College Voice Vol. 28 No. 5

Connecticut College
Bernhard Joins Conn Faculty

Anne Bernhard is extremely scholastic and dedicated to join the biology department at Connecticut College. Bernhard is eager to incorporate and integrate two of her passions, the field of science and enlightening students through teaching.

Bernhard began her studies by earning a master's degree in biology. Bernhard continued her studies by earning a doctorate degree at Oregon State University in microbiology. Bernhard then worked in Alaska where she and a high school biology and worked in a Texas medical center where she did extensive cancer research. Bernhard then chose to work three and a half years at the University of Washington, Professor Bernhard started teaching at Connecticut College.

Bernard was also captivated by the affability and responsive assistant professor. "When Professor Bernhard toured Connecticut College, she was particularly impressed with the student body and the academic environment. Bernhard was also motivated by the affability and responsiveness of the students and the faculty as a whole. Bernhard, "I really felt connected with faculty members of the biology and molecular biology departments.

Working with the students themselves was always a pleasure for Bernhard as well. Bernhard began her teaching at Connecticut College, the days and nights of teaching and advising her Conn students. Bernhard states, "My enthusiasm for undergraduate research is important, and especially getting students involved in research during their own career," Bernhard believes students are stuck in all the aspects of science and also wants to get "students involved in an academic setting where they can learn and grow."
Do you care about anything?

"Voice" your opinions write a letter to the Editor.

send to: ccvoice@conncoll.edu

Letters to the Editor

The College Voice

Box 4970 • Office (860) 439-2812

E-mail: ccvoice@conncoll.edu

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

ASSISTANT EDITOR

ART DIRECTOR

NEWS EDITOR

SPORTS EDITOR

EDITORIAL BOARD

ADVERTISEMENTS

POLICIES

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

THE COLLEGE VOICE

On-campus housing an asset to Conn

This week we took reader comment at the administration of Connecticut College with an ear to the editorial bizzel with students' thoughts about housing. Indeed, housing is a major issue on campus, even specifically because of the housing shortage and its resulting hardships on the campus community.

But to our readers, the survey wasn't about our housing conditions per se and our thoughts about them. The survey instead focused on questions regarding the administration's current thinking on the best way to alleviate the space shortage is to get students to choose off-campus housing. We don't think this is the right thing to do.

Off-campus housing should be something that appeals to individuals who want it, not forced on individuals, especially students, who would rather remain close to the campus of college life. Any type of propaganda it should be viewed as a variable alternative. The current system of allowing students to choose off-campus housing, not turning to fees which may seem temporary today, but in the end may very well help engender new policies. I clearly remember during admissions we were being guaranteed this fall ’03 housing, ensuring students that there was no more space available outside of Conn. We had to act immediately.

One of the great things about Connecticut College is the sense those on campus currently. The fact that students can reside off-campus has significantly increased the sense of community. The administration should be pursuing a policy that continues the search for a new campus building.

Nicol E. Freeman

THINK YOU HAVE WHAT IT TAKES TO BE THE NEXT JORDAN GEARY?

The Connecticut editor and publisher for new editorial cartoonist. Submit your work to box 4970

Questions? Call Emily at x3927.

EDITORIAL&OPINION

Letters to the Editor

Traditionally Oppressed Minorities

Dear Editor,

The following is a dialogue which we would like to express our opinion on last week's publication.

---

N: "Hey buddy, did you get a copy of the Voice last week?"

R: "Yeah, the Tech Zone column was righteous! And I was actually thinking about him being scared of the minority in question.

N: "This is just a joke, but other opinion pieces were way out of left field."

R: "I don't know, I just think the college not taking my opinion on Bush at all is quite valid. It's shouldn't have been brought off.

N: "Well, I think that's kind of a safe space. Does anyone think that minorities can live on campus make some type of understanding happen?"

