Committee to select new President established

Several members of the Executive Committee discuss the process of selecting the student representatives to the committee to select a new President of the College

By Nina Gorge

The Chairman of the Board of Trustees has announced that the committee for the selection of Connecticut College's next President is to consist of six trustees, three faculty members, two students, and two alumnae members. The first meeting of the Committee will take place October 12, when it is hoped that all nominations for faculty and student members will be completed. The Trustees and Alumnae have already been selected. The Trustees are:

W.E.S. Griswold Jr., Chairman; Mrs. Helen Battniewski; Mr. Guido Calabrese; Mrs. Eleanor Kranz; Mrs. Percy Lee; and Mrs. Agnes Saabfield. Alumnae members of the Committee are: Mrs. Eleanor Kranz, '34; and Mrs. Patricia Wetherell Abrams, '38, President of the Alumnae Association. Mrs. Warrina Eastburn, Secretary of the College, is the Administrative Director for the Selection Committee.

The Presidential Selection Committee faculty members will be chosen through the following procedure: The faculty Committee on Nominations, composed of Mr. Wayne Swanson, Chairman; Mr. Otello Desiderato & Katherine Finney, will propose three names, with a view toward achieving balance of representation among the faculty members of the Selection Committee. The names of the three nominees shall be distributed to voting members of the faculty on a nominating ballot; each member of the faculty may nominate three additional persons. The names of the three additional persons receiving the highest number of votes on the nominating ballot shall be designated faculty nominees. In case of a tie vote, a run-off election shall be held. A preliminary ballot shall be circulated to the faculty listing the three nominations made by the Committee on Nominations and the three nominations made by the faculty. Each member of the faculty may vote for three members of the Selection Committee. Persons receiving the highest number of votes shall be declared elected; provided that in the case of a tie vote, a run-off election shall be held. Should one or more vacancies be unfilled by the election ballot, the same nominating and election procedure shall be followed to fill the unfilled position.

At the Student Assembly meeting on Wednesday night, suggestions were entertained from the Assembly members as to whom they felt would be qualified to serve as the student representatives to the Committee to select a new President. With these suggestions in mind, the Executive Committee and presidents of each class determined late Wednesday the names of the representatives.

This information was obtained after the Pundit had been put to bed and therefore is not included. A full explanation of why this was done is on Page 4.
Elitism rules

The following editorial expresses the views of the Co-editors-in-chief and not necessarily those of the entire Editorial Board. Due to time factors, it was not possible to contact the other members.

On the front page of this edition, there is an article which describes the manner employed in selecting the student representatives to the committee to select a new President of the College. Basically, each house president was asked to suggest names which they thought appropriate. The Executive Committee and class presidents then voted on these names and names which they themselves brought to the meeting.

It appears to the Co-editors-in-chief of Pundit that this random selection is quite elitist and obviously unfair. House presidents were unofficially forewarned of the fact that they would be asked to suggest names and could not therefore ask around the dorms as to who would be interested. In addition, if one is not familiar with their house president, i.e. transfer students, students returning from exchange programs, freshmen, and students who changed their dorm after the elections, they would not possibly be considered. Moreover, if a house president was absent from this meeting, which is a common occurrence, those people in that dorm would not be represented.

After the names have been compiled from this meeting, they were then voted on by the members of the Executive Committee and the class presidents. These people were voting solely on the impressions they had of the candidates via rumors and hearsay. At no point are qualifications submitted by the candidates. The people selected were those who have appeared before and are known to government members, again a bigoted manner of selection.

We feel that this committee is too important to be determined by an elitist few who do not even consider the option of self-nomination and platforms which would come from a general election. Rather than have the candidates explain why they consider themselves to be qualified, the selection is made upon the basis of "who you know."

We condemn this system entirely and hope that there will be a strong enough student opinion to disregard this selection and demand another manner of selecting new members.

Where is it?

Where is the report of the summer committee? This cry seems to ring out every year around the beginning of October as publication of the final results is put off and put off.

This year however, the report is shrouded in more mystery than ever. These were rumors of a scandal. There are rumors that its not coming out. PUNDIT would like to dispel these rumors by printing the truth. Yet how can the truth be found when no one will give us any answers? We have tried for three weeks to get a news story on it. No one will tell anyone anything.

Must there always be a major hassle surrounding the publication of this valuable study? PUNDIT joins with the rest of the college community in demanding to see the results of the committee’s work.

ELECTIONS

There will be sign-up sheets in the Student Government room on Friday, Sept. 28 and Monday, Oct. 1 for offices in the Class of 1977 and for the Judiciary Board. Nominations in the Class of 1975.

All candidates should submit one type-written platform statement (double-spaced).

