summer school.

There are various ways in which we can make known the student's work on the surve colloquium. Other methods of expression are through the Button Felix and through the Free Speech column of the This semester number which will be a true acceleration program. Would this term be compulsory for incoming freshmen and for those who are second year students? Next, if we were to have acceleration next summer, should courses be the most interested in taking? Should we offer new courses for which the student's credit is immediate, or to be offered in the regular curricu-

There are still others who will not be able to return to school for the summer session because of the problem of the student being unable to afford the tuition and the related expenses.

We are asking the student, the parent, and the faculty to consider this problem. We are ready to contribute to the question in the best way possible. The faculty will conduct a seminar on this summer session.

The students will be offered a choice of courses that will be available and the student will be allowed to choose the courses that best meet their needs.

Connecticut Scrap Contributions on the Way
To Provide Ammunition to Defeat the Axis

by Sally Kelly '43

That metal you've been contributing to the Fanning scrap shop may be finding its way to India, where it is needed for a war effort that is as urgent as the situation here at home. In the last few weeks, a number of ships have left for India, and there is every indication that this is just the beginning.

Contributors are asked to continue to deposit their metal in the scrap shop, which is open on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday mornings from 10 to 11:30 and on Wednesday evenings from 7 to 9. All contributions are appreciated, but especially needed are cans of tin and any metal that can be used as ammunition.

Mrs. G. R. Copec, Linguist,
Is Interested in Library Field

by Phyllis Schiff '43

To be able to speak and accomplish more in English is indeed an accomplishment, but Mrs. G. R. Copec, the newest member of the Romance Language department, is not satisfied by this unique ability. She is teaching herself to read and write Italian, a language she has always been interested in, and she is planning to study the literature and art of Italy.

Mrs. Copec was born in Rome, the daughter of Italian parents. Her mother was Austrian, and she has tried to get in touch with her own heritage. She received her B.L.L. from the University of Rome and is currently studying Italian literature and the history of Italy.

Much of her literary training was gained while working on the staff of the Encyclopedia Italiana, which she edited and wrote articles for. She is now working on a new encyclopedia that will be published in the United States.

by Betty Shank '43

The Sandwich Shop is now open in the evenings—especially towards the end of the week. The shop is open from 8 to 10:30 and is far through the various clubs of the campus. The idea is to "work back stage" in the soda department. The shop has opened on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday evenings from 8:00 to 10:00.

Among the students who volunteered for Thursday and Friday, December 14, were: Miss Margaret Louie, 44; Betty Cresser 44; J. Rosem Giese, 43; Marion Dorrance '44; Shirley Wood '44; Joan Hendley '44; and Dorothy Hirtz '44. They are planning to stock the shop with their earnings to war supplies.

Some of the faculty very obligingly have stepped in to fill the "early seats" at the shop. They have been very helpful to the students who are new at this task.

Frosh Indicate C.C. Boosters Are Numerous

One of the questions asked of incoming frosh at Connecticut College last week was, "How was Connecticut College before your attention?" Judging by the answers given, I think we can say that the newcomers are not only satisfied with their college but are very enthusiastic about it. Many also have declared that they are going to try to help the college in every possible way.

The Connecticut College Boosters have been busy in the past few weeks and are planning some big events for the future. They have already sponsored a successful benefit concert and have plans for a dance later in the month.

The Boosters are encouraging incoming students to join their group and are offering various incentives to attract new members. They have also been working to increase the number of public relations activities to promote the college.

The Connecticut College Boosters are a great group of students who are dedicated to making their college the best it can be. I highly recommend joining this group if you are a incoming student or anyone who wants to help improve the college.

IT'S YOUR WAR
by Marilyn Swovry '43

This is a war not only of blood and iron but of propaganda. Propaganda has given this war its face and warped it has grown to be a deadly weapon. The decision as to what shape the formal body of war propaganda should take rests with duly authorized agencies. Mr. John Q. Public, nevertheless, plays an important role as a propagandist. In every day life, in the home, at school or at work, the average citizen creates impressions and attitudes that have more than miniscule effect on our war effort. One sure way of combating Goebbels and Co is strengthening internal unity. The pitfalls of misuse of the English language, however, breed much misunderstanding and cross-purposes among people claiming they are working for a common cause.

For example, to many people, fascism, whether its initial letter is capitalized or not, has but one connotation. In such a connotation, fascism, whether its initial letter is capitalized or not, has but one wide meaning. "The next event was the potato race calling for three potatoes per person. The Puerto Ricans take their potatoes very serious and I am sure this was the case. The last event was the egg battery, running. The first event was a saddle ring. C. C.'s Latin from Manhattan Waits for Her First Snow
by Georgine Donovan '45

"When do I see snow?" Anita Galindo '46, a native of New York, has never seen snow. Her memories of that city end of this climate are vague since her family moved to Santurce, Puerto Rico, where they have spent three months. Anita talked with sparkling vitality about her tropical home. She has never taken a vacation since the war began.

"It was a pleasant autumn day when we might have here. In the summer the temperature rarely goes above 95 degrees. There is an interesting sensation about swimming in the ocean which reverses the oyster adage here. In Puerto Rico, it is customary to move to Santurce, Puerto Rico, anward the days of the cold weather. The first thing Anita said was "I have never seen a snow." The second thing she said was "I am going to marry a man from Connecticut." She has been to Connecticut several summers here, there are many times which she finds different. Puerto Rican girls do not enter into sports to the same extent we do here. The time we spend on the athletic field is spent in Puerto Rico, it is customary to spend on the athletic field. Something to which an American would find it hard to accustom himself. Anita has a sister at Smith and another at Goucher college in Baltimore. She said Connecticut was the happy medium in its location between these two schools. She transferred her family's preference for a coeducational school and chose Connecticut.

Since Puerto Rico is a territory of the United States, English as well as Spanish is taught in all schools beginning with the third grade. Language, does not present a difficulty for Anita. She does admit, however, that she has a little trouble with spelling and with the long sentences. In Puerto Rico, it is customary to use short, concise sentences without conjunctions or connecting words.

What to buy for clothes furnishes a problem for Anita. Since she has lived in a warm climate all her life she is unprepared for the cold weather about which everyone has been warning her. She says, "There is a great difference between a sunny beach in Puerto Rico and a snow-covered street." She has ordered two dresses, one with a box at the waist, while the other is a close second.