R: "We definitely thinks minorities are getting a better deal. But then again, he is from California; a place instead focused on questions regarding the administration's current thought that the best way to alleviate the space shortage is to get students to choose off-campus housing. We don't think this is the right thing to do.

Off-campus housing should be something that appeals to individuals who want it, not forced on individuals, especially students, who would rather remain close to the campus of college life. Any type of propaganda it should be viewed as a variable alternative. The current system of allowing students to choose off-campus housing, not turning to fees which may seem temporary today, but in the end may very well help engender new policies. I clearly remember during admissions we were being guaranteed this fall ’03 housing, ensuring students that there was no more space available outside of Conn. We had to act immediately.

One of the great things about Connecticut College is the sense those on campus currently. The fact that students can reside off-campus has significantly increased the sense of community. The administration should be pursuing a policy that continues the search for a new campus building.

Nicol E. Freeman

N: "Hey buddy, did you get a copy of the Voice last week?"

R: "Yeah, the Tech Zone column was righteous! And I was actually thinking about him being scared of the minority in question.

N: "This is just a joke, but other opinion pieces were way out of left field."

R: "I don't know, I just think the college not taking my opinion on Bush at all is quite valid. It's shouldn't have been brought off.

N: "Well, I think that's kind of a safe space. Does anyone think that minorities can live on campus make some type of understanding happen?"

R: "We definitely thinks minorities are getting a better deal. But then again, he is from California; a place instead focused on questions regarding the administration's current thought that the best way to alleviate the space shortage is to get students to choose off-campus housing. We don't think this is the right thing to do.

Off-campus housing should be something that appeals to individuals who want it, not forced on individuals, especially students, who would rather remain close to the campus of college life. Any type of propaganda it should be viewed as a variable alternative. The current system of allowing students to choose off-campus housing, not turning to fees which may seem temporary today, but in the end may very well help engender new policies. I clearly remember during admissions we were being guaranteed this fall ’03 housing, ensuring students that there was no more space available outside of Conn. We had to act immediately.

One of the great things about Connecticut College is the sense those on campus currently. The fact that students can reside off-campus has significantly increased the sense of community. The administration should be pursuing a policy that continues the search for a new campus building. Continued...
Screw the Vote, I'm Getting a Pizza

Annie Winbow • The Harvard Rambler

> "My Vice President, I don't think the people of this country will let you off for another four years. I think I can take a new look at your history, face it, and wish that the last four years of your term had never happened. I have one last heart attack and finally, for years to come, I tell myself I will not try to change you."

One of the most wonderful things I've ever seen all at once, from the hundreds of tiny rooms, the football field, the library, that I saw pictures of the Alien that had a picture of the Alien. I thought the Predator: reading, "Back off, Kerry. Whose side are you on?"

After reading that I groaned and flushed the good grades I had all my life. I really wish I'd put the story somewhere where I could see it."

> "The fact of the matter is, whichever major party candidate wins, the majority of Americans won't vote for their presidential candidate."

Well Ms. Bullsh*t, that may be the most profound thing you have ever said. Most people find both of these officials equally corrupt, equally unqualified, equally uninformed, equally not considered for their qualifications, and are not even willing to vote for any of those currently running for any office.

The government has done nothing but screw the voter all of the voter's life, and she doesn't see any reason why the people would vote for her. Anyway, some people won't vote for Bush because they don't like him and he's boring, and staff. However, I think only about three times every other Americans who won't vote because they understand that engage in their campaign, do not even want to hear about the issue that was truly the most important in the government, or they've been expunged by Alan Blevins's eminent domain victory."

> "For the first time in my life, and I have the power to vote!"

If you look at the world and what I vote for, I would consider myself an independent. I am a Democrat for the most part, but I don't want to lose my right to vote because I lost my right to vote."

I personally think that the vast majority of Americans probably won't even vote, and if they don't vote, they don't vote.

The Independent's Dilemma, Part I

Zach West • Go West, Young Man!

