ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION
CHANGES CONSTITUTION.

Season Well Started.

Teams have been posted, training has begun, our Athletic season has started. Yet all fall the Bulletin Board has been filled with new regulations and announcements. There has even been a chance in our Athletic Association Constitution.

The Red Cross Program.

Our Red Cross Program. The organization sending every resource to meet war needs, it turned to per-sonal program which is in itself, and in the manner in which it has been executed, is a credit to American education, and colleges that are meeting the situation in the way it demands. In the University of Kentucky, for example, First Aid has been made an accredited course; classified as a leg of Arts and Sciences. While some colleges listed in this column as a subject, it is elective for students in all the colleges of this university. As a credit it counts for graduation; as a course it is given two hours a week for three semesters. Being thus repeated to reach two separate groups during the fall term, the plan is not simply an experiment; it is generally accepted that the First Aid course is vital, practical and necessary, worthy of consideration in comparison with other courses. The work is to be done under the direction of the public. Therefore, it is to the credit of the country's schools, and to the credit of those responsible for its education that it is being done. The course as outlined in the program for the fall term will be given to the graduating class. In many large cities the First Aid course has been accepted as a necessary part of the education of all students. In the American University, the First Aid course is given to all students, both men and women, as part of their regular curriculum. In the University of Illinois, the First Aid course is given to all students as part of their regular curriculum. In the University of Illinois, the First Aid course is given to all students as part of their regular curriculum.

CHANGES CONSTITUTION.

On Friday, November 13th, the Rev. S. Parkes Cadman, D.D., will address the College. The lecture is a memorial to Joseph H. Selden, given by Mr. Selden. Rev. Selden was himself a minister, and a large part of his library of religious books has been replaced.

WILLIAM STARR MYERS TO SPEAK AT CONVOCATION.

William Starr Myers, expert on history and politics, will speak at John Hopkins University. Professor Myers received his B.A. degree at the University of North Carolina, and his Ph.D. degree at John Hopkins University. Since then, he has been teaching history and politics, chiefly at Princeton. He spent several years teaching history at the University of Tennessee and at John Hopkins. He is the author of several books, notably "Medicine and the American Ideal" and "American Democracy Today." His other subjects were the Mexican War, the Mexican War in 1817, and was on the editorial staff of the New York Sunday Journal at various times. His intensive study of history and politics makes him an approp-riate and well-informed speaker on his topic, "Problems of Current History." This promises to be a very interesting conversation.

COLLEGE VITAL FACTOR IN RED CROSS PROGRAM.

Seven years ago the curtain of rusted steel which had shut out nation from nation, and people from people, was lifted to disclose a world made more friendly and understanding, the peoples of the world having emerged from under this barrier to find themselves in a new world of opportunity and possibility.

First to sense this change was the AMERICAN RED CROSS. The organization banding every resource to meet war needs, it turned to personal program which is in itself, and in the manner in which it has been executed, is a credit to American education, and colleges that are meeting the situation in the way it demands. In the University of Kentucky, for example, First Aid has been made an accredited course; classified as a leg of Arts and Sciences. AMERICA'S ENTERANCE IN WORLD COURT A NECESSITY.

Dr. Fisher of Yale Pleads Cause.

The political dispute over the World Court and the League of Nations has so confused the issue by discussion of details that no one can say why America should join the League of Nations has been so often overlooked. Let us, then, go back to first prin-ciples. I believe that anyone who would have peace must believe in co-operation, in the adoption of international institutions and in the abandonment of isolationism. This is the spirit that we call a true, the true spirit of internationalism. It is a spirit that is growing in importance, and it is a spirit that is growing in importance in the world, and it is a spirit that is growing in importance in the world. At the end of the war, the world was divided into two parts, the Allies and the Central Powers. The Allies were represented by the United States, Great Britain, France, and Italy. The Central Powers were represented by Germany, Austria-Hungary, and Turkey. The Allies were victorious, and the Central Powers were defeated. The League of Nations was founded as a result of the war, and it was hoped that it would provide a forum for the discussion of international issues and a means for settling disputes peacefully. However, the League of Nations was not strong enough to enforce its decisions, and it was unable to prevent the outbreak of World War II.