Tuesday, Oct. 2: Class of 1977 Presidential speeches in Crozier-Williams, 7:00 p.m.

Thursday, Oct. 4: Balloting for all offices in the dorms via House Prunettes.

For any additional information please contact Josie Curran, extension 504.

Letters to the editor

To the Editor:

May I correct two small inaccuracies in last week's report on my resignation. Miss Nina George is such a competent reporter that I hope she won't mind these public corrections.

I am sure you are aware that I am also under the strong impression that I did not say "it might be time for some female administrative leadership at Connecticut." What I said (to my best recollection, as we say these days) was: "I hope the College at present enjoys a strong element of female administrative leadership."

CHARLES E. SHAIN
President

To the Editor:

Surprised you may be to read from a foreigner. I am interested in having pen-pals from your college and would like to carry on a correspondence which will bring me to your country's embassy, where I got this address. So I hope you will write me and let me know if I can get for you to publish in your paper. I am a Nigerian, 22 years old, and I am interested in swimming, cinema and all things to do with funky sounds. More over, my interest is also extended to extra-curricular activities at home.

I wish to end while expecting to hear from some of your students who may be interested.

Thorns in advance for your cooperation.

Address: Mr. Dianabasi Nkanta

Surulere, Lagos

Yours sincerely,
Dianabasi Nkanta

To The Editor:

Hey folks. The benches and sculptures around Cummings Arts Center work only marginally as well as bike racks, and when used as bike racks don't work at all as sculptures and benches.

Let's put some pressure on Physical Plant or some other admin office to provide proper racks and in the meantime let others enjoy the works of art and seating. Thanks.

To the Editor:

The Thames Science Center, located about ten minutes from Connecticut College on Gallows Lane, invites you to visit our live animal museum, museum shop, and nature trails.

The Science Center is a non-profit educational organization, which is supported by the community by offering field trips for schools, workshops, family nature walks, weekend excursions to such areas as the White Mountains, slide presentations, and special programs such as auctions, fairs, and wildlife films.

The Science Center needs your help. We depend on the services of volunteers to assist us as receptionists, workshop leaders, teacher aides, and in preparing monthly mailings. Your volunteer time is flexible and can meet with your own daily schedule.

If you are interested in the Center, its programs, or how to volunteer, please call us at 442-0381. The Center is open Monday through Saturday from 9-5, or, better yet, come in sometime after class and get to know this valuable resource right in your own backyard.

Mathematical seminar
By Bill Loony

Disavowing any notion that mathematics as a field of scholarly endeavour is "limited by the scientific exactitude inherent in its application," the mathematics department, under the direction of Dr. Stanley Wertheimer, recently began a series of seminar-lectures in investigating the construction and implementation of "mathematical models."

In the opening lecture, "Mathematical Models: An Introduction," Wertheimer stressed the need for integration of mathematics with other disciplines, especially the social sciences, and remarked that "a rather negative attitude toward mathematics has its origins in the simple fact that many disciplines are not possessed of a sufficient degree of exactitude to be used in tandem with mathematics."

But, he continued, "few areas have remained untouched by mathematics. Economics, inherently a social science, has been heavily influenced by mathematical theory and practice, so much so that it appears to be a social science with the introduction of a model to explain theory in practical terms, which leads finally to an observation. Utilization of the mathematical model on a broad scale, Wertheimer related, was recently undertaken by a team of MIT researchers who constructed a mathematical model of the world to investigate potential threats to its future well-being."

"Incredibly enough, natural resources, more specifically the lack of them, emerged as the most pressing threat, surrounding pollution and increasing increase," he said.

Future lectures will further investigate models and attempt to integrate their application with other disciplines, "who call ramifications are endless," observed Wertheimer. Meetings are held weekly in Hale Laboratory on campus.

true for the penal system, vice, corruption, and many other institutions.

The last step involved, and the hardest, involves wading through the bureaucracy to get the reform in many ways. Before the first steps can be taken in any reform, a method or methods of reform must be offered.

I do not profess to know the answers, only ask that before one does the easiest thing, to attack and criticize, that some thought be put into the criticism and the means of resolution offered.

Security log

By Pattie Kyne

As was predicted in this column last week, trouble began when parking stickers were issued to students. The ticketing of car owners started Monday, Sept. 24, but the results won't really be felt until a few cars get ticketed for the third time—and that's when they're towed away. Beware, illegal parkers!

The red stakes are the boundaries for student parking.

There has been some talk about replacing all faculty parking stickers. Whereas they used to be permanent, they might have to be renewed due to the unlawful student practice of using the faculty stickers.

