T. M. Grene To Be Second Speaker In Convocation Group

Faith Will Be Topic of Philosophy Professor
Tuesday, October 24

The question, "Can religious faith be intellectually honest?" is the theme of the second in a series of convocation lectures which will be held in the U. S. C. auditorium, 4:20 in Palmer auditorium; Theodore M. Grene, professor of philosophy at Princeton University, will discuss this subject from the point of view of his home institution.

Dr. Grene was born in Connecticut and received his B. A. degree at Amherst college and his Ph.D. at the University of Chicago in 1919.

Active Over 20 Years

In 1919, Dr. Grene served as a member of the American Psychological Association and since then, he has been a fellow in American Psychological Association, American Association for the Advance of Science, the Institute of the National Research Council, and the American Philosophical Society. He is a member of the American National Educational Foundation and a fellow in the University of Michigan.

Intensive Russian New

Connecticut was the first woman' college to offer an intensive Russian course. The course was first started at Cornell as an experiment in 1908, when a group of students from the University of Wisconsin and the University of Illinois met in New York to discuss the possibilities of introducing Russian into the curriculum. In 1911, the course was offered at the University of California, and in 1914, it was offered at the University of Michigan. The course was later offered at the University of Wisconsin and the University of Illinois, and in 1920, it was offered at the University of California. The course was later offered at the University of California and the University of Illinois, and in 1920, it was offered at the University of California.

National War Fund Drive Opens Here

The United Welfare National War Fund, which has already passed the national quota of 115 million dollars, will continue to be advertised in the newspapers. The campaign was launched in December, and the goal is to raise $115 million by the end of the year. The campaign is being conducted in all parts of the country, and the money raised will be used to support the United States Armed Forces.

Dear Editor:

Congratulations for your editorial of October 11. This was a highly commendable editorial since the News has inaugurated this series of unbiased discussions on current political issues, for it is certain that these issues—rather than inherited political tenets or one-sided preconceived material gleaned from newspapers or magazines—should be the basis for decision. We believe that those who are seeking verbal ammunition with which to strengthen their particular choice will have to look elsewhere. However, the group termed "conscientious independents" who wish to remain independent and thoughtful choice need such material as the News presented through Nancy Schulte's first article and they need much more of it.

Congratulations again for an impartiality seldom found in your larger brothers of the press.

Editorial Comment

Dear Editor:

We, of Thomas dinner hall do not get enough to eat.

We realize that there is a war on, but we can not see why there shouldn't be plenty of unsalted food for us. We wish to ask you if we should have one glass of milk a meal, and that one only two filled.

Also, we can not understand why there should not always be seconds on unsalted food, including unsalted meat. Where are our ration points going? We have seen very little rationed meat going. What we used to get for lunch, we now get for dinner. Sodas are served after that meal.

It is a sorry plight when C.C. girls have to spend their allowance on the basic foods, when their families are already paying so they may eat well. Although most of us enjoy going to the Snack Bar, we don't appreciate having to live on "sodas" and "Nabs." That is not what we learned in nutrition class as being the best diet. The Hungry Ones and two are taking the literature course. In the evenings 18 adults are also being taught at the course.

Mrs. Wolokonsky received her B.A. from the Taganrog Institute in Petrograd, did graduate work at the Sorbonne in Paris and at the Yeshiva College, Columbia university, and received her B.S. degree in languages at Middlebury college.

After teaching languages for 20 years she went to Cornell university where she worked under Ernest J. Simmons, who started the intensive language courses there. Mrs. Wolokonsky can speak German, French, Italian, Spanish, Old Slavonic as well as Russian and English.

When asked to compare the work of the Russian student to the American student, Mrs. Wolokansky said that the Russian students have to work much harder than we do. For college preparatory courses they are required to take three years of physics and two years of chemistry! Yes, even the girls, for all students must take the same state exam. Their classes run five hours a day, are days a week, but with study it amounts to much more than five hours. And to top it off, they must start earning money even before they get into the university. They don't get much chance to enjoy life at that age!

Vogue Competition
For Benefit of '45

This year Vogue's tenth Prix de Paris will be given to the student who is judged the member of the class of 1945 throughout the comp-

ity. Its object is not only to discover and develop potential junior editors who have a flair for fashion and writing, but also those who have the talent in the fields of interior decoration, needlework, advertising, photography, layout, or editorial production.

The first prize winner of the competition will be awarded one of the many awards on the Vogue staff. It may even be possible for this year's winners, spent six months at the Paris office as flats before World War II. The second winner will join the Vogue staff and will receive the Connors Quizends Found In Vogue

In addition to this interviews have been arranged for handsome- ment winners and even non- winners in both Condé Nast publications and advertising agencies, and publications throughout the country.

The four quizzes, which are to appear in the time of the test, will be found in Vogue magazine and the information is to be submitted in the October 1 issue to be found on the newswords today. Marjorie Pick-Campbell, Paris director, will be available at all times for answers or advice on job opportunities, either by telephone or personal interview. Entrants' applications may be sent to Vogue magazine, 1 West 40th Ave., New York 17, N. Y.

Students Teaching Bible to Children At Beach Hospital by Peggy Ingh 1147

Each year twelve students from college leave for Seaside Sanatorium near Ocean Park for the fall semester. From one to twenty years are given for training for the children's care. From about two to three thousand children, eight of whom are Protestants and four of whom are Catholic, hold Bible classes, each of which is made up of different age groups.

In Wagner, the program of a former student minister who is a prominent minister in this city, has been involved in the welfare of the community for five years. Lyman '46 heads the committee here.

A few parties are being planned for the children, the first of which in in the early part of November. At least one other party will be scheduled, probably for sometime around Christmas.

The students have been out to Seaside twice this year, and have enjoyed working with the children. It's a great deal, especially for visitors who are always welcome at Seaside, and it is hoped that other students will make plans to visit the children in the future.

Every Monday night was held for recreation and leadership at Seaside. One afternoon a week students will be needed to teach games and read the children. For those who are interested in this type of work further information can be obtained from Betty Lyman '46.

A cable just received in the W.S.S.F. office tells of two staff members already in France, opening a rehabilitation program for French students in the Savoie mountains. A representative of the French student resistance movement is already working in the Geneva office. Plans are being made for the first student relief worker to go from overseas to go to Europe.

The program among prisoners of war keeps its primary place in the current student activities, eight program. Despite disrupted communications, the regular news and books go each month from Geneva to individual prisoners. The current monthly periodical comes out every five days, for the repatriation process will be slow.

The W.S.S.F. reports that its aid is on hand in the Central European countries, which continues with the work soon to enter its third year.

"There is no doubt that American students can raise $500,000 for the relief of fellow students who are victims of war. They can raise more than that if they set their minds to it!" says President Fouche, professor, and former Princeton. Robert B. Garry, president of the World Student Service Fund.

Caught on Campus

The last week and a half has been so uneventful that only one member of the sophomore class, Nicker, Finger '47, was observed to hang around one morning when she got up to find that she had suddenly acquired an appetite. Upon further investigation she discovered that part of her hunger was due to the fact that the wires were lying upon the floor in front of her dormitory window, and probably the scissors that had done the deed. Nicker's own deduction is that she got up in her sleep and cut it herself, but she may have been possibly true, but did anybody stop to think that there might be sabotage in the quad? Cutting wire, huh? ...
