquainted with one another. Most of the Freshmen went with their Junior sisters who helped with introductions.

In the receiving line to greet the new and returning students

SENIOR PROCLAMATION

I SAY, LASSIES!

I say, lassies!

Now that we've had the ripping good luck to achieve
The majestic cap and gown without coming croppers,
You blokes ought not to grouse at our petty requirements.
We merely desire to penetrate your bally
Thick skulls with a spot of enlightenment.
So let your eyes bulge and keep yourselves at attention!
The curbs, you blighters we jolly well want to ourselves.
And the trams, by Joves, they're another item.
We'd prefer, in fact, we insist that you allow us
To slither aboard e're you clamor for entrance.
And that magnificent edifice, ye'lept Fanning does have a
Front door, you know, around which only seniors may potter.
I dare say you've heard that the topping old gym
Is weak in the nether extremities;

So brace yourselves for the shock and prepare to render
The first five rows unto Seniors on every occasion.
By the way, in the spot where Miss Ernst discourses on the Jolly old literature of the continent we who are full of years
And failing of eyesight, would fain take our places where no
Blinking hulks bar from our ken the accents so learned.
Wherefore, by Jove, we reiterate—
The first five rows shall be sacred to Seniors.
And when we take our chappies adancing in Knowlton Salon
We ra-ally want some unblighted moments of quiet enjoyment as We sway to the orchestral clamor. One dance without cutting eh what?

When we hie us to the post, we request that
You blokes become bystanders rather than jostlers.
And hi-ho, old fish! We deem it unseemly that your reedy voices
Should drown out in Amalgo the strains of Seniorial ditties.
Egad! This beastly fuss in the refectories, not to mention
The halls of learning or dance floors at Knowlton, Gets wearying after a bit! We merely mention that it would be
No end sporting, to bound from our paths with a sweep and a flourish.
Righto! You have that one? Attend! There is more.
When the Seniors binge off to the College Inn
They wish to partake of their tea with elbows on the bar!
And I say! At the gates of ye goode porter, Norris,
Take note of the Seniors, whether they be fagged or elated,
And entreat of that worthy that he grant
Them the privilege of first or last entrance.
Hello! You lassies of the carmine lips!
No more do you rouge them till the week-end rolls round!
Roller-skating is bully good fun, pon my word,
So the Seniors being rawther sporting coves,
Crave to stream o'er the campus without competition.
There must be an end to all things, doncha know.
We will even end this one, and so—Cheerio!

OPEN LETTER FROM PRESIDENT

To the Editors of the News:

I am glad to give my good wishes to the C. C. News for 1932-1933. It plays a very important part in college life. Not only does it report our varied events and announce those to come, but it cheers us with its jokes, and, particularly significant, it gives opportunity for expression of student opinion on a variety of subjects. I wish we might have many such animated discussions this year which would make students think and affect college policies. Also I hope that reporters can find numerous interesting and readable news items from classroom and laboratory happenings as well as outside.

The News is and should be very influential on Campus. All success to it.

KATHARINE BLUNT,
President.

SISTERS AT CONNECTICUT

Fourteen sisters of present or former students of Connecticut College have entered the college this year. Ten are freshmen and four are members of the junior class.

The freshmen are Charlotte Cooper of Belfast, Me., sister of Anne Cooper '35; Sophie Cope of Germantown, Pa., sister of Ernesta Cope '34; Anne Fife of Pittsburgh, Pa., sister of Margaretta and Mary Fife '33; Bessie Goldfaden, of New London, sister of Mildred Goldfaden '35; Frances Norton of Winsted, sister of Ruth Norton '33; Rowena Rhodes of Taunton, Mass., sister of Louisa Rhodes '32; Mabel Somers of Lynn, Mass., sister of Edna Somers '28; Louise Stanley of East Northfield, Mass., sister of Jean Stanley '34; Margaret Thoman of Pelham Manor, N. Y., sister of Jean Thoman ex-'32; Jean VanDeusen of Brooklyn, N. Y., sister of Alice VanDeusen '32.

Those who entered the junior class are Grace Nichols of New Haven, sister of Marion Nichols '32; Lydia Riley of Brunswick, Pa., sister of Elizabeth Riley '29; Alicson Rush of New Haven, sister of Frances Rush '35; and Frances Way of East Glastonbury, sister of Elizabeth Way ex-'32.

EDITORIAL

According to tradition and custom we should at this time, in our first issue of the News, write a long editorial of welcome and greeting to all the newcomers to our campus. We feel however, that such an editorial is unnecessary; all of you are familiar with such editorials and can appreciate our unwritten sentiments. By now you have all been welcomed into our midst both formally and informally, and are no longer total strangers, but of us. Therefore we greet you not as strangers, but as old friends, for such you are. That being the case, let us just say one big and hearty "Hello" to the student body and faculty at large.

