
At the faculty meeting on October 6, the Department of Physical Education made a new proposal, which effectively eliminates requirements in the Department while still requiring personnel to teach elective activities.

PROPOSAL FROM THE DEPARTMENT OF PHYSICAL EDUCATION

In view of the present trends in college physical education programs, the Department of Physical Education will offer for all Connecticut College students a one-half academic credit for a semester with a limit of not more than four courses (totaling 10 semester hours academic credit on a part-time basis) during the four years in residence.

1. Elective courses in instruction covering one-half academic credit for a semester with a limit of not more than four courses (totaling 10 semester hours academic credit on a part-time basis) during the four years in residence.

2. Elective courses in instruction in the various activities without academic credit.

An expanding program in intercollegiate and intramural activities for all interested, and qualified, students.

Because the adoption of this resolution would entail a charge in the requirements for graduation, the proposal was referred to the Academic Policy Committee. The APC will draw up its own proposal, based on the one above, and with the cooperation and advice of the Phys. Ed. Department. The APC was instructed to report back to the faculty by December 1, 1971.

Faculty rules require a four week waiting period before voting after such a proposal is brought to the floor, so the vote seems likely in January. In any case, the new proposal cannot go into effect until September, 1973.
On Perimeters and Stacks

Upon initial examination, the plans for the future development of the Connecticut College campus appear to exceed our financial capabilities. Yet the fact remains that Palmer Library is overcrowded to the point where expansion is necessary, and a perimeter drive may become urgent in the near future.

All three proposals for the enlargement of the library are extremely expensive, and the adoption of the two cheaper schemes may cost the College more in the long run. Since Hillyer Hall is apparently on the verge of collapse, any plan which does not include the relocation of the bookstock and post office is impractical. Thames and Winthrop are structurally unsound and inadequate in terms of space, location and acoustics. It would be logical to include offices and classrooms presently housed in Thames and Winthrop in the plans for the new library complex. Thus Scheme "C" (described on the opposite page) appears to serve the best interests of the College, despite the fact it is intrinsically more expensive. In any event, the College will soon be forced to relocate all facilities in Hillyer, Thames and Winthrop Halls, so it is only reasonable that these accommodations be made in conjunction with future plans for the library.

A perimeter drive would obviously enhance the center of the campus by eliminating the heavy traffic of delivery trucks and other idlers. We favor Plan "B" (also described and illustrated on the opposite page) as it utilizes existing roads more advantageously and cuts a better path across campus by running behind Lazarus and the President's House. Dick Gregory and Pundit have expressed this viewpoint, and to be considered also is that fire engines are unable to pass underneath the Infirmary, severely inhibiting emergency service.

Proposal Support

We wish to voice approval of the Proposal of the Physical Education Department, which can be found elsewhere in today's issue. While the proposal effectively does away with the mandatory courses, it retains the Department as a whole to teach those courses in which student interest is most prevalent. As the College becomes larger, and as the number of male on campus increases, it will become necessary for any vacancy to be filled by the Department and program. We applaud last week's proposal, and urge its acceptance.

The Editors would like to express our sincere apologies for the omission of Paul Tisher's name as credit for the photo on page 3 of last week's issue. Also Elaine Soron '72 was mistakenly omitted from the Second Letter to the Editors, and the middle of Ellen Fick's more entertainingly answered at the end of the article. We promise to be more careful.

LETTERS TO THE EDITORS

To the Editors:

We deploy the misleading phrase given to us by the college administration: "it is obvious from the quotes in the article that the three so-called parts of this "club" are capable of directing anything, especially their own thoughts."

We especially deplore the fact that the reporter was apparently blind to the nonsense that MM. Gangler, Howe and Hannum perpetrate. It is patently obvious to anyone who bothered to read the article that the sentiment of the "club" is more than the weak proposition attempted to be given by its forlorn prosperity. Anyone who had seen the Dick Cavell show of the fall would have recognized M. Hummel's remarks as nothing more than blatant plagiarism.

Though we recognize the sincerity we feel perhaps it could take a "prophetic" guise in our time.

Kudos should go to Miss Greene for her adept handling of these boxes and envelopes.

Respectfully,

Dick Gregory, Perriemus Arminia, president of the Cliff (club of Consciousness)

We wish to voice approval of the Proposal of the Physical Education Department.

PUNDIT'S editorial stuff. The pseudonym does not vindicate the content as intended.

We have a problem with which we hope you can help us. We are considered terribly conservative by all the really "in" people because we can't get into the wholesome mocking of vulgar attempts.

When your article appeared in Pundit last week ("Bleicher-Ridden Greenwich," etc.), we assumed that you would be able to direct us right into the mainstream of "cool.