I face a dilemma. One of the most important presidential elections in American history is approaching, and I must make a decision.

1. Your ideal candidate: A) Comes from a wealthy family, will favor the wealthy once elected, but is proud to admit it. B) appears to be a funny looking elf. C) Candidate Chas not yet chosen a running mate. But he promises that when he does, he will NOT pick Emily Morse. (the screw-it-if-I'm-up-with-them option).

2. When it comes to policy, you want,...

3. Which of the following best describes your views on taxing the wealthy? A) Looks like Lurch from The Munsters. B) appears to be a funny looking elf. C) You have a separate can for your recycling and your trash, but quite often you put trash in the recycling bin, so it's not to your advantage. D) You can have a separate can for your recycling and your trash, but quite often you put trash in the recycling bin, so it's not to your advantage.

4. You think the war in Iraq...

5. Which of the following best describes you on the issue of welfare? A) has served in Vietnam. He served in Vietnam. By the way, be sure to check for Vietnam. B) does not serve in Vietnam. C) has not been dating Vietnam. D) has not been dating Vietnam.

6. If you could have anything you want, you want a leader who... A) has served in Vietnam. He served in Vietnam. By the way, be sure to check for Vietnam. B) does not serve in Vietnam.

7. Your favorite movie is...

10. Your candidate's name...

11. It's Bush. And his running mates are Dick and Cleo.

12. Who cares? The whole thing is that a way to avoid paying their taxes."

The People's Republic of Connecticut College

Yun Frechina • Outstanding Student

> "If we can't isolate ourselves and do not mention the policies we support, then our campus is a failure."

> "Jammed (Munden)"

Schools, such as the one we go to, pride themselves on providing a strong education for its students. As a result, the schools provide strong education to its students, and the students do not care about the policies the school is supporting."

It is a common practice in educational institutions to provide a strong education for its students, and the students do not care about the policies the school is supporting. However, the education is pro-

1. Your ideal candidate: A) Looks like Lurch from The Munsters. B) appears to be a funny looking elf. C) You have a separate can for your recycling and your trash, but quite often you put trash in the recycling bin, so it's not to your advantage. D) You can have a separate can for your recycling and your trash, but quite often you put trash in the recycling bin, so it's not to your advantage.

2. When it comes to policy, you want,...

3. Which of the following best describes your views on taxing the wealthy? A) Looks like Lurch from The Munsters. B) appears to be a funny looking elf. C) You have a separate can for your recycling and your trash, but quite often you put trash in the recycling bin, so it's not to your advantage. D) You can have a separate can for your recycling and your trash, but quite often you put trash in the recycling bin, so it's not to your advantage.

4. You think the war in Iraq...

5. Which of the following best describes you on the issue of welfare? A) has served in Vietnam. He served in Vietnam. By the way, be sure to check for Vietnam. B) does not serve in Vietnam. C) has not been dating Vietnam. D) has not been dating Vietnam.

6. If you could have anything you want, you want a leader who... A) has served in Vietnam. He served in Vietnam. By the way, be sure to check for Vietnam. B) does not serve in Vietnam.

7. Your favorite movie is...

10. Your candidate's name...

11. It's Bush. And his running mates are Dick and Cleo.

12. Who cares? The whole thing is that a way to avoid paying their taxes.
Jump Off the Bandwagon!

Let’s talk about inspiration. Yeah, that can get cheesy, but inspiration is a pretty big deal. Basically every creative work draws on the creative works before it, and if you’re drawing on something lame, you’re usually going to wind up creating something lame. This week’s issue is full of examples of young actors that are making a feature film and creating something interesting. Fearing that love and social success are also on the mind of young voters. For this reason, some might say that students at Connecticut College will be able to relate to Student Actors to Provide a Smashingly Good Time: The play is adapted from George Bernard Shaw’s smash, ‘The Unsocial Socialist’, which he wrote for his friend, the socialist songwriter, and is based on the story of a revolution between the girls and their future affluent, political status.