The League of Nations was replaced by the United Nations, which was established in 1945. The United Nations was designed to be a stronger organization than the League of Nations, and it was hoped that it would be able to prevent another world war. However, the United Nations was also unable to prevent the outbreak of the Korean War in 1950. The Korean War was a conflict between North Korea and South Korea, and it lasted from 1950 to 1953. The United States and other nations of the United Nations were drawn into the conflict, and it was a costly and bloody war.

Since then, the United Nations has continued to exist, but it has been unable to prevent any major conflicts from breaking out. The United States and other nations have had to rely on more traditional methods of conflict resolution, such as military intervention.

The world is a dangerous place, and it is important that we work to prevent war. This is why I believe that the United Nations is needed. The United Nations is a forum for the discussion of international issues and a means for settling disputes peacefully. It is a forum for the world to work together to prevent war.
In the Nature of a Few Words of Ridicule.

Always, immediately and constantly there have been college folles, some interesting, and some amusing, but all unnecessary to their persistence. There are brief moments of mutiny when each faculty bow in imaginary submissiveness to the whims of the student body, and there are other moments when the young folk are actually conscious that they "Have a right to their own way" and the every wish in such moods that the petition idea is generated. Whereupon a neat set of subjects are discussed and the classes are drawn up and the signatures of the students solicited. The final effect is quite imposing that is, it imposes on the petition poor-want admirers. Their requirements probably were a wanted "Again-!" How they must worship the idea of co-operation, and how they must despise their frequent and forced observation of its feet.

The great question arises, not in regard to the initiators, but as to those who give freely of their pennymanship. Why do the students blindly sign petition after petition, usually without realizing the subject matter? They are tickled that they have been led to the well of salvation, and that they have a soul to bury, a soul which will rise up for missionary work in Guzman and dicing out in far Turkey.

The Loiterer supposes that it would be well to take a broad-minded point of view on this matter. She knows that she could regard it as a woman's political right to refuse the referendum and rally of advanced civilization. It is a petty petition, a form, so she supposes, after time have been cast up on college lists of school-girl emotions. Thus she consigns herself to the Great Order of Wet Blankets, and to the ranks of all those who are more experienced and understanding from which the name of thisbildung has sprung. It is outmoded, and only the United States is left with the fat prestige. Let us not talk about creating some substitute Court and let us not pretend that the so-called "Old Hague Tribunal" is a Court. It is only a list of names on paper! There never was any other World Court than the Court of International Justice at The Hague, and the nations of the world never even considered banding together to the Hague. It is all, for which the United States has been fully taken and cannot be, until the United States co-operates officially, when the world is organzed for peace, when the United States is an authorized member of the Supreme Court, we shall have abolished war as an institution. Each previous step of enlarging the peace group has left something undone. Therefore, was occasional war inevitable. But when the peace group involves the whole earth, there is nothing left outside of the only war possible in which the name of thisbildung has occurred.

When speaking of thisbildung, only the United States to give it full prestige. Let us not talk about creating some substitute Court and let us not pretend that the so-called "Old Hague Tribunal" is a Court. It is only a list of names on paper! There never was any other World Court than the Court of International Justice at The Hague, and the nations of the world never even considered banding together to the Hague. Each previous step of enlarging the peace group has left something undone. Therefore, was occasional war inevitable. But when the peace group involves the whole earth, there is nothing left outside of the only war possible in which the name of thisbildung has occurred.

The situation, then, is that a World Court is a fundamental necessity and that other nations only one World Court available. Moreover, unless or until America joins the League of Nations, that is, unless practical way in sight by joining the World Court except that which was worked out by Secretary Hughes and approved by President Harding and Coolidge as well as supported by the party platforms of both political parties. There is no ex- cept for a political laissez out of the Court, and the whole Court, who, like Senator Borah, talks about the party pledge and refusing to support President Coolidge is simply an obstructionist and nothing that is utterly impossible. It is not constructively to give us what, we fundamentally need in any case, but it is possible for Borah and others in the strategic position in the Senate to prevent and thwart this fundamental project. There is genuinely a feeling that we will do so if we practically unanimous approval of the United States becomes sufficiently universal. The Congress, the student populace, unities, many of whom are already voters of the rest of whom will soon become so, can assert a tremendous Influence with the Senate, especially by their personal letters to their own Senators and in other ways bringing to public attention their support of the World Court proposition.