Could you please send us your illustrated booklets. "Ultra Trendy: Journalism Writing and Everyday Living!" We would be so grateful.

An article appearing in last week's Pundit listed its authors as Amanda Wondrels, Pundit's assistant editorial staff. We are confused as to who the author might be. Amanda's name was changed to David Chaffee. David's article was submitted as satire by David Chaffee. Since the name is misunderstood, has another installment in this week's Pundit.

Controversy
"Groovy Bob" Offers 10 Point For Staying Cool & Acceptable

By Diane Nettles

So you've registered to vote
now what'? Would you like to be a political pundit

Groovy Bob says: "I respect all age, that's how I stay alive."

(Groovy Bob and Amanda Wonders were not invented to put down any one particular kind of people, but rather to exhibit some of the hypocrisies in our social mores, things that we take for granted. In many social situations where trends are created in order to bring people together, they often have the unhappy consequence of alienating and isolating people who cannot or do not want to conform to these modes, but at the same time enjoy friendship and other people as much as anyone else does. It is the hope, therefore, of this article, that we can more realistically apprise ourselves, remembering that others, although of a different conviction or not being able to measure up, should not be ostracized. David Chaffers)

The Ten Commandments for Social Success

1. Thou shalt have long hair, the longer the better and the frizzier the better.
2. Thou shalt have the loudest stereo or thy floor.
3. Thou shalt have the most diversified population of any school, in such things as Jeff Beck's first album, the fact that you are a bi-product of Beck and the knowledge that Peter Yarrow is a devotee.
4. Thou shalt have the greatest and most diversified drug experiences on campus and always in full stock of said commodity with a firm knowledge of what drugs are going around and always using groovy terms like Panamanian Red, etc.
5. Thou shall never use the term girl when chic can be used or any other straight term when a hip term may be used.
6. Thou shall never speak good of the food at Connecticut College.
7. Thou shall always have the best put down for someone who is not considered to be part of thy gang.
8. Thou shalt never be appellate to their parents always remembering in thy they have caused thy plight.
9. Thou shall always call those that thou dislike, “chauvinist pig, fascist idiot, pseudo-liberal, redneck” or in most of the above can be used, a plain asshole or a derivative thereof, remembering at the same time always to "right on" when thou wants to be hip.
10. And lastly and most importantly, thou shalt never speak good of, but always despise those, of short height, those who do not use drugs, those who do not love rock music, those who dress conventionally or are of conservative political stances, or those who, for any other reason, exhibit "straight" characteristics.

Ecology Front

By Lynn Cole

President Shain has announced the members of the Connecticut College Committee of the Environmental group, Margaret Shepard ’73, will act as chairman. The faculty representatives are Dr. Scott Warren, and Dr. Beth Boynton, botany, and Mrs. Gellinsek, German. Dr. Dick Ginsburg (Physical Plant), Mr. Old (Treasurer), and Miss Voorhees (Secretary) represent the administration. The student body is represented on the committee by Gene Pfeifer and Lynn Cole.

Survival, the ecology campus club, will be the main function in carrying out the committee's purposes. President Shain hopes that by involving all sectors of the college community, the committee's suggestions will be administered campus-wide.

At its first meeting, the CCEM agreed that its primary job is to educate the campus. Most of the recommendations can be implemented with a minimum of sacrifice if the campus is made aware of the present condition and the solutions. They have suggested that Survival hold a meeting in each dorm to alert the students to the committee's suggestions.

This is a chance for a large number of people to become involved in a comprehensive environmental program. The success of the program, however, will depend upon the cooperation of all the people all of the time. I urge everyone not to be afraid of the problems, but also to cooperate with the committee in bringing about their solution.

Poetry Circuit Plans

In February, 1972, the Connecticut College Poetry Circuit, an organization which coordinates the visits of a series of poets and writers to the campuses of member colleges and universities in the state, is planning a series of poetry readings by undergraduate students around Connecticut.

Connecticut College was the first in Connecticut in 1971, but Gayl Jones ’71 was selected for the first tour in 1971. Connecticut College is now asked to select a candidate for the 1971 circuit. A jury (who are not themselves candidates) and two faculty members will select the final two students from the submitted manuscripts by Wednesday, October 13. The authors of the chosen manuscripts will then read their poems before a college audience in the next major event on the Student Union calendar in the 1 pm Thursday, at which time the audience will select a finalist poet.

The winning poet from this circuit will be judged by a jury of poets, and if selected for the circuit will tour the State in February, reading again on campus at Connecticut College at that time.

Recourse For Students

By Beverly Prince

Connecticut College prides itself for being a Liberal Arts College, yet, there is no recourse for a student who feels he has been unjustly graded or treated unfairly in a course.