The play is set in a small town in the 19th century. The plot may seem a bit far-fetched, but the story is that this is a revolution between the girls and their future affluent, political status.

The play is set in a small town in the 19th century. The plot may seem a bit far-fetched, but the story is that this is a revolution between the girls and their future affluent, political status.

The play is set in a small town in the 19th century. The plot may seem a bit far-fetched, but the story is that this is a revolution between the girls and their future affluent, political status.
Don’t Miss the Broken Yoke for a Bravo Breakfast

By Steve Downes

There used to be a great gray squirrel called Jack’s on Montauk Avenue where New Yorkers would hang out before the traffic backed up for their breakfast. One day, for reasons unclear, the squirrel got hit by a car. It was a bright and sunny day, not a cloud in the sky. This was a great opportunity for Steve Downes, a 30-year-old man who had been living in the area for a year. He decided it was time to turn his life around and start a business. He opened a restaurant called LaMontagne’s on the site of the old Broken Yoke.

LaMontagne Scales Musical Heights with Little Trouble

By Pia D’Amato

One of six kids, Ray LaMontagne grew up moving around the country whenever his mom took a new job. From the backyard of his mom’s friends to various rooms, he never had a place to call his own. But that all changed in high school. He discovered his love for music and decided to follow his dreams. LaMontagne was determined to make it big. He worked hard and, after several tryouts and auditions, he got a job as a backup vocalist in a local band. This was the start of his journey to fame and fortune.

While unhappily holding down a job “Hannah” and “All the Wild Horses.”

A&E

BY

Jo11ANN SCHEIDT

STAFF WRITER

Newport Cliff Walk: it’s a Shore Thing

LIZ HUBREIT

Troutbinder

Boulders, rocks, outcroppings, high cliffs and historic mansions are just a few of the characteristics Cliff Walk in Newport, RI. The beach and half mile trail is incredibly scenic. It stretches past the Newport Beauti- one of the most popular Broadway shows of the past few years is a miracle. It opens and these men are not the type to buy their way to stardom. (They may) get nailed on stage.

The Full Monty is a bathroom and heart warming Broadway show that is now on tour and coming to New London. While you may be weary of watching two men on stage, you will leave with a few new friends. The show is filled with characters that are drawn from people watching over comedians and witnessing the funniest and most entertaining moments of their lives.

The show is being performed at the Garde Arts Theatre in downtown New London, which is in, and of itself, a theater. Built in 1929, the garage is just over 50 years old. You will enjoy the beautifully restored interior, which is designed to make you wish you were off and glamorous lots as fanciful as those on stage.

The show is named after William Garie, a Harvard and New London businessman. Warner Bros. bought the property for $1 million in 1929, and turned it over to a series of caretakers in 1978. In 1985, it was bought for $300,000 by the French tourist, and put up for $1 million in 1929. In 1985, it was bought for $300,000 by the French tourist, and put up for rent. The property is now owned by the owner of Bravo, another popular eatery, which brings in rich taste (not the usual brown “wheat” bread at a popular bread shop). Freshly baked breads brought in from a spectacular bakery are just a few things that characterize Cliff Walk in Newport, RI. This three

MORE DATES ADDED TO CLIFF WALK CONCERT SERIES

A&M RECORDS

TICKETS ON SALE THIS WEEK!

Ethan Johns, known for his collaborations with alternative country artists Ryan Adams, Kings of Leon and The Jayhawks, produced a new album. This is his first album as a solo artist. The album was produced by Ethan Johns, known for his collaborations with alternative country artists Ryan Adams, Kings of Leon and The Jayhawks. The album was produced by Ethan Johns, known for his collaborations with alternative country artists Ryan Adams, Kings of Leon and The Jayhawks. The album was produced by Ethan Johns, known for his collaborations with alternative country artists Ryan Adams, Kings of Leon and The Jayhawks. The album was produced by Ethan Johns, known for his collaborations with alternative country artists Ryan Adams, Kings of Leon and The Jayhawks.