The third bike to be stolen this year was taken from the south side of Windham. The thief left the front wheel attached to the rack, and made off with the frame and the remaining wheel.

Chief of Campus Security Francis O'Grady advises bicyclists to lock the frame to the rack, rather than the wheels.

A false alarm was sounded in Larrabee at 12:01 a.m. Friday night when a student from another dorm inadvertently fell back against the alarm.

The residents of Wing may have been awakened with a bang at 6:30 a.m. when the smoke alarm went off. The fire alarm must be reset.

BSQE sounding board

The weekly schedule follows; each talk will be given on either the Wednesday or Tuesday of the week, at 4:20 p.m. in Hale Laboratory Lecture Room. (Wednesday if there is no faculty meeting, Tuesday if there is.)

All talks will be expository and aimed at a general audience.

SOCCER MATCH: Connecticut College vs. Rhode Island College, 3:15 p.m., Home. Thursday, Sept. 27.

FILM: "King of Hearts," starring Alan Bates, Jean-Claude Brialy and Genevieve Bujold. The New York Times. "Wildly raffish slapstick and satire." A climb through the metal posts at the Arboretum is an attractive place to view the sunset; however, the gates are locked at dusk down for mutual protection. A climb through the metal posts may be awkward, so it is recommended that you watch the time.

Dorm parties: Controlled fun

By Walter Palmer

Now that all the orientation is over and we enter into the routine of classes and homework, the weekends offer a welcome relief from academics. One of the more popular weekend amusements is dormitory parties.

Although they are largely up to the members of the dormitory, there are a few rules and general guidelines for dorm parties. Ms. Voorhees, Director of Residence, gives the following suggestions. Basically, the dormitory is responsible for any damages that occur during a party, and the clean up afterwards. The first responsibility is self-explanatory, but the second needs some clarification. When a dorm decides to have a party, it must schedule it preferably by mid-week, with the Director of Residence in Harris Refactory. This is so she can arrange for a clean-up crew for the day following the party. This is paid for by the dorm, but it has never exceeded fifteen dollars. In addition, the dormitory should arrange for two student committees, as provided in the by-laws of the College in conjunction with the State of Connecticut. The final step in the election process will be ratification of the candidate by the entire Board of Trustees. The College President is appointed for a one-year period, subject to re-appointment at the end of that term. All suggestions concerning possible candidates will be considered by the Presidential Selection Committee, and may be addressed to Warren Eastburn, Secretary of the College and Administrative Officer for the Selection Committee, care of Fanning Hall.

Committee selections process was employed for the selection and the names of the committee members will appear in next week's issue.

Although it appears that all constituents will be represented in the election of Connecticut's next President, the final decision is left only to the Committee.

What Crozier-Williams has to offer

‘A midsummers nights delight’

By Maxine Olderman

He organized this merry band. Born of the Royal Shakespeare group
They proved themselves a noble troop.
Most notably, Diana Rigg, an actress
Long of stage and screen
Who played dark Helena well and true,
With moments kind and moments mean.
The film itself was quite unique, Some have said it was a freak
Of camera-work and costume too
Those patent leather books were new.
Methinks perhaps one could have seen
A cheerful visage than olive green
Yet somehow in the end result
Professors and students did enact
In Shakespeare modern, Shakespeare new
By force of test, they kept it true.
That was despite September night
A real Midsummer Night’s delight.
These things and more one can learn soon
by coming to the Coffee Spoon.
On Wednesday last we kindly treated
The good bard’s work, no sex deleted.
With Mr. Seng as Shakespeare scholar
(Who thought Titania quite a dame)
We sat and talked and laughed and hollered
Should Hall or Zeffirelli gain true fame.
Well now good friends, my story’s ended.
Some will say it’s too extended.
I’ve tried to keep the bard’s true spirit,
And yet deep in my heart I fear it
That this is nothing more than trash,
And much less Shakespeare than Odin Nash.

Alternative source of nourishment

By Katie Paine

In an attempt to provide students with an alternative to dorm food and retail prices, a food coop has been started. The food is supplied by Erewhon Trading Post. The organizers buy food wholesale and thereby save 30 per cent to 50 per cent off the cost.

In order to purchase the food at such low prices, large quantities must be ordered. For this reason a 5 lb. minimum order is required. However, the idea is to combine energy and money. If 5 people get together and each buys a pound of raisins for example, they each have to order minimum requirement filled and they save around thirty cents a pound. Mostly dried foods, nuts and grains are available. Few perishables are ordered. If one is interested contact Box 556 for the complete eight page price list.