As a result, faculty and administrators have been allowed to use their own discretion, this discretion can not be contested by anyone. This is known as academic freedom. But what about the academic freedom of the student who is paying the bills?

Even though we all know that personality conflicts and racial biases exist, we can not contest our grades or individual faculty policy.

Bring it to the attention of your house president or write to Pundit.

Beverly C. Prince
A major proposal currently under consideration by the Administration and the Board of Trustees is designed to capture the intrinsic aesthetic beauty of our campus. This plan deals specifically with the prohibition of all motor vehicles from the center of campus, achieved via the construction of a perimeter road. No longer would pedestrians or bicyclists be forced to dodge delivery trucks or students dragnets, and much of the noise disturbance from Mohegan Avenue would be eliminated.

Many of the roads included in the plan are already in use, but it would be necessary to construct links between these roads and install lighting and drainage facilities, as well as a few new parking lots. The estimated cost of this endeavor is $300,000.

With the increased amount of traffic on Mohegan Avenue due to proposed roads for the inter-change of the new Gorton bridge, the Williams Street entrance will soon be the Main Entrance. Starting from this point in front of the Chapel, Plan A would utilize the existing drive extending along the south campus dorms, around past Cummings Art Center, and continuing as far as Fanning Hall.

The road would then veer toward Mohegan Avenue, passing along the eastern side of Halse Laboratory, the President's house, and north to the faculty housing past the most northern complex dorms, forming a loop around the complex.

Also, according to Plan A, the parking lot running alongside the western complex dorms would be included in the perimeter drive, extending the road up the hill behind the squash and tennis courts, in front of Lurazus, under the Infirmary, and ending at the Williams Street entrance. Parking lots would be constructed on those portions of the drive just north of Lurazus, east along Mohegan Avenue near Winthrop Hall, and a lot for approximately 150 cars would be built along the north end of the complex behind a stand of trees.

The alternative suggestion, appropriately Plan B, is more recent and includes more of the existing roads, but would not form a more compact pattern. This plan begins at the new Williams Street entrance, and follows the present road around past the south campus dorms and the Arts Center all the way to Hillier Hall. At this point, the road cuts down between Larzabal and Winthrop, curving westward and utilizing the current access road to the western part of the complex. From the corner of the complex by Wright House, the drive would extend southwest behind Lurazus and the Infirmary, intersecting the present road from behind the Chapel.

Two major considerations must be kept in mind when designing the new library expansion. They include the cost estimates are probably low, since construction costs will be included in the present road from behind the Chapel.

Crew Team Mixes Competition And Fun For Coming Season

by Jim Shackford

At 3:30 PM four times a week the rowing crew meets on the river. At 3:30 PM they return seeking solace for later supper, with orders to sit with someone new and talk. In the meantime, they have been rowing like Vikings, shaping up for their first regatta of the season. By spring, they hope to be a solid group, ready to take on the big boys.

The rowing crew consists of about 25 women and 15 men, most of whom are new to crew. The forty-odd individuals come from a large variety of backgrounds and have diverse personalities, which mix into a favorable condition for the experiment that they are trying.

The coach is Bart Gullong, who comes to the Connecticut River staff from Simsbury, Conn., High School. He believes that rowing as a sport is a way of being fit, of developing the individual, and not the masochistic chore that has come to be the image of the "bookworms" and what our generation calls "Jocks" and "Franks." The crew coach is optimistic for the belief for the progress that has been made.

Camels Hump Vassar, Winning Record

by Dara Colette

In its first really big game of the year the Conn College varsity soccer team ran over Vassar by a score of 5-0. Utilizing a full squad and enjoying a small field advantage, Connecticut opened the scoring in the first quarter.

Peter Vicky corner kicked a free ball deep in the box. Harvey who banged in a goal from about the eighteen yard line. After that the game was never looked at. Peter Vicky, Shawne, in the pret- tie play of the game, faked out the last fullback and got off a hard shot to the upper right corner of the goal. It was blocked by Bob Balek and Bruce Garnant added to the line of effectiveness by their fine goalkeeping.

The opponent's inability to score leads to the defense with Dora Colette playing point position, Mark Gerolmo playing left fullback, Golly playing right fullback and Santak Achsakharov.

Bohacek's and Shawon Stone scored goals for the Cats.

President Stanford has announced the incorporation of the College, which have been acknowledged over the last few months.

A large gift from the gift of Rosamond Davidson to be added to the endowment of the Arborist was the gift of $11,200 to help the College's outdoor, Theatre, and the Library.

From the Edwin J. Beeske Trust, a gift of $25,000 for the Library.

From the Louis Calder Foundation, a gift of $20,000 to hire scholars and assistants.

An anonymous alumna has reported the earlier gift of $2,000 to the History Department for the use of faculty and students.