We come before you in a new guise this year, yet inwardly we have not changed. The same spirit of good fellowship and democracy is with us; the same old traditions are behind us. We are your paper, your organ of expression. We ask that you do not let any outward changes in us affect your loyalty towards us. To the newcomers especially we appeal for the strongest and sincerest of cooperation, that our paper may be among the finest and most representative of college newspapers. As this year's edition is in the line of an experiment on our part, we ask for your helpful criticism and suggestion. We also wish at this time to encourage all new students interested in newspaper work in trying-out for the News. Perhaps we seem a bit previous in making such requests in our first editorial, but we are anxious to make this year as successful as possible, and to make this entirely your paper, not solely ours.

Once again we say "Hello" to all of you, that you may know it to be a lasting word of friendship. Our college is renowned for its spirit of friendship and democracy. May this reputation continue, and prevail throughout the campus. We are all friends; let us remain so, not only in college, but outside as well.

PROGRESSIVE HEALTH MEASURES

Last year President Blunt and those interested in the health of the students started an anti-cold campaign. A late start and little cooperation on the part of the students gave it a poor trial. This year with an early start, a weekly health report, and more interest evinced, something should really come of it.

This campaign is an excellent plan as it will not only aid the college in improving the standard of its health, but it will also give valuable data which can be utilized by health authorities all over the country.

Cooperation on the part of the student body is absolutely necessary, though, if the needed statistics are to be of any use. If we will heed all the small rules, report faithfully on our cards our real

NEW BOOK BY PROF. KIP

The Boy I Knew the Best, by Herbert Z. Kip, Boston, Richard G. Badger, The Gorham Press, 1932. 284 pages.

In this attractively printed and illustrated volume, Dr. Kip has done with delicacy and charm what many of us would doubtless like to do, i. e., he has set in order the recollections of his childhood, humorous, pathetic, curious, and sometimes possessing considerable historic interest. He has succeeded in presenting a picture of a boy's life in north-eastern New York State during the last quarter of the 19th century, which, while written especially for his little son, has an interest beyond that due to personal acquaintance. Throughout the chapters the writer shows a genuine understanding of children; he sketches the outline of a mild and temperate philosophy of life, and, though more tenuous still, incidentally a theory of education.

The following passage on the loon taken from the chapter, "Lake George and Saratoga", will serve as an indication of the author's style in description:

"But my chief memory of these crepuscular expeditions is not of the fish but of their feathered counterparts, the loons, which swam, dived, and shouted, now far ahead of us and again far in our rear. All the creations of nature deserve to be called masterpieces, but nature was writing poetry when it brought forth the loon. It seems inadequate to call this creature a bird, and it is far more than a glorified fish. The loon is large enough to be impressive, wild enough to be inscrutable. It is conspicuous and yet mysterious, a bird of the borderland, neither diurnal nor yet nocturnal, passing at will from the waters below the earth to the heavens above. It exists for its own sake and enters into no relation with any other creature. It lives on a large scale, with the manners of a lord and the unsophistication of a child. It is untamed without being savage, self-sufficient without being destructive. It demands surroundings that are spacious and unsullied and accepts as its due the best that nature has to offer. The setting sun is its signal to come forth and greet the rising moon. Then the wooded shores re-echo to its unearthly cries as it swoops over and through the water in quest of its prey. And as for the intruders who pursue it in their slow-moving boat,—they are a joke, hardly worthy of a peal of its ringing, lingering laughter."

LIZZIE AND DIZZIE

Dear Dizzie—

Well, ole bean, here we are back at the dear Alma Mater again! Honest, it's hard to believe, what with assignments to do and all, and what's worse rules again. Such a come-down after one's summer freedom—such as it was. But just think, we are actually Seniors now! And do I feel dignified, you just don't know, my dear. The only trouble is those mortar boards. How anyone can even hope to be dignified or even respectable with those sliding off every time you bend over or sneeze, or the tassel flying into your eyes and going in the wrong direction, is more than I know. I feel more like a clown of the worst sort than a Senior, I swear, though of course I do my very best to act as if I loved it, and just ate it up. One must do one's best for the benefit of the green Frosh and the other newcomers, doncha know.

And speaking of Freshmen—did you ever see so many all at once and in one spot? To tell the truth I was simply appalled at my first glimpse of them en masse. Whew! with such hordes of them, how the deuce can we keep them where they belong, and make them display the proper reverence towards us? 'Tis a terrible responsibility for us, but up to us to carry on, though we quake in our boots, or worse. If I only felt like a Senior—however they feel—it would be all right, but I don't! But, ssh, not a word of this, or the whole game of dignity will be lost forever. "Stand aside please, and let the Seniors on the trolley first."