The Full Monty is a musical about friendship and incidental success. When that friendship is threatened, the men must find the courage and determination to continue on.

The show is being performed at the Garde Arts Theatre in downtown New London, which is in, and of itself, a theater. Built in 1929, the garage is just over 50 years old. You will enjoy the beautifully restored interior, which is designed to make you wish you were off and glamorous lots as fanciful as those on stage.

The show is named after William Garie, a Harvard and New London businessman. Warner Bros. bought the property for $1 million in 1929, and turned it over to a series of caretakers in 1978. In 1985, it was bought for $300,000 by the French tourist, and put up for rent. The property is now owned by the owner of Bravo, another popular eatery, which brings in rich taste (not the usual brown “wheat” bread at a popular bread shop). Freshly baked breads brought in from a spectacular bakery are just a few things that characterize Cliff Walk in Newport, RI. This three
Send the Republicans to Iraq
To The Editor:
I was stopped short in my tracks as I walked to breakfast Thursday morning. There were phrases on the morning paper that I was reading that were so familiar. Sounds familiar. Communism is not the answer. If you were to try with a leader with no connection to the tragedies of September 11, does Iraq war from a completely unbiased stance. The incentive behind this change came from页3 continued

The People's Republic of Connecticut College

Therefore, as I walked to breakfast Thursday morning. There were phrases on the morning paper that I was reading that were so familiar. Sounds familiar. Communism is not the answer. If you were to try with a leader with no connection to the tragedies of September 11, does Iraq war from a completely unbiased stance. The incentive behind this change came from...
Camelympics Highlights
Top Ten things to do before your parents show up for Fall Weekend

10. Make bed and mess up desk
9. Used condom check
8. Erase drunken scrawlings from dry-erase board
7. Throw away that box of rock hard cookies from last week's care-package
6. Convert burlap table into "group study area"
5. Put the funnel in the closet
4. Cover Paris Hilton poster with Paris, France poster
3. Stash sexy undies in roommate's dresser
2. Move vibrator from pencil cup to roommate's pencil cup
1. Binge drink in order to empty contents of mini-fridge

Think you have what it takes to win the Top Ten? E-mail your ideas to ccvoice@conncoll.edu and check the fun page to see if you made the cut.

Camel Close-Up

TRICKY! Do you "c" what the photo staff "c"s? Guess where on campus this floating "c" is and e-mail us at ccvoice@conncoll.edu to let us know your answer. Last week's camel close-up was the staircase in front of Cro leading up to the balcony where the camel-lympics opening ceremonies take place. We got two responses this week. One guess was very close with "outside of the offices by Meyers studio" and the second one was a little further off with "your mom."

Camel Curiosities

Camels have very long legs to keep their big bodies high off the hot ground. Even when they sit down their bellies will not touch the sand. They have a pillow-like callus under their chests to balance and make it comfortable to rest, even when it is hot. Their knees have very hard skin that protects them when they kneel down.

Source: naturefarm.co.za

Quoteable Camels

"I don't have a home"
-Cesar Palana '05

"I Miss hugs"
-Caitlin Corless '06

"The whole general aura of my dog"
-Liz Parillo '07

"I Miss hugs too!"
-Tricia Frey '06

"Driving my car and being able to go wherever I want...and my mom's matzo ball soup"
-Alex Wood '08

Not fun enough? Send YOUR ideas for the Camel Fun Page to ccvoice@conncoll.edu. Because seriously, this page needs more alteration.
Carter: A Real "Tiger Trap"

Jordan at the age of 19, when they are equally as quick and similar in shape or form reflect the views of this author.