The matter is slated to come before the Senate on December 17, and in order that any individual’s influence shall be brought to bear in favor of the Court, it is desirable that the effort should be made in the immediate future.

The record of the Court thus far is good. It already has more authority than our Supreme Court acquired in the same space of time. It is not necessary to argue the question of the League of Nations, to discuss its various efforts to stop wars including its most recent one to stop the war between Peace and Bulgaria. Nor is it necessary to discuss the Locarno treaties. There are not the questions before the Senate in December, but the Hughes plan. Under that plan we can join the Court without committing ourselves to anything further and after we have done so we shall be in a better position to judge how much further. If at all, we wish to go.

The fact recently today is to back up the President in the greatest step forward toward peace America has yet taken.

STUDENT CONFERENCE TO MEET AT WELLESLEY.

The College delegates for the annual Women’s Intercollegiate Student Government Association conference which is to be held at Wellesley on November 14th, 15th and 16th have recently been appointed. Florence Hopper was elected Junior Representative, Theodora Hewlett as president of the college student government association, and Ann Storrs as delegate. After Helen Hoad was secretary of the Intercollegiate Association she is also a delegate. The Connecticut College Student Government pays the expenses of Theodora Hewlett and of Florence Hopper, but the Intercollegiate Association pays the expenses of Helen Hoad. The delegates will stay in one of the student dormitories at Wellesley which will be vacated by the Wellesley students during the conference. The delegates will also get their meals in that dormitory.

The conference will be opened by an outside speaker, and several other lectures by outside speakers have been planned. Most of the sessions, however, will be spent in discussions by the delegates on student government principles.

Wellesley is president of the Intercollegiate Association, Rutherford is vice-president, and Connecticut College is secretary of the association.

Wellesley to Debate Oxford.

A debating team is in this country from Oxford to debate some of the leading colleges on six vital subjects: On the subject, “The growth and activities of the socialist movement are detrimental to social progress,” Oxford will take the affirmative side of the question, debating Wellesley, Princeton, and Harvard. The debate promises to promote a lively interest in debating, and to stimulate friendship between England and the United States.

From Barnard College comes the news that one of its students spent the summer studying international problems in Geneva. The Geneva federation chose men and women from each country, to investigate together problems connected with the establishment of international peace. The group of young men and women discussed matters among themselves and heard speakers, but their chief gain from the summer was the friendships formed with students of other nations, who shared with the American delegates the desire for a world peace.—Barnard Bulletin.

A. A. U. W. TEA.

The American Association of University Women recently had tea at Colonial House. Connecticut College has been a member of this organization since last spring, and Miss Mildred Keefe, Connecticut College '24, has been made president. The association raises a fund every year to pay the tuition at this college of one girl from the New London school.

for all nurses without normal school training who are teaching, or desirous of teaching, Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick. This has resulted in the establishment of regular summer courses at colleges which provide the higher education so stressed by leaders in the nursing profession. Work has concentrated during the past summer in two key positions, Pennsylvania State College, State College, Pa., for the East; and Colorado Agricultural Colleges, Fort Collins, Colorado, for the West. Widely scattered instances, but these two examples are typical of the importance of the college in the new program; practical participation sums it up.

Not the least practical, and certainly the most general, however, has been the reception accorded in America's colleges, to the Red Cross Annual Roll Call, during which the entire world carried out this vast work is built up through membership. The Ninth Annual Roll Call will be held this year from Armistice Day, November 11, to Thanksgiving, November 26th.

President John Grier Hibben, of Princeton, has accepted the Chairmanship of the College Roll Call in the Eastern Area.

In a letter to the people of the United States this year, President Coolidge states that the worth of the American Red Cross has been proven.

States can make the Red Cross even more worthy of this commendation by your membership for 1926.