Oh, yes, something else. Have you been fortunate enough to have any ailment as yet, so as to necessitate your visiting the infirmary? I've been there, and was I surprised? A nice, comfortable waiting room, with books to read—and nice, funny books too—but what's more, cigarettes to smoke while waiting. I nearly fainted, I was so overcome and impressed. And they do say the new M. D. serves tea. But that may be only a rumour of course,

FREE SPEECH

(The Editors of the News do not hold themselves responsible for the opinions expressed in this column. In order to insure the validity of this column as an organ for the expression of honest opinion, the editor must know the names of contributors.)

To the Editor of The News:

The uncomfortable necessity of undergoing physical education during one's senior year has led us to voice what we feel is a general complaint. Despite previous frustrations, the upperclasses should combine their forces in order to express their disapprobation of the present system. This sentiment of ours is not based upon mere indolence, but is motivated by a number of good reasons.

In the first place, the seniors feel that three years of physical training must have adequately prepared them to be able to take their own exercise, at the proper times and in the proper amounts. The faculty apparently places little confidence in our ability to look after our own health, but they have no basis for this belief—they have never given us a trial!

Furthermore, it is certainly true that many leading colleges for women are without this requirement. Why, then, should Connecticut, a young and supposedly progressive institution, insist upon treating its seniors after the boarding-school manner?

We are well aware that the abolition of physical education for seniors cannot be accomplished overnight, but we feel that intelligent and persistent opposition by the student body will bring the day of achievement nearer.

VESPERS

Speaking of the opportunity of modern youth at the present time, Dr. Laubenstein opened the Vesper Services for the year 1932-33 on Sunday, Sept. 25th at five o'clock in the gym.

Today, he said, there are three imperatives for goodness: (1) the machine, urging social restraint with its threat of dominating man; (2) crime, with the connivance of politicians, business, leaders of organized labor and politicians, urging us to an intelligent interest in our government; (3) the threat of war, urging us to abolish so much suffering; (4) Jesus, greatest of all, urging us to "Seek ye first the Kingdom of Heaven."

With these imperatives, the opportunity for modern youth to act as pioneers in bringing us to the better land is great, he concluded. Youth must have courage, faith in God, good will, and unselfish opinion to accomplish this end.

FACULTY VACATIONS

At Home and Abroad

Stimulating and interesting vacations were enjoyed by the faculty of Connecticut College during the summer recess. Many spent the summer abroad while others were engaged in work which keenly interested them here.

President Katharine Blunt spent the latter half of the summer in Europe, accompanied by Miss Marian P. Whitney of New Haven, a member of the college board of trustees. They first went to Edinburgh to attend the Sixth Conference of the International Federation of University Women at which President Blunt was an alternate voting delegate. Meeting university women from many foreign countries proved an interesting experience. From Edinburgh they went to Geneva where they spent an interesting week in spite of the fact that the Disarmament Conference had adjourned and the Assembly of the League of Nations was not in session. President Blunt and Miss Whitney met and talked with men and women connected with the League activities, visited the Secretariat and Labor organization and saw something of the League activities and plans. They were particularly impressed with the efforts which are made to give American visitors an insight into the League. After leaving Geneva they enjoyed two weeks of leisurely traveling in Italy before returning home.

Professor Esther Cary of the Romance language department also attended the conference of the International Federation of University Women in Edinburgh. After the conference she toured Ireland by motor with a small group of the convention delegates, under the auspices of the Women Graduates' Association of Queen's University of Belfast. She later travelled extensively in England.

Prof. Carola Ernst, also of the Romance language department, spent the summer in France and Belgium with groups of writers and artists.

Miss Alma Luckau, assistant in the German department, returned to her home in Germany for her vacation, not only to visit her family and friends, but to get the contact with new intellectual trends and to become acquainted with the economic and political situation in Germany today. She worked on her thesis at the Historical Seminar of the University of Berlin and also spent some time travelling in Germany.

Dr. Irene Nye, dean of the faculty and professor of Classical Philology, remained in New London for her vacation.

Dr. John Edwin Wells, professor of English, spent the summer in New London and the vicinity in literary work. He completed the Fifth Supplement to his Manual of the Writings in Middle English; wrote a number of articles on 18th and 19th century English and Middle English for periodicals and finished several sections of his Fifteenth Century Writings in English.

Dr. Gerard E. Jensen, assistant professor of English, spent the summer working on the text of Fielding's Tom Jones.

Progressive Health Measures

condition of health each week, and go to the infirmary when necessary, we will be doing all mankind a humanitarian service.

We will be aiding our College, too, by proving its reputation of being a progressive and modern institution. Many important experiments have been attempted here and have done much for the educational and psychological aspects of college life. But without a healthy body, a healthy mind is valueless.