The savings are quite generous. Downtown almonds can be purchased for $2.85. Through the Conn. College food co-op you can get them for $1.50 a pound. Apple juice retails for $1.15 a quart but through the co-op it is $1 a quart. Best of all is that these raisins are organic corn chips, tortilla chips, honey and peanut butter. In addition, there are organic corn chips, various kinds of rice, flour, rice, and beans, and much more.

History dept. presents 'Epic drama'

By Maxine Olderman

The recent grant from an unnamed history major graduate has enabled the History Department to finance a series of lectures and films at the college.

This Saturday afternoon the department will present ‘The Sorrow and the Pity’ by Marcel Ophuls. Ophuls’ epic film on the fall of France. Ophuls spent three years in France and upon actual newsreels from various countries and upon didactic propaganda about the film. Ophuls’ approach to the film is innovative. He edited filmed television interviews of people who actually lived through the German occupation. A review of the film entitled ‘Collaboration and Resistance’ was critical of the film for its depiction of political drama. Ophuls’ film is a critical judgment of these people, their psychological motivation, and the political climate, and the ultimate catastrophe of the occupation of France.

Pauline Kael in her review of the film in The New Yorker claims, “It is the highest praise I can offer ‘The Sorrow and the Pity’ and it is that it is fairly portrayed. One is left with the question of whether (and how much) the French really have been marked — in the long run — by the Nazi experience.”

Bar blurb

The question of when the Cro Bar will officially open is as yet unanswered. The final proposals from the bar committee are being turned over to the administration, according to Mrs. Carter, and from that, little progress has been noted. However, in preparation for the Grand Opening, the pool tables are being moved from the lounge into Room 113 today.

Dr. McKeon is an organic chemist, and the National Science Foundation sponsored research which he has done in electroanalytical chemistry at Harvard. Connecticut College awarded his sabbatical leave during 1971-72 in order that he might further his studies into the electrochemistry of organic compounds.

Grant boosts Marine Biology Program

Connecticut College's undergraduate program in marine biology will be increased significantly by a $30,000 grant made recently for this purpose by a private foundation. The money, to be paid to the college over the next three years, will be used by the college to provide stipends for under-graduate students and to continue the marine biology program in marine biology.

The sun cast its shadows over the leaves where they shifted to the rhythm of the swaying boughs.

Autumn Breeze

By Erik McKenzie

The heller-skelter pattern of wind-blown leaves on the mountain throws a mantle upon the parched brown earth. A squirrel pattern among the leaves, these scurry up. The leaves rapidly crunching rugs in its mouth while its eyes twich in nervous query of its surroundings. How like a complaisant, connoisseur it seems, puffed-bellied, jews as full as cotton sacks. It is to fill all appetites as this that the trees lose their fruit nurtured in the summer sun.

But as for the boughs, they only wait for the late Autumn breeze to bow them to the earth and so with each wrinkled leaf sustain itself through loss. High on a fork of a slender limb lay a shallow nest of twisted twigs. A blue jay; fresh from snatching red berries off of a flowering dogwood tree, alights near by the deserted nest, leaves by flutter, sidles up to the edge of it and wary twists its neck from side to side before, like lightening pecks at an ashen twig. Cocking its head and twirling its feathers, it boldy pecks again.

With a determined wrench, he wrests the twig from the abandoned nest. His pull is strongest that it falls hurtling down from its perch on the crook of the limb. In its wake it ignites a cascade of russet colored leaves which accompanies it as ghostly trail of mourners. The commotion causes the jay to screech and so lose its plunder; and the squirrel to streak to the nearest tree like a child to its mother. It spirals up the massive trunk searching for a haven in which to continue its seasonal gluttony in peace.

To be truthful, "Pig Books" have not been selling as well as anticipated, the house-presidents of every dorm have an ample supply and another convenient source is the Cro desk. The books sell for a meager dollar and it seems that they're well worth the investment.

Brian Figgerbaum, star left fielder for the C.C. Team, Saturday became the first left fielder in the history of the game to see a baseball go floating down the Thames River. He was playing out there when a Coast Guardman hit the ball about 450 ft out of the park, across the road and into the Thames. With hitting like that Conn. was in for a rough time.

It was a very close game, with the C.G. winning a squeaker 2-0. Actually the game wasn't as close as the score indicates. The C.G. jumped out to a 6 run lead with only 1 out in the first inning and the game was lost. The team started to chip away at the 6 run deficit scoring one run in the first, 3 in the third and six in the fifth inning. After 5 innings the score stood at 15-6, but from there on in it was the guardians game.

The team wasn't quit though. They are going back to the academy this Sunday to try it again. There was a certain lack of crowd enthusiasm. Due to doubt to the fact that there was a certain lack of fans. There wasn't anybody in sight last week, but hopefully it will be different this Sunday. Come on down and help the team.