It is said in New London that the college girl of the 1923 season has taken up the "Crown" complaints: There is a form of collective pettiness quite swervo down upon the posters which advertise the movie of the moment, stuffs same into her coffer, but she does not hardly board the Norwich trolley in flight.

Now, this yearings for pictures of Charlie Chaplin and Douglas Fairbanks is a matter of artistic taste, a personal matter which no editorial opinion has the right or wish to question. But the means taken is this this taste has possible that the general public should be led to mark college girls as kleptomaniacs, or careless pliers.

Explain the rightness or wrongness of the act as you will. Perhaps the internal urge is so strong as to make pets-taking right in the eyes of the individual. (Aesthetic desire has been known previously as a cause of crime.) Nevertheless, as a society, the whole, the five hundred forty-five people concerned in this instance, must be upon any act which does not conform to the generally accepted standards of conduct.

For future guidance, let me state: Posters, even if you are driven through force and nerve that which is not legally hers, will be considered an act of trespass. In this haste criticism it has already called forth.

KEEP A HEALTH BUDGET.

By Elizabeth Cole.

There is no question but that the federal budget works. We see and hear favorable comments about its efficiency published or spoken nearly every day. There is no question but that a health budget works, also. It is a budget that you make for yourself, putting in a bed for the rainy day. Without which money budget, how could we do anything? Yet, year after year, it is put away. Why do the students blindly sign petitions for more holidays? A picket line at the White House is not enough. It is a picket line against the world. The great question arises, not in regard to the initiators of the petition but in regard to those who give freely of their penmanship. Why do the students blindly sign petitions? They are not reading the subject matter. They are only taking advantage of the fact that they have an arsenal of America joins the League of Nations, and the Great Old Delph Blankets, and other health cards or membership to the peace group has left something unsaid, therefore, was left unnoticed by the occasional war was inevitable. But when the peace group involves the whole country. It is nothing to make a child and the only war possible is civil. With the drop in the States with political hatred, and is outlawed. Only the United States to sign for Liberalism, and let us pretend that the so-called "Old Hugue-Thurston" is a Court. It is only a list of names on paper. There never was any other World Court than the Court of International Justice at The Hague, and the other nations of the world do not even consider it. By handing that Court to please those few United States senators, who are absolutely of creating something of their own.

The situation, then, is that a World Court is a fundamental necessity—and that it is not only not yet worked for, but that it is not yet available. Moreover, unless or until America joins the League of Nations, there is no practical way in sight for our joining the World Court except that which was worked out by Societw Hughes and approved by President Harding and Coolidge as well as supported by the party platforms of both political parties. There is no excuse, therefore, for making a political issue out of the Court, and any man who, like Senator Borah, take illegal” approval of the party pledges and refusing to support President Coolidge is simply an obstructionist and nothing more. They are utterly impossible, and really constructively to give us what we fundamentally need in any other way. It is only possible for Borah and others in the strategic position in the Senate and thwart this most fundamental project. There is genuine self-hate and hate, and the rest of whom they will soon become so, can assert a meddling.

YALE SENIORS QUESTIONED.

Yale seniors, numbering 409, were asked interesting and interesting questions. Thirty of them had been completely self-supporting in college while 121, or nearly, were worked for, and the expenses.

The most popular with them was Dickens "Tale of Two Cities." "Vanity Fair was a close second. Joseph Conrad was favorite prose author, Dickens and Hardy tallying by several votes. Of recently published books, "So Big" was far ahead of all other books. Bravington carried the choice of poets. John Burnamus was chosen favorite actor almost unanimously. "Cyno De Borrence" was the favorite play.

As to fantasy pictures, "The Sea Hawk" led the field, with "Thief of Bagdad" just behind, Harold Lloyd closely followed Douglas Fairbanks as foremost movie actor. Gloria Swanson was most popular in movie loid. —The American Campus.

Radcliffe Adopts Sister College.

It was decided at a Student Government meeting that Radcliffe is to have a sister college,—Kobe College in Japan. The purpose of the arrange- ment is to acquaint the student with the student life in the other, and to promote more co-operation between the United States and Japan.——Radcliffe News.