Let us all take hold of the rope of progress and pull to our utmost.

Who sings it better than the Boswells?

Every Monday and Thursday... Connie, Vet and Martha, in that bubbling Boswell rhythm... as irresistible as Ol' Man Rivuh himself!

And while you listen, light up a Chesterfield. Enjoy their fresh fragrance, their mildness and better taste.

They're mild... and yet they Satisfy.

THE CIGARETTE THAT'S Milder
... THAT TASTES BETTER

© 1932, LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

Once again we get out the old bicycle and proceed to contract a charlie horse from pedalling round campus. We were relieved to find that the furniture exchange had not nabbed our steed and sold it to some foot sore Freshman.

Right at the start we want to condone with the freshies at whose expense this column may flourish. It's an ill wind that blows nobody any good.

Someone has certainly been putting ideas into the heads of the freshmen. At chapel time one was heard to say to another, "Are you going to church this morning?"

The poor old seniors deserve a public expression of sympathy from the Physical Ed. Dept. Their hopes were raised all summer but fall finds them back in hockey tunics.

A point of etiquette has arisen on the tennis courts. Does one use red or white balls on the new red courts?

Hat pins are being worn this year. That is, if you are a senior. Even nails might serve the purpose when one is dealing with mortar boards.

In case of fire consult a certain freshman who brought a rope

JUNIOR FRESHMAN PARTY

A colorful fashion parade was the main feature in the traditional Junior-Freshman party last Saturday evening. Dean Burdick, Miss Oakes, and Dr. Lawrence acted as chaperons. Jane Alexander was chairman.

Dancing furnished the first part of the program—wherein several of the Freshmen were introduced to the gentle art of cutting-in on the few men. About nine o'clock Mary Curnow and Betty Archer perched on the piano and harmonized a few popular songs, receiving much applause. lader to school for that express purpose.

Any New London residents desiring a midnight serenade may make arrangements with Betty Miller. This service is being rendered the community free of charge by the senior class.

We hope the Coast Guards weren't offended the other night. There just wasn't time to sing to everyone all in one evening.

Isn't the "College Inn" (Tea House to you) something to write home about? One is torn between sitting at the bar and in one of the booths.

The fashion show Saturday night filled us all with the spirit of prosperity. We judged others by ourselves and thought this year's styles and last year's would be identical.

It certainly was discouraging to discover that popovers were served at the dining hall the one morning we had breakfast at the island.

Freshman initiation will be upon us soon and with it the prospects of much argumentation over which is the freshest member of the class of '36.

Best wishes to you, Freshmen, and if you get taken for a ride just be thankful that you don't have to walk.

plause.

The lights were dimmed, and the dancers withdrew to the sidelines, leaving the floor clear for the style show. Two by two the models entered, slinking and sliding up the hall, making a graceful turn at the end, and then back again. There were trim sports outfits, with matching accessories. There was a trig riding habit. Street clothes, in vivid autumn shades, with clever jackets or fur capelets, won much admiration.

There was a pause in the style exhibit while Grace Cavin and Frances Rooke did a bit of syncopated tap dancing in brief black and white costumes.

Again the dimming of lights, and the models glided forth once more. Afternoon dresses, in gay and soft colors, with their puffed sleeves and nipped-in waists, and the jaunty wee caps topping the costumes. Then semi-formals, long and graceful, in silks and velvets. Next the luscious evening gowns, revealed sparklingly from beneath luxurious wraps of black velvet and white fur. Appropriately ending the show were lounging pajamas, silken, and soft-toned, and one with a pert little padded jacket to keep off the draughts.

Camille Sams ended the entertainment with some splendidly sung "blues". Her low, carrying voice won great applause from the audience. Then a few more dances, and the party was over.

LIZZIE AND DIZZIE

my dear, but nothing could surprise me now.

And Mr. Cobbledick is back, and simply overwhelmed at his popularity, but that's what he gets for being so nice to us two years ago. "The elephant never forgets" or words to that effect. Not casting any aspersions on one's corpulence you know, but just kinda quoting if you know what I mean. "Get it?"

Guess I'd better stop now. Awfully glad you're back again, and hope you had a fine summer, and what did you do anyway, and how are you, and how do you feel about this Senior business? I simply must dash around and see some of the gang, and oh yes, you must come see me sometime, only bring your own silverware if you want any food, and honestly it's not a bit out of your way to drop in here. Of course I do study a lot, for after all one must give the right impression at the beginning at least, and besides as a Senior one must encourage those under us in the proper attitude.

I'll be seeing you at the President's Chapel, or at Vespers, that is if that cap stays where it belongs, which isn't over one eye. It is kinda fun to be a Senior, isn't it?

Yours—with dignity,
assumed or otherwise,
LIZZIE.