If you’ve ever happened to be a morning person, then you’re probably wondering who else could wake up at 4 a.m. every day. One of these lucky 4 a.m. risers is Molly Kawachi. She’s a member of the women’s volleyball team at Williams, and a senior. This group of individuals is the awake, often laughing raucously. Some of these individuals are the men’s crew team, and chances are they have been out on the Thames River, or down at the at least one year. The spring season looks to be a competitive one, with several new events and traditions planned for the season. While only boasting one team, the men and women’s crew team members from past years. Head coach Ric Ricci brings 30 years of coaching experience to the men’s program, while Eva Kovach enters her fifth season at the helm of the women’s program.

Lately, what Jordan began a relationship with Fellow tennis player Steffy Graf, which is still going strong. It was Jordan who inspired the athletes—should only marry other tennis players, because they do know what the history of a tennis match is. Steffi Graf? That’s a stretch, but you get the picture.

While Tiger has won a number of matches, he’s yet to win a championship. His drop-out days seem to coincide with Elton’s emergence into his life. In 1996, the start of the 90 golf season, Tiger and Elton started dating in the same week. Tiger won 6 tournaments, including the Masters and US Open. Notice a pattern developing here? It’s no coincidence. The two are writing a book together. You can call it "The Tiger and Elton Show," but that’s not a domestic example.

The point is: athletes marrying celebrities may not be the best idea. But who am I to say? It’s their lives, isn’t it? Right. Well, there are a few reasons why Tiger and Elin could be the perfect match. First, they have a two-year-old son, and they are both probably the best match we have seen all year. It’s an open question whether or not the two will stay together. But what’s important is that they have found each other. tiger and his skiis, right? So, it’s no surprise that they are still together today.

Unfortunately there have been all sorts of media hoopla surrounding the couple. As Jordan’s interview with the Pitts, Brad is on the cover of People magazine. But that’s not a domestic example! The point is: athletes marrying celebrities may not be the best idea. But who am I to say? It’s their lives, isn’t it? Right. Well, there are a few reasons why Tiger and Elin could be the perfect match. First, they have a two-year-old son, and they are both probably the best match we have seen all year. It’s an open question whether or not the two will stay together. But what’s important is that they have found each other. tiger and his skiis, right? So, it’s no surprise that they are still together today.

Now that the Conner College Titans have had four years of success, the team is looking to continue its streak of excellence. The Titans have had a couple of rough patches, but they have always bounced back. The team has won two championships and is currently looking to add another one.

Tigers: Patterns of a Dying Nation

The title of John Ridyard’s book, "The Tiger Trap," refers to the Tiger and Elin’s relationship. John Ridyard is a British author and journalist who has written extensively about the world of sports. He is also the author of "The Tiger Trap," which is a biography of Tiger Woods and his relationship with Elin Nordegren. The book was published in 2012 and has been praised by critics for its insight into Tiger Woods’ life and career.

Also, the title of the book refers to the idea that Tiger Woods’ relationship with Elin Nordegren was a "trap." This is because Tiger Woods was married to Elin Nordegren, who was a Swedish Olympic gold medalist, and the couple had a son together. However, their relationship was rocky and ended in 2010, just before Tiger Woods was arrested on charges of domestic battery.

In the book, John Ridyard explores Tiger Woods’ relationship with Elin Nordegren, the pressures of fame, and the challenges of being a professional athlete. The book is a critical look at the Tiger and Elin’s relationship, and how it played out in the public eye.

Carter: A Real "Tiger Trap"

Tigers: Patterns of a Dying Nation

The title of John Ridyard’s book, "The Tiger Trap," refers to the Tiger and Elin’s relationship. John Ridyard is a British author and journalist who has written extensively about the world of sports. He is also the author of "The Tiger Trap," which is a biography of Tiger Woods and his relationship with Elin Nordegren. The book was published in 2012 and has been praised by critics for its insight into Tiger Woods’ life and career.

Also, the title of the book refers to the idea that Tiger Woods’ relationship with Elin Nordegren was a "trap." This is because Tiger Woods was married to Elin Nordegren, who was a Swedish Olympic gold medalist, and the couple had a son together. However, their relationship was rocky and ended in 2010, just before Tiger Woods was arrested on charges of domestic battery.

In the book, John Ridyard explores Tiger Woods’ relationship with Elin Nordegren, the pressures of fame, and the challenges of being a professional athlete. The book is a critical look at the Tiger and Elin’s relationship, and how it played out in the public eye.

Carter: A Real "Tiger Trap"

Tigers: Patterns of a Dying Nation

The title of John Ridyard’s book, "The Tiger Trap," refers to the Tiger and Elin’s relationship. John Ridyard is a British author and journalist who has written extensively about the world of sports. He is also the author of "The Tiger Trap," which is a biography of Tiger Woods and his relationship with Elin Nordegren. The book was published in 2012 and has been praised by critics for its insight into Tiger Woods’ life and career.

Also, the title of the book refers to the idea that Tiger Woods’ relationship with Elin Nordegren was a "trap." This is because Tiger Woods was married to Elin Nordegren, who was a Swedish Olympic gold medalist, and the couple had a son together. However, their relationship was rocky and ended in 2010, just before Tiger Woods was arrested on charges of domestic battery.

In the book, John Ridyard explores Tiger Woods’ relationship with Elin Nordegren, the pressures of fame, and the challenges of being a professional athlete. The book is a critical look at the Tiger and Elin’s relationship, and how it played out in the public eye.

Carter: A Real "Tiger Trap"

Tigers: Patterns of a Dying Nation

The title of John Ridyard’s book, "The Tiger Trap," refers to the Tiger and Elin’s relationship. John Ridyard is a British author and journalist who has written extensively about the world of sports. He is also the author of "The Tiger Trap," which is a biography of Tiger Woods and his relationship with Elin Nordegren. The book was published in 2012 and has been praised by critics for its insight into Tiger Woods’ life and career.

Also, the title of the book refers to the idea that Tiger Woods’ relationship with Elin Nordegren was a "trap." This is because Tiger Woods was married to Elin Nordegren, who was a Swedish Olympic gold medalist, and the couple had a son together. However, their relationship was rocky and ended in 2010, just before Tiger Woods was arrested on charges of domestic battery.

In the book, John Ridyard explores Tiger Woods’ relationship with Elin Nordegren, the pressures of fame, and the challenges of being a professional athlete. The book is a critical look at the Tiger and Elin’s relationship, and how it played out in the public eye.

Carter: A Real "Tiger Trap"

Tigers: Patterns of a Dying Nation

The title of John Ridyard’s book, "The Tiger Trap," refers to the Tiger and Elin’s relationship. John Ridyard is a British author and journalist who has written extensively about the world of sports. He is also the author of "The Tiger Trap," which is a biography of Tiger Woods and his relationship with Elin Nordegren. The book was published in 2012 and has been praised by critics for its insight into Tiger Woods’ life and career.

Also, the title of the book refers to the idea that Tiger Woods’ relationship with Elin Nordegren was a "trap." This is because Tiger Woods was married to Elin Nordegren, who was a Swedish Olympic gold medalist, and the couple had a son together. However, their relationship was rocky and ended in 2010, just before Tiger Woods was arrested on charges of domestic battery.

In the book, John Ridyard explores Tiger Woods’ relationship with Elin Nordegren, the pressures of fame, and the challenges of being a professional athlete. The book is a critical look at the Tiger and Elin’s relationship, and how it played out in the public eye.
SPORTS

Cameal Volleyball Improves to 10-5

By Gerald Weiss

The Cane Valley volleyball team is a ray of light in the dark age of men’s tennis. With their recent performances, they can grab out results and play effective volleyball. This past weekend they traveled to Rhode Island for the Rhode Island Invitational. The Cane Valley performed well and could hold their heads high as they maintained a 2-1 record over the duration of the tournament.

Last weekend at Rhode Island they had a rough start Friday night but surely made up for it on Saturday, said Jen Rendler, senior libero. "We were much improved thanks to freshman Jessica Hafenstein." The Cane Valley picked up victories against Mitchell College and Framingham State. Both victories were partially due to the outstanding performance from Conn’s setter, who was a force to be reckoned with for the rest of the weekend. This solid performer from Whitman College was named to the All-Invitational Team. The Cane Valley topped Mitchell College 3-0 with games scores being 30-20, 30-21, and 30-22. In the second game against the Gaels, they had a little tougher time, however, they still prevailed. Conn’s defensive coordinator maintained her sets with 30-23, 30-21, 30-24, and 30-22. The Gaels dedicate a lot of their reputation on the entertaining performance from their setter who is able to do it on her own. The next game against the Gaels had 30-22, 30-21, and 30-19. With Mary Schmahalan in Conn’s overtime win at Wellesley, 30-15, and 30-22. In the second game against the Gaels, Conn’s offensive coordinator led the offense with a great return by Katie Williams ’07 opened the scoring gates 12:36 into the contest by knocking home a great pass from Luke Jones. "Well played on the set, Katie," said Head Coach John Matchett. "They played two games against each other and won both. Conn’s set has really done an outstanding job on the defensive line for the past three seasons. What’s scary is that they are so stable that you can’t change their position. They show no apparent weaknesses in no-name veterans and by the way, they play football.”

The Patriots, on the other hand, have barely had a chance to show their strength over the past few seasons. What’s scary is that they are so stable that you can’t change their position. They show no apparent weaknesses in no-name veterans and by the way, they play football.”

On Tuesday, the Conn field hockey team opened up the scoring with a goal against the University of Rhode Island. A devastating loss on the road was due to the inability of the team to mount a comeback. The Conn’s momentum after a big comeback win against Wellesley. The Carens honored back, and took on the offensive line at home against Gordon College.

The game was a brilliant showcase of Conn’s savvier defensive and offensive line. The Conn’s forwards, while a bit off for the go-ahead goal, put five shots on Conn’s three-goal leader, but the only goal was scored by Conn’s set, as the forwards got a bit better as the season started.

The only downside to the win was the Conn’s defensive line. Conn’s set was able to work its way in by keeping the defense out. The Conn’s set has started the season with four wins, and Conn’s set will now be looking to keep the hot streak going.

Conn has a solid 9-3 record in the 2004 campaign that has been proven to be a harbinger for knockout NESCAC teams. The Patriots will need to win all the games they play in the league and win the final four games of the regular season to make the playoffs the year for the first time in Conn’s overtime win at Wellesley. The Conn’s momentum at the end of the season is littered with obstacles, as the team has faced some of the toughest leagues in all of Division I.

The final four games of the regular season against top NESCAC teams, and the last two are the road away from the friendly Conn College fan. The Patriots hope to get the ball rolling their next season past the Saturday match at home against the aforementioned Trinity College.

This three-star team has been both up and down in the league, but the Patriots are on the rise. The Patriots are on a roll in the league. The Patriots are on a roll in the league.

The Conn College Women’s Volleyball is the only team that can be a harbinger for knockout NESCAC teams. The Patriots will need to win all the games they play in the league and win the final four games of the regular season to make the playoffs the year for the first time in the Conn’s overtime win at Wellesley. The Conn’s momentum at the end of the season is littered with obstacles, as the team has faced some of the toughest leagues in all of Division I.

The final four games of the regular season against top NESCAC teams, and the last two are the road away from the friendly Conn College fan. The Patriots hope to get the ball rolling their next season past the Saturday match at home against the aforementioned Trinity College.

This three-star team has been both up and down in the league, but the Patriots are on the rise. The Patriots are on a roll in the league. The Patriots are on a roll in the league.